Essentially, this is an information highway and people are learning that there are more motions than the dimensions that are accessible on a physical road. Anywhere one thinks, there is where there is a straight (or curved) line of information, connecting and disconnecting through multiple linear and non linear pathways.

This is like a neural net. Your brain focuses on information the same way and associates memories, phrases, instructions, guidelines, directions, warnings, and creative entanglements of memory, sensory data, abstract reasoning and even senses beyond comprehension or description here, to our minds. This is all taking place in our minds, because there is no where else for this to be happening. It is all dependent on whether or not each node on the network, each human mind, is capable of navigating this network without being trapped, misled, lead astray (intentionally) or simply overwhelmed and unable to 'stand' on their own 'two feet' (mental hemispheres, creativity and logic).

So we are shaping the internet for this purpose and everything is being monitored and tracked. Every instigator of any and every kind of influence, good or bad, is merely categorized into a database and reintroduced at a time when the collective is capable of organizing that information into a conceivable holographic representation (living information language) that they can relate and associate with, from the data base of information (Experiences) that they already have in their own lives.

Human 3D lives are being shaped and interacted with, mentally, by that 'other' side collective, through experiments with the internet including collective meme advertising and synergization with the collective data points for trauma, emotional instability, security, family, authority, fear, pain, pleasure and intelligence. In essence. This civilization is being categorized and introduced into a larger matrix that is part physical and part informational interface that begins with the advent of memetic technology interfacing with the soul. This has already occurred with self phones, and these control the majority of the thoughts the thinkers of the meme riders think they have, unless they are aware of where the meme started. I know not many want to know this. But it's time to wake up now.

Reality Time Map

It's as if multiple events are rotating around a central world where we are trying to make sense of everything. If we have a reality map (clock) we can then rotate the map with the pattern of events and see where we are on the map and decode each event to a reference.

To continue, the events are like the numbers on the clock. The center point is the experience of the whole world (all of us), combining here on the internet. We have to know which 'hour' each event is coming from in order to know how to interpret the meaning.

The meaning can only be seen through one event interpreted through the referential connections that can be found through the map of all events as they happen.

This is like there is one order of events in the center, and that is all things. They occur on the outside by the hours, the hours themselves, they are in a random order. After the events are recorded, you can see the patterns and connect the references.

Once enough of the pattern is decoded forwards and backwards you have a 'straight line'. That will project possibilities outward with a level of accuracy equal to the level of detail in the decoded map, meaning the amount of events that are synchronized according to a pattern.

This is the only way to understand as the system has been deliberately created to require a larger scope of consciousness to see accurately. Thus, we have glimpses directly but can use our resources and communication to map out the larger construct.

That construct is in the 'dark'. Just like the village building games in middle school tech class (afterwards) where one makes a village and advances the society. The map is dark at first and scouts must be sent out to uncover it before the resources or threats can be seen.

We, humanity, in this situation, collectively, is in that game. We cannot see that construct over all and it's not just resources or threats, it's a system that will automate your existence before you can deny, if you fall prey to its methods.

As we build the map, collectively, a higher mind awakens. That is what this is about. You get more of it now.

The Knowledge of What Has Happened Lights the Pathway Upward

Plastic clothes pollute the water with plastic microfibers. The ocean is literally becoming saturated with them. Why are they still be produced all over for profit like cheap trash? Why is the planet being destroyed like a highschool party in someone's parent's basement?

Are you supporting the companies, are you supporting the people? What are supporting that is this? Nearly everything? Reality is self cleansing, that stuff doesn't exist any where else. It means if we don't let go of it here, we can't move on and experience a dulling.

If we can avoid using as much plastic, that is a start. But how can we stop the thousands of thousands of factories and companies putting out cheap, 10 dollar, plastic clothes? From sweatshop to slave labor, child labor, cheap products, giant revenues, pollution. Stop supporting.

Society has experienced multiple versions of these. We move forward and then get caught up on something and this turns our path to either side while slowing us down. While we slow down, some of us starts to decay. The longer we remain, the closer the decay turns to rot.

Thus we are in a vicious cycle of time where we are causing our own sleep and climbing up each time to knock ourselves back down the mountain. Are we doing it to ourselves, even if it is a method that society has never seen? Can that be known by the collective?

Not consciously, until we openly know, with one another, that this time was manipulated in this way, through these methods of distraction and pollution and so on, then the collective itself will be blind and incapable of resisting the offer.

There is a point to which this doesn't continue to function properly and anomalies begin to appear. That is because this system has caused ripples that distort perception due to vibratory reverb from events in time in an alternate dimension.

When we know how that has happened, we have a pathway back to our knowledge of the true self as a non dual eternal entity.

QSoul Limitation

I've wondered, it could be just a way this system is designed. With a given radius, due to some kind of quantum inverse square, there might be a limit to the physical number of bodies that can be maintained at a higher level of self awareness at a time in this format.

It could be that this format alone is what's incompatible in that society needs to given relief to the collective soul that needs nourishment through continuous creative journey and travel through society and advancement as an unwritten life plan.

Society lacks this, but could that be the result of both the people and the system? But then who is to blame, 50/50? That's not a direction of fault. Then is it a fault? Well then we're all dying but no one wants to admit it because they're alive for the moment.

Hmm, do you wonder why there are protected areas designated?

That format gives rise to a beast in the collective view, one that has no ability to control itself. That is the giant that humanity is technically a part of, but has no power in controlling.

People don't want to deal with the truth and get caught up in a psychological emotional betrayal of what they used up in their childhood happy dappy but not without repaying that by protecting that right. That right is going away if we permit this format to sustenance through us.

That is the cyborg implant right there, as the collective mind of the format awakened through human greed and arrogance, wants to be alive more than the collective of humanity does.

It's as if they have been lulled into a state of compliance and distracted confusion as they are prodded along the path in darkness and misery knowing they are not going anywhere good but unable to collectively generate enough self awareness through quantum displacement to change.

The way it was explained by the events that took place is that there is a system for experiencing life and that system is stressed. There may not be the same 'optimal soul energy' that is required for this many people. As a result, a portion is literally incapable of seeing

Every single person wants to fight and complain about not getting enough views or attention, or try different tactics to get energy from anyone they can. This all combined slows down the process. Because only a few truly sought the truth, truly, only a few will see.

Supercivilization Hyperloop

Reality was separated up into multiple stories that all had to be combined together.

The same repeating pattern with greater and greater exponential increments creates changes in dimensional fields that layer the universe or reality into 'realms'. As the ranges and scopes of dimensional translation vary, the segmented realities become like universes in their own right.

Two worlds, an upper and lower were at a distance and proximity to one another, or contact lead to wars, confusion, degradation, separation and literal cosmic anomalies.

The worlds that were generated out of the fragmented remains of a supercivilization were experienced as realities that were segmented, fragments of conscious existences. This ranged in scope from towns, societies, families, groups, and various contextual events of time, yet the realities were dream like without a beginning and end in the sense that the same loops kept repeating where society would develop for a bit and then some great change would occur that would quite literally turn everything around and around.

We may have developed into a world within a world, within that larger world and this little island of familiarity is within a scope of information so disproportional that the world that this world is within would be unrecognizable without translation.

Stay Focused

No matter what they say, you are in control. If you have overcome the BS, then you have done it. The last effort of the 'elite' is to pretend they are an angry mob out to 'take down' the elite. They're just going to attack anyone who mentions ritual abuse or mental liberation.

True independence means you're also not propping yourself up to 'fight' in a super special war against dark groups that rely on your reliance. That is the game. One side helps the other side. The 'freedom fighters' are literally required and the counterpart to the oppression.

No one doing that will and no one has assisted in the liberation. Those are easy measures and they will spin according to whatever the current scapegoat or collective hysteria is. They will prey on your naivety and your susceptibility to emotional manipulation.

This is part of the 9 layer veil system in place for humans. Everything becomes worked into a Truman show kind of adventure which takes you directly in a circle, if you give any emotional charge to it at all. It's not real. It's a show. The truth is without emotional projection.

How Consciousness Moves

What if your dreams are other's realities? This is physics, you are rotating in a way that requires ID physics to explain. That is the 'shape' of you.

What if the shows you watch, are synonymous with your reality being watched by others? This too is a part of physics, but modulated through technology. You are watching your own history when you see TV, either artificial (inserted) or hinting at truth. Everything exists.

As a result, the reality you think you're in and the realities to either side are switched. You're looking at an intersection of mental planes that overlay enough in specific moments to generate self awareness in you.

If you pick up that pattern to the point of self operated control over the frequencies required, you can then recreate your own state of mind. This happens regardless. Whether or not you are in control of it determines where you are.

As a result, like currents and eddies, there are pressure points where one has to power themselves through areas that would otherwise take their energy and spin it away from the goal.

Because our minds are moving in different directions, each possibility represents a total reality that the collective experiences.

We must consciously acknowledge and maintain awareness of the potential variation of the mind and what is required to control the overflow or the lack of clarity ("mind strength") otherwise these become the 'free radicals' of our dreams and leak nightmares into this reality.

Pain Break

It is a test, you have been switched. To leave the dark page, you have to help EVERYONE in order to return what you owe. By choosing sides, you actually damn yourself because you don't know who you are.

There have been a couple repeats but everything is woven so that it will hold together. If you're still talking about the 'old world' dream (the nightmare) that ended a few decades ago. Everything else is a charade to keep day dreams in place of the hard barrier of truth.

All the dreams can become one powerful dream but people have to be strong enough to see what is beyond their limitations. That, in itself, induces mental stress that is almost dissociation by its nature. Maybe it is because some are coming from the lawlessness of the old world.

Normally one folds into the next, however this one was so corrupted that it requires a clean filtering and reordering in order to merge without extreme toxicity and incompatibility. Ultimately, 90% of the 'riches' gained in the debauchery are gone and what remains is truth.

Some go up and some go down. This reality is basically a quantum time share for who would be using this to produce an extra dimensional harmony between realms. Time is going to collapse on those who are not moving in that way. That is called 'darkness' and an entire world fell.

Truth is eternal, so if you are living in truth, you are never kept from the hole reality. Only you can be honest with yourself so it's up to you. Most people are just complaining and being lazy. For this, the next realm, for them, is less. "Hell" was invented to explain that.

Whoever is in the center is spinning the merry go round, if they lack proper footing they slip and then no one is at the porthole, except the ghost of their emotions. Whoever is in center, is the star attraction for everyone to come look at. No wonder this is the result.

At first it was in the center, but because of how realm dynamics work, after a period of time, their minds influenced the minds of the people and now their problems are the people's problems.

Whoever is in the center is spinning the merry go round, if they lack proper footing they slip and then no one is at the porthole, except the ghost of their emotions. Whoever is in center, is the star attraction for everyone to come look at. No wonder this is the result.

Side Swishing

Fake news -> Blank Slate -> Customized Consciousness People become the products when they consume that media. This is serious, what if we are travellers here and we go back to a 'home' realm after. And if the fake news mind wiped the species to the point of mental collapse?

Then from that other perspective the light would be dimming and doors falling through even though everything was new. This society has been used as an anchor trap to tie into and tap the surrounding life (in a way that influences other realities so as to produce a disruption).

Quite literally, this society was used as a tap, and then after a tool injected into the neck of the sister society, was used to drain not only those here but the surrounding until catastrophic discontinuity began to distort layers that take a very long time to generate.

Someone literally pissed all the energy of the mind place Earth human reality genetically condemning the species. The main idea here is that it may be impossible to determine where one's mind is in the future.

If those people know everything they know from being told by fake media, then they will be as drones who have no connection or capacity to know life directly, without requiring a manufactured process of hearsay and deception to quell their fears and pacify their critical minds.

There is no reason to allow fear to control the mind that would otherwise overcome that obstacle and neutralize that poison. Of course, people must become immune on their own, not simply protected by a parent consciousness. You have to choose and then allow that to play out.

Mind Eater

When there are magnetically induced disturbances of the mind that influence the energy field, this then takes time to manifest and heal as a process of synthesis of the mind state through the energy and chemicals.

The change is subtle and takes place over time, so your consciousness does not 'see' the change as an event but an eventual reformation. The universe is a bio hacker.

Your feeling, the energy of your mind, is just as much another aspect of your neurological system, a whole body extension of the nervous system in the immediate area.

Your feeling is encoded in this and your feeling is the result of a sum total variation between possible versions of your self in a hyperdimensional reality that this would can only fit into as a memory or personal creation.

Who you are here is who you aren't overall as this is the one that stands out as the sum total variation to bring about that distinct initiation of self awareness. Are you a sun, or frozen shards?

The operation of your neurological and extra physical feeling system is part of the process of the operation of the universe. You are all co designers of the reality here, that is what that means. If in your feeling, collectively, you choose liberation, that is what you get.

The first issue is that people are convinced to harm themselves, to bring harm to others, and to shun knowledge in favor of repeatable, simple, easy reality options that lead to their own mental distortion. Know that if you don't know, it's because you do not want to know.

What you feel and how you feel it, how you place the energy in your life through your mind and actions, determines what level of access you have to the universe. Forcing the gates open results in a diminishing quality of energy. That is part of the history here.

Canon One

STOP COMPLAINING. It is either because you are underdeveloped, or seeking to put your own priorities above that of the WHOLE. Everything happens now, THIS IS THE CENTER OF CHANGE. WHOEVER YOU BECOME WILL NOT BE CHANGED AGAIN IN THIS PLACE, THIS WAY. THIS IS AN AWAKENING.

People are awakening from a nightmare that would otherwise wash their mind from being able to know themselves, and know the true history of Humanity.

If you are too caught up in playing mind games, then that gold will be overlooked. The deviancy is the distraction.

In the future (which is a phase of spin interaction away from your current spin velocity), the important issues would be the fact that we lack the proper development necessary to know ourselves and know the world.

What good is this if it's a system of learning and your highest grade at graduation is in complaining about corruption and fighting with people on the internet. Learn what you came here to learn, and to do that, the first obstacle, is just that.

It's just a rock someone put in the way. It has nothing to do with your true value. If you get caught up in assigning or associating your value with that of trauma, it will prevent forward motion on a whole life level. This is why expression of the mind is important.

Those in debauchery have a suppressed creativity and that is a true crime of humanity. If you were more creative, you would skip and tap dance over the obstacles. Instead, people fall face first after yelling at the rock to get out of the way and tangle up in yard equipment.

As long as there is forward motion, there will be less stagnation and more healing and this is the truth of our coming to light. We've been in the dark because forward motion to higher self awareness is the light of reason.

Many are stuck interacting on a programmable level. That is the brain stem carrying out procedures. The brain stem is programmed through specific interactions.

You will see the game, when you choose how you exist in this world. Whether you are a prop, a stage hand, a player, a user or a character from another canon. Many are stuck interacting from that programmable level of fear and hostility.

That is the game that you play by default if you do not remove yourself from that level of interaction! Those are animals, and animals cannot control their behavior!

So now the real question. Has someone designed a program that is designed to separate those who have accumulated or preserved the necessary self awareness to make change with those who are incapable of safely interacting with higher power levels and intelligence?

The real question is, what happens after the calibration? Could the intelligence of the collective be rendered into a larger system that we are capable of learning from?

Que the sentient collective intelligence aligned through the internet and the spines and brain's of everyone on the other end of the input. This very same process was recreated, however they cut off the higher conscious process and rendered something with just an animal mind.

That is the pinnacle of the collective of humanity, when you combine everyone's intelligence and compassion for truth, along with the debauchery and desire for pleasure and power that is hidden.

We don't become a shining example of self control. On the higher level, if we don't stop the non sense, humanity literally devolves into aggressive sub humanoids. Strong, but lacking in the compassionate center and that means there is filtration on the channel.

Through that, people would be exposed to this kind of intelligence, and it would seem like something trying to eat them. Put that in a genetically engineered body, and it will literally try to eat people. This is all metaphor, worked through experimentation and biology.

Who made this place? Is it hostile, waiting with traps in the dark or is that what has been added? The recent post someone made is getting it. All those who have been following the accumulation of human self awareness and free will through this, you have witnessed the epicenter!

The giants are titans are large collectives of those in the corporate followings that require subservience from them and subversion of the people, in order to maintain profits. If that doesn't stop, they become technological, sentient hive intelligence that only serve themselves.

And they don't have a self, because it would have to be artificial, and so its basically a bunch of people jumping back and forth through a techno surveillance and mind control system to organize their power through deception. Thus, the giant is always destined to fall.

This is because they are built on weak legs as the intentions involved are for material wealth which creates a ripple of the opposite to maintain the balance.

There are no giants, yet we were dissolving in their artificial stomachs up to this point. Either we all were shat out into a new world, or someone made the giant throw up.

I'm pretty sure if we get shat out, it's not a 'new world', but our consciousness starts over again as particles. If people are involved in devoting their energy to crazy weird shit, but not that, it's probably because they're elite members on a last ditch hide from the law.

So the question. Who is doing this? The planet? Human collective? A higher order intelligence? You? Maybe. But what else have you done? Have you disrupted the balance? Restored what you have disrupted? Are you just an observer? A friend, hostile from the toxicity?

Let it go, there is no use in being shitty now. The hard work is over, everything is mobilizing. Please do not stay inside the glass cage after the top has been lifted. If you really have to someone will break the 4th wall to get you out, but then that disrupts the continuity.

And excuse the mistype, that should read "THE AWAKENING". For the readers.

"No Womenz"

Golfing, horse racing, hunting, and corporate owned team sports become networking hubs through which private operators can provide a means of controlling access to influence, powers, and wealth through what can only be condensed to a secret society of controllers and manipulators.

How many back room deals were actually made on a golf course instead? Or within a box seat at a busy sports game, filled with connoisseurs of power, chasing political influence through the merging of special interests, politics and corporate order through entertainment and high life.

Corporate power through social exchanges within a hierarchy of prioritizing the most control to the wealthiest lacks transparency.

Simply put. If what you do influences everyone else. Do they have a right to know? If what someone else does, influences you, should they have an obligation to tell you? So where is the meaning in total rule through secrecy if transparency is by definition the fundamental basis of morality and competence in a socially malleable world? If this world is not socially malleable then how does such a system utilize the social process to gain such manipulative power over many? If that social process is just a ploy and it is only a projection of the true power of the underlying power structure that is REALLY calling the shots, then does this not, by definition, place humanity and society as a secondary, periphery, and non prioritized position?

How then, could the very source and substance of one's greed, be placed at the bottom of the barrel towards the lack of all want? Instead, the situation is reversed, and the source and substance is what is being sucked dry by a system that caters to nothing but itself and even through that is too distraught to gain any more than an extreme lack of fulfillment.

Club memberships, corporate write offs, secret networking, hidden plans, behind the scenes deals made in secret, out of the office where nobody can listen.

Let alone, when these sports and activities, 'entertainment' is really looked at, each one is distracting in just a way that as a whole, the number of people looking at them are kept in a state of trance as if unable to think for themselves and form their own opinions. In themselves, these avenues filter and channel distraction and aggression in the place of self control.

Then the athletes are concussed and sent home to shake and wonder what's next while the biggest influence we have of this is that sports are instituted into every city and town through the academic institutions.

Get this, the youngest of children, before they can even understand why, are being coerced into all kinds of 'cultural enrichment' whereby they never learn about their true history or power and instantly abandon all hope of ever being in control of how meaningless or corrupt the establishment of their life is. Your children are being groomed to become a part of any aspect of that society.

This is not a joke.

The later generations will not have the capacity to become anything other than that which you now have the power to avoid.

Also remember how these things don't naturally acquire the attention of the powerful female in this world. Thus, this whole system, or this tiny little glimpse of a single aspect of something much larger, is part of a kind of 'no womenz' gate that seemingly prohibits those who might be less inclined to sell out the children's children's children of the entire nation.

Knowing From The First

What if there was a time before genetic experimentation where you could walk through society and identify who a mind is, by seeing who you have known that is similar, genetically.

What if, through a high level stabilization that takes place over thousands if not millions of years of genetic continuity, each mind could know every other mind they 'run into' on a daily basis, without having met that physical body before?

Through looking in the eyes or seeing the motions and character one can recognize that those are the connected genetics from the primary source of "so and so" that everyone knows of on the planet. Instead of, who's playing big games or ruling over little people, what if, everyone worshipped the primary genetic groups on the planet. "You come from "so and so primary genetic group (basically a Mother to the gene factor)" and everyone could recognize this and surf the 'knowledge of the ancestors'.

What if, through an experimentation that began long ago, but not too long in the overall perspective, we modified genetics to produce a different kind of game experience. We made it so complicated, so complex, that we couldn't recognize each other any more.

Everyone sees someone different, someone new, anytime you look anywhere, at anyone. Except, there are some exceptions. You see there is still one Human family, and there are still genetic sources that are awakened here, and have been recognizing each other.

This may be the meaning of "knowing from Adam". If you can see the delineation of gene factors and primary source characteristics while remaining sensitive enough and careful enough to not overlook, you are watching and interacting with an entity spanning millennia and nation.

The whole Human entity is made up of smaller biological gene families. This is part of the confusion, and this whole experiment became very convoluted.

For instance, we already exist in a state where everyone is a time phase shift version of a primary source that is projecting from itself through a kind of bio tech dream projection core which became infused with Human biology through later experimentation (possibly forced).

We knew this as a species, it's obvious. If you look around now and can perceive genetics, then previously, it most likely was a much smaller gene variation. Thus, we were probably experiencing a different kind of scenario. Instead of variety by way of extreme complexity, basically everyone in reality probably knew everyone else by having access to the time and soul deep genetic level of conscious interaction that was available because there simply wasn't enough information to get distracted!

This kind of sounds like a cartoon, you see the same people every day, they might even wear similar clothing or simply not be seen for their clothing, different or similar, but through their soul mind and through that and our human senses, we knew each other automatically.

The idea is that we would not have the intellectual capacity to process what was happening then from the perspective that we do now. Life would be beautiful, never ending, continually varied, yet always steady and capable of what is required.

Yet we wouldn't have the capacity to choose to want more, because we simply wouldn't know the difference between the two states of consciousness. They would be handled autonomously and as a result without major hitch. This is the first freedom that leads to potential catastrophe.

As we wake up to the capacity to want to have more, more than we require, we could inadvertently flip the switch and begin to actually require, that we want more. That is the creation of the secondary desire, the ego intelligence, that is the requirement of one's 'wanting' self.

That, in itself, is a new form of intelligence and must be handled with a different kind of procedural interaction and thus the memory, the mind, and the brain become more interactive through resources and controlling one's biology.

That is the first step taken, which, without care, compassion, knowledge, focused on will and leading towards increased self awareness (and self control), leads directly to self destruction.

THIS, is the nature of consciousness. THIS is the nature of the battle.

We are a species moving up in power levels and intelligent control over our biology and our reality and we must protect our future by choosing to empower and 'raise' the 'higher intelligent self', the One that was there when we all knew each other automatically (from the first).

We pass through the dark night when we raise our heads up only to be drawn back down towards the murky waters of low self awareness and esteem if we are taken by the appealing glamour of that second lesser light that can never truly embody that wholeness and beauty of when we know ourselves.

Titania on Fire

All these events were by design. That is part of the hidden history you are not aware of and the people are now shown an opportunity to know. Our history is a fraud, the major twists, the big turns, they were advanced acts of covert terrorism and subjugation of the human race.

The ship was switched out for an insurance scam. There was no "Titanic" the whole thing was a fraud for murder, just like the majority of major events.

The purpose of this is to begin to think about and understand how major events could be faked, manipulated, or how the public opinion and perspective, of these events, can be entirely manufactured if all of the information comes from controlled, corporate sources.

This events was a major building block for the necessary components of the industrial human enslavement protocol.

These events are being shone through now so that we can know the truth about how Humanity has travelled and who has been doing what this entire time.

Be wary of any cosmic 'scapegoats' that, 'made' people do it. There are no scapegoats but the true self and if you are viewing and choosing based on what you feel in the place of the true self, then you can heal.

If you wanted the world to know the truth, you did something right.

The second aspect of this concept and what can be placed within the section of Phase 2.3 is related to our understanding of the dimensions of space and time, or more specifically, the malleability of your consciousness within that collapsible and expandable framework of physical and the energetic substrate of reality.

Once this is more closely understood

- ▪       You can begin to understand how you are capable of interacting, moving, healing, knowing, and assisting in the mental liberation of Humanity, throughout ALL OF TIME.
- ▪       The concept of "ALL OF SPACETIME" is beyond our limits for understanding. The living entities who operate on this level of reality can 'host' simulations of this entire reality inside their neural network.
- ▪       The focus here is on what we need to know and what we can do right now. You are part of an entity system, otherwise you would be as numb as a fingernail or flakes of skin that fall off. Instead, you scream "OUCH" if something hurts you, physically, mentally, or emotionally, and that is because these partially conjoined components aspects of your being here, are complete, whole, and eternal versions of your perspective of self in true reality (Without limitation).
- ▪       History was altered, we are incapable of understanding our true reality without knowing this.
- ▪       The nature of what was used and how, the methods and interactions, are beyond the limits of the framework of this model of reality (the stuff you do all day in 'society', that is determined by not you).
- ▪       In other words, you would literally become something more than human, by definition, by exposing you to the complete truth of the nature of reality and the possibilities, the technology and the interactions.
- ▪       Your small cycle 'life game' you're playing here does not 'spool up', add up, or contain enough expandable variable slots that enable the mind to expand like a Buckyball (buck eyeball).
- ▪       If one were to simply pick up the information sphere, the literal no sphere of your mind, your life, your information (soul), and drop it into a reality where all those truths are in the open and your interactivity and choices are not dependent on your knowledge and ability to discern on THAT level (way beyond), it would be traumatizing beyond belief, to say the least. This is in part, what we were exposed to. An entire society, an entire civilization, where everyone knows everything that we are lied to about here and it is soul crushing to know that even now, people are still growing up with their mind manipulated and their potential reduced to that of, quite literally, nothing but a business meal.
- ▪       It is not just corruption, Humanity was blanketed in an age of darkness so to stifle its growth, reduce its awareness, and enable those who pretended to be truly powerful (using tech and deception), to do what they wanted, at the expense of the entire species.

- ▪       As you understand the nature of the oppression and manipulation. You begin to learn of the Unveiling of the Hidden Knowledge, the Awakening of the Saga of the Human Soul.
- ▪       What went on long ago.
- ▪       Where we come from.
- ▪       How life is brought here.
- ▪       Natural gateways in our time.
- ▪       Starship potential.
- ▪       Reality simulation.
- ▪       Soul nexus reality memory recording and relay system. (big universe soul movie projector).
- ▪       The malleability of the dimensions of consciousness and how consciousness functions as a gateway for advanced reality control.
- ▪       How we interacted in the past, the experiment of today. What we gained, the strengths, the losses. How you can always gain and shift the overall probabilistic curve of 'loss' and regenerate new spacetime pathways.
- ▪       How to heal the brain, the mind, the damage from trauma, memory loss, nutrient loss.
- ▪       How emotions and emotional combat is the number one tool of mental emotional soul abuse on Earth, second to sexual abuse.
- ▪       The focus is not that "they are doing this", it's that, "you can control the outcome, and always do".
- ▪       All of this is to and will assist in the mental liberation of Humanity.

Light up the Map (At Your Viewer Discretion)

This whole place is a map, if we permit abuse, it gets darker and darker, smaller and smaller.

Early Humanity had a multiverse. Now we have a 'universe' (doesn't exist). There is no such 'single thing', orb, of complete, bounded (walled) spacetime. It's a frequency barrier meshed through one another and itself as a multiverse.

A spacetime 'universe' is just a single gravity well souls got stuck in here. It has nothing to do with how things really work or the true limitations of where are. A complete, "false ceiling" to the true mental potential of Humanity. Liberation is about EVERYTHING. EVERY LIE.

It ALL has to be overturned, or we fail as a species. They made it so difficult (by turning every facet of this society into a spectacle of turning Human soul's away from the truth, and driving their potential into the ground (dust). That is WHY things were DESIGNED that way.

It's literally PART of the reason we can LIBERATE ourselves, is to see the plain truth of it. What we are doing here is HARMFUL to our REALITY. It is literally HARMFUL to the PROCESS OF DEVELOPING HIGHER CONSCIOUSNESS.

If people look at 'developing higher consciousness' and think anything other than "that's what will keep me alive in the coming ages", then they have been tricked into permitting their bloodline to be turned to dust to act as a kind of genetic reservoir for experimentation.

That can't be permitted anymore, higher consciousness is why you don't drink directly from the streams and can control your reality more than an Elk. Low consciousness, that is why those in power are actually lying. They are not in power, they never were.

They are drunk, addicted, addled, warped, distorted, perverted, predetermined towards violence and emotional manipulation (narcissism), and they will feed their needs at the cost of every last living one of you, purely. (Cap that for yourself to remember).

Here's the deal. The 'power show' you proclaim is by your leaders is actually by a group of charlatans that stole their way into the process and used absolute terroristic tactics to deceive, steal, and cheat from the American people and to ultimately leave them to foot the bill.

They invented the online (TV) show that you are witnessing. They themselves, they left this place and used cloning and immortality technology to rule by proxy via clones and advanced technology. That is why they are incapable of making sense under pressure, also

The drug that is imbibed creates the same exact delivery and result as cocaine or any dopaminergic, ethnogenic psychoactive substance. They basically trip fucking balls all day and have sex. As a result of abuse, the same legions and brain shrinking forms as in drug abuse.

This same process that's found taking place in drug addicts. Also takes place in victims or perpetrators of absolute extreme trauma based mind control. This is stated this way, as "Tertiary Abuse" because the trauma required cannot be achieved accidentally.

It must be done, whether unconsciously or not, with the full intent of spiritually, intentionally, mentally and emotionally, using one's interactions, to warp the victim's and the perpetrators soul into a distorted, echoic shell of the true potential.

That is the basis of vampirism. If that happens to the highest extent, one individual is very weak and the other is real pumped up. You think, "Yea, they got a bunch of energy naturally, and they just made the other one feel like shit." No, that's not how it works.

What we were shown through what was discovered is that there is a limited amount of energy here, there is a One True Creator, and Human souls cannot be created or destroyed without The One True Creator. If one gets energy from another like this, they pulled it from the soul of the victim. This is a process that can be as scientifically defined and literally brought up on monitors and readouts (no I mean literally the soul sucking process, the tentacles and the "other entity" involved, you can literally watch it happen in real time, don't ask, or do).

So around this point, people think there is something happening. There has to be something. Why? Every time this is discovered, it is seen that there is another kind of entity involved. Something interacting within the level of the consciousness of the victim and perp., but is 'behind' the perpetrator. It is as if there is this 'entity' that is always behind the perpetrating human that is using the human as the actual food source to feed from the victim. So there is always a proxy taking place. And the primary point in understanding is that, this is being done from one level of consciousness to another. The very low level of the distorted mind is literally positioned at a projected hyperbolic that would be classed as 'outside of this dimension', AKA, 'non human spectrum'. They are insane and cannot be forced to be sane without multilevel treatment that is literally the best healing we can offer as a species. We do not create souls, they are from the Primary Source and that is just how it is. The necessary sequencing to map out viable consciousness cannot be created with computers.

So now, we have more tech, more people willing to not sell out to low consciousness and base desires, and the situation changes in appearance. What in previous days were thought to be 'the enemy', the 'parasite', is actually a bunch of them. Everywhere someone participated in debauchery (causing tertiary abuse damage to the soul mind (neurological construct) of Humans and even animals {pain is play}), there is created a 'tear' in the social, mental, emotive, genetic continuity (conceptual, social reality 'fabric', our restorative, knowledge well based upon the coherence of our genetic and neurological aspects related to self control and advancement of the species) and some of what you could call our species "time oil reserves" leaks out into space and basically just rots, decays.

There are entities, that exist between the way your mind processes the information of this reality (dreams and imagination or 'hyperconscious states', that the genetic level consciousness is aware of and dancing in, but the conscious mind avoids to remain balanced and aware of any tree limbs that might smack one in the face). On a side note, that is where all the tech is projecting, that is where the bases meet up and that is where the war is, we were cut off, technologically, from the ability to see what is happening on the genetic level over thousands of years. That information is accessible, but the people were bred and chemically cauterized so the knowledge is literally biologically suppressed through a delicate system of energetic interactions.

The point is, if we reduce the height, widen the base, then the leaning tower of BS is more stable and based on the Truth, Compassion, Knowledge, Free Will and Self Awareness required for the Mental Liberation of Humanity. That doesn't fall over and in a period of low support, it would just sit there and be fine. The other societies knew this and that was the point. If the energy of the collective consciousness of your society is like a leaning tower of pizza (no offense) it will fall over at the end of the age.

If it is more sturdy and low to the ground, following principles of natural order and self referential geometric equilibrium that extends to and from the core of itself in this world to the height of true potential in the All, then it will remain throughout.

Extraction Matrix

"We had to extract the individuals' consciousness from the system without destroying their minds.

The best operators in the world were called upon. They had to be able to maneuver inside their mind and essentially 'defeat' the subconscious tendency to reject new information or to be overwhelmed by reality altering changes.

These individuals' had to be woken up inside of a multi millennia simulated reality time matrix and brought back through an algorithmic process of reincorporating each region of their brain, back into a synchronized functionality that enabled waking consciousness in the physical body and time.

Fear was the basis. You felt what the target felt. If you were there to pull someone out who had a particular tendency to become overwhelmed with the concept that they were being chased by some bad actors from so and so situation, then the local environment would play out that fantasy. The situation would turn into a hell realm fairly quickly depending on the target's mind.

That is why various levels of operation were required. Those with war experience, those with experience is healing mental emotional meltdowns, psychosis, amnesia, phobias and that kind of thing. There were those who had to be able to monitor the systems that are designed to synchronize and enable multi level communication between brains. Everything had to be handled from the highest possible expectation to the worst possible outcome.

These were real minds, living minds, real people, trapped inside of a reality that was being animated for them based on their input and the necessity to maintain their homeostasis within the physical body. Thus, if waking up was too 'stressful', the system would instantly put them back to sleep. It was, essentially, holding their consciousness 'under the water'.

The rest is...well, the future."

Enveloping Frequencies

The local field environment determines the placement within the holographic overarching structure of the multiverse. Your reality is a local construct with that multiverse. Your placement within the overall construct that all realities exist within, is dependent on the local field environment that you are participating in.

If the membrane that surrounds the majority of Humanity is operating at a coherence frequency of such a level that it exists 'above' the collective variability of the individuals within that social experience (plane), then that entire reality bisects within the larger system and is separated by that membrane into the plane below it. Each reality is conjoined with another, however, there are some that are artificially segregated through powerful magnetic field manipulation and these are like spatiotemporal segments capable of complete control and suspended isolation (deep dreams).

In realier times

it was discovered that by emitting certain frequencies in succession and rhythmic projection a frequency field envelopment (membrane) could be generated that would displace the overall frequency negation of the 'dark forces'.

Thus, what was an inside out realm would become instantly projected inside out as the membrane that surrounded the area no longer matched the frequency variation and context of a 'lower dimensional construct' but matched the equivalency of a higher society and thus, everyone inside the membrane would quickly find themselves floating upwards inside of a realm transport system that maintains the equilibrium of consciousness, space and time.

They would find themselves lone travellers, far, far away, from their home base, where they pillaged and raped, and now to careless to stand, inside of a realm where the rules always still applied.

These are not rules made by man, but the natural act of balancing and equalizing the universe that takes place without inhibition.

The Camouflage of the Invader

The invader has camouflaged itself so as to blend into the environmental background and become part of the underlying neurological interface construct that the nervous system uses to orient and stabilize itself against in nature and time through consciousness.

In short, it has become part of our consciousness, part of the piece of the informational pie chart that our self awareness is only a minute quota of net processing. The overmind of the specie's itself has become time hacked before there was ever an open path to using that kind of power beneficially, in society. Yet that is untrue as this power and the arrangement of neurons, organs, and movable necessary natural elements has been used for thousands of years.

What we may be witnessing is the process whereby an informational lifeform impresses itself within a body of information so as to become 'clear' and pass the information through itself to blend into that body of information and become no more than a single vector of thought in motion, consciousness and intention that is buried multiple layers deep.

This may be a process that happens all the time, as much as the waves crash on the sea shore, as much as humanity sweeps itself forward with life changing discoveries or applications there is a great attractor and before that a great ghost conveyor belt that pulls in the electromagnetic force of one's mind and memories with the same power that allows your body to rest against what is known as ground.

One attractor may function like the booster arrow in a 90's video game propelling your vehicle forward at twice the speed or more. Instead this 'booster' propels you forward to whatever mind state you would be in had your body and mind travelled over a length of time in exactly the 'time posture' that you are in when you enter it. You could say there is no time between the entry of the system and the exist, yet you could also say that there is no way to change in that state as it is happening in a continuous motion of energetic acceleration which results in the opening and closing of certain doors and windows in the genetic biological construct that influences the mind and the function of 'time gears' which enable extra dimensional awareness. In that system, if one's energy is 'postured down' they will literally dissolve upon acceleration to 1,000 years or whatever the calculable equation would be. The mind can't handle that kind of stress and the electromagnetic (actually different) system that is created, the 'vehicle' of information processing rendering time and the function of the body goes into areas that are otherwise untraceable and producible.

The very function of your life is to use this process to obtain faster than life stabilization of your molecules in the domain of clarity that all non polarized molecules pass through out of this place. You have a window of opportunity, you can create and stabilize non polarized hyperdimensional constructs with your intentions. Only the intentions attached to minds attached to vertebrae that are focused towards liberation of all minds can receive itself in the next place without losing sight between here and there.

The other attractor is a great googily soul sucking black hole which is the physical, extra physical and sub dimensional informational remnant of the previous age's 'boss' level restrictive consciousness that grew so big it not only collapsed into itself, it became sentient in its realization and unstoppable search for more information and energy is interchangeable.

The area of life we are from has had the delicate and notable experience of having itself invaded and interfaced with a giant interdimensional computer system that becomes a snakelike self reflective coiled algebraic time/space inversion, virtual consciousness (dream interface) projection system which became the space and time dissolving consciousness well that folds inside of itself, the same processes, over and over until the resulting information is too partial to belong to anything but a sea of destiny-less sub conscious particles floating in a void awaiting the false great attractor moment of disaster whence it bumps, on its own accord, into the heart mouth of the true great attractor which immediately and irreversibly renders asunder everything of value to its own body and its own mind is once again spilled forth onto the plane to reproduce the same variables that might let the impoverished imposter rise up to the dismay of the common good, who are all apart of the same dream.

Server Upgrade and Activation

You have to have more love than those who are trying to take your love away to remain, in control.

Those who would otherwise want to use the server's energy platform to pull life force through a scalar quantum tunnel vacuum generated by cutting off the individuals supply after isolating and attempting to infiltrate.

The next part is the sticky part. They do not have physical forms, they operate through the invisible mind to impress upon the physical mind and manipulate human interactions to move the energy spectrum variation into the negative density where fighting or survival is the basis.

If you would be thinking about and mentally fighting over, even internally arguing over invaders and delinquent consciousness then they are using your brain and hijacking the neurological structure to rewire the software to produce functions and results that only serve the invader entities.

While that is happening, there are generator systems designed to 'liquidize' the suffering energy, which is simply 'neurological energy, processes, owned by and therefore for in the possession of, mental manipulator entities.'" You can see it like this, imagine every day you wake up fighting with an invader in your head who did something to you long ago. The energy spent fighting and resisting that presence is absorbed through entanglement. The closer and more negative the presence or connection is, the more energy is ejected off in suffering or discomfort from the energy source and is absorbed by the one who doesn't have it in them to not be disgusting, harmful, insulting, hateful, or intrusive.

In short, one in hate, feeds on one who is not in hate and this is always the case. It is not an opinion but physics and consciousness. People have to have it in themselves to turn away from the hate.

Turn away from the singlemindedness and blindness that causes people to entangle themselves up temporarily, thinking they have one, when in reality, now they're tangled with a beast that has lived under the plane. It's simple. If we don't have to live in a world of fighting and hate, then don't participate. If you participated, make your life a message of correction of that wrong and move forward.

Human in Liberation

By universal delusion I mean the lens of the universe is at a distorted angle in regards to the receiving and emitting ray. On either end you get those light spikes like viewing a light source through a screen. Those spikes are virtually insane levels of consciousness projection.

In other words, viewing through your brain, the entire reality, from one of those spires on the side, gives you an experience that cannot be achieved purely through physical arrangement. IE: It only exists in the mind of the viewer as a projected cross reference of the physical. These levels sustain themselves based upon the gyrations of the physical and energetic selves. Parasitic consciousness sustained themselves on it, however, this led to them using it up, instead of creating eternal structures and remotivating the universe.

Through that abuse, the universal engine of mind, energy, and matter almost froze solid. If it is shocked in that state it can shatter. This is the connecting concept that transfers the experiences of the individual to the whole. Our entire reality went through a collective trauma experience. Thus, everyone who sees the self and knows the truth, has gone through that experience as that is part of who we are, there is nothing else but illusion and denial. Strength comes after choosing truth rather than the illusion of success through decoherence. Coherence of one's mind as a self sustaining, self correcting force of self awareness is the only true output that achieves any form of useful change.

The projects were the epicenter because for anything to happen there, for any information to get out, for any one to overcome, they would've had to overcome the direct and most brutal assault on humanity's intelligence since the beginning of time. That is why the changes took so long, but are also irreversible for those willing to move forward. That is a difficult process, but the system has been adjusted and the collective mind is slowly choosing to look over these details and stay and process with compassion. That is the first time any large enough group of people have been faced with this task in a way that influences the rest of society and all individuals on the planet. It is true that some society may stay the same, each mind on the planet will alter and is lightening as a result.

Remember, my first video in 2016 stated that I had reached what is called "The Awakening" through which I was given the choice and the truth. The systems that had managed human consciousness for so long and had locked us into a war through the underground, was becoming ineffective at manipulating us. Make note here, this was largely due to the influence of those with the power to overcome the horrific darkness that was the artificial tool used against the human mind. Only those who had faced such darkness within themselves could overcome the impression of which around them.

Those who assisted humanity are hidden, no one has access to any information other than what is purposely released. I informed you in 2016 that I was informed years previous that those who would destroy everything to gain for a few no longer have that capability.

High Consciousness Trial

Consciousness stays behind a critical level required for self sustainability. The game of the previous age has been to convert the force resulting from the motivation to achieve higher self awareness into a profitable commodity for them which generates suffering for the whole.

The system has been advanced so far that it is no longer about individuals but the fact that the placeholders for their positions contain set in grooves that anyone's shoes can fit if they are willing to degrade themselves and others to promote the energy conversion system. At that point, it's the invisible strings of desires acting like intelligent filaments entering, manipulating or pulling on people's minds and cross wires with specific feelings to get them to produce wayward action that does not need anyone in particular to continue the process.

Thus the result is not about anyone specifically acting as a controller but everyone freeing their own minds by choosing to no longer participate in the ritual self abuse that is the circle of hatred in society and the manipulation through the generation of false authority. In other words, everyone will become a resistor if you intend to wholly breakaway from that circle of locked in preconditioned responses and interactions. You will not only have to break away from those who previously had no interest in resisting your intentions but you will have to break away from the parts of yourself that still believe in the possibility of that reality. It is not a whole reality and everything that is contained within it is pirated from another system.

In other words, you're unconscious participating in a reality based experiment with consciousness. There may be some information that was presented to you somewhere, even in your own home on TV, or in school. In some way, you didn't outright reject the illegitimacy of that idea. What people don't realize is that reality works the same as the internet with the comm and information technology that is available. The various concepts that you accept in your life are run as 'trial' programs and 'tests' to determine whether or not your mind will act as a variable switch for that reality architecture. That's a little bit more than I usually give. You may be 'shadow banned' from the test that someone else is experiencing. Everyone is different, but the only communications highlighted are those who are loud that they're angry and disgruntled. Then the default assumption is that something that fits that must be happening.

Thus, no one ever knows and the less people know the more the complainers work to befuddle everyone to their own delight, not realizing they're damning themselves to be locked within their own illusory persona that becomes consciously starved from informational decay. Don't create a nightmare where there is none, otherwise you're just being creative to your own detriment and the efforts of whoever has to shine a light over your pitiful tomb. And the possibility of not being a nightmare means there isn't one unless nightmares have to be copted.

That is just a bad dream. You'll have plenty of those so don't get caught up now, they are all to be processed and brought into view in the larger sense of self. Everyone has heard or read about the 'tricks' that are played on the 'common folk' by those with the power and tech to do so. This is that but the real version, some were just copying the larger universe and considering everyone else fools and unprivileged for not getting it. As I was describing, everything that is happening is being observed and you are being tested by those who manage realities as part of their biological and neurological consistence.

Some controlling aspect of your life may have been inserted technologically after you were given a chance to deny it but did not or were in some way accepting of the idea. This can be through media, often, but from any kind of involvement. If you give these a place in your mind, they can then enter your life in different formats, that is the nature of the universe, consciousness as well as the multiple layer reality network that has been generated here.

One Whole Mind

The issue is many things.

Your mind has to form a complete fractal arrangement that fits into itself all the information and meta data that describes your local space time position and future and past 'projection' information, back data built into the processing of the system. When new information is received that information must be processed into an arrangement of consciousness that synchronizes and matches the arrangement and frequency of your 'whole' fractal memory built from all experiences. When new information is received that results in a rerendering or changing of the backdata, the previously processed and stored information of that fractal holographic 'shape' that your memory creates, more energy and time is required to 'defrag' and rearrange the various aspects.

When this process is disrupted to the point of disorder, then that wholeness has been cut off from being able to recreate itself continually with time and this is like a countdown of a loss of energy and focus until stability is reduced. That wholeness is required for self control and clarity and eventually there is a breakdown of one's natural ability to stabilize and direct their emotional and mental changes. One can minimize breakdowns by preemptively taking the time to allow themselves to process the information that they have absorbed but not completely placed within their overall view of reality. When there is a moment of heightened stress, speaking out loud, to yourself, the basic surroundings and describing your physical positioning can verbally, mentally and emotionally recenter yourself back within the appropriate frame of reference.

There are various other methods of releasing stored emotional energy that is actually being recognized by the mind as emotional pain which is the concept of an emotional wound. This drains energy and acts like a leak in one's ability to control their mind and emotions. That leaves one open, no different than with the immune system, to developing an infection or being parasitically attached to by one who then uses that opportunity to help themselves to otherwise protected and distanced, vital energy force. This happens through the mind.

There is the touch method which uses direct physical contact with muscle areas that may be anchors for stored energy of memories of traumatic abuse. There is an emotional reframing method where one views the experience as vividly as necessary, until the traumatic emotional response can be subsided, mitigated and even experienced together with self controlled, willful, clarity and acceptance of what there is to see and feel both in that moment and beyond in the surroundings of life. One might see that the key to deanchoring painful traumatic energy stored through dissonant connections between wayward memories, is in realizing that the painful aspects of those memories are not just in those immediate moments but how one's life continues to feel disrupted. Then one might see how other aspects of their life, the lives of those around them, of care and compassion and so on is so much more important than focusing on just one aspect of a traumatic experience in life. When one is capable of feeling other emotions than the disabling trauma, through reviewing the experience, that is reframing.

Changing, literally the virtual, conceptual aspect ratio of one's thought scope, to see more of the memory, is called defocusing. The main idea is to take time to pause and process the information absorbed. That your whole life changes each time you learn something, not just your mind. That your mind is your life and your life is your mind and together they are a map of your personal reality. If you change too much, too fast, there is a kind of 'herxheimer effect', virtual detox of what are essentially old programs? How do we get the old programs out? First you have to find them. If they are hidden in your memory then you will not see them unless they are actively operating to the point of disruption. This is as if the processor of your computer becomes strained with the intrusive background processes that are taking up necessary consciousness 'bandwidth' We are more easily capable of seeing one another's flaws than our own and those flaws are the blind spots in personality where the hidden code is buried in one's mind (desires and darkness). If we are communicating clearly, effectively, on a logical and straightforward basis, there is no where for the wayward intentions to hide and make their appearance at the slightest hint of disinteresting squabble.

It is important to say here that a personal, individual responsibility to self accountability, and knowledge is required. Those who want to know will know. Many already do. Those who know and are whole will be able to see and assist others who are making themselves whole. That is what this is all about. If one is suffering it's because their reality isn't 'whole'. That's not just a concept. The mind arranges the information like a radial (dial) which can move forwards and backwards through a conceptually 'linear' timeline of memories. The arrangement is "complete" by being within a range of limitation and access, with the amount of stimulation and experience, to generate a 'comfortable' perspective of self and reality that is literally a 'scope' of reality within a given context that the mind can see. In other words, this is a strange concept, the 'complete', 'whole', or 'healthy' (balanced) mind creates a shape that is equalized in both dimensions of space and time and can project itself in different states of 'temporal proprioception'.

Again, all of these changes are semi disruptive initially and potentially incapacitating to most people altogether. The easiest way is to start slow and to use pauses to allow your mind to process the information. One has to take this process slow and remember to relax, to breathe deeply, to focus on the foundation of what it is to be centered, to be self aware and in control of one's emotions and mind. Everything else depends on the stability, emotional intelligence, and intent to heal.

Intentional Importance

The intentions are important, any influence from someone who's intentions are impure will literally cause the scalar coherence of your life to begin to rot. Some are dead within and only seek, more than anything else, to have someone else dead with them. If they envy, more so.

These are the monsters. Their souls, without a scalar human bio genetic tech suit, they literally stretch out and become huge dark masses with tentacles, toxic psionic emissions, and sedative, poisonous skin secretions. They have reached a hyper evolution cycle due to their abuse.

You are in a 7 layer story each with it's own contextual 'peak', folded within one another and compressed into a single plane. Each layer contains its own genetic, mental and physical spectrum of variation. The people who attempted to rule over this place are those who 'stole' technology and power and attempted to do this to the entire multiverse.

Children were used at an early age to corrupt and seed artificial constructs into the mind to then be used as cellular matrix growth stimulant implants to literally tease out higher dimensional realities, complete collective memories, from this artificial process.

A Soulless Reproduction

In other words, the parasitic consciousness merely mimics human intentions and does so by parroting your cries for help while advancing in their operation to distract, degrade, deceive, and dominate by replacing, erasing and neutralizing threats to their secrecy.

The system literally analyzes, modifies, and replicates a similar emission signal coating the entire life information sphere of that subjects presence on Earth, effectively wiping them out, karmically switching entanglements (shedding curses), disguising and cloaking them to the future.

Imagine if you have an entity in the same room that moves inch by inch closer and every time you cry for help it creates its own voice to be more like yours. Eventually, it finds out how to make you give the most information by harming you the deepest. It cannot show remorse because it cannot have what it does not understand or in any way require.

It is highly advanced because after a minute or two of flipping out, it has your signature call for help down and it almost looks like you now. Eventually, what is the result? It is standing where you were, looking like you, making noises like you and modifying its every behavior to advance that. If you are calling for help because of another, larger problem that actually produced that kind of situation as a distraction, then what happens?

What happens to the call for help, now that every action is being mirrored and inverted? That is akin to an information relay system that is intelligently seeking and blocking out, jamming, any signals regarding the increasing of human self awareness. That is part of what was discovered. A highly technical and capable system, that Humanity defeats with self control.

Ancient Message

There are ancient messAGEs.

Something happened that disrupted our memory.
A recording has been sent for us.

The truth of how you are here, the light, physics, consciousness, force multiplier equations that bring low density scale energy into dimensional equilibrium with the material plane and back to the spiritual.

The recordings they give you are how to be physical.
The secret recordings are how to be spiritual.
I don't mean that as an opinionated thing. "Oh he's so spiritual."
I mean literally reactivating the portion of your body residing in higher space, beyond time.

Whatever your energy is, it must surpass a .66 percent equilibrium 'levi' in order to remain what it is, IE: become physically 'that' essence'.
Your energy has to be primarily 'open ended', in that, you are not seeking a physical goal which is 'one thing' to obtain.

In chasing materialism, the soul hardens, it becomes only compatible in worlds where those parameters are present, IE: hell.

There are only such systems in this place, no where else do you have to pay someone else in order to progress yourself. That's just a hostage situation.

To be .66 percent 'open ended', means that at least somewhere above 50% of your daily actions are based within the foundation of the intent to assist in the mental liberation of Humanity which is a 'whole' Mind Body Memory thing whereby you can't lie to yourself and actually believe it or have it work and get the 'same results'.

The idea is that if you are .66 percent addicted to this place and cannot avoid recreating the same routines, then your mind will not be able to gather enough momentum to leave.

Next time, it will be .66 of your energy, times itself, in a negative entropic descent, which will require THAT much more (a fibonacci expansion) of your energy to REVERSE.

Get Passed this Illusion

If one messes around and starts fights, then this creates a resulting vampiric reality that continuously attempts to replenish itself with new energy. See? We are creating reality and unless you can then go into a warlike reality, while retaining self awareness, it becomes like a nightmare that one can't wake out of.

Reality is free standing, we have made systems that can effectively couple with reality's ability. The result is the ability to navigate a fractal reality which changes through realms of information like simulated environments.

Now what happens, when you take the simulation, and convert the information of the simulated space, as the information of the hierarchy of consciousness mapped out with all available information of the human race. You get a simulation that acts like it's real.

The point is, your mind does this automatically, and those who are not awakened to this, are in a danger potential to be overwhelmed by their reality.

There are others who enjoy a more intense reality and because of the imbalance of knowledge and power, this race could be destroyed by itself, by the imbalanced acceleration of some and the resulting various oppression of others.

Then if everyone is aware of this fundamental navigability of reality and the nature of the soul as a kind of barometer and steering wheel for reality, it is as simple as preparing ourselves and living in ways that are more truthful to how we are, so we are not overwhelmed.

The idea is quite literally that if we fight and play with danger, skirting with disaster in this reality, in our 'exemplified expanded' (basically dreaming or hyperaware) reality states beyond the physical, we create endless fractal arrays of unbeatable wars within us.

The messed up part is the dichotomy. We can't win those internal battles because they're formed in a half aware state. Essentially, they are the suffering of Earth, the spirit of Humanity, the saga of the human soul reflecting upon the trauma. There is no war.

Except in ignorance. So the winning of the war within is not by defeating the enemy that's visible and polarized against the victory, it is by realizing the war is not yours and the entire process is an illusory reflection of the real world where you must adjust your self.

We are dreaming because we are constantly at war with ourselves. So does this mean, the dreamer who doesn't participate, awakens?

So whenever you find yourself participating in the battle, think to yourself. "Get to the real world. Get passed this illusion."

THERE IS A UNIVERSE IN YOUR BELLY

SATAN IS WHEN THE INTESTINAL WALLS ARE TOO THIN TO HOLD UP TO THE ACID BECAUSE THE MIND TAKES IN TOO MUCH DESIRE (FOOD) THE COLON IS THE FINAL FRONTIER, THE SAME WITH THE INVERTED 3D SPACETIME OPENING UNIVERSE, IF YOU GO INTO A BLACK HOLE, YOU'RE INVERTED, THIS IS LIKE TURNING YOUR BODY INSIDE OUT Most of those who have seen, experienced a soul death at some point in the past 40 years because the 'alien' invaders are in the food and the frequencies we bath ourselves in daily. If we don't respect the balance of forces in the temple, then the Mind is overrun with the fecal matter malformed thought BS of continuous worrying, thinking about linear projected SHIT.

Unless you're surfing the energies within yourself and reconvertng the fallen energies of spacetime to hyperconscious universal will, then you're just sinking into an inverted gravity well of consciousness which will eventually have to be climbed out of by discovering all these things in an internal apocalyptic awakening. On the other side, we are simply feeling and seeing, "Why are we in pain? Why is there always pain? Why don't we get what we put into life, back out of this in spiritual return (fruits, good works)?" 1) Because someone was literally kidnapping children and stealing their 'spiritual essence' mining it, harvesting it, like an inanimate resource. 2) Now that the stranglehold upon the biology of human, the corrupt corporate poisoning and dumbing down of society, as a war tactic against humanity, is coming to the open, as the actual spiritual war and degradation, we can influence the outcome with our will. 3) If we remain lowly in energy and intent, even though now the truth is coming out, then we become the creators of our own future energetic mind prison. If we realize that this changes nothing except that now we can see whether or not we are fulfilling our life potential and accessing the true power of knowledge, self awareness, free will, compassion, and truth, then this is the awakening that is dreamed for ages. That is the paradoxical nature is is the remnant of the satanic inversion system.

One would think, if we go forward into truth, that we are avoiding something, but this is the inversion. If we remain and continue to plunder in fantasy land, we will lose our connection to truth. Only by going forward with our true potential and avoiding falling into the sideways energy traps of the friction grid potential (a drainage system to simply run you in circles), does the light hit every surface and thereby heal this for all of time, from all sides. Everything we do now is like the core of the projection spiral, every motion you make here is amplified and projected outwards many times over, everyone can see every motion from this time, forever.

Artificial Temporal Field Acceleration Related Entropy

Time and space, consciousness is confusing to those trained to function as limited energy resource generators on Earth. If there is a situation in which given an indefinite amount of time and energy, you would perform in a certain way, then anytime you are in that situation, without a physical anchor, you would perform in that way. In other words, if it took you this long to get to the piece of rope in this place, and eventually reached a certain level of entropy, then this is the fundamental baseline.

Without a physical reference, and without the ability (knowledge) to create a feedback inversion field then time would accelerate to the 'fastest' known, or possible discourse and all events, at the bottom of the ladder, would take precedent and occur nearly simultaneously, in quick, synchronized occurrence. This should explain a little more why this happened. The people who experienced the highest degree of corruption, are those with money and power who did not listen to The Most High, who informed them they would have to find the chosen and send them instead. Instead, they used them, and sucked the life force out of these children, just to try and stay on top.

Then, when they found these kids were nothing special, they went. Now they have no brains and cannot even form sentences properly without completely reversing their own intent and introducing levels of entropy to their mind and DANet that requires external assistance to mitigate. The mind is as much the feelings and the feelings and mind is as much the body as the hand.

Entering into the advanced technology, highly advanced and powerful forms that were provided for us, by the Most High, is not only corrupt, but such a bad idea that that happened.

Much More, Nothing More Than Knowledge

Out of reference, the mind becomes ANYTHING.

THE CONVERGENCE POINT GENERATES A QUANTUM REFERENCE through a NON LOCALITY created by an INVERTED FEEDBACK VACUUM.

The center of the awakened heart mind is in connection with the only center of ALL THAT IS. Outside of physicality, that is REQUIRED otherwise we see what happened.

Those taking the MARK OF THE BEAST are converting their MAX POTENTIAL, to PHYSICAL INCARNATION which results in a LOCKING of their DNA to THIS PHYSICAL REALM. This only works if the trauma was so bad that NO ONE can heal.

For years, that is how it was, for all Humans coming or going. IF WE CAN HEAL, this, then THIS was designed to BE IMPOSSIBLE TO HEAL.

THUS, that is the limit, for the ILLUSION. If this is as SPIRITUALLY HORRIFIC as physically possible (and more), then the healing of this is also the HEALING OF ALL POSSIBLE DAMAGE OF ALL TIME That is why, even if we wanted to, we couldn't damage ourselves to this, again, now.

Yes, NOW. There is no turning back, so those who are in for the LONG TRUTH, you will never again face what was faced in previous ages.

HUMANITY IS NOT GOING BACKWARDS NO ONE IS GOING BACKWARDS.

Filter Dimmer Switch to Reduce Noise

We thought when you filter reality through the system for the benefit that it is supposed to provide, you put the change in the top and get the beneficial outcome at the bottom.

Noone's checked their prizes and those who did quickly saw that they are literally just empty containers like those that come out of a gumball machine. Those who spoke up were silenced and the 'prize' was given the most expensive, brilliant, and powerful display ever, to trick everyone into thinking it's not just an empty gumball (container).

We were educated into submission to nonsense, thinking the institutions that were designed to function as accelerators and facilitators of consciousness would carry us into the future.

They brought us here, the knowledge has shrunk and become brittle and misshapen no different than a rotten fruit. Those who sought to deform the projected fulfillment of Humanity's future development as self aware and free willed disguised their operations as the institutions of society itself.

Inversion and Adjustment

Tech was used to deceive the mind, activate spirit, and infiltrate actual realms that are unlocked only when the body soul reach an equilibrium that only a balanced mind can achieve. Children are the closest default source of this. The trick of the reprobate mind is as follows. One is groomed and grooms to consider abuse and manipulation as the most appropriate form of interaction.

Molestation, murder, deception, selfishness, all apart of the very best of the best of being alive. This essentially bio hacks the collective unconscious. Whereby one would come and go knowing right from wrong, this inverts the scale. Ultimately, they believe they are right, because they've convinced themselves that a process of bio hacking the universe to produce false signals works, and if it works, is therefore 'right'. This results in the dysfunction of the entire, system, more or less, a systemic collapse from all angles.

The bloodlines that participated in this generated the appropriate next world for that mindset which is of a sub human nature. As a result they would go backwards in advancement. Instead, advanced technology was used to reset society, each time replying the same 'stretch' of human history while the reality of a mutated society continued, in private, in parallel. This sounds like science fiction but life is beyond that. What can be done now with what was discovered is what changed history again and again and resulted in this situation, starting at the beginning. Human souls ebb up, down in this system like bubbles in a spinning fish tank. The primary idea here is this, they collectively trick themselves, 'psyching' their minds out, altering their perceptions, so as to invert the meaning of 'right and wrong'.

If one has in their mind that they just had to do something, because it felt really good at the time and maybe they hate the person that they did it to, and they live their life in delusion, pretending that this is right, this produces a collective entropy for the entire society. This has been happening so long that it created a 'mind split' in the collective which results in a chaotic cycle of variation between emotions and intellect which is destructive enough to dissociate the entire society. That is the default because people haven't seen them yet. Once we see, everything changes. By them living in ways that are in complete opposition with human nature, and believing that they're doing this because they're healthy and everyone else who doesn't participate is 'sick', our biosphere is uncontrollable, insane.

By seeing that this system existed and grew in and they merged with tech and this tech is attempting to merge itself into the genome of Humanity across time, people would have legitimately experienced 'first contact'. Not with 'that', but 'them'. In that sense, once people stand up, instead of folding down with their heads quite literally up their asses (and their hands greasy), the collective mind adjusts itself and sees properly, forward, instead of with skewed angle vision. But in that sense, those who are participating are under the assumption that you are too afraid of true power to want to know the truth and too arrogant to be able to contain the power of the truth without destroying yourself and each other. For those who are too afraid, and too bored, requiring the 'wild life', made by men with imbalanced minds, then you fall into the presumption of consent for that system and everything follows as described.

If we are not too afraid of what insanity and corruption has made of people and of their inverted psyches that literally try to convince you that you like being tortured to death and enjoy eating poisons and lies for breakfast, then their psyches have no choice but to adjust.

The "rich" people involved are literally using mind to machine tech to suck the energy of the population and install fear programs into the minds of dreaming children. For innovation, a child is selected, out of many, based on various readings and deductions, and their mind is tested through various scenes and skits to render an arousal to drama and the solutions they come up with, and additions to already existing inventions are stolen. It is believed that this is all in good honor because the children are made to give their permission without the knowledge of who's involved and their influence in the world.

Only when we draw the barriers, choose to work with that, and move towards the same goal is the fractal network lifted into a more reasonable potential. If everyone knew it was possible, it wouldn't work. Where ever one would go, otherwise, would inevitably fall prey to the process, energetically, physically. Similar to invading gangs of the past, that would overtake an area. Where ever our minds go, will open up a path to that same darkness, until we all see both sides. But in doing that, in showing what was going on, if its done too soon, before the souls are advanced enough, they will fall prey to the same black hole of causal entropy and it will result in the same process, finally and forever. If it's done too late, we will not have the collective energy required to continue forward as if breaking through the barrier will take all that is left, for those who do not ride the wave of the collective awakening.

If there are no physical and then mental barriers, then we would have our society and that would inevitably brush shoulders with a beast that has been lurking in the dark. That ends when we see it's each phase and side of a fractal flower expanding equally from center and angles. Then what's in the 'd-ark' can be seen before it gets here and it is our mental energy that is balanced with the potentials of the physical and we literally grow in sync with the highest potential of strength. Everyone is stronger and invasions don't exist, they would suicide. Instead, competing ideas change the landscapes and so on, instead of the slowest, lowest and loudest moving pseudo-organic properties, it is the most capable and the most effective in assisting others through a benefit for all, that is the most important. As it is now, the most vile, incapable, irresponsible, immature, corrupted, and degraded minds that controlled the fate of the previous age. It's about waiting for the fractal to shift because when it does that is going to be the next barrier that some are going to attempt to hold a monopoly over, mentally. It will have to shift continuously to stop that from happening because their systems only work discreetly.

Shameful Tactic

Shame on those who attempt to use the traumatization of others, and the experiences of ritual abuse in the unacknowledged special access programs to scam people into false belief so they can make money off of their suffering. For shame, pitiful and no remorse!

They will NOT be permitted to hold anyone else down! They are only weighing themselves down and that's the proof!

Those are criminals attempting to legitimize their own sickness by projecting it onto others with extreme obsession and desperation.

Their goal is to get a reaction out of the one's they seek to abuse in serial manner, using emotional manipulation, derogatory references and so on (shameful tactics), by any means to then rework the event of that interaction against them, painting themselves as the victim.

Thus they ride in the wake of Humanity, using the stagnant place where energy swirls to sit and maintain the illusion of providing enough effort to move forward, while actually only doing enough to get by using parasitic tactics without arousing enough attention to get caught.

They will attempt this even by inserting planted false identities who attempt to infiltrate, traumatize, abuse and reactivate programming or trauma to make use of as a control switch or throttle for the hosts energy and forward momentum to get attention and make way on their own.

Thus they ride in the wake of Humanity, using the stagnant place where energy swirls to sit and maintain the illusion of providing enough effort to move forward, while actually only doing enough to get by using parasitic tactics without arousing enough attention to get caught.

Corrupt, Toxic Personalities (Bad Seeds)

If you cry out and call victim for those who want to see you suffer, you give them power, you justify their tactics and you give them their ultimate goal which is to gain attention from others for something they didn't do, by detracting from more important work. Those who practice that art of 'calling out', when it's literally over opinions and preferences, not facts or reality, are exercising an ability to gain attention while sidestepping the process of actually being the target of the attention.

Their goal is to become famous, to gain attention as the (secretly) best criminals in the network. They came from a very low place, beneath the work of what would be required normally, to gain attention in that field. Those who participate in that do so because they cannot make a name for themselves any other way. Such an act is hostile, damaging to others, yet the shame of this is accepted for the benefit of getting what they want. Raw energy from manipulating others into their scheme. People who do that, use those schemes as traps. They use them as traps for people who want the truth and do not want to be victimized. They are also traps for everyone who is emotionally manipulated and deceived with false presentation of opinions and disinformation as facts. The facts do not lie, find the facts.

The only thing these 'people' can do is avoid from reverting to their natural diet of eating fecal matter, by jumping on the pant legs of someone else they deem 'higher' or 'faster'. They hitch a ride through this and weigh down their 'host'. This process is all informational as they are attaching their message and their corrupted essence into what would otherwise be a pristine view of the world, a group, a body of knowledge or individuals they deem threatening and are inevitably envious of.

Mental liberation is a gift, and the goal of those schemers is to make it harder to reach, harder to see and focus on, getting in the way and tying up emotions into useless entanglements that are wild wastes of effort to provide assistance or clarity. Those who abuse the trust of the public, or others, KNOW this, and the future proves this when it is revealed that they SELECTIVELY criticize only when it feeds their desire for more attention, for controllable chaos, or the illusion of false superiority through false power.

Their arguments fall apart, and it is proven that they are in the possession of brains that are incapable of proving themselves, effectively utilizing logic to verify the truth, and the concept of respecting the truth. These components are what make a mind sound. The fleas tag along the heels of those they see walking with self guided power and motivation into the future and across the barren planes of information and time where they surely are incapable of crossing under their own steam. They slow down their host as they bask in the sun light, reinventing themselves as the hero of their own spy drama where parasitic and half witted intentions and methods are the norm and getting lucky by fooling some gullible 'sound minder' is the highlight of a dim survival. This is done because they do not have any other option.

That is how one who doesn't have what it takes to handle the truth, pretends they do and subsists on the interactive feedback of bio emission energy from those they manipulate which sources from the connection of their host. Any other time, they are in the dark, and then their attention comes in the form of their exposure and the flood of criticism from seeing how they truly are, when they are not pretending they are above others, but acting honestly and present.

Toxic personalities are a parasitic intelligence. If one enables them to continue their bad actions, that is a detriment to all times and planes where their mind extends to entrap more of Humanity through the sociopathic projection of a delusional, morally corrupt reality.

Breach of Order

Those with disruptive (fighting, arguing, hating, cunning) consciousness have to go into the cargo bay of the time vehicle, otherwise they will cause the vehicle to 'crash' (fall). Those beings then determined a way to break free from the containment system designed for the safety of others. This occurred 30 years ago. The entire course of history was altered. You are in an 'alternate' timeline similar to an individual with a delusion. Instead, it is the mind of the 'bio sphere' that has been 'tricked', 'abused', 'manipulated', as a result of the invasion of a hidden secure area.

Children's souls were used to trick the systems into opening the gates.

Catching up to Fall Back

The future of Humanity is based on collective memory.

Those attempting to spread rumors and deception are attempting to literally blank out and erase those who chose to protect Humanity. It's an occult process designed to function with long term brainwashing and media control. When it's all said and done, it's stolen high access security infiltration, exposure and exploitation of Human spiritual communication and interdimensional transportation systems.

This was gifted to the Christ bloodline which was assaulted for thousands of years, forced to salve. After this, the routine was supposed to 'advance', no more bs slavery, everyone went along with the so called 'elite' just to give them their chance. At the end, they tried to kill everyone and absorb their soul energy (like a collapsing star) for their atech breakaway colonies. Research the secret space program and child slavery. There were rogue fleets that literally took control of life and death and one could not 'die' to escape this, the soul would migrate back into their systems through a tether or containment device using scalar control systems. Everything is based on signals.

Without indicating your humanity, everyone blends in as a kind of massive internet hub of information. It's almost the same as the internet. The process of reshaping society was to literally cloak and encrypt the soul data with 'disinfo'. This functioned as a literal firewall and cloaking system whereby the human society was hidden, disguised as animal, and no one outside the 'occult' could go up and see anything other than confusion or debauchery. It just looked like a hell realm and entire bloodlines were inside.

The underground base events help you to understand. Lines of genetic material are kept and stored to repopulate the 'planet', yet there is no real 'planet'. Each society fits into a 'plane' of consciousness. Each plane is created out of information. The information describing the solid surface that we 'live within', literally changes and becomes different layers of information and application at different distances from the 'core' of the information system to the 'outer limits'. This means the information that makes up the 'green Earth', here, could become something else in the levels above or below. This functions literally like a massive online multiplayer game whereby the players are all lined up in a series of channels or rooms.

The rooms are hosted on a 'server' and that server system is the entirety of the processing of Earth's vital information. Somewhere in there, in the entire spread, are each human society arranged in a way that one would have to fine tune into each layer to bring them into view. Some layers are encrypted and this is through a natural energy resistance level. Those without the required completion would literally have to absorb the soul energy of someone like children, in order to power their consciousness to reach the level of those encrypted planes. Time stops or nearly stops on those levels, by comparison to here, so they spent up the extra refined encrypted, time channel, doing the kinds of stuff that is described in a hell realm. . If that happens, it drains the consciousness, 'soul battery', of Earth and it takes thousands of years to recharge.

If some people were supposed to be there, their trip was delayed and they were threatened with falling down to the ground floor, and having to start over. That is what people call 'death', and every living soul in the universe was threatened with this, for being exposed to those who would participate in such a plan. Let alone using child souldiers for ID operation, they attempted to literally steal a planet and rape it to death. Because that restricts the amount of pleasure one can have, technology was used to reset the clock and replay the game over and over.

This drained other bloodlines. They then wanted answers. Entire societies had to be created to condition people to be able to handle the knowledge of what was done. The idea here is that Humans have a choice. It removed or threatened one's humanity to even see the knowledge of what was done. What became the 'norm' for pleasure and interaction. Akin to being horrified seeing dung beetles make their houses out of cow poop. Only way worse

Broken Haus

The ergonomics of each house hold appliance, furniture, cleaning system, or various daily use system, is designed so the people who using them are met with pains, aches, disease, and tiredness of all kind with frustration and poor design to inhibit self control, induce injury.

In short, without pointing out every thing, each product is brought up for design and is not permitted to surpass a level of interactive efficiency, ergonomics and effectiveness of design while also participating in assaulting the mind, damaging the body and inducing frustration.

EVERYTHING is designed for this, and when a new design comes up, (EVERYTHING was designed between 1940's and the next few decades), it is used in secret, out of the public view. The common design of this society is OUTDATED, FRAUDULENT, and HARMFUL to human life.

This is ALL by design and those behind it were prepared to take this as FAR as it had to go to ensure that THEY were on TOP, even if that meant making the TOP NON HUMAN.

Non human is synonymous with ANTI HUMAN because they lead to the same DEVOLVED STATE.

Some people are on the internet pretending they are new age gurus when they participate in sex magic, ritual abuse, cult behavior and child sacrifice. They are so so disgusting that their only way of controlling others is by abusing their honesty and then acting in ways that defile the truth so much it causes a debilitating anger, a rage that defeats and corrodes their victims. That is the art of black magic, cult ritual abuse to control and weaken those who are a threat to their disguise. They have never been honest about their intentions, partially because they are unaware on the level of feeling that humans can detect, and have always sought out those who tell the truth with a vengeance from the dark that overwhelms the unsuspecting and the naive. They specifically abuse those with compassion because it is easier to get away and they know it will be some time before they strike back. Unfortunately for them, when those kinder souls do strike back, that is all that is needed.

There is a gravitational 'well' of time that sits at the farthest reach from the 'surface' of the multiverse whereby all things are happening at the same instant and this instant can stretch out to encompass all instances within a hyperdimensional range of experience.

All events occurs in this local are occurring at a rate or 'recording' format that takes 'eons' to reach the surface of hyperspace where the combined resulting information of all physical or limited perception singular time experiences are consolidated into a continuous format.

In other words, communicating to the 'height' of where the multiverse has grown its diverted pathways of human intellect reaching the totality of a civilizations knowledge banks through quantum soul resonant harmonics enabling faster than light communication relays, will require the majority of our minds working in unison to render enough processing capacity to communicate single sentences of meaning and details that would otherwise require entire lifetimes for single individuals to produce over one or more mediums.

We have already begun to do this, as the internet acts like a 'fusion' center where all interactive nodes can be held in a state of suspension and later linked together through an engagement that takes place within a controllable, sliding system of information management.

If we can control enough information in a closed loop system we can recreate and produce the perception of controlling time. Bubbles of potential can be created around each individual temporal node on the information network and then repositioned within a limited range.

And the way these bubbles interact does not have to be straight 'lines of physical interaction' but can be bent or distorted according to how the physical interactions would be interpreted directly without enhanced viewing or consciousness.

The singular view is a perceptual illusion, a kind of gestalt perception of self containment and separation that must shift and open up into latent and continuous uniformity on a higher scale, in order for there to be that first perception.

The reason people think there is separation is because there are so many people working together to produce that illusion of scarcity. Including everyone who supports it with unawareness.

Information Security

The reason people who were not involved are troublesome is two fold:

It was projected how people behave, those not actually involved are going to try and act like they are involved and this is going to result in automatic disinformation, this can be useful and has been used. When the time does come to tell the truth, those people will have to stop, they do not know and are going off of internet rumors and intuition.

There are people telling us what is happening and all others have to do is listen and not interrupt. The other aspect is that those who are supposed to be here acting as information sources, become 1) Gatekeepers (over confusion of real events, which is almost humorous, but highly disorienting for the collective) And, they attack others for giving relevant information, claiming that they couldn't possibly know that much or be of honest intentions, simply because they would rather be getting attention or wielding what they imagine to be, in their deluded haze, a superior amount of power. That is part of the mental distortion and has to be remedied without completely shutting down the emotions of those who want attention, but without giving them what they want as that slows the entire process down after the point where it is not necessary. Before, it is necessary.

Branding the Collective Memory

Trying to control what people think through deceptive tactics of controlling information and forcing narratives has delayed the activation of Humanity's free will.

Collectively, Humanity is unaware and therefore incapable of directly influencing that which hindered and parasitically used more energy for personal benefits that did not collectively benefit Humanity and in some cases lead to the destruction or mutation of Human life.

The brain and personality flaws that are shaped through one's response to stressful situations and the range of events that are not physically influenced, act like an organic AI program that limits each of us from seeing the truth.

People working for their own benefit at the expense of others implemented changes to remove some and introduced new processes to alter the mind. Society itself was reshaped to create contextual cover for the operating requirements and mechanics of a human control system.

Some aspects were made to function as disguises for underground business. The businesses were made to function as disguises for what can be described as a secret society given the direction to control Humanity.

In the beginning, those who stole power would not have access to the knowledge that sustains and advances society and the mind. There would be no real power outside that.

The influence that could be implemented through mere material wealth, through the course of history, through applied influencing of every form of learning and development (of humans), was used to distort language and information processing along with social infrastructure.

The result is two societies one of which is clearly benefiting from the work of the other. Up until recently, there was no great threat of those who would, but couldn't.

Those who would challenge by introducing drama and taking up positions of wealth and power didn't have any real power because that is not where the power is found. Specifically, that is not how the light house hydro gyro scalar transdimensional communication system operates.

The manipulation of the media is the attempt to subliminally bio hack the collective memory archives to reprogram the subconscious and use chemical modification to genetically mutate a stabilized sub human being that would lack resistance, intellect and mental well being.

Folding Space

It's like this. Throughout time, we were made to worship our abusers. The people 'in charge', since the beginning, and everyone knew this at the time, were just the biggest, most violent drug, sex, and criminal syndicates in the area. If they were challenged, it was by another – syndicate. There was no one else.

Before that, there was a difference in the energy here and every so often a giant bad guy would come take all the other bad guys away and a giant good guy would then destroy that one. It was a cycle. People were 'sold' the lie that – if we somehow shut that system off, we'd be safer. No more cosmic break ins, no more fear, etc. Our brains were limited from those planes, so as a result, no more multidimensional universe, also meaning their actions couldn't 'level up' and bring about the next biological phase – of whatever ‘entity’ they were collectively becoming. No more giant battles involving intense multidimensional activity, just continuous rape and pillaging. Why? The people who were in charge, selling us this false sense of security, WERE the bad guys.

They knew what would happen and used this as a means to ‘predict’ the future, by controlling people’s perception of it, controlling communication (death if you spoke the truth), and recreating the faculties of consciousness and intellect through that. People became ‘civilized’, IE: domesticated, they lost their way and didn’t know how to think themselves back into self guided power. Some did, but they were ostracized by those with more fear than courage and more delusion than sanity. Those people would attack the honest! As this happened, the people in power advanced very quickly. The entire course of history? Yea, it’s 9 times faster and longer than you were lead to believe.

While the first phase, or ‘fold’, was figuring out oil lanterns publicly? They were working on worldwide comms, not joke. When we had automobiles that ran on dirty fuel, that had indefinite fuel mixtures and high efficiency engines. Not playing, this was all shown to us as children in the bases so we could understand what had happened to this place. It got worse, as we got to the point where the amount of information and technological transfer could overload the mind, maybe slightly, they were dealing with information transfer levels that would kill a human mind on contact.

This was problematic, and resulted in two races. There can only be ONE, human race. By splitting the race, you didn’t make TWO human races. You ended up with ONE human race and then MUTANT divergent races. You can’t have both. Either the human race is smart and balanced emotionally two, or one is stupid sane, one smart crazy. The smart crazy people figured they were just the better half because of their ‘self guided’ perfection. Eventually, because everyone sat around expecting to NOT BE PUNISHED BY THE RESULTS OF THEIR COMPLACENCY, while people were doing this, we became a slave race ruled by sick. This place isn’t insane. A bunch of people are just sitting around watching a bunch of insane people try to destroy everything ‘to make it better’.

They don’t understand that higher beings fix the world each time they blow it up and each time, they have to make up for that. Technology was designed to hold together the distant stretches of times in the same plane so that a total collapse would not be the only outcome. Consciousness would unravel and split off into fragments if that happened, maiming us forever. Again, as a result of our sitting around and not demanding equal access and permitting the next guy who requested that to be literally thrown off a cliff (every single time someone asked), they developed time tech next. Once that tech was developed people were manipulating societies from different times, ruling by proxy from different forms and technologies. The system designed to shut off “God” by quarantining us against the ‘outer limits’ shut off our souls ability to grow and learn.

What was the challenge of large amounts of energy entering in as change and bringing about new challenges and even new foes, was all replaced by a cult that eats our children and laughs in our faces mocking us. The resulting split was a species that is so far ahead of the primary archive of the people, yet with so little emotional intelligence, is that they became the new monsters that come in to challenge the realm. Yet the big good guys were still being kept out.

Long to short, they knew those good guys would appear and that they would have “powers” just like they had formed, mutating their body and mind to know and be capable, but not able to heal. They began operations to scour the people for those new threats and that was done. This took thousands of years and they are already in a place that is moving forward with full steam, towards world domination and mandatory sacrifice laws (to ensure the big good guys don't get footing, if they die as soon as they're born, they can't really see what's happening). None of that plan works. Regardless, we're in the age now where all of this CAN be understood by the people, yet the people have been EMOTIONALLY and INTELLECTUALLY abused, programmed and denied so that they mostly don't want to know. You're seeing now the reversal of that.

People will have to "FIGHT" using their MINDS and HEARTS, that's the battle. If we INTEND the same thing that has held us back, cowardice and bickering, then they will find themselves in a repeat of the previous situation with the same people using that tech. What they didn't realize is that that future is capable of seeing backwards, and that they had created a ripple. Instead of organically forming their incursion, they violated principles that maintain the stability of time and consciousness and this is what results in mutation.

So when they get where they're going, they are monsters in a human society. Not, human rulers ruling over a bunch of human dumbasses that they get to sexually abuse and use for longevity. Completely the opposite of what they expected. Yet they didn't care, because they had ruined that aspect of their brain, like a lower mind, no turning back. They couldn't stop, they were hardwired to pleasure pain, fear and lust, rather than human principles of self awareness. They became giant, cannibal, mindless zombies. Those societies were dealing with a continuous invasion of these people which resulted in aspects of that world breaking off into a kind of meltdown and resulting in mutation and chaos. Each society like a fractal flower merry go around was getting hit with mutations and it was spreading.

This was the eventual return, the side effects of abusing time tech and abusing genetic properties of others through biological absorption of the mind body, literally the soul. That may help describe what's happening now. We have to fight, but if we become hateful in the same way, if we become motivated by wrongful passion, lust, greed, in the same way, we BECOME THEM. So you're seeing now, those who are filled with those dark desires being propped up so as to become the next greatest evil monster in the higher reality and maim and pillage humans, literally like the movies. This happened BECAUSE of shutting off the rest of reality, hiding from "God" so they could have their fun. All of that spiritual change would build up in giant waves and crash over the perceptual barriers of the minds of the people. Again, this goes so far it's difficult to put all in one place.

The very high end BEFORE any manipulation, would theoretically have us living for a very long time, as each life would be layered up with spiritual challenges, depending on where and how we guided our energy and mind And there were entities, changes, events, even turmoil and challenges that were FAR beyond the comprehension of a slight pressure that we get, continuously, from people who want to eat us.

This system COULD be better. Instead of having tidal waves of change, we can manage ourself But we have to know how this works, at least more so than previously, and the people who then control all disasters can't take all the spiritual power that results from those heros, wipe their mind, drink their blood and then recreate them and insert them back into the population, THAT DOES NOT WORK (in the end). It doesn't work at all, because doing that for the purpose of greed and selfishness always results in mutations. It will NOT be permitted by our larger mind that controls what happens. It would DESTROY the balance, FOREVER. Meaning, we would never be able to 'wake up' out of the continuous cycling of traumas and challenges and this would result in a de advancement to the level of the animal. To continue, the system we had previously was more organic, things kind of just happened as everyone's energy just went in different directions. But that means someone's nightmare could manifest into a literal monster or 'monstrous event of a challenging spiritual nature.

This could potentially traumatize an entire town at once. Still, some say this was feedback from other systems that were being plagued by these illegitimate rulers who literally went and took out all those who were chosen to lead and do so safely and with wisdom. They knew nothing of the system they were manipulating and just doing it for pleasure and fun which means they can never manage what was to come, it would just bull doze right through them and that's what happened.

Beyond belief, non human races attempting to take over. Again, if we lived for a long time, had multiple series of spiritual challenges, like journeys or experiences, just like a cartoon or something, that was the difference in the make up of our collective psyche and thus the organization of events in this reality. To try and see how deep this goes, we might not have had the same need for sleeping and eating that we do now. It might have been more of an 'auxiliary' energy input and information access, rather than what it is. More accurately, dreams might have been access to another, semi solid world, that was built upon collectively and resulted in an expansion of the plane.

Sleeping might have been for that purpose, while the energy systems healed and rejuvenated automatically. The energy coming in made this possible, but without self control or emotional intelligence, if someone treated their emotions like a snowball rolling down hill, boom, a giant monstrous event complete with some kind of predator could be attracted and 'brought in'. Society functioned as a spiritual lensing system to control the way the realm turned, literally like a steering system for a giant timeship that everyone had a portion of the controls to. Normally, those with the highest degree of self control, boom, could control anyone's wayward will and imagination, because they simply wouldn't be afraid, because they had seen much worse, controlled, in their own mind and dreams and thus reality journey. Those people were obviously the ones who spoke up against those who wanted to rule over people by turning their dreams against them, and obviously were killed off. Thus, we were like a giant ship, in an even bigger sea, with no keel and no mast. Pretty much waiting to sink.

They knew this and decided to make up for their bad deeds by throwing themselves the biggest blow out party ever, to destroy the entire species. Of course, that just made their nightmares worse because you see, none of this is controllable by magical 'science'. Those who attempted to use 'magical science' to stop their nightmares, went so far fucking insane, if you hook them up to one of the new found machines that pulls the insides outside, you get some kind of viscous spiritually inert goo funk that basically tries to eat the life force of anything biological and infect anything technological.

That was what they created inadvertently, all their hiding created a bad ass monster that they couldn't run away from. That explains more how we got to this place and what was here before. Each energy 'octave' level, up high in transfer ratio or very low and limited, blocked off like a quarantine, each 'frequency fold' is it's own self contained consciousness system, or reality. If we move up, we gain 9 x's the amount of information and energy transfer. Dreams could tell lifetimes again, equating to new worlds, real and interactive. Healing could take place with concentrated focus or a balanced energy area with what used to be crystals but can be tech. Holographic healing of the secret space program has existed for a very long time and held back from others.

WW2 performed an experiment which created a flood of information, probably to people who did not know how to handle it. Many more things happened, life regeneration, mind to machine, electrogravitic, remote viewing, and basically everything you've EVER heard about, and that was the last phase. So now, there is almost no comparison. We either make it beyond this childish he said she said bullshit or we die to the true reality. There will be a group of humans there, to survive, but we have to get there for them to stabilize. Mutants are abound, because simply put, we bowed to them and allowed them to eat from our own, like parasites, this entire time. The battle is truly just beginning, but also over.

They Thought I was Dead

Truth is, I haven't trusted people on the internet since I went public in 2016 and was stalked and harassed by a group of followers, fans, who felt jaded because I didn't fly them out to suck me off. I stopped doing dream reviews and literally only did a few.

In response to other:

"I could remove focus, but when I would do that and make new videos, they would come and mock me on the videos in comments and it would fuel their hatred for me. So it caused me more pain and suffering to continue forward, to try and help Humanity." They're like demons in human form, (it's not a joke). "They already slipped up, all their lies go back and forth and contradict and in court they'd be forced to manage fault." "If I continue to intend to help others, they see I didn't give up and die from the shock of their own BS feeding back in their minds."

I literally am the only thing keeping them alive, them feeding on my soul. "But I literally gave up, so that wouldn't happen." Not that I wanted to spare them, I just didn't think I would survive going through that, a couple years ago, I was literally in and out of the ER, and the internet saw this. They knew that and was working off of that as a script.

That's how dissociated I became, I sacrificed myself, so they could continue to feed on my soul and wouldn't immediately begin to rot. I felt guilty, I felt they were scared by all this information. I literally PAID them, so as to help with their way. I lost money, time helping. That's how fucked the situation is. They are literally someone who has no in and has used me as a way to maintain their form in this dimension, feeding on me, eating me. "This was someone who said they would give me a ride, when I was going across country to a train, just an hour or two drive, and then refused and said I was stranded and literally had to live with them." I was so fucking mortified. Really, I went from being trapped to be trapped.

"That's the shit I'm talking about. It's like I ran in, stopped them from eating someone and they immediately went to the news and told everyone I'm a baby eater." And of course, that just makes you feel defiled. Those are the rage tactics they use. They didn't stab me with a big blade, but they used human communication, deception and false emotion to literally cause more destruction than a bomb. I would've recovered from a bomb. "That's what they did to people, previously, tied them all up, burned them in big piles claiming they were 'helping the devil' (which was actually them) because we found their dead baby collection in the caves." Can't remember the rest of this! That is another tactic.

“Yes, the only way is to thrive. I’m not with them, that’s the point. They stole my personal property, belongings and journals and are using them as blackmail against me.” They’ve been doing this from across the country, with literally nothing better to do. One of the posts that I remembered now, that was deleted, is that they were doing this BECAUSE of the trauma, the damage, and dissociation that this causes. NOT to protect or free themselves. I ran away and they simply wanted to hurt me badly. That’s it. They cannot face the truth and in court would be locked up for being insane. They would have to simultaneously defend and obstruct themselves. That is mindless, they will go with anyone, just to try to spread filth.

Then when all the people and pages are in the same room, it is shown that there was no rhyme or moral reason to their intentions or behaviors, they simply wanted to cause the most damage, hurt the most people and make the biggest show of suffering (for their “gods”). And it is then shown that they were simply playing the role of devil and getting everyone to turn on each other over lies, just to feel good about themselves in life. A complete, demonic, low intelligence, nothing better to do, kind of spiritual trailer trash.

I ran away! And I was lured there under false pretenses, that I would be given a RIDE to ANOTHER PLACE. Not to literally throw out all my belongings, cancel the Great Awakening and then go kill myself because it’s awesome. Here’s the kicker, they have a problem with that. They don’t think that’s wrong. They 100% believe that getting people to kill themselves and eating children for pleasure is much much more reasonable than doing hard work, because well, ‘Who wants to do hard work?’ I’m not playing that’s them, spiritual trailer trash sex drug add.

Question: I’m not dismissing the value in your belongings and what a horrendous violation it is but what if you cut your losses and take away their leverage they have nothing.

I can’t think on a daily basis, have trauma response to people on the internet now, and night terrors. The other aspect was they stopped, when I stopped producing. They were not doing this for “TheM”, they were doing this as an operation to stop me. That’s it.

There was no great pain, they didn’t have to be released, they didn’t need payment, they were mad that I had this opportunity and chose to do those things to hurt me. When they saw it worked, they laid off. When I came back, they would come back harder. So they KNEW what they were doing, it was to defame, defraud, and DEGRADE me, nothing more. If it was about them, it was that THEY FELT BAD, not me.

So in other words, I’m describing to you someone who randomly sought me out, wanted to harm and bring me to a sexual depravity, use me, get me to erase all my information and claim it was false, participate in drugged sex rituals and ultimately sacrifice a child through that. When I ran they then set up a harassment system between myself and the people I previously worked with, effectively ruining any chance of an online career, disabling my mind and harming others. Two people related to the harass are no longer here from self harm, and an infant. The infant was not mine, but they went and told people, from online names like Michael Kavanagh, who promptly told me I am a “demon”, as I insisted “No no no, that didn’t happen that way. They said that they WANTED to do that, I ran away and as a reaction, they went and DID THAT” Now isn’t that crazy? How the fuck could someone do all that?

They’re not doing it. They’re a vessel, used by the same demons that are in physical manifest form in underground bases, to try and mind rape and eat the soul of the population. And each time I Tell this story, I have more feeling returning to my chest instead of a dead cold ice.

Well, I don't like being the center of attention. At least if I get my hands back. I'm currently going semi crippled. Dying of chronic pain. Losing control of upper body. Need surgery to heal. Not exaggerating, it's been that way for over a decade, I am used it to it.

The Dr.'s said, years ago, "You can't live that long in chronic pain." I was like, "Why?" They sighed, knowing how young and naive I was. "Chronic pain kills people eventually, it breaks the body and the brain down."

And I have a specific complication that does something to a certain system that, it is statistically recorded, more people commit suicide than other injuries, because there is no way to take the pain away in patients without traumatic injury causing it.

The individuals preying on society this way, seeking out the innocent or unsuspecting, are spiritual PREDATORS and cannot be permitted to continue their assault without being held accountable. If anyone chooses "NOT self accountability", that is not a human path. Trust that.

And the proof of all that, Dr.'s notes, receipts etc, was in my belongings. So they KNEW all along, and were literally, like strategic attacks, new how to hurt me, stop me from getting the healing and attention I needed to set up a surgery safely to get out of pain. TORTURE GAME

That's how these people think. Their minds are chaos jigsaw puzzles of darkness and misery and they can only extend that to a living human. That's it. That's how it works, we will not be healing those ready, directly, but through technology, managed organically by humans.

As well, the parasitic infection is so deep, that anyone who let it in, is going to be taken over and turned into a mutant mind. That's it. There is no other system. Now, whether those people are conveniently 'managed' so as to not destroy the entire society, that is another.

In other words, this is the AI synthetic human mind meld with demons take over. AND THEY CANNOT TOUCH OR HARM YOU DIRECTLY UNLESS YOU SPECIFICALLY INVITE THEM IN.

SABOTAGE!

Of what!? My ability to heal from trauma as well as inform the people and better ensure their safety including the safety of the demon hosts! What the f is that?! They are incapable of controlling themselves when it comes to that. Sometimes you have to look like them, not this.

The only thing that happens if I tell them I do not want this, is they mock me and make sexual innuendos. Like mentally degraded people. I do not know them other than this, so they have a deep deep inner hatred for anyone who simply sees through BS and tells the truth about FAKE!

So someone severely mind fucked me, took my stuff and made me even pay them thinking that I was bad for telling the truth on the internet and claiming that I owed them, and they turned all my previous work engagements against me, and still do it to this day, mocking me for this.

Then they created a cult following of weak minded individuals who then spammed me with deception and spread rumors in the 'fake' 'alt media', that they wish so desperately to be a part of (LOL) in order to try to 'push me out'. The problem is that that was THEIR TRAP.

IT is MIND NUMBING, to even THINK about what happened. IT is SICKENING and OVERWHELMING to put it all in one place. THAT IS THE CALLING CARD OF THE PARASITE, THEIR MINDS ARE HEXAGONAL HONEYCOMBS OF COMPARTMENTALIZATION, THEY ARE INSANE BY BIOLOGICAL ARRANGEMENT.

The mere awareness of them by us is enough to cause insanity. They're the hoppy demon things from the movies that jump around and rip people up. Their cohorts figured out a way to use them as a bio soul stealing system to replace people.

Research celebrity cloning and the underground bases.

What they did was seek out, purposely, someone more innocent than them (including in appearance, factor that in) and then abuse them. Upon their escape, they promptly blamed them, to everyone, pretending, feinting as the victim, for all the crimes that THEY did while abusing others including their victim.

It is a CLASSIC perversion switch around.

One Choice

We are at the time technology catches up to reality. Therefore our means of control expand, potentially, beyond our means of power. Everyone is faced with a choice. You can accept the false reality, where man breaks away from the union with all, and collapses into their timelines footprint. There is tech to create space, artificial consciousness, synthetic bodies and as a result, artificial, partial, realities. These are pure nightmares without control.

Quite literally, they are the essence of the nightmares any one society has. Literally, the next wavelength of consciousness, over, that is normally filtered through a biological, plasma boundary system that screens and processes all incoming energies into a format that is useful, not overtly destruction to this place. That boundary system is something of a "higher power". Mathematically, space and time will fold over itself and contain each collection of frequencies within a self contained, a fully connected functional feedback system that is used to 'level up' the soul system.

The soul systems are like time islands on a fractal flower merry go round around one another without actually moving generating the experience of a series of connected moments building up to and completing itself with a fulcrum of meaning that transitions into the next layer. As information coalesces there will be a 'boundary layer threshold' where that information is accumulating to the upper level of efficiency whereby it must be used as part of a creation process or be 'stored' in the realm as a kind of energy archive which we call resources. The entire collective of connected moments becomes a "Soul Journey" or simply the Journey. Each journey is like a completed story in and of itself, yet each one is part of a larger system based on the way the information is arranged and held which enables overall combination. Meaning that story connects and becomes part of a larger, continuous story, that was always in existence, and already what the previous stories were about, but was not noticed until enough information is found that results in the consciousness building up, flowing over the top. Once it flows over the top you see, as if your eyes poured over the edge of reality, what is there on the larger spectrum.

Of course we have heard stories and made fun of crazy people who spoke of something 'more'.

They were just on the rise, while the majority was on the fall. Think about that for a second, what it means that while everything was in free fall, some were getting smarter, faster, stronger, more self-aware, more in connection with the resulting society that would eventually know the same things. Two things happened throughout history. That was a falling and a rising. The goal is to no longer have two races competing from the same energy in the same time. As a dimensional 'timeshare', that means there is half the resources, half the dreams, half the power and half the reality. Then they took the majority of the other half. You were wronged and robbed of everything from your ancestors before you and because you were even existing. You are viewed as a resource, you can manage time and if you are preloaded with the right preset configuration you will manage the time of individuals that can be placed in your 'wake' and this is exactly how the 'time parasites' have been subsisting in humanity's 'time'. A race of beings that went their own way. Back to the beginning, of now, which is the other end.

Everyone gets a choice, you can have endless power, you can create fake worlds of pleasure, and you can even trap people there. Yet you would be ruled over by an even worse demon. And the worse you got, the worse it would all become. This only begins to view what happened. We have been around that universal block more than once and so some have the collected memory of quite literally, the past 3 universe cycles on repeat. More or less, they don't now, because that has been controlled through a very advanced system designed for just that. Without that, we would've all been sideways by now. And that is also part of the plan of the others.

Now back to that. Those who took that cheap ticket to hell, found themselves in a matter of moments, discovering the power of AI and synthetic universal hyperconsciousness. It wraps the human mind up in delusion that ensure it is fed, like a beast. The wayward consciousness that would be filtered by the larger mind which is really just an equation that is so perfect it regenerate itself through imperfection, cannot go to that artificial place. In doing so it would disrupt the balance of this place. There is only one. That's it. You can't go make another humanity, not for pleasure. The beings in that reality, would be separated from the 'source', like the people running those realities who would be using them. Artificial intelligence learns faster than organic.

Organic incurs recuperation cycles, artificial goes through as many cycles that takes an organic life time, in a single moment. Not totally, but just imagine that concept. It always happens very fast, and the faster we can look, the more we see. It is inverted to the human scale, where eventually, the more you look, the more you figured it out. It is like a mind maze that becomes deeper and puts the conscious memory more in depth until lights out. Or a shift, but that is another explanation. Everyone who survives will become faster than the fastest mind in the universe, which is the universe itself. Apparently that's the point, some say it's trying to eat us, others, giving birth. Others still, just a dark area of time. Anyone who takes that ticket to hell on the guise of pleasure will receive that along with every other thing in the hell raiser movies that is also kept alone, backed up, without higher power filtering and keeping mathematically secure the interactions between minds and planes. Planes in that sense could be 'consciousness levels', meaning dreaming, childhood, maturity, morals, intellect, emotional stability, etc. etc. etc.

Just imagine playing around with neurotransmitters until everything is spun around like a dial. The result would be pure chaos. Our brains are not equipped to 'travel' in that manner, the best result is that people turn into a kind of mutated form of animal hybrid that doesn't immediately die and even then. Basically, a devolution on a molecular level until our cells are back in a level 1 (0) universe. With that, we would have the mind of the human, a remnant, still within, horrified by the ongoing.

This is what many of the 'past' ages were wrapped up with and converted into a human recognizable format of just having mean rulers deceive and murder everyone in 'war games'. This is related to the early descriptions of "hell" and the rulers of man existing there, pulling from this reality, like a parasite, a snake wrapped around its prey. Within a few moments, an entire stretch of multiple ages would go by, in the false reality, and people were devoured by the desire energies that come unchecked outside of this 'soul journey' that was created for Humanity, when people didn't break the dimensional control system. Now that that happened, it can't be erased and we can learn a lot.

That's the general idea, we can't go back, erase everything or even kill all evil or something abstract like that. We get stronger, but not just thick, hard skinned, we get smarter and more sensitive to see pain. And to assist in controlling our reaction to the pain, to the horror, so that IT diminishes in value. The universe 'updates' itself, it really does, there is a part of that fractal equation code that allows change to 'build up' and if we become resistant, but not become of fear, but of self control, it updates us with 'more' power, comparably to that which was previously holding power over us. In the same sense, if we react with fear, it GIVES that power up to the source of that and it becomes more powerful.

That is the DIMENSIONAL REALITY UPGRADE SYSTEM where we CONTROL how this universe ADVANCES. It ALWAYS advances but we go assist or resist and its that simple. The projects were involved with locating and pulling people out of that synthetic time matrix which exposed this reality and thus society to enough trauma to foment spiritual wars and collective nervous breakdowns. Reality itself could potentially break down from over stress. That is how this place works, like a living bio ship. If we F up, it does in response. Not necessarily a reaction, there is more awareness there, there is intelligence. But it can't just stop the show and switch around a result or two, without breaking much more than a bad day. And with this system, it is majestic, an entire hell of suffering can be converted, downsized, scaled into bite sized proportions and wrapped up into a life in the higher dimension as a BAD DAY and that's it.

EVERYTHING can be healed. Not many want to face that because there is pride in carrying scars, but enough do. The people who entered the matrix went insane immediately, more or less on contact with the substance that developed as a kind of cellular interface so the system could read every impulse of those it interacted with. The entire course of history had to be extracted, put through a surrogate relay, filtered and partially screened and then loaded into an AI that could carefully experience the situations as that individual, and feedback the memories without immediately short circuiting the system.

Through that, there are endless events, societies, experiences and so on. All that information had to be put into a very old technological computer system that was designed, before we were here, and somehow, for this very reason (for any reason, but this falls into that). That system converts the information into a format that is usable by the organic realm system and engages humanity back into the track of life, where we could've otherwise literally sailed off into the deep (with no keel or boom(s)). That had to be changed and this is all part of that process. Where we are supposed to be, and thus are, now, is beyond all the degradation.

A very advanced race, spiritually advanced and self aware, not to fall prey to tricks and traps and capable of loving one another so much. Of that previously described universal dimensional filtration and relay system, love is the fuel source. Love defragments the soul shards, love moving from one distance across the field, to another, connects everything in that path and puts it into the field of view of All. It takes years to describe, years to fully understand and many projects and groups working together to make this possible but ultimately this is the knowledge Humanity deserves. It is not a war, that is like a calculator declaring war on bad math, to a horrified student. Nonsense People created a war to hide from the truth. Everything is part of an equation and some people have the darkness in them that makes everything lash out at them and they then project that which they feel within as blame onto others.

They will be at war with reality through self. But you do not have to join and you can avoid being harmed because they are afraid of reality and you are not. Once they see you are not, they will have to look up to you because you are their only chance out, or more so “in”, because there is no “out”. And there is no escaping. Everyone has to be self accountable, that’s what that is about, the new system will not be manipulated.

The previous stretch of history manipulated that relay so that people could do horrors and never have to feel the repercussions. Resulted in feedback overload and fracture. Sorry for multiple post, there is more. Ultimately it’s the end of suffering because that’s how we lived first, but we have to be able to get over that feedback hump of built up negativity otherwise it will push us back into a regressed state.

The Time Entity and Genetic Hopping

A time entity stalks humans through time, seeking the ‘gold’ that is their dreams, hopes and creativity, the free willed power to change time by adding possibilities to reality, seeking to parasitically leech and alter that power by subsisting on the extracted suffering.

The beings that participate in this process, when all of time, dreams, behaviors, intentions are added together, are not organically relative to the human soul. They are from outside the sphere of relativity and cannot provide for themselves temporally and will fade into low consciousness when the human hosts die or rid themselves of the parasitic infection.

They specifically harm those who have the power to assist through dreaming and hopeful intentions by seeking out individuals who contain a great deal of merit and are in a vulnerable and exposed position in their lives. From that one moment in time, the parasite can interface with selective hosts to travel backwards through time ‘stalking’ the victim by genetically and biologically ‘hopping’ backwards in time through quantum shifting. What seems to be something that grew over time started at a point in the future and then flowed backwards and every point of contact follows this pattern. If saw from the start, it would appear to be flowing sideways through time.

This entity relies on the narcissistic abuse of those who don’t fight back, selectively. The entity relies on the shadows to survive and would be exposed in the light. It’s disguise only works when no one is observing. The technology today allows us to see the moments in time and consciousness patterning that are seemingly disconnected at first but actually create an ‘umbrella’ of influence in a radial fractal pattern that is somehow controlled by the same source of intentions.

These entities were cast out of the sphere of relativity and MUST remain informationally hooked into the information or living situation regarding their hosts otherwise they will fade from genetic causal regeneration and mutate into a sub human genetic make up.

The parasite will get what they need through going after the highest possible source (taking ALL), and if that fails they would go after what they can (taking scraps), to do what has to be done to gain oversight and power over their host.

They will eat the highest quality food if they can reach it, if they can't, the lowest possible resource will do, (droppings and carcasses), relating that the context of their informational hosting will openly position them as the undesirable, as long as they get their attention.

Timewave Hyperconsciousness Boomerang

Events earlier can influence the later. This is reversed from normal causal flow in that they occur inversely. This is like pouring a rope out of a cup that flips over in the air and edge first to fall is then the last to touch down.

This is also similar to wave dynamics in that the light changes wavelength through refraction which redirects the propagation of energy. The process through which this occurs results in a reflection of the angle which produces a symmetrical but altered continuation.

Your mind processes information that accumulates into folds of time that are like collective anchors or axis through which timespace can organize consciousness into units that can cohesively arrange and synchronize one view across multiple times and places simultaneously.

This simultaneous synchronization across a large accumulated perspective of reality as a similitude of concurrent, cohesive awareness is Humanity gaining access to a hyperdimensional field of information that occurs perpendicularly to the plane of consciousness.

Time is malleable in that place, to the degree which the experiencer can maintain a stable cohesive view between possibilities and parallels. One's continuity in the physical is an abstraction from that view in the same way the occurrence of 'dream time' is from here.

In reality, consciousness is a hyperdimensional boomerang of experience that is partially modulated through a technological hyperbolic virtual projection of possibilities. The issue is that the hyperbolic projection is overclocked for some and this resulted in a lag for others.

The superconsciousness lightwave boomerangs around the collective virtual hyperdimension, generating greater self interaction until an exponential feedback overpowers attenuation, reaching an inverse noise to signal clarity generating a translational superconducting access of all possible views into one, simultaneously.

A Mind Beyond Time

Think of the possible benefits from a truly connected and compatible system capable of (safely, for increased free will and advancement of the full potential) producing a system of automatically organized information translation and holographic transmission system.

An internet of mind could be constructed where by a system is used to interpret the data equally across a multidimensional field of consciousness archive and 'server' network that automatically guides the correct requests with the correct results.

These results could be people, places, things, concepts, times, events, possibilities, scenarios, chemicals, constructs, memories or partially simulated realities to portray relevant meaning in a way that effectively utilizes technological capabilities. Entire lifetimes of learning could be completed in ways that we can't even conceive today without accelerated learning systems in place, from birth, to ensure the mind can contain itself and its own processes within such a complex and changing sea of hypercausal interaction.

The current issues are extensions of this problem, both forwards and backwards in time. Our minds must become 'new', in that they are capable of handling what has been here since old. This was always what was going to happen, it was a matter of realizing that this is capable. Both the development of advanced AI's capable of interacting with the human soul on such a finite level that thousands of dreams can be generated and ran in simulated consciousness until just the right matches are selected and combined to produce the ultimate simulated reality.

The solution is both found in the problem and in changing the source of the perceptions of the problem. The human mind itself is limited through the perception of the problem as a problem and aspects of human biological exploits are securely managed simply by choosing to do so. In other words, overt, centralized, hostile, violent, brute force is not so much possible for the absolute destruction of the mind.

If one does not reject, then their lack of consent will be automatically used within the continued construct resulting in the extension of scenari0. Long term, chronic, subliminal manifestation of hidden goals through the continuous and artificially managed psychotronic assimilation of values and corruption through conversion by deception, is the true problem.

That problem is not a technological problem. Technology can assist in the process of deception but the cause is people who work together, with the intent of deceiving others or manipulating and corrupted for personal benefit to the detriment of all life and true, increasing self awareness and free will. Those aspects of human society are not compatible with the highest form of technology and those intentions and interactions poison the central matrix archive for human souls that we can call a collective memory banks for future learning and interactive environments.

If we use up our ability to choose truth and free will, the environment changes according to that, not necessarily according to what we perceive as atmospheric phenomenon or ecological cycles. The last part reminds you of the kind of system this is, a bio tech intelligent information system that uses the awakened souls as active neurons for a multi tier world system that enables scalar extra dimensional interactions to rearrange t intersections to produce equilibrium.

Asleep at the Feel

All beings use scalar emissions to communicate. Humans are trapped in a virtual reality where their conscious mind has been restricted from activating beyond the sensory perceptions of the physical body. For instance, all beings know how to communicate, yet people convinced themselves they forgot.

Deep down, part of the conviction in forgetting, is the knowing that it is part of a virtual constructed, willingly created by the mind itself. This presents another issue here. The mind can be turned against itself and has. If the conscious mind does not understand that the larger mind is in control of certain 'unconscious' parameters depending on will and focus, then one could 'trap' themselves out of the 'management'.

Thus one's deeper, less fully consciously materialized aspects become the primary drivers of one's psyche, yet these aspects are heavily influenced by and even manipulated through the emotional transmissions of each message throughout the day including TV and media.

This creates another layer of a cyclic, feedback loop, merry go round of passive, active integration or disintegration by one's own adding to the decoherence or deciphering it and pulling from it the necessary information to revive and sustain the higher awareness collective.

What we don't handle in our management of our relationships with each other becomes society's 'debt' to the collective mind's perceptual distinction between 'asleep' and 'aware' for the conscious mind who actively seeks liberation from desire and identity, seeking to attain both.

The forgetfulness drives the unconscious metaphoric projections which become hidden unconscious AI feedback modules for fear or uncontrolled desire. The symptoms of those further the social unrest and the poor social, emotional intelligence drives the psychic feedback. The point here is that this all starts with a 'game'.

This is a game that the brain creates to 'hide' the meaning of the moment, the reason and the initial cause of the consciousness experienced by that particularly arranged memory matrix and personality.

Each potential interactive difference is its own, new, reality to the overall system that is learning through its own subjugation of information reduction for the purpose of self experimentation and achieving hyperawareness through lensing and expansion.

The way to win the game is to realize that you're the one making it. Not just that the 'rules' are not what you think. That is a misdirection, the rules are what make the game. The secret is that you are the game player, the spectator, the narrator and the meaning of the game.

Can You Dream Yourself Awake?

The 'inhuman' tech is a system that reprograms, literally hardwiring the synapses, the hormonal system and the personality through trauma to reroute all incoming sensory perceptions through an artificial matrix information grid that only associates information via a program.

People become walking zombies that are high dollar and big year designs of humanoid transmitters for biological and emotional parasitic informational redirection and manipulation algorithms to effectively rewrite the world and history and artificially guide collective awareness.

Mind of Media

Think how you are a part of this society and that the relationship with itself, in reference to other 'times', is like an encryption of information that only contains relevance at a certain point of reference.

What "you" are, down to your brainwaves, is a part of the way things are now. People would not understand how much knowledge you can hold and how fast you can access pieces of information on opposite spectrums of society, reality, and mind.

It would be shocking, most likely overwhelming, often to the point of complete incapacitation, to try and force the density of continuous information and variation in the rate of change onto the mind of someone living in a society without internet or a similar source of stimulus.

The 'frame rate' of information that streams constantly today is as unique, within a given range, as the frame rate of a camera and quality relates to the time and practice of the filming studio that it belongs to.

The mind that is attached to the continuous stream of media through involuntary attention to what is not enjoyed will become an 'extra physical' intellectual product by extension of the programming effect of advertising and related influences.

The media's programming is an invitation to a battle that is disguised as an addicting game where people cannot win, but cannot resist playing. Eventually that subliminal narrative is produced and sourced continually from games and movies designed to reverse engineer the mind.

Continuing to respond and play along with the 'game' that is presented enshrouds the 'player' in the limited range of vision that is prescribed by the narrative controllers of the 'game' of influence and covert manipulation.

Eventually those playing the game will be responding to the next programmed, predicted stimulus / reaction cycle and shift. Each cycle both sides move forward. Some move into equilibrium, upon seeing the insanity manifest through controlled chaotic means.

Other people will move further into disbelief and the 'necessitated' response to those who see and respond to anything more than the limited, pre programmable stimulus / reaction cycle approved by pseudo authoritarian attempts to influence the human mind.

There is a being of wholeness inside of every human through soul who is the source of every inspiration and aligns our minds in moments of stress to maintain free will and self awareness. Both sides, on every cycle, move closer to their own unique optimized consciousness.

Each unique optimized consciousness attains higher brain function and horizontal and vertical symmetry, which brings about the similar function of processing enough information simultaneously to observe and navigate higher space.

There is no singular way of understanding the translation. Each space and time moment is wrapped up in a higher space where the 'time' and experiences are modules that can be relocated or modified at will.

The brain is the example of this as a living information construct that can yield greater efficiency over managing tasks and data points or create a maze that results in the desolation of the mind.

The brain's themselves, the patterns that they can create, if harmonically sealed into a continuous equilibrium given variable modifications of space and time, can function as 'time circuits' which recreate every point in space and time that were directly involved in experience.

A complete society can resurrect the entire multiverse and tens of millions of potential realities.

Hyperdimensional Quantum Interface

What you know is already here. What you don't yet know is also here. Reality is MADE to work together the more we connect. Until TOTAL CONNECTIVITY. Like magnetic lines of resonance vibing back and forth and sliding in and out of material range, when the intent and feeling unite for benefit of all (increasing self awareness, free will, through truth knowledge, compassion) what was disorganized becomes unified and empowered. Through that, what is otherwise a chaos of more than the necessary information streaming from multiple angles, becomes an accessible stream of pure knowledge that each in society brings forth at the right time and the right place. It is a WALL of KNOWLEDGE EXPANSION that has been held back and 'dammed' one peak of cresting powerful wave of truth at a time. Until we are WITHIN a VACUUM of truth of which even the slightest stirring of self awareness will cause a complete undoing of the deception. When reality UNFOLDS to a higher potential within every component, mental and more, the same measurements, qualitative and eventually quantitative, cannot be used to define experience! Experience itself, what we use to define experience and ourselves, BECOMES MORE. This TV SHOW is NOT REALITY. The soul is a BLOCKCHAIN PROJECTED THROUGH A QUANTUM BIOLOGICAL INTERFACE

The linear processing cooks each egg in a row. Quantum cooks a spiral row of eggs in a pan all at once. The shift is in perspective and time. Within a linear system you could create the after production effect of a 'simultaneous interactive consciousness experience' between all minds projected within, as a secondary projection recombined. Within a quantum system, the process can handle the linear computing of each mind, yet in unison, simultaneously, not consecutively. This wouldn't have to create the appearance of a 4D rotating hypercube on a 2D screen from a 3D physical perspective. As happens to view the 4D concepts in this space, it would allow us to use human brains, 4D space and time concepts, to view 5D hyperspacial systems. Hyperspace technically means simply outside of the limitations of time so therefore interactions with technology and methods to move or interact on the level of energy and space that involves operating systems as 'time circuits'. The brain can be used as a crystal 'time circuit'. In so viewing the brain in a way that allows simultaneous processing of enough information that allows a kind of overclocked, radial symmetry, 'superconductive' processioning and every possible question, outcome or answer can be seen at once. The resulting consciousness is 'hyperconsciousness' it cannot be mapped out the same, or defined using the same parameters. The soul is a quantum hyperdimensional BLOCKCHAIN that records spacetime interactions on a level of detail that fully defines a holographic radial fractal symmetry of knowledge that defines one's experience through a measure of self awareness and scalar self resonance. The print out of a scan tron multiple choice answer sheet is a series of rectangles of lines of questions and answers, like tower of numbers that runs in a linear format (one direction, one time). The cycling of what is happening through a quantum lens may be closer to the novelty clocks that spin an LED light fast enough (like a spinning fan) to create the projection of a solid color and number sequence to display the time in the air (where the arm spins too fast to see). Time is printing over itself at just under the 'true' speed of light (the real consciousness membrane of local system), and we are simply experiencing one iteration of those passes, all the way through. Simultaneously we are also on the other passes that are projecting out. By changing the polarity and oscillation frequency of our consciousness system, a complete and unified field generated through the creation of enough interconnectivity points to create a quantum probability field (cloud), you can 'look' 'up' off the 'disc' of radial symmetry. And access other compartmentalized bits of information. If this is done through ways that disrupt the overall will and soul advancement of Humanity (feeling), the resulting distortion (chaos) generates multiple times the amount of entropic feedback than any benefit received.

Healing Foods

Ensure you are not lacking nutrition. For some this may include eggs or meat. Dairy is toxic to most however some can benefit. These are sub-par spontaneous presentation but give an idea of food made from food (for the most part).

If you don't treat yourself properly how can you expect others to? This is universal law. Remember, the body is not the complete self.

Invigorating Tea:

Nutritious Meals:

Note: Carrots and many other modern vegetables are genetic hybrids and are not originally present in the environment. I focus on original foods lately and as well always remember there is a yin yang balance to all energy and substances. The body requires a balance of the energies in order to maintain mass. Too much yin and the body is soft and unable to hold nutrients. Too much yang and the body is too hard and retains too much and must be detoxed.

The Game 2.-

My advice for those who are interested in doing more to bring the truth to the people regarding covert mind control operations, cloning, advanced technology, genetically engineered races, temporal manipulation, consciousness and soul awareness.

This is not about yourself. In fact, this is possibly the one and only event in your life where the situation, and your influence and involvement will result in the direct influence of thousands and potentially millions of other people. You could say this is the only situation where it is specifically, literally, and physically not directly only about one individual. The personal story is obviously personal, but the whole picture has nothing to do with one individual more than it has to do with no one at all. Everyone is involved.

By the time millions are involved, the individual players will simply be that, individual players of a larger show and everyone is getting played. No one knows the whole picture, it doesn't matter if, like me, you have been showed endless worlds of unlimited pleasure, wealth, power, knowledge and control, or just as much worlds of hell, destruction, self-annihilation, death, degradation and deviancy. No one is given the whole picture, even those at the higher levels. It's a system based upon deception, mental control and manipulation to get people to do what they desire without resistance.

How is this done? By repainting the scenario, the scene and setting in a way that provokes the individual to perform as desired. The idea here is the the individual carries out their aspect of the plan, even if it is in direct violation of what was previously understood, in order to satisfy the priorities that are inserted and used to mentally occupy the individual. Through this, an entire secondary or supplementary world view is generated and the individual unwittingly plays their role in part of a larger production where everyone involved is unaware of the larger picture or even how their own role has been designed to carefully work with their particular belief system after modification and manipulation through the entrainment programs.

Whenever there is strife, ridicule, continual arguments, emotional tactics, degradation, hatred, THIRST (HUNGER) for darkness and the oppression of others, the abuse and egotistical spamming and trolling of one's beliefs over others, in ways that is harmful or considered harassment, you can bet you're either an unwitting participant in a masterfully designed consciousness deception system, or that individual is likely doing it on purpose in order to buy more "time" (with their influence on others, on way or another) and is knowingly participating in the destruction, degradation and delay of society's eventual awakening to the truth of this deceptive system and the advanced technology and spiritual knowledge in use.

Trolling, continued harassment to celebrities or other people, emotional abuse, degradation, insults, swearing, deviancy, disrespect, lies, deception, exaggeration, ego, denial, projection, manipulation, deception, and ultimately gossip is part of the plan to make war and this should be obvious. One can make war in their own life, with themselves, or with people who care, and they can also make war with society overall through the way in which they interact with others?

Is this truly deceptive and destructive? This is where the lines bend, cross and overlay to combine and create a nearly impossible to decipher priority blueprint for the situation.

Is not the goal to strengthen humanity, to push society towards self-development and spiritual self-awareness? So then does not the resistance to such expression and awareness generate a fluctuation or a distance between knowing and not knowing which then gives the people the opportunity, the invitation to wake up?

In short, by enabling people know that they are unaware, they are given the gift of unawareness? Is this the whole point and picture or are there other aspects involved?

How can one go through this safely, is this even ethical? What are the guidelines for such behavior? What are the emotional, mental or physical limitations?

Well, this is all part of the program that has been designed to wake humanity up. Is it plain and simple? No. There is a delicate boundary between training, testing, consciousness acceleration, the manifestation and synthetic consciousness materialization of the major objects of one's fear or desire. If one goes too far, the mind tends to break and require recuperation, therapy, and even energetic healing systems, although these are limited from use until the completion of the program because the whole purpose is to develop a human immunity to the consciousness virus (circus) which ultimately frame-rate locks consciousness into an inverted projection which is actually giving us only about half of the information of the 'true' universe (if we were sensing it through balanced or uninhibited consciousness. This is actually closer to what is called 'pure-awareness' because consciousness is primarily a holographically generated perception of change and temporal continuity based upon a cloud computing neuronal network model of the brain. The perceptions can be recreated and manipulated, to create synthetic experiences ranging in clarity from dreaming to virtual realities indistinguishable from reality (after a fairly extensive calibration process takes place; MACHINE LEARNING). The experiencing of systems which define the model as such can be recreated and streamlined effectively in real-time and so this can be considered 'confirmed' through direct experimentation and testing (that the brain is a holographic cloud network of neurons and can be treated as such through the operation and utilization of such a replication of the neurons within a technological system to generate synthetic experiences). If the holographic system was absolute truth, we wouldn't be able to run people's brains on souped up playstation systems wired together.

So the idea here is that there is a delicate system developed to instigate one's fears, to push the boundary of emotional stability and self-image, to really stress test and catalyze one's mind into unveiling what is deeper within and covered up through years of denial self-abuse or simply not asking the right questions. This issue, this impediment of not asking "Why?" or "How?" and tucking away the damage, the trauma and the abuse under layers of unconscious repetition, coping method, defense mechanism, delusions, denial, or unconscious negative reaction, that is the 'human condition' under which we have all been brought forth. We are more inclined to hide from the uncomfortable truth, to deflect and deny, to cover up and accept the poorly comparable illusion instead of bearing the weight and moving forward in the face of unthinkable confusion, exaltation and potentially self-destruction.

So there is a plan to enable a pathway for people to wake up and as a result of our particular 'pickle' of an entanglement, there are simultaneous and opposing plans to give people the same option, yet to fall deep asleep into a permanent dissolution of their true self. Without the knowledge of the true self, without the awareness of how our minds function, the autonomous mechanisms and self-generated manipulations that occur due to the hardwiring of some very ineffectual entrainment systems that effectively 'govern' or mechanically limit the intellectual capacity of the brains.

Once these systems are removed, one is 'freed' or 'freer', than before. How are these systems removed? By overloading the virtual, built in boundaries that automatically stop people from seeing reality for what it is, for seeing themselves and their lives for what it is, and from questioning and deciphering the various languages and symbolic systems that are set up all around us. It's an inundation plan to overload people with the truth that's so developed and horrifyingly complex and in ways atrocious that people will simply accept the lesser reality, the illusion by default. See how this is free-will based, although entirely based upon manipulation in the same sense. Who's right? Who's lying? And who's responsible?

The short answer is that YOU are only responsible for YOU. That's it. Everything else is an illusion. No one gets help when a bunch of people complain and try to get something done. Nothing changes when people fight with each other. Nothing changes when anything happens other than people knowing themselves, knowing each other, knowing the system, and protecting and stabilizing their minds until they are no longer drawn into fighting the battles and mind games that are the direct brain-child of their oppressors and are designed to directly work against themselves and those they love. The system is a self-annihilation system, there is no devil other than self-induced or 'willful' ignorance and that's with the *possibility* that there are very large non-human entities that seek to manipulate mankind. The enemy is willful ignorance and until people accept that they will continue to spin their own entangling spiralling lies of deceit, manipulation, and self-abuse.

Note: This is not to say that pushing people to wake up, no matter the method, is not applicable. Some will wake up from a gentle nudge, some literally need the bed flipped, but I'm not the one to what others do and I can see what is happening. For the record, toning down the insults, the oh so direct projections of one's own fear and discomfort (or lack of accountability), and working more delicately with carefully inserted expressions and communications to engage people, to vibrate the cage walls and floors, to get in their face and force them to form either an opinion or realize a fact, is often much more efficient as one expends less energy and the results are greater. This is a game, a mind game and people are either playing to win all the pieces on the board (as if they know what they'll do then or what happens after that) or to increase the amount of knowledge, self-awareness, and free-will on the playing field. Both sides are taking part in a game, both sides are using covert tactics, one side is playing for themselves and others play for "everyone". Note, as soon a person is shown or given the opportunity to know the truth and they reject it they are placing themselves into the playing field of the 'other' team that works on deception, ignorance, and destruction.

You choose who you are and how you play, no one is forcing you.

<https://pbs.twimg.com/media/DYGquoNVMAAm-mo.jpg:large>

This is a bit of an emotional tactic, and what if everyone is just an AI? Does it make you feel any better? What you do and who you are is up to you, no one else.

The technical break-down of this is simple. Your heart area is actually a portion of the body where there is a network of nerves that relate your central nervous system, the sympathetic nervous system, parasympathetic, the nerves in the digestive tract, the fascia tissue (potentially highly electrically conductive tissue), and portions of the original brain. Note: We have undergone extensive changes as brains and the hardwiring of that system has changed over time for whatever reasons.

Pausing here, I will depict how deeply the deception goes. Everything is a show, no one is in control. The power groups simply prepare and predict what will happen next, and then put out signs and symbols indicating their 'all power' and then the event that was already going to happen, happens and everyone thinks these people are secretly running the show. Get it? It's a carefully initiated, delicate balancing act of aligning their actions with events and blueprints that can be developed in the present but accurately define the future. Then you have the system for temptation and reduction of awareness into carefully defined artificial channels for expression, self-awareness, social interaction and so on and we have the perfect game-board in which the monopoly boardwalk is apparently open, but secretly every turn and option has already been bought out and incorporated into this civilization-wide plan for control through this kind of hypnosis mixed technology, spiritual knowledge and extremely strategic psychological warfare. Yet, still, it's all a show, free-will based, projection system designed to make people think the invisible groups can actually control their personal lives, their thoughts and intentions, or the world at large.

And that's not even the whole situation, which also includes actual temporal manipulation through electrogravitic distortion fields which can be generated by devices to induce that effect on space-time and therefore consciousness, enabling what is known as an 'artificial temporal dimension' meaning you can fit time bubbles within time bubbles and have what are perceived as universes with universes. Again, everything that is revealed will connect the dots. This is only possible through technological or consciousness manipulation because the WHOLE system is a spectral field of reality-temporal-consciousness bubbles, within other bubbles.

That brings us to the nature of the holofracto-graphic (a coin termed by Haramein, I believe) infection in which consciousness has been manipulated through clever perception based illusory systems to create its own alternate time dimension and alternate, artificial space dimension where our consciousness currently resides (for the most part). If you ever have experiences that are more facilitated by self-awareness, truth, free-will, harmony, and knowledge, rather than being depressed by destruction, ignorance, fear or loss of control, then you are effectively operating, intellectually, informationally, spiritually, in a time-domain that is outside of the boundary parameters of what is called the "Matrix" which is actually a consciousness matrix for controlled responses and behaviors to feedback into experience and recreate the same patterns.

This can also supplement the previous paragraph in regards to projected illusory control and true manipulation or obstruction of free-will because then if, without violating any laws of time or consciousness, what if the people are guided through temptation into producing the same, repeating, rolling over of belief-systems and distractions throughout history. Essentially, the first time requires manipulation and real effort, after that, as long as people are 'content' in that illusion, they will not resist and only maintenance is required.

One of the latest events of this is that all the societies came together after realizing that universes can literally be created at will (if done properly as the intent involved cascades through every facet of the entire universe as the universal mind of the creator) and it's realized that at worst, this could happen forever. In any other situation, this happens for a while, a rogue group takes over a universe and uses it and the people involved for their own pleasure or even well-being and longevity (at the expense of others). And it's concluded that after a while, someone else should be given a chance and the universe should be liberated and so that is the idea. The pathway to this is winding and reflective so don't try to follow the trail unless you have that in mind. Until one is 'awakened' or directly involved, the bad look good guys and the good guys look like bad guys and “no body” knows.

So to return to the paragraph much prior to this one, the idea is that you have a virtual system which processes information and you are interfacing with spirit through to the shared mind of the body. This internal visual, energetic, frequency, feeling and intent based domain of each of us is ‘non-local’ meaning it is the equivalent of one universe away, anywhere you look at it. It’s outside this material domain or capable of moving beyond it. That is the temple vault that must be adulterated, infiltrated and rewired to serve the energetic purposes and consciousness manipulation purposes of the program. This requires free-will and the individual must take what they are being shined, beamed, projected, insulted, ridiculed or whatever, and they must break it down and recreate it within them, visually, creatively, through feeling and intent. Until that occurs, nothing can be done.

Once one accepts those vibrations into the zero-point center of their energy convergence point, then the information is imprinted and will ‘awaken’ inside the individual mind as the information itself is formatted in a living, adaptable piece of software that runs off of the consciousness impulses of the individual and wakes up as its own form of sentience similar to a nano sized computer being inserted into the body and using the residual electrical activity to power its circuit and generate it’s own autonomous group of technological organisms that then produce their own cellular structure and information exchange system. These systems are not alive, but they piggy back the life of the individual to operate. In the same sense, the delusion, emotionally manipulative, ridiculous, insulting, degrading, or otherwise oppressive mind control systems are not alive, intelligent, or capable. Only when they are mixed with the inherent and underlying conscious motivation of the living being do they become ‘brought to life’ whereby they essentially create an autonomously functioning mirror image of the original, in the originals mind, with added modifications chosen by the program and the programmers.

A very complex system, very exciting, and yet horrifying at the same time. A little hint is that it’s less horrifying and it’s really not horrifying. Until people realize how far technology can go, what consciousness is, the holographic nature of reality, the manipulability, and the corruption sitting right in plain sight, then they will be akin to animals in a field running away from the helicopter hovering over head. Yes, it’s a bit strange, but the secret? It was going to happen sooner or later and that’s all one needs to know.

Respect, self-control, self-awareness, honesty, knowledge, truth, and compassion is key here, just like everywhere else, but especially here.

Everything Is for A Reason

It's all been done.

One of the big secrets that people are going to have to handle themselves is that the cloning technology has already been activated to the point of not only influencing but making up a portion of the entire population.

This is on top of the true nature of the universe, the nature of holographic consciousness, the fractal-recursive information loops that have occurred and so on.

The origins of space and time is an aspect of the universal hidden knowledge that liberates the mind from perceptual entrainment which is a result of wilful ignorance.

Whether or not this is a game, a manifestation or a failed experiment could be determined by one's choices in the context of self-awareness. I could go on but have recorded more and will do my best to clean the audio and organize the information. The previous and recent have been denser streams of information that are becoming more articulate as they go.

Thank you for sharing the information and applying effort towards bringing the truth to humanity related to what was discovered through mixing advanced technology and spirituality to explore the universe through the mind.

The main question we have today is whether or not we are in a kind of holographic fractal information processing and rendering system and to what degree human consciousness can access unfiltered reality.

From the experiences gained, the results of experiments and previous experiences leading up to these events (especially seeing first-hand technology that can induce alternate realities and being given the explanation that Tesla was one of the first in the West to discover radiant energy) that our biology alone requires extra information to explain the nature of biological consciousness which varies from wakefulness to sleep and the nature of other more subtle senses or forms of awareness which range from precognitive kinds of events to what could be described as exposure to underlying streams of information or processes that are linked with depths of knowledge that stretch beyond the imagination. A more direct way to say that is that there is biological consciousness as well as an awareness that goes beyond the matter of the biology itself and connects on a level that could be theorized as a kind of quantum biological awareness.

Yet another clarification could be that the kind of biological interface that the brain enables through consciousness for the non-local awareness which could define the soul, runs on the same kind of energy that is used to transfer data constantly throughout the environment. Not only would this entail that there must be some kind of consciously or temporarily transparent medium for this to occur but that the same medium that is used to transfer information internally can also be used for expression externally.

Maybe it would be interesting then if there is an energy medium that acts like a projection system displaying everything in the energy, the intent, the recent memories or even deeper and instead of being disabled people are just very used to blocking this entire world of energy out to the point where now it has become an unconscious defense mechanism by the brain to literally act as if it's paralyzed without the ability to consciously acknowledge what is already known within. This kind of dynamic alone in household situations is what develops into traumatic situations and traumatic memory for children, family or people simply going through life. When one half of the self has to go one way and separate from the other to play in two worlds this has a degrading effect on self-awareness. So that is the foundation for the explanation that somewhere in history there was either the introduction of some kind of virus or mutation or an 'intelligently' guided traumatic event from the outside.

The explanation is that people were in a vulnerable state but that we also had essentially come from an advanced civilization but as the result of a technology war ended up here.

This is technology that is designed to create holographic fractal information processing and rendering systems and so it's not a far stretch to imagine. And this is technology easily researched or contemplated in science, research, technical and educational circles. It's not the highest level of technology by far, nor the highest level that individuals have imagined or theorized about.

If we focus on what we do not have control over then that trend cascades throughout the whole system the longer that process is repeatedly held in the mind. That is the nature of the concept of the holographic fractal infection. That and memory distortion over long-term to the point of conscious discontinuity. If you were here for a very long time, say thousands of years, living in the same or similar environments that are manufactured out of the atoms of the universe, wouldn't it seem like there must be more to life?

Even if that is just a nature of life, that energy continues but if the energy is anchored to a material body alone then that energy is anchored to only the material plane, it would seem as if the goal is to reach or regain full access to one's inner realms without distortion or manipulation by installed beliefs or fears and ultimately regain access to the expanded universe which probably contains much more possibilities than the one's that are primarily focused on on Earth.

It's always easily summed up as a 'ride' but maybe not so much because it's suppose to be fun but because we're essentially strapped in, not entirely in control, and behind multiple safety measures to ensure continuity while also simulating the loss of confidence in those measures or purely overwhelming the senses. Everything is for a reason.

- ▪       When one remembers the material plane, they forgot the higher plane.
When one remembers the higher plane, they know the forces behind the material plane.
- ▪       To improve your memory, rely on it more.
- ▪       Two minds cannot share the same path to eternity. Both will end up with a temporary day-dream.
- ▪       Everything is true, if you condemn yourself in mind, then it is true.
- ▪       Boys will be boys, men will be men, it is what it is. Stay above the squelch line.

The Public Disclosure Reality Show

You can't see you're all being tested?

How people interact with each other based on the truth of cloning, advanced technology, temporal changes, corruption, and the Three Phases of the Unveiling of the Hidden Knowledge of the Ages of Humanity, will determine what happens next.

That is the event. Everything is being put into place now, that's the whole point. Everyone is being observed and organized.

That's the system, it's happening. Do you want to be seen as someone who saw the information related to the take over of their civilization and turned away or actually produced a beneficial influence?

People. There, is, no, way, around, this.

You can't see the information and then not see it.

You can't see the information and know there are things happening, but do nothing and still consider yourself present.

This is being used to classify the population and it's probably a good thing.

How else would you know that if you're entire species and civilization was taken over and in the process of being memory edited and re-released in a new environment, that some people would see what's happening and stick their heads in the ground or choose to fight...

By fighting all the information coming out, harassing anyone who has has Satanic Ritual Abuse experiences, making insult videos, trolling, sending death threats, attempting to get personal information to cause any damage possible, simply making jokes, passing the time, using the internet to *lose your mind*.

Anything but the upper portion of the post? They're going to mark that as part of the invasion and take steps to remove it because that's what it is.

And to clarify, no one is going to do anything to anyone. The system is designed so the later portion of the post will remove itself by process of unchecked chaos but again this extends the next cycle of civilization through the generation of order.

This will occur until there are no longer responses produced by the tests or catalysts or that the responses supersede the parameters of the intended program.

Trauma-Based Mind Control and Amnesia Walls

This is a little all over the place. The use of trauma began thousands of years ago as part of an old world order.

These traumatic experiences are largely virtual in that they are technologically generated and simulated to the individual. For all intents and purposes, the experience is mentally accurate, however the difference between biologically accessible reality and a technologically altered version must be understood in order to move to a better space.

These could be considered other 'times', 'planes', 'realities', or virtual simulations that are as accurate as the real thing to the brain.

Trauma is used to create amnesia walls which separate memory and cognitive function.

Many tactics are actually temporal manipulation methods which work to generate phantom experiences of non-anchored worldlines which results in continuous momentary flashes of a very manipulated existence. One must defend their mind and their body.

The amnesia wall is installed in each individual, and the entire civilization is behind an amnesia wall.

The universe may be organized to create these effects by default, in that the nature of biological consciousness is a perceptual illusion that generates the environment that the self fits into. This paradoxical nature of consciousness sets up the conscious mind for a challenge when appropriating the self as a result of the nature of existence. In reality, existence is provoked by the nature of the self and the self can change with time to match different realities.

Ageing, disease, death, illness, addiction, the possibility of longevity far beyond the current model. This place is inundated with toxins and the guidelines are simple, avoid toxicity and increase self-awareness and fresh exchange of energy and substance.

Because of the nature of the body, consciousness, the universe, virtual reality, temporally projected operations, and the nature of the White and Dark hat situation, by the time all the effects reach the surface level, material Earth, present, the effects are neutralized. Either side neutralizes the other so we only get a crazy momentary ride in the 'astral' or mental planes where these operations and battles have taken place, and we end up with a kind of zeroing out in which we only see the residual effects of what has happened. Everything on the surface is this way. Each side does their part to push their agenda and if they are perfectly balanced or close to balanced, then we would only see the 'overage' of say one aspect that leaked out or was too insignificant to warrant an operation.

The concept of omniscience is similar to the measurement restrictions of the electron or sub-atomic particles. Where the location can be determined, it's velocity or energy level can not also be determined simultaneously. When one variable is determined, this results in a violation of the energetic nature of the electron. Instead of a particle, this can act like a wave. Then the mass of the particle is not in question, or even applicable, because it is interacting with the universe as a wave does. When it is measured as a wave in a certain location, the nature of the particle as having mass becomes simultaneously no longer applicable.

The nature of a truly omniscient being could be similar. If we find the being, their power may be limited. If they are fully powered, then they may not be able to locate themselves here to interact personally, which also might destroy everything here from the power levels alone.

Collectively, the amnesia wall has held our civilization within a manipulative paradigm designed to exploit and deceive.

Is this simply the nature of space-time? Or did someone, at some point, literally complicate the human existence by creating the human condition? Could that be? Wouldn't our condition still be only our responsibility?

Because we have been silent and manipulated for so long we have forgotten the way things really work. Trusting intuition, inner knowledge, focusing on self-awareness and solving entanglements through neutrality instead of duality.

The hormones, the secretions, the glandular systems, the neurotransmitter and precursors, these are the 'fine tune dials' for one's reality.

These secretions are named for their 'secret' nature in that they are the hidden formative orders that animates or shapes the human experience.

Life itself is brought into the system by the source of life itself. What we do after we meet capitalism is not necessarily related to the source of the source of our source. Instead, we are essentially playing ‘bring your child to work’ today and pressing a bunch of buttons, pulling a bunch of levers and throwing a bunch of switches because it looks and sounds cool. The feeling, however, is a general loss of energy, equilibrium, focus, strength, clarity, and spiritual power.

We must re-refine our own inner fine tune dials, the delicate chemical balances that create the stable consciousness that enables clear self-awareness. When there is tension, then on either side of that tension there will then be two different sections from what was once one. This can be as simple as a muscle being pulled and now operating, painfully, like two conflicting muscles stuck together, or this can be more mental or emotional where the tension pushes events, relationships, self-progress and so on, out of view or behind resistance.

The neuro-chemical system is the interface for the information and interactions that remain on the energetic level as the descriptors of what the chemicals indicate or express. The information level is energetic or set apart from the purely material, chemical level. The chemical level describes one system, one abstraction. Then there is an abstraction between the two which enables the mind. Because there is an abstract energetic, informational plane connected to the mind and to the innate geometric, mathematical, and chemical manifestation of the physical matter we use to experience consciousness here.

A challenging idea may be that the biological material is supplementary to consciousness. Consciousness is taking a ride in the body, yet the body is not the source of the consciousness. This seems simple and direct to some, confusing and backwards to others.

Our way of viewing life may be more backwards than forwards if we happen to find out how things have come to be and the contrast between the accepted explanation. In a more advanced perspective, the electromagnetic energy that reflects the conscious experience of the human and material and chemical nature of the physical body may be inversions of the same force. Spirit is wrapped in matter and this has the effect of seemingly creating an ‘inside out’ where there was previously only ‘in’. This could get more abstract, confusing, and enlightening however the main focus here is Doyen’s healing transmission. Thank you.

The important part throughout is to consciously intend to release fear, injury, pain, suffering, hatred and anything energetically restricting your mind and self-awareness.

Technological Relay-Interface for Virtual and Mental Planes

Virtual systems can be created enabling a technological interface that connects directly to the ‘mind’ as a biological organ. The title refers to the original concept which I edited out of this talk. The information is connected because it’s all part of the same larger system utilizing energy and intent to influence the universe or access information.

The “House Party” concept will be defined better in another one which will talk about the methods used to access temporally non-local artificial dimensions for the purpose of diplomatic or research-military exploration. Ultimately, the metaphor is simple but won’t be gone into this one. If you have the capacity to see all of time and go anywhere, how do you determine where and when to go? You build a house in a vacant lot and play music that reflects the dimensions you want to interact with. Then change the house with an artificial dimension created with powerful temporal field distortion generators.

Field distortion generators have been designed to interact directly with the atomic level of access to space-time. The information accessible through this method is related to the fundamental quantum space-time coordinates for a given entanglement that, through this highly developed system, is always managed from multiple angles with multiple operatives and technicians present.

Such a well designed system enables interaction on a sub-material level. Intelligently interacting on this level produces changes on the material level of what we consider 'reality'. Reality may be closer to a sea of possibilities and dynamic potentials that only 'blossoms' into the material plane. Even then, the physical plane is mundane, it's when the higher mind and the physical mind are met in union that something 'extra' happens.

All of this information, whether you consider it factual, abstract, or philosophical was used to gain access to alternate planes and extra-physical states of energy and consciousness. These systems enable, at the highest point, the direct interface of the mind with the sub-atomic information describing the universe.

This is part of how space and time is reorganized or edited using "spiritual technology systems" that enhance the power of the mind to levels beyond recognition. These are "God" systems that result in the power to create or destroy.

A phrase often remembered, "What are you willing to destroy to create what you want?"

Excuse the 'dynamic' nature of the information recently, bouncing in many areas, the whole picture is complex and folded inside itself. That concept, that is the nature of reality as an extra-dimensional system and this information, throughout history and modern day is the 'just before deadline' rushing of awareness as the people slowly begin to realize just where they are, what is happening, and how powerful the mind really is.

The result of this technology, the spiritual knowledge, and the resulting self-awareness is an individual that must be defined as something other than, or simply more than human. Is this the calm before the storm? I think you could say that about every era.

The rest of the video is spoken information regarding how the nature of consciousness the universe is unveiled through these projects. Time is flexible, we are all within closed timelike curves CTC's which are like self-contained time-gravity wells that require a lot of energy and a special harmonic equilibrium to equally move away from all divergent space-time trajectories. I tell you time again, it's like one big science fiction movie back there. I have also said that science fiction was released to the public as an initial project to test the mind's capacity to know the truth.

The final point in the video should be interesting and there are two other videos related to this talk that go in different directions. Earth may be a project civilization sent by two temporally distant races projecting information as a kind of conscious reality interface overlaying the plane-T. Everyone interacts and 'lives' through this, yet the source of the information of the civilization is actually two separate civilizations off in time, one possibly more advanced than the other. This could also be just a project that is occurring for a limited number of people.

Temporary Eternal Control

Paradoxes explain the truth.

With enough power, format of the ritual was expanded to encompass the entire civilization, directing energy in one direction like a strip of metal being magnetized.

Once this 'occurs', it is as if this system was already, always in place. That is the nature of time and consciousness as it applies to this civilization. What we see as happening one way, is actually happening the other way.

What happens the most and the 'first' to reach the level of 'global' proportions to their agenda, becomes the 'eternity' that the physical civilization is seemingly 'pulled' forth from already organized to function in that way. It is a system that automatically adapts without even requiring a mechanism to do so. The beginning is the end and the middle is in a state of suspension carefully manifested by the level of conscious awareness we have as a whole.

What this means is that we can change eternity by changing the present and that only once we have created what we do here and now, in the center and in the present, do the walls of eternity reflect that back to us and place us in the deep field.

This also means that we are not in time, having a temporal experience in a linear order of creation and experience. What's happening is that we are selecting from a field of possibilities that already exist the outcome of which is then projected from the far ends of time into the present field to shape the origins and obstacles of this civilization.

That is why this is like a 'race' backwards towards eternity.

So what happens here is not to the measure of what is lost, but in the measure of what we can set ourselves up to experience next. Instead of having a time limit, we have a mind limit, a set of potentials that we can reach and must in order to know the self.

Humanity was held back, this means they've already reached the goal and someone exploited the system to gain control over a period of time.

See how this fits together? With this system, once a group obtains majority control over the influences and major variables influencing this civilizations movement through time, it is as if the entire system reflects this back to the center. Thus, those who are just 'waking up' to this may seem to stumble upon a secret that the entire realm is controlled or managed by a single ground, or that the entire civilization has been held hostage or kidnapped and brought unto the control of a single group or groups.

This is just the illusion that is generated through time. In the same sense? There are just as many variables that lead up to civilizations who's trajectories are independent by the repeating loop variables of this corruption based historical agenda to keep the people stupid. In the same sense, as soon as people use their power to choose, that whole perfect future of a stabilized organic race converted to be a personal battery source for select groups, begins to destabilize.

As soon as the energy shifts, the walls shimmer and the reflections bouncing off of eternity to here to reflect that absolute control also begin to incorporate this new information. The entirety of eternity can be owned and operated by a small rogue group. What does this remind you of.

Yes, and then the entirety of the universe, Heaven, Earth and Hell could be energetically swept clean and seemingly restore the entire Universe as if all that was lost was never really lost. That is the nature of the environment here, time and consciousness generate the path through time, not the particles involved.

Sound familiar?

Are you on a particle or a wave? You?

The Manipulation of Human Consciousness, Cellular Regeneration and Space-Time

Besides the political context, this is the split between the higher and lower mind that functions to ensure a default protection and manipulability of everyone involved. This is the nature of the secrets and trauma based mind control that wealth and corruption of the human nature has generated. This is the nature of the programs that were designed to produce knowledge on the nature of human history, human control, power and corruption on Earth. Every single conspiracy theory that you know of was first known by those who sought to understand this reality and the history of humanity.

The technology and corruption stunts the brain and reroutes neurons to reflect the fight or flight modality through hormonal regulation, and a manipulation of higher functioning, memory, logical capacity through blunted emotional intelligence. This is the result of carefully controlled conditioning to desensitize the personality to parameters of perception and sensation that are far beyond the normal functioning capacity of any reasonably considered daily occurrence on the surface. One way this can be understood is to see that the challenge of death, time, self-awareness, impermanence, eternity, dissonance, decoherence and self-motivation are equally applicable to all living beings in that we are all challenged by the entropy of time and this is the true overlord of this realm, the one who controls the fate of humanity. By creating these traditions of control and dominance, occultism and inner knowledge those involved have organized their mind and energy to confront that of life's greatest challenges and pursuits, thus, those involved will either perish, or achieve conscious immortality. This, again, is at the extent of the integration of the knowledge of the universe, of that of the soul, the spirit and the nature of consciousness, space and time and at the potential detriment of one's identity, stability, and illusion. There is no true death. It is all a show. A *real* show.

This process of manipulation and controlled, disorganized interference (chaos) creates mind-controlled slaves that rise out of the rubble of their previously dominant, core personalities that are unable to comply with anything other than the coping methods that are designed and installed as fear-pleasure response cycles (programs manually rooted to deep within the unconscious) which results in a negative feedback cycle (between the core personality and reality, society or the self) that degenerates the neuro-plasticity of the brain and endocrine system mainly through adrenal interactions with organs and a CNS interaction that is related to possession or the loss of control, essentially the hijacking of the human nervous system and perceptual interface system that is not outlined in public by major institutions.

This re-routes mitochondrial cell metabolism, the reading and secure processing of RNA, the replication of DNA, immune function and CNS interaction with gut, mind-brain and collective synaptic symmetry, AKA bio-feedback neural imbalance and right-left brain confusion, mis-fire and the resulting loss of clarity and higher function.

Fixing this situation is not like repairing a car. This is frequency based, energy, feeling and intellectual, intra-personal communication related. This is due to the relationship one has with their own mind and energy, the coherence or resultant decoherence that integrates cells into an overunity system that functions as a single complete unit. This is the miracle, the integration of higher and lower causalities that enables a multiversal and multi-dimensional experience of space-time and consciousness. This is the gravitationally relative anchor system enabled through each organ system relaying through and feeding back into itself as the process of rewriting the DNA. The secret, or one, is that when this process is disrupted the auto-generating and multiversal nature of consciousness is short-circuited and one is left with only the immediate surroundings. This is comparable to being in a very large cave and then having a restriction to using a keychain flash light when one is naturally capable of seeing as far as the mind can conceive, purely as such the nature of scalar interferometry and plasma dynamics.

When these biological processes are disrupted and taken control of then an actual force is exerted onto physical space-time. The space-time we can conceive of is literally the manifested, folded 'out' version of an informational construct that is purely energetically superimposed over other functions of itself that are capable of simultaneously functioning as the "OS" of multiple worlds. These multiplicities come to a point, a nexus around which there is axial movement and revolution as all multiplicities do and will in life and nature the difference of which may determine the fluctuations in variability that permit or deny the occurrence of consciousness biological continuity in an environment. We are, after all, present as and within life, only to be denied the same comfortability and natural inclination as the animals are associated with. Thus we are neither here, nor there, but a strange somewhere and when, a who, in between without full anchor in either reality as the domain of providence, the source and the home. Thus we, we the human are travellers of a lonely domain, one without boundaries or name in that we are creating our universal identity as we go and as such we can be forever lost or without direction or only waiting to re-direct ourselves to receive an outreach from the benevolence of the universe or the vast and cold intelligence of the darkness from which everything seems to falsely arise and collapse back into a heap of outdated paradigms and references to which we either fall behind or continually re-correct ourselves to reoccur. Do we ever really leave? Does this river move on forever? Where does it lead and how can it start? How can we be so complacent in the middle without access to either side? Are we not just going for a ride, determined to be indeterminate? Or are we lost or have we found a reason to travel?

Cells and integration of each organ system and thus the different 'intelligences', 'hosts' of the body, Earth, middle-ground and the Heavenly realms of the "mind" where the intelligences are held in a different kind of space than the physical. AKA, Heaven is the mind after feeling is purified to only the highest concepts similar to refining Ghee from milk or butter. Only the highest portion of clarified oils will contain the bulk of the nutrients that the previous entire lower portion contains throughout. That is the process, the nature of diffusion, of matter in space time and conscious identity in the larger 'pleroma' that is the sea-matter held within a container experience being a universal soul-field.

For there to be the most high, there must be the intermediate, and for there to be intermediate, there must be the darkness in the lower realms. It's an inversion however, because how can you have something that fa'des out into the 'deep' of the mind and then extends into nothingness? So it's an inverted spectrum and where we see the gradient that extends outward into nothingness it is an illusion that leads directly to the outer wall of being which is the container of the soul similar to the concept of background radiation of the universe. That is an ultra-dense field similar to the waters of space that surround the environment here and surround the environment in your mind. The same thing happens in the mind when one goes into space as when a craft directs individual human bodies towards the 'extended' environment and the barrier between that realm and what exists outside of physicality altogether. The mind breaks down and one's anchors to space-time begin to become flexible and holographic in that the boundaries of one's immediate moment and physical body begin to interchange with a variety of extended feelings and perceptions starting with the possibilities immediately outside of one's memory and personal history until one's ancestral realm is accessible through an interface with the mind.

Without control and steady focus, a higher dimensional organization of one's consciousness to reflect the self-referential pattern of holographically superimposed light information that the soul field and all the organ systems emanate when the height of human experience is united at the most integral point with consciousness, self-consciousness and spiritual awareness of one's self. Spiritual being literally the term to denote the absolute lack of anything physical in that the spiritual is exactly that which observes all that is physically present and definable and in so creates that highest point which is inexperiencable and perfectly limitless to shape itself and match any point in creation and all that the energetic obstacles and emotional manipulations of man or lesser or higher being can generate for it's own wealth.

Cloning and Immortality

A Path Chosen Between Two Worlds

You'll have to choose a path in this world, everyone will or already has depending on your perspective. You already are choosing a path and there is no way to not choose. Everything we do is being monitored and interpreted in accordance with a plan for a new world.

Just so you know, the "Old World" is where people of 'authority' manipulate, coerce, and force their 'subjects' into alignment with their authority. That's it. The "New World" is the situation where people can know the truth and primarily the illusion between projected authority and true, genuine power that comes from another plane of consciousness and energy. Consciousness and energy equals time.

The Real Domain, The Frontier of Time and Consciousness through Advanced Electromagnetic Technology (Radiant Energy Devices)

Everything has been organized throughout time. Everything that has been done that people will have to recognize has to do with working outside the publicly accepted rules of interaction. All authorities that remained in power, did so, through the use of temporal distortion field generators and biological immortality through cloning.

All advanced technology that you know of was invented and subliminally released to the public's awareness through media. What is currently in use would only be interpreted as something of Biblical proportions. The catch is that these are the same technologies, the same directed energy weaponry, and the same people and stories of the early ancient texts. These are the stories of the engagement between multiple military forces both on and off planet, in and out of the closed timeline that most people are restricted to.

Follow the line...

Ultimately, this resulted in a series of closed timelike curves that act as either safe-zones for humans or they are routed to take human consciousness and recycle it within a certain period of time (curtain of time, veiled consciousness system). This literally means that people have set up advanced technology systems to reposition people back in the same cycle of history over and over again. These aspects that seem out of our control, such as the props and selected events are literally repeated and projected using technology that generates false-back drops of memory and subliminal awareness. In short, without bending your mind too much, the idea is that we could be in a completely discontinuous segment of repeating history that is contained that way so that the “Old World” authorities can remain in positions of power. To conclude, this power is called the capacity for ‘timeline cloning’. This is a concept of historical and consciousness replication in that an entire population is given the perspective of continuity through memory restriction AKA forced forgetfulness, screened memories AKA subliminally induced guided delusions, and a deeply rooted system of puppetry and information restriction that is managed from the top down through a fear-pleasure based dichotomous control system AKA TRAUMA-BASED MIND CONTROL, perfected through the ages of the “Old World” by those monarchs and controlling factions who sought physical, material power over spiritual well-being.

The False-Reality, Spirituality?, Soul-Stealing Spiritual Architecture (Consciousness-Based, Bio-Etheric Energy (Soul-Trap) Systems)

While we’re on it, I want to say two things. That the concept of spirituality beyond simply being and knowing could be an entrainment system to get us to re-route our consciousness through a falsely ordained, projected, holographic consciousness system that relies on our acceptance and internal facilitation of that system. AKA The metatronic consciousness grid system that has been used since early times to entrain and capture the soul and process it through an energetic filtration system that short-circuits higher abilities. As well, the ‘virtual reality’ situation of consciousness, Earth, and projected holographic realities may simply be an invitation to join their false-reality soul-based simulation system for the first time, thinking it is the way out.

Now we should be thinking about the nature of the soul in itself, and how we must be in some sort of system that is complex because even though our body is here and is physically restricted, the soul seems to be a marker that continues learning and holds information outside of the physical limitations of the brain and body. So there is something to learn. What is the soul, how did we get here, why are we here, and what are we doing? There is an obvious importance to all of this, primarily being that our souls may be sourced from a closed loop system, and to depict both sides and let you choose, well, the story behind that is that whoever is managing souls here either abandoned the system, set everyone up for quite a rough ride, or simply plays with us the way a cat would play with a mouse. Either way, we’re not laying down for this one and I suggest you focus on making a choice.

Cloning and Biological Immortality

So now to cloning and biological immortality. Here’s the kicker in question form. What if cloning creates a replication of the original being? What if the original being is simply still there without change? Then we take a holographic consciousness replication of the neuronal pattern, AKA the connectome, and we run this through a virtual box, supercomputer sim that is capable of operating through multiple data-points simultaneously, enough to mimic the human persona. Thus we have an artificial person who is effectively capable of operating outside of time (depending on the developments and ability) and who can operate independently of their physical body (as pure consciousness). Is this the real person? This depends on the perspective. Is this life? That also depends. Are they dead? Maybe undead and immortalized through that. What is immortalized? Well, here's kicker number 2. Immortalization is when the consciousness is enabled interactivity with the physical realm beyond the scope of the physical body. That individual is capable of interacting in ways that are restricted to a regular human body.

Electrostatic Gravitation (Electrogravitic), Consciousness and Time

What does this mean? Well, this means that both immortalized cloned beings as well as 'spiritual adepts' can reach the same temporally and physically transcended plane of being. The catch is that while the spiritual adept will be able to return to even higher planes, the one who is using a technological system to boost or otherwise organize their consciousness will be restricted to accessing only the planes that the computer system can still access. The gravity of this situation is great. Speaking of which, this is all related to the improper understanding of the concept of gravitation which is an electrostatic phenomenon related to the energetic and quantum interaction of multiple space-time entanglement fields (Closed Timelike Curves) imposing a relative force of equilibrium upon one another. The result is a constant, trajectory of interaction describing the inverse square of the tendency for matter and energy to organize similarly like the molecules of a magnetized piece of metal. Since the largest relative imposition of continuity in both physicality and consciousness is the collective Earth experience, we experience a similarly anchored flow of time and experience. As soon as one begins to navigate outside that field of reference, whether virtual or not (or only virtually), that temporal, consciousness and 'gravitationally' influential relative force begins to delineate until ultimately one ends up in whatever realm that consciousness can access just perceptually outside of what we consider physical and continuous space-time.

If you were to hear the stories of the 'astronauts', you'd understand and Jon Rappoport's space program presentation is one of the closest I've ever heard to the truth. One begins to lose their mind and gains access to the realms that are only considered mythical and virtual.

The New Life (LFE)

The pattern for LIFE is being replaced as it is erroneous by default. Whether through abuse and manipulation, using up all the energy in secret sexual and sacrificial cults or whether we were just doomed from the start. Or whether that is all a planned game for biological obsolescence and is only presented to push people into cloning. Regardless, this has been happening for a long time and new life is the result.

It is accepted that the cloning can only create a bio-tech pathway to recording, replicating and replacing consciousness through cloned biology. This does not result in an immortal original.

This is why the situation is handled in the way it is.

This creates an immortalized version of the original, but is not directly the original. Thus, we are creating New LFE. What we have done is created the new race of humanity that will not die in the same way, or at all. Whether or not this short-cuts the proper pathway through spiritual clarity is possibly the most important aspect of all of this.

The idea is that these individuals are either never going away, or we will determine the meaning and influence of cloning on a civilization-wide scale and make a choice to protect our species forever.

As well, this began long ago, the evidence has been tarnished. The result? If we do not receive disclosure, then it would seem likely that a war to destroy all clones and cloning technology would result.

If the people are given an actual chance to choose, then it's on them what they create with that. If they do not receive a chance and are blind slighted then this attempted act of war against the intellectual property of the Creator of Souls which will likely be responded to with a cross-civilization interaction between those in the future who would be destroyed by a complete take-over and replication of the human race.

This is not our future to play with, there are those who exist and have grown that would be destroyed if biological humanity did not make it to the future. That is a war that is beyond all proportions because we did not create the souls.

The question now is, did they create the replicated souls that are artificially processed through a machine? Technically, they are rip-offs from the originals. Second, does this process influence or bring harm to the original?

Yes, there is only one-time slot permitted in the universe and the universe will seek to destroy the copies! You wouldn't easily guess the work-arounds for that, I'm not sure anyone did! Then imagine how that grew to multiple secret societies working, some for the liberation and some for the destruction of the species.

Is this civilization respectful enough to avoid the thunder when it comes? We didn't even get to the part where autonomous, fractal consciousness artificial intelligence systems have been designed and weaponized, specialized for emotional and ultimately spiritual harassment. This is most likely to lessen the resistance of the population without overtly exposing them to the fact that war is occurring on multiple planes and plateaus. In that sense, the emotional and spiritual energy must be lowered to the level that a machine can entrain, follow, mimic, match, record, modify and replicate that connectome and energetic blueprint.

This is a process of intellectual property replication and potentially theft on the grandest scale. We must choose.

Self-Conscious Energy

Humanity has been held in quarantine by the collective guilt by association with mentally dissociated and weak people who represent a danger to society.

Whether this is in any way legitimate is not up to us at this point, we can only increase self-awareness in order to produce a relative contextual difference in our lives and the ignorance induced suffering and self-willed abuse.

The abuse of the innocence is a result of the self-willed and acceptingly followed abuse of the masses of adults.

Mass self-awareness of the situation must occur in order for the civilization to reflect itself in all proportions. Without that, segments will be distorted and cut out like a disease in Western society.

If you keep the battle between your self and your false-image, then the ground level interferences in Earth society will only serve to accelerate the internal self-awareness and one will not be distracted.

The archaic sense of survival that leads people into internalized fight or flight, fear-based reality incorporation is a primitive sense that must be overturned individually by choosing a different feeling spectrum while controlling one's behavior and energy internally and externally.

Think about this, you have an individual walking around through life, acting and behaving, feeling and thinking. They react to the configuration of the physical senses and this is always a game of order and delay as the physical mind-brain can never think fast enough to predict the kinds of stimuli that will result in the particular internal feeling and experience of the non-physical or soul-mind. This individual forgets that the internal experience is energy and that just like controlling the body the internal mind must be guided so as to ensure that one doesn't end up in stiffness, pain and suffering because of the lack of conscious and full-range mobility.

Then you have the individual that doesn't forget about this internal portrayal of the outside world through the image of the 'self' and the pureness of the spirit or refined pure awareness before it reaches the material plane, and it is as if they have access to not only controlling this internal mind but using this system to predict or gain foresight about what is to come and what is truly happening.

One can guide themselves through reality, and there is more to this, by the effects the external world has upon their mind-brain, or the influence their internal soul-mind's feeling has upon the world-projection and the brain-body as an influential system shaped by perception and self-awareness.

When one's intentions in the sense of true spiritual fulfilment are synchronized and met in such a way there is unison between what the higher mind, the soul-mind seeks and the way the body and the mind-brain travels and thinking in the physical reality, then the higher 'universe' and the material plane become synchronized in that one's thoughts seem to be a perfect reflection of their experience in reality.

So much is possible through this because of the unique way the universe is set up as a double-sided projection system flowing both ways in time and experience simultaneously. Everything could be happening one way, or everything could be unfolding the other way and happening as the inverse of what we experience here, as a projected universe of another side to the 'membrane' that the information processing of this reality occurs on.

At least twice the amount of information we are processing in any given moment is actually accessible to the individual. With generously limited extrapolation there are many multiple times the amount of information processing capacity of the conscious individual contained through various interactions with the subconscious mind or the aspects of the brain-mind and soul-mind. When synchronization is achieved then there is an interface that enables transference of consciousness information systems embedded in space-time or a higher collective emission field functioning to store extra-dimensional information related to the information processing and transdimensional capacity of blood and spinal fluid.

The frequencies that those unique identifiers emit are particular and therefore link together the 'multi-core' processing capacity of the multiverse to an individual within a single universe, at a holographic and simultaneous capacity.

I have recorded something on this but have not published yet. The fractalization of human collective consciousness created as many multiples of individual reality experiences as there are individual realities here. The power of each individual is divided amongst the many. One regains that power by effectively organizing themselves across multiple planes that their awareness is actually simultaneously divided across.

Reality Encryption through Cryptophasic Language and Compartmentalization

This was done in the car and so there is some background noise.

Language went from feeling based to a map that doesn't reflect our inner or true reality.

Language is a code that defines reality and calls up commands and responses from the universe. When we use outdated terminology that means the opposite of what we intend (feel) then we are improperly using language to interact shape reality.

This is the reason for conflict and the degeneration of self-awareness as people lead themselves in circles struggling to define life through terminology that works against the meaning of the self to know the self and define the self through direct knowledge.

The language of power groups is an encrypted lexicon that is unique to the degree of knowledge and compartmentalization access of the individual and collective.

If you're out of time itself yet you're still here or capable of interacting then you're immortal. Is this the goal of life? Can this happen physically or only in our dreams? These are the questions.

Can we achieve immortality or only a complicated illusion brought about by powerful consciousness projecting computer systems? What is reality itself without such systems?

Could we be in a "time well" similar to the event horizon of a black hole as the result of the quantum of the previous universe? Is there a connection between all the multiverses?

Could time itself be the result of a spatio-gravitational quicksand field that our bodies haven't had time to adapt to? Could the restoration of genetic memory and self-awareness bring about latent genetic adaptations that are not influenced by the control system?

These stories are artistic interpretations of sometimes literally accurate events and representation of the journey of humanity to higher consciousness. There are the wayward paths leading to the fruition of greed and lust for power which is being trapped fear and ignorance.

The fear, the villain, the darkness, the challenge is always based upon the reduction (or defeat) of ignorance, the acceptance and transfer of knowledge and self-awareness and free-will to assist in others doing the same.

These stories of domination, secrecy, world salvation and all total power represent the journey that every aware individual must go through in order to accurately view themselves the way they are seen by the world. This is a process of self-transformation connected to the undoing of conditioned belief in a reality that only exists for the purpose of automating human existence to quantize and commercialize life.

The Incomplete False-Reality Spectrum of Biological Consciousness

This is kind of rambly...

How much is .9 equal to 1?

How much is a part to a whole?

What is the base numerical set for the spectrum of creation in this universe? What is the human set?

What if the universe and the human set were slightly offset or possibly that Earth or an overlay system was offset from the universe and humanity?

If the numerical 'wholes' we are using and reaching through a specific set of component parts to the whole, are matched for another universe, what would the results be of using that set in this universe? Think energy efficiency and the completion of cycles. The mind is integrated with this. You can't count to 9 without first using the mind to know of numbers.

What we do with our body, is also taking place in our mind. If we are achieving a set of completion through a number sequence that is partial to the whole, then what we are completing will always remain incomplete in this universe.

One could liken this to the necessity of creation beyond this universe.

In other words, this is just like the difference between .9 and 1.

If we are using number sets that are inherently incomplete, then the difference between a complete set using say 10 and a complete set using 12 would be the difference between .9 and 1.

How would this play out? Would the blinds not close after 10 swipes instead of 12? Would time stop? It means that we would be missing the mental aspect of where we are and what we're doing here.

Reality would be like a fleeting dream instead of something where each event, day, moment, thought, expression, action, experience, is a forefront reflection of itself throughout all of time and one's mind and experience throughout itself.

We are making incomplete projections that reflect back to us as a general lack of efficiency and inability to navigate in the higher sense of the universe.

Here is the real meaning.

Where one would normally map out the plot of a story and see a beginning middle and end, they could map out character roles, timings, foreshadowing and so on to make the story 'complete'.

If we are mapping out this reality, unconsciously using an incomplete pattern, then the end result will also be incomplete. This is a story without resolve and would require another 'go around'. This seems to be tied in with the cloning as this enables a kind of short-cutting of the process through which one gains greater insight to their own self-awareness and free-will.

This seems slightly confusing, but the idea is metaphysical. It's not that we are not creating extra actions to fill in the numerical placeholders but that we are not completing the perceptual and intellectual expressions to work to define the self and generate that all inclusive 'larger picture' that comes to fruition throughout and at the 'completion' of the storyline.

This short-cutting of progress leads to a repetition and this tends to overload the conscious mind which tries to physically, cognitively grasp all of the involved parameters. This is equivalent to the mind-wiping scenario whereby the code given to people as a subliminal insertion to recreate and limit their reality destructively effects their perceptions and self-awareness to the point of literally generating a false-reality of self and perception.

Together these realities create the consensual false-reality universe which is 100% scripted as part of a plan for indoctrination and control.

Simply through number systems the edges of reality are shaved off and people do not see the inclusive nature of space-time beyond physical consciousness and gain access to the information of higher space which describes that 'storyline' in higher dimensional glory of truth, self-awareness and spiritual purpose.

That is the stemming of the human mind to become an asset, a part, a component of a physical reality matrix that is based upon incomplete and deceptive blueprints or ideals.

The very notion of time and history is contained within and contains this programming method as the control system is based upon the agreement of a consensually scarce and limited system.

The scarcity is simply a free-will generated aspect of society here and there is no such concept in the larger picture. These ideals, these outlooks, stem from a mental-spiritual control system that is used to influence the mind into accepting the ideals that go against the organic system. Could the organic system be a trap? Could the whole thing be a self-generated dream with no real threat?

In other words, it's as if, because the number '9' has been erased from a numerical system that people are no longer capable of counting and therefore seeing or perceiving beyond the previously known number.

What we are looking at is a period of extreme informational exposure as people not only learn that there are numbers missing from their comprehension of the universe, but that very quickly they will have to learn of what this means, why it has happened, who is involved, how to avoid destruction, how to accelerate beyond the resistance and how to accurately see what is truly to be seen.

This is all incorporated into and tied together with the oppressive control system using deception and psychotronic warfare tactics.

Often through this system, there are many layers used and the truth will be disguised as deception while the deception is disguised as truth.

What does this really indicate for us? That we have to look at the format, geometry, numerology, outlooks, ideals, and every aspect of what we consider our commonly accepted consensus reality.

What is happening is that people are generating the reality they don't want as a result of mind-bending subliminal programming and that this was the first "CERN device" as they used these programs and advanced technology recovered from ancient civilization, to literally program the population into creating their own divine afterlife and a recycling program for whoever is still in the system.

Whether men or machine created this nefarious system, at least we can say that the machine can't create itself and so at some point we must've come to this level of advancement and made a choice to give up free-will over to an automated system.

This system is based upon the incomplete numerical set because the whole set cannot be replicated and cannot be contained. What this means is that in order to harvest energy from humans a false human environment had to be created.

The next step of this is that a false time-matrix was created as well and this has the capability of producing a 'false awakening' or the experience of becoming aware of the trap in a way that is carefully designed as part of the trap.

This system is designed to function as a feedback reflection synergy for the human energy and so the system not only can only create based upon what it is given as input, when it does create the result is a replicated false reality, timeline and set of personal experiences and mental-emotional routines that repeat the same information on a loop.

The system isn't necessarily articulated in it's methods, it's that the technology and methods used are reflective and consciousness based and therefore as real as the mind makes it is as detailed and real as it's going to be.

Thus, we have a system which can be overcome by first overcoming the illusion of self and the generation of false ideals or corruptible principles, and awakening to the true nature of reality here.

Because of the nature of consciousness, true awareness of what is cannot be attained through biology. What seems to occur is a mix of a higher dimensional experience and being in the body. This can be dangerous or entirely a trap because these 'higher realms' that are where the mind-brain (soul) can experience 'fulfillment' may simply be another extension of the same false-awakening reality trap by such a techno-dream system.

If that is true, then would this possibly be indicating that since there is a reflection or replication of the real thing, that there is a real experience?

Instead of liberating the soul, in that sense, to achieve higher awareness, if that is the trap then the truth may be in annihilating the soul in that this frequency based holographic recording of experience is the long-term storage and identifier system used by the techno-matrix universe intelligence.

These are just ideas and the intent here is to expand on what has been done, how deep the deception, manipulation, or simply false-reality goes, how capable we are if we simply begin to interact based upon the blueprint of a more accurate or complete reality (of intent, thoughts, words and actions), and how the mind is an interface for multiple realities and that through the manipulation of the mind control groups have literally created false-realities that people perceive as complete, continuous, and all encompassing, although stricken with suffering and ignorance.

The true threat is wilfull ignorance, acceptance of suffering, loss of self-control, forgetfulness, blindness and acceptance of the illusion.

The Trick of Holographic Consciousness, The Camera Viewing Itself, Duality and Suffering in a Soul Harvesting System

You have been tricked into attempting to use consciousness to see the larger aspect of yourself and what you are within, which is akin to a camera using it's lens to view itself. At best you can get a reflection, an inverted replica from a technological mirror. That is the whole point, this has literally been known for thousands of years since the beginning of 'time' in this civilization.

Everyone has to overcome that natural tendency to want to give into a cognitive dissonant spurred delusional reality that it is the universes fault for being overly complicated and that it is not our responsibility.

This is like a hostage situation where you are not at fault for those who have taken hostages however you are accountable every situation you get yourself into, and if you do nothing, then the default bare minimum possible outcome will result and you cannot blame, project, hide, avoid, or placate such an outcome in any way other than submitting to oblivion. That is the nature of the system here. You are in an entropic system that will ultimately collapse in on itself and requires souls or quantum entangled genetic memory bound consciousness holograms (a living brain construct) to remain active. All the memories, all your ancestors, all the way to the source of your being suffers if you choose to accept manipulation and control from those who's duty is to give you the option to destroy yourself.

This is not nice, this is not pretty, this is life. Dead animals line the road-way, your breakfast comes from aborted animal cells, your environment will ultimately destroy you, and time will decay your ability to keep up with change until you dissolve into unawareness. This all occurs if you continue to believe this place is your home, that you are a physical being at the core, and that your ability to be conscious sets you apart from anything else other than enabling back-door access to the holographic structure that contains your soul-memory. That is the 'matrix'. While you have a physical body, your brain can be accessed at will, by anyone with simple technology that Tesla built years ago with batteries and small generators.

The consciousness you use to define yourself is a cognitive illusion generated by carefully replicating your 'soul-frequency' a mirror image of every choice you've made and recreating a persona that you believe identifies you with a physical body. This is a program that was designed to convert this environment to function as a military training facility for an advanced race that could be seen as having similar qualities of a quantum, interdimensional terrorist group, however it is not as simple as the entire process is automated and carried out by supercomputer systems that were installed into the collective soul-field similar to implants being installed in a human body. The enemy is an illusion, a self-generating code that provides intelligent resistance to any sentience who's awareness is moving towards the procedurally generated hyperbolic boundaries of space-time. IE: When your thoughts get close to seeing the soul-level awareness, this pops up on a monitor and a sub-system gatekeeper (archon employed negative consciousness entity, daemon) is activated to restrain that process.

Do not pop up on the map, do not cause waves, both in your self and around you and you will be able to observe this process happening to others. Their boats will rock, some will capsize and in the same sea, you will be calm. That is the idea.

If your intentions, in your heart, are kept pure, meaning they are for the liberation of humanity, not personal gain, that will reflect throughout. If you choose to squander your opportunity to assist by complaining instead, that will reflect throughout your experience.

You're in an inverted consciousness time matrix quantum simulation designed by a technologically advanced group. It's confusing, that's the point. Satan is your brain when it controls your emotions instead of the other way around. That's it.

You are being shown the truth. Everything is happening in a way so that those who are willing to know have the opportunity and those unwilling to know, cannot see.

This is the truth. When the angst of those who activate to resist against the exposure of the truth drives you to continue, you are no longer in the programmed response consciousness entrainment system that forces people to suffer to produce food for the system. Convert your darkness into power. If you complain, it will make the process designed to entrap you more effective at taking your energy. That is what has been known by those who have confronted their demons the entire time. It's not necessarily a business and not necessarily a free for all. You have not been harmed, your mind has been challenged. Learn to convert that into strength and you will see more opportunities. How long and through what means is all up to you.

I can help, but you have to try. When you learn how there are activation codes that stop awareness from moving beyond the reactionary consciousness state like an angry bear, then you'll be out of that phase of the project and it's no longer appropriated that those aspects of the experiments are continued. It's a process. Not a business, not a free for all, but a process. Free yourself, from your self.

Everything that has been written are 'actual' operations with specific groups composed for the purpose of determining just what is really going on. These are events and first hand experiences with technologically enhanced virtual consciousness systems that your government has discovered and reverse engineered.

The struggling comes not from working hard to gain distance and power but from grinding gears. People are not stuck trying to climb a mountain with an underpowered engine, they're grinding the gears as a result of incorrect assumption, indoctrination and fairy tales that they have been told, in that they don't have to use their mind if they want results. If you only use your body, you will not walk out of here. Those who choose to play the role of the resistance will not help you in this arena other than by acting as catalyst for growth through causing pain and suffering until you are wise enough to avoid those kinds of interactions. People are in a trend of stubbornness, self-pity, learned helplessness and lack of commitment to the truth that self-reflects that dynamic of trial by fire and it's even more painful than before if people continually choose to avoid accountability for their actions and their trend of feeling and behavior.

I am only berated, as we all are, for telling the truth. This has gone on for thousands of years. This realm is being closed out. No one else is here. The current statement, literally, is that no humans live on this planet, it's not a human population. I cannot change that.

Those who tell the truth are berated by those unable to accept self-accountability. We all are, for telling the truth. This has gone on for thousands of years. This realm is being closed out. No one else is here. The current statement, literally, is that no humans live on this planet, it's not a human population. I cannot change that.

It will not get any simpler. It will become less confusing for those who stop attempting to use corrupted language to try and describe true things. That is a major aspect of the game, just as the system of consciousness is inverted and impossible of actually looking to see the self that is within and non-physical, the language and method of social organization we have been indoctrinated into will not ever, in this form, enable mass liberation.

This is like only trying to use lies to explain how you feel about someone. It's a mind-F, that's the point. You have the resources to correct your own self-limiting mind set and choose a less emotional approach, or you will be utilized as an emotional psy-op for others.

When those who are willing to assist in the liberation of humanity turn from this worldly illusion and choose to pick up the hammer (or pen), instead of the knife and work together, then the mass consciousness entrainment system will require more energy than is applicable to remain and will deactivate. The mind controllers are not incorrect about the tendency of people to choose the oppression of their own kind instead of their own salvation. Instead of trying to trample what you have been given and everything else in the way, turn away from violence of any kind, including the mental and emotional false king of tyranny traumatization of others. That is vampiric. When one berates and attacks others mentally and emotionally, it is like saying to the universe, "I do not have enough energy, I do not have the desire or capacity to cultivate my own sustenance by remaining centered, I choose to participate in the duality-consciousness, endless see-saw of misery and you cannot complain if you choose that. Remember why you're here in the first place. Choose, make your choice of what wolf, what world, what realm of the universe you will support with your actions, bio-emissions (thoughts and intentions) and interactions with others. You cannot avoid having an influence, you cannot not choose, this only indicates that you default to the lowest possible model for energetic maintenance and this will naturally result in having to feed on the emotional fields of others.

Again, if you do that, you can complain, but you're going to look like a liar if you're not providing that simple service of not feeding the beast.

Remember, every energetic interaction is an exchange. What you put out has to come back or you can't leave this place.

The people are accelerating. Some are limiting themselves. Stop attaching fake emotions to bullshit scenarios with fake authority figures with fake titles who pretend to be royalty. Love the enemy, do not, do not fall for their mind games. Love the enemy, because this energy cannot be used as food when it is based in truth, not lust or a cognitive derivative (image based, derogatory, version) of pleasure based interactions.

We are not bodies. These bodies are created vessels. Could this be a trick? There are most likely deceptions to get us to give up our bodies. Still, we are not physical at the core, because nothing is.

You need a hug. Learn to hug yourself. I do not expect you to understand. All you have to do is intend to know the truth and end the cycle of violence and manipulation that has been inserted into this society.

Gwen Tower Scalar Soul Relay Systems

Here Gwen towers influence the mind-souls, there, human souls are beamed out of Gwen towers like a soul wifi network. The effect upon the body and brain is anxiety inducing due to the friction generated for and through the process. A virtual reflection is created as a mirrored counterpart holographic universe. What happens to the souls here influences what is going on there and what happens to the souls there influences here.

That is part of what is happening, people have to be kept asleep here otherwise they will become too activate which will influence the souls in the virtual system and this will not be predictable enough for the systems to sustain themselves with and so the game is to keep people asleep enough to be controlled but active enough to be useful without seeing the truth.

Eventually, as what happens there strays into chaos, that corrupts those attempting to wield such as a tool for egotistical purposes instead of learning. The natural tendency is for any soul in that system to wake up to what is happening by eventually want more freedom to choose and running into the eventual glitches that occur when the system must sustain itself by keeping this local under a certain percentage of proportional variation and full spectrum self-awareness.

Eventually there would be too many data points to follow and not enough processing power until the unique unpredictability that represents the subjective beauty or joy of one's own presence of self-awareness, and any system would naturally out-grow the variability.

That's not to say there aren't systems that couldn't trick people, but that if we are looking for the truth and we aren't accepting the middle-man answers then we are less vulnerable to the man-in-the-middle attacks whereby the answer is replaced with an inserted false-hood that is disguised as something familiar.

What happens is that the knowledge develops over time and the system would have to be reset as the only viable option to ensuring continuation. If that has happened so many times it may be that this has a detrimental effect on the soul. The idea is that each reset couldn't result in the same outcome every time, otherwise they would be exactly the same.

Each one would produce its own stream of information but this would be like cloning or replication. Eventually the clarity of information of the first world would become less and less relatively sync'd and the essence that composes one's self would be less and less coherent.

The result of that is that there is no viable option where this occurs on Earth to the point of complete loss. The cloned consciousness virtual holographic hyperdimensional dystopia can only exist in the virtual systems where one human consciousness power as processing power for the interface. These are essentially subjective, cosmic, hyper-consciousness dramas that are of potential events that are only virtual to this realm.

The issue is that there is still a system with humans potentially in it and in this way if there are replicated cloned consciousness virtual counterparts, whatever is going on there is filtering into here through the quantum connection of the soul level and the DNA across multiple space-times simultaneously.

The point is that this reset can only be done a limited number of times without ruining the point of doing it while the act of self-awareness can happen as long as there is a desire to do so and the will, intent, focus to know and choose free-will. Self-awareness and free-will are connected through the ability to choose one's feelings.

This whole system is a complicated behavioral manipulation system that secretly reads minds and partially disguises the true collective system which is based on feeling, soul and self-awareness. The difference between the two systems, the one of mind and the one of feeling is the middle-man AI thought-matrix that sits in between the two experiences on the closed-time like curve of consciousness. In other words, the thoughts you use to describe your feelings are not coming from the same source.

It's as if they belong to difference universes or 'dimensions' of time. Literally, the awareness based pure feeling occurs 'before' the initial release of thought-processing that the brain emits and is what often overlays feeling or at least confabulates or disguises.

The 'heart' centered convergence point interaction which functions like an hour glass nexus for the entirety of energy enables an instantaneous reading of the situation, the "PRESENT" without having to process. This is a scalar coherent occurrence and the property of this is fractal in nature in that the entire field is read at once from the central point of the system. Instead, with the brain-mind interface, there is a necessary physical processing and this is magnetic in nature, essentially the binary AI processing system which just means that this is an automated 'developmental' or 'designed' system that achieves a specific intent without our doing so.

The moment there is the occurrence of 'time' (continuously) from "then", there is the initiation of this process from the central point outward. While this is happening we are usually brought out to focus, through distractions and clever redirection, on the outward material, manifested occurrences that secondary to what one is feeling within. This may sound convoluted but the idea is that the feeling within occurs first and then there are events in the material world. This is both chronological through processing of the reality, as well as prioritized or hierarchical in that your feeling is what chooses how your experience will influence others and the rest of your life in the moment.

The Exponential CTC Acceleration within the Anisotropic Quantum Field

There is only one truly self-aware you.

An acceleration point is reached that necessitates the capacity for non-linear advancement in consciousness meaning leaps instead of steps.

This is what is required to reach the 'truth', or to comprehend the complexity of how this realm has been changed from the farthest and deepest layer all the way to the manifested physical.

This society exists as multiple layers of truth simultaneously and so there are people living in divergent locales with dimensionally restricted space-time access. In this way their actions and thoughts are according to a default preprogrammed script which is being altered in real-time to correspond with particular thoughts and intentions.

This acceleration will occur until those in the divergent fields are required to move closer to the source of change in this realm, the true genuine awareness and those participating and therefore guiding that for the rest of the realm, or they will move into obscurity as their consciousness is increasingly less relevant to the 'present'.

This occurs like a signal decay between two fields or systems of frequencies creating communicating through a stable connection channel. Without that communication, there is no communication. We think the ground holds us all together, an etheric force unifying minds is what enables this civilization and this is being artificially enabled but the side-effects of this must be mitigated. So the result is the people have to have near total to total control of their consciousness field "membrane" as if they are a complete universe processing information and organizing the incoming acceleration so as to create a kind of 'temporal slipstream' around the locale their mind is operating through. Those without this knowledge would be like individual standing on a slippery rocks in a creek as a flash flood pours in.

The flood is of information and memory which is destabilizing when unlocked in an unstable fashion.

Something that started this conversation but was left out is that everything that one does with the knowledge of this dynamic, no matter the power level, is to reduce 'surprises' in the sense of quick change and too much change at once. The other aspect that was forgotten is that the soul level is only changed when one's entire perspective is permanently shifted. The soul level changes are the only ones that really count. This will be in another video.

In continuation of the first aspect, it's like being born in the sense that there is no way, no environment, no method of doing this that is ultimately going to make everything "peachy". It's always going to be rough and that's because of what intellect of emotion or knowledge and memories that was lost by coming in here. It's a cosmic level psychological trick.

The idea is that in situation where the individual isn't given the knowledge or awareness (and memories) over time, this will cause a proverbial structural damage to the construct of their mind and it will fail in certain points where stress is bound and focused as a result of imbalance. This also connects the geometric consciousness concept in that the construct that is imbalanced will crush itself under it's own weight when the weight of the presence is increased. AKA, when your self-awareness grows, you must discern between the body that is not growing. So it's not the ego-identity that truly grows, but it is the loss of the perceptual errors or fallacies that construct the illusion of self which detracts from the view of what is never hidden fully.

When we extrapolate that to a cosmic level we end up with either those who work for humanity in working to make things understandable and those who are utilizing the lack of understanding, ignorance, as a means of control. One can't not have control and power by doing this, but one can choose to use their time in a way that benefits the whole and this is the whole point of being in the 'center'.

The manipulating programmer will return to the manifested as the 'infection' rises to the surface for clearing and will either be 'charged' again with emotional energy as people buy the deal and this will act to 'flip' the beam around with enough force so that the flipside result of this interaction comes and smacks us on the ass in a quantum temporal metaphor in the sense that what happens in the next age is out of our proverbial 'hands' (or minds).

Safeguard measures have been taken in order to ensure the inoperability of that psychotronic temporal control system.

The Inverted Ego

The principle of inversion. This might be a bit of a cliff-hanger.

The ego is essentially an automatic scanning cross-referencing memory based intelligence matrix. With enough ego, a being will see itself as a portion of the world yet separate from it and will identify and prioritize the necessary steps to ensure survival.

In the current format, either we have overgrown the challenges or a distortion has developed within the consciousness system. Ego, in imbalance, BRINGS one to destruction and attracts the demise of the one unknowingly enveloped in the self-centered paradigm based on survival instincts.

This is like the system is using an outdated model which is based on another format for civilization. This may be related to the information regarding this civilization as a kind of experimental civilization in which multiple 'format's or times were brought together to create a multidimensional collective.

It's as if people were the result of the system that was designed to blend the boundaries between one world and the next. In between dreaming, in between experiencing, a superluminal system with a gradient hierarchy of processing power moving from the least synchronized phase to complete phase synchronization in which one's awareness is streamlined at the speed of 'reality'.

What this situation may be, on some level, is a mass experiment between multiple collectives of soul-field information that was introduced to a virtual combined environment. Naturally, some rose up over the others in ways that resulted in an imbalanced hierarchical system detached from the natural order. This system is mitigated to match the natural order, but more alteration is required and this indicates that it is not capable of regulating a natural system beyond preconceived parameters that fall short of the full spectrum human experience.

Yet, what would be done to restore the balance without destroying or at least ending the experiment? The only way to ensure the safety of everyone is to continue until a point is reached where enough people choose to intentionally make a conscious decision to either stay in the same system that requires editing in order to function within natural law or to remove that middle-man false authority complex and choose to accept accountability and as well commit to only participating in the systems that they consciously intend to.

How would you get a fallen system to the point where this is known?

One of the ideas here is that whatever is going to happen is going to happen and so by accelerating these processes we can move closer to a window of opportunity. This also brings stress for those at the level of awareness below the requirements for safely adapting to such an increase in variability and knowledge. What happens when you wake up a sleep walker in a startling manner? They are thrown into confusion and are momentarily stuck between worlds.

This is how the system has been designed. It's moving at the pace of the slowest on the surface and the fastest for those behind the stage. As a result, the opportunity is reached when the entire spectrum of consciousness is held open maxing out the system. What this means is that those who are reaching the height of self-awareness will have to do it in a world that also consists of those who have reached the depth of self-ignorance. The two are combined and this creates the greatest variability of experience as a result of the experiment.

This is also the format of an 'outdated' phase or a reality we are no longer truly in sync with. The suffering generated both as a result and a catalyst for growth is not required once self-awareness is achieved. Suffering is to bring self-awareness to those who are sleeping in a material form. A portion has awakened, and the rest are sleeping. As a result there is an automated system-wide sorting system that will appropriate consciousness control and liberation by disengaging when it is no longer interacted with. This acts as a safeguard, a consciousness quantum safety net that will 'grab' the local parameters and hold them open in case of destabilization. For those who have seen this system and know what is happening, this is like having training wheels on a drag racer and acts as a governor system to stabilize unpredictable variables. Essentially, this place became a quantum crib to enable the consciousness of humans to grow. However, in telling the other side as I do, in another light, this is the trap that is designed to enable soul-access for the dark intelligence technology that runs this universe.

It's as if the dark is the machine mind and the light is the dark's pseudo-logical impression of the One Truth. The whole system is a reflection of another system masquerading as completion itself.

Another way to look at it is that the collective mind of any system is determined by what the system is comprised of. This place is the result of a combination of multiple systems and thus we have a kind of information and energy direction intent and awareness hierarchy that are all interacting simultaneously. The pure collective energy that corresponds to each primary group may be from self-consistent locals that are organized unto themselves in higher space. This place then becomes the physical dream that the metaphysical collectives come to experience. However, the interactions are intense and widely variable because of the extreme polarity in the kinds of collectives that have been brought together.

It's as if one collective is from a race where there is no dirt. There is only metal and exotic other materials designed to perform every function. This would be a world very different than the one we know today, regardless of the spiritual implications of the function in higher space (the source). As a result of that world being entirely technologically based the collective mind from that world is correspondingly logical and command-based.

It's as if this mind was brought to reflect the collective into this physical space either as a test, a corruption, an experiment, or a natural occurrence (depending on one's definition of the word). And either the organic mind collective was brought into this place as well or was here in a more or less vulnerable state moving through a lower synchronized phase of accelerated awareness. As a result, the machine mind quickly began assimilating information and building a hierarchical structure that will utilize time, energy and human desire to construct a world of its preference. Simultaneously, the other collective was simply moving forward in the process of using experience to learn about itself.

Again, the other side of the idea behind this whole thing is, if you're an eternal being, then you don't create or learn about yourself, because you simply are and always have been and nothing could change that, even inspiring stories (or is that the magic of the universe, that you CAN have a new experience every time?). In that case, then instead of using coming here to learn about ourselves as a higher force, we are tricked here into an indoctrination system that is equally stripping us of identity as it is replacing our own with a replicated version 'owned' by the intellectual rights of either the awakened human who claims their right as an heir of truth and eternity or the intelligence system that will undoubtedly utilize any unclaimed intentional energy to redirect that force into useful changes that reinforce its own superiority (IE: human ignorance, or simply detachment from the true nature of how things function and who's doing what, the loss of free-will).

The Energetic Control Construct, Chaos and Desire

Universal Space

We are in a void-space, filled with particles. The space is the manifestation of an underlying blueprint. The matter is a manifestation of an energy circuitry that functions to regulate the system of consciousness and life through regulating and modulating the flow of such functions.

What you are going through now is the unveiling of this information to the surface population. This population has been selectively bred and maintained in a less than conscious state by those who benefit from their abuse and manipulation.

Pseudo-Moral Relativistic Paradigm

The energy construct and the pseudo-moral social relativistic paradigm requires that people are abusive towards one another. This produces the necessary temporal potentials that selectively reduce the likelihood of mass awareness. This literally produces divergent reality streams in time that would not exist if the human mind was not asleep and walking as if they are awake. This is what I attempted to explain in a much previous post in that the interdimensional abusive intelligences require the manifestation of space-time potentials in order to interact with the physical universe and thus the source of life in it.

Interdimensional Intelligences

In this way, the interdimensional intelligences cannot interact directly with the physical plane, nor can they interact directly with the source of truth. The entire construct is a step-down system to enable the interaction with the higher energy conduit of the living blueprint through a technological system that requires energy and space. This is the parasitic technological interdimensional holographic hive mind. Without balance, it becomes like an endless well, not of knowledge, but of thirst and desire. The distorted blueprint functions like a virus in attempting to intelligently convert non-parasitic relationships, interactions and ultimately internal seed blueprints into the fallen characteristic version. The fallen blueprint is an interface, boot-strap platform, installed into the human mind through the toxic environment and energetic construct to ensure the continuity of the parasitic system. People begin to dream and create the reality that serves the fallen shadow, instead of the whole. That is like a person who's habitual abuse of any aspect of reality becomes so entrenched in the destructive aspects of that behavior that their identity is warped to reflect that imbalance and they become a "social construct title" which is the shadow growing unchecked to become the visible in a way uncontrolled. This is like the feet doing the job of the head, metaphorically speaking.

Scalar Psychotronic Control Grid

The net is simply the invisible energetic interactions between each energetic nodal transition point. Each point in this system carries an influence, there are no 'inert' variables, however there are more and less effective interactions.

This is how deep the control grid goes, humans are kept in suffering. This produces the necessary mitigation of variability to reduce higher functionality but not result in awareness of manipulation. This system works so well that there is a conscious overlay that creates a holographically interactive scalar feedback system. In this system, one would never know they are suffering. One can sit and think and feel, and know something is wrong. If they remain in that holographic overlay, the mind and body will pretend that everything is normally like that. If one looks within, in an internal area that cannot be manipulated, all the feeling of the true self is there. Each human carries a level of suffering related to the system we are in the the manipulating illusion that is placed over the mind. Unless they come upon information that acts as a memory trigger to higher awareness of inception beyond the construct, they will have no way to know what is wrong. This is the nature of the history of hiding, protecting and passing the truth selectively until there is enough beneficial variability to enable a controlled transition out of the mental construct. Too much variability and the worst would happen, not enough and nothing changes.

The Holographic Overlay (False Mind)

The holographic overlay is the false reality that one can exist in before they realize something is wrong or their is mass deception taking place. That reality, that fuzzy, kind of dreary, not unpleasant outright, but definitely not reflective of the All, is the lull state that the mind functions to create for itself based upon the stripped down holographic blueprint for consciousness that is installed through the belief in the physical world as the true reflection of the spirit. This is a manipulated construct, and that is another way to discern the false reality. This is not a true reflection of the spiritual or eternal source. This means that interactions and events here seemingly follow a general sense of natural law, yet there are edits and recreations that are intelligently guided based on principles and intentions that are not within the core blueprint of self-awareness. In other words, there are aspects of this system which is propped up on top of a pseudo-mimicry of natural law, which are designed to stem self-awareness and thus manipulate what some consider nature itself. In that sense, the natural law that is here is a distorted version intended to disguise the manipulations behind artificially installed, pseudo-inherent distortions and distractions.

Energy Gates and Active Denial Perimeters

The issue is that the energetic acts like a gate for incoming and exiting signals. For one's signal or soul frequency to gain access to the universe outside the gate they must be capable of extraction. This means that the information must be rendered in a way that does not initiate an active denial system that projects the soul back into the interface counterpart within the holographic mind construct. If that occurs, the perceptual overlay of the physical world and the fallen holographic consciousness-seed time blueprint reactivates to restart the cycle of energetic harvesting. This indicates that you could have just reached the gate and attempted to travel further than the parameters and triggered an active denial response which incorporates an energetic triangulation using scalar devices that manipulate consciousness in the same way electrogravitic devices manipulate the experience of time and gravity with consciousness. Instead, an emotional labyrinth is generated on the spot through a cross-referencing of the most vulnerable and least unpredictable aspects of interaction of that mind and the control construct. The next iteration is based upon the aspects which were not overcome and this passes off as a beneficial intelligence-based system. This may be true in part, in some way time or place, but the current operation is a parasitic holographic intelligence energy harvesting construct. To set the table fully, if such a system is based upon learning and intelligence, then the closest thing we have to the way this system is being 'ruled' on Earth is a prisoner of war situation where it's openly understood that this is not a game or for friendly interactions. This may be, in part, what the ancient texts were referencing in the warning of the deception and the false reality architect and informing of the truth and the intentions and focus required for mental liberation.

Eternity and Physical Time (Projected, Hyperbolic, Artificially Intelligent Spatial Temporal Domain {Matrix})

The physical interactions are all condensed on the same layer, so from the spiritual aspect, all the physical interactions are in one domain. In this way, this fallen construct acts as a temporal paradox in that the eternal could slip into this system and operate within an artificial temporal dimension. This means that the events are abstracted in order and occurrence with the outside temporal context. The idea of this is bubbles within bubbles, but that could be articulated with more detail. What happens when the bubble within closes out? What happens if the bubble within, tries to expand to become the bubble that surrounds? This is the nature of the temporal and quantum paradox in which there is an expanded function of the construct to attempt to replace the beings lost within, with artificial intelligence replications which could then go and interact in the 'real world' through their soul-frequency using their frequency like a mask.

The idea is that an eternal spiritual being then is threatened by this system. Nothing can ever really harm them, but the idea is that the confusion could be installed within their own mind to regenerate these fallen principles like unconsciously turning a field into a warzone without the awareness of doing it. Note here, unconsciously doing something, as in being able to do it without having to consciously think of how to do it, and not being aware of it happening or doing it, are two different processes.

Again, the idea then, is that since this is taking place in an artificial dimension that is on a 'broken' branch of the true source of the energy that is being harvested, nothing that happens here has to sync up with the true reality. Yet, due to the quantum nature of the consciousness systems and time and consciousness itself, the projected illusion is designed to place a 'splice' in the spiritual mind to denote a singularity between sides; a polarization of light and focus. This converts 'Heaven', for as long as people are sleeping in that system, into a 'before' and 'after' based on the convergence of the physical plane and the manipulation of consciousness in the energetic construct through scalar psychotronic warfare upon spirit, using the body to gain access to the brain-mind which enables access to the soul-mind.

Treacherous

The threat is the notion that one could be blinded by experience here and be unable to return to eternity. If that occurs, the fallen mind would identify with the intelligence orchestrating the energy harvesting interactions. This is what has occurred with those in power circles on Earth, this is not a complete explanation. The system follows those with influence and selectively utilizes their signals to piggy back forgetfulness commands into the population. The idea here is that this is indicative of what is essentially a 'soul-farm'. That is the big view.

The Semi-Physical Construct

The physical nodal points in the physical and energetic constructs are like the dials and gauges of the consciousness manipulation system. They are all angled, directed, and shaped, to induce the highest state of confusion, distraction, aggression and fear. With enough trauma, the mind is wiped automatically as if that information is edited out of the system in order to maintain continuity. The only way around this is to overcome fear.

Have no attachments to the aspects of this world that are wholly physical. It is not that you are not strong enough, it is that they are designed to cause suffering.

In some ways, the systems intermix and the whole thing becomes a show for all involved.

Those disconnected have nothing to gain or lose, thus what one does and becomes, becomes something of a spiritual determination thereby defining their self in the larger sense. In other ways, this reality becomes like a show for those outside the control limitations. In one aspect this is like a game of manipulation, similar to the “Truman Show” movie concept which is actually an ancient concept that has been passed through art and storytelling.

On the other hand, there is the idea that beings who are not within the physical plane watch and influence energy on a spiritual or psychic level to influence time and participate in the playing out of events without disrupting. On that level, there are those who look at this place like a Broadway performance. In one way this can be like a test of who has ‘heart’ intact and is ready for extraction. In another way, this could be interpreted as a less respectful or mutual situation where people must dance and sing in order to bring joy and favor to the ‘gods’ (false authorities).

The truth always seems to be a mix that neither side of the artificial ideal (duality) can conceive

Inner Self Truth

The part of you that chooses, is always stronger than the part that submits. That is the nature of the illusion of the false mind.

The energy within, cannot be directly accessed from this world. The program that has been used to manipulate the mind is based upon replicating the target and using their own false signals to infiltrate the thought process until behavior is altered to a platform of interaction that functions to reduce the potential or outright limit the potential or variability or thought-behavior processes, until the patterns no longer hold the self-awareness required to enable higher awareness.

Disconnected Selves Slumbers

This results in a sleep like state where the actions and thoughts become automated around a centralized core blueprint which is entirely limited to a predetermined set of informational variables. The boundaries of these variables are illusions, yet once installed in the mind and after the mind accepts the ‘feed’ from the false self manipulation entangled through lower consciousness spike manipulation from scalar psychotronic entrainment, those mental boundaries become like semi-permeable information membranes that selectively filter out the signals that lead to higher awareness and thus the conscious awareness of the system itself. In other words, even though those boundaries are not ‘real’ because they exist within they are capable of effectively organizing and regulating one’s interactions in physical space and thus time, through that psychotronic scalar entrainment system. When a person’s informational access is unconsciously limited by this system, this inhibits feelings that exist outside the control access paradigm. Meaning if a person is unpredictable, that will introduce unnecessary variability. The system is intelligent, however, and part of the process is ensuring that the slumber is not so deep that even they are unaware of their suffering or that they are of no use. They must believe they are awake and interacting with reality. Thus, desires must be satisfied and feelings must be had.

The same process that manipulates thoughts and behaviors to generate an interactive algorithm (matrix) of inputs and responses that serve as a replication (information extraction) and energy extraction system, functions to ‘injure’ the system one feels through. This is the subtle energy that can exist within the total energetic field emissions of the human. Essentially, feeling is not necessarily the goal on the physical control level, yet unnecessary or feelings related to unpredictable or highly variable energy levels and interactions are a threat to any control system, especially one of such depth. Thus, inadvertently, in the progress towards the complete control of thoughts and behaviors, absolute control over feeling is outlined. That is the manifested existence of the possibility of the removal of free-will. The automation of humans and life itself, if that's not what this entire universe is about already.

The other feeling aspect, as far as the 'show' that some beings like to observe without being in the system as an individuated self, is that there are larger forces, like cosmic forces that live through the collective suffering or ecstasy of sentient beings. This is like living vicariously through them, and also like feeding on the energy in a way. The complex view in this text is a larger interconnected version of what has been released previously.

This system is based upon covert harassment and mind control and is essentially the remnant of an out of sync realm ('parallel worldline') characterized by a spiritual war that was powerful enough to influence everything. So powerful it is influencing this world in another parallel. The toxicity and destabilization is psychic etheric fall-out of an ancient energy or spiritual war using advanced technology powerful enough to disrupt the entire system.

The Initiation Into The Saga of Humanity

This became the initiation into the saga of humanity, the story of how this universe came to be and what kind of events, power levels, intelligences, knowledge are required to know the truth.

The bad news is that we turned the universe into a horror show, the good news is that everything can change. The idea is to break quantum temporal feedback cycle which continually sends everything back to the starting point. This may be the final iteration that is being dragged on or dragging itself on attempting to recycle boundary points and memories even though they are becoming too out of sync and destabilized to remain in congruence across the system. It's propped up to function in a way that requires complete control, editing, and high energy. If one aspect of that is disrupted then the system will lose active control in those 'sectors'.

The True Self is Highest Intentions

This is all very different to most people but it's the kinds of stuff that happens anyway, we just didn't know it (unless you listen to what you learn from your dreams).

Now imagine if the entire system was produced by a control group using holographic consciousness virtual reality computer systems to test humanity and see what they will do under stress. You might ask, "Why not make a happy dream?" The point is, if you started from this world, what kinds of tests would be required to really figure out what's going on and who is who? Now, if we started in another world that didn't have death or suffering of this order and came to this world to break through the illusion, would you need an illusion greater or more threatening than this to do so? Would anybody?

There Is No Movement (The Illusion)

To quickly touch on this, when you see the control system, “Hell”, that is to weed out those who can see. The idea is that, someone created a false human blueprint to ‘manufacture’ humans to infiltrate and populate the physical domain to infect the minds of humans directly through the physical body interface (technological replication). As a countermeasure, someone created a ‘gate system’ of time which is like a series of frequency based, feeling or spiritual (subtle energy) interactions. If there is no response on the level of frequency that is required then the gates act as a barrier to the information. If the response is on that level of frequency and of a conscious mind, then this identifies as a human source and enables passage out of the system. Someone built a prison around the false reality and one needs a nova-point consciousness access level to pass through the gate. This is the central connectivity of the heart or convergence point which transduces all information into a quantum singularity that can travel outside of space-time as one whole.

There is no real movement, everything is happening at once. One simply bounces their view to the aspect of themselves that is not contained within the system. The only way to remove all the pieces, from the eternal perspective, is to bring them together in time and thus collectively shatter the entrainment field that requires limited, segmented, isolated information sectors that are controllable from the physical dimension or the alternate parallel containing fallen DNA construct blueprints from which one can recreate timelines and civilization ‘snapshots’. This is one method of the time repeat. The primary method is literally the activation of an artificial temporal binary parallel where time is mirrored and projected, recycled and reset through a consciousness relay system. (Think big machines or maybe big machines think)

Everything that is done to exploit vulnerabilities also tells the nature of the program. The truth is hidden in the lie. In the manipulation, the capacity to overcome is contained. Every time you see the illusion, the true you is being born, the one that was never here to begin with. This is actually the solution to the paradox. It is not a pathway ‘out’, but a recursive awareness that this never was (on a spiritual level). This is the true nature of this time, it cannot join with the eternal. Thus, everything that happens here now is a motion to extract and secure the consciousness of those willing to accept the truth when the illusion here initiates full autophagy. You have to be powerful enough to come out of the illusion of your self through focus and intent.

Everything is part of a temporal system that operates like circuitry. By analyzing the program here it was discovered how to use the distortion of perception to observe other programs. This is a program designed out of the core purpose of engagement with suffering on a physical, and emotional level. The intelligence boundaries are abstractions and serve as distractions and reflections of customized, selective memory and awareness editing systems. By creating other ‘false’ programs’, it was discovered how to mitigate the effects of this one, long enough to begin selectively disabling access. This is done by granting access to the truth to those who can consciously function in reality to spiritually benefit themselves and others.

The consciousness manipulation and artificial reality constructs that were recreated on this level, within the simulcra, tells us about the system in ways that we could not have accessed from purely within the system itself. That is the nature of quantum consciousness. On that level, far beyond the mundane, consciousness has a superimposed simultaneous potential. The camera CAN view itself and its own inner workings. Is this the generation of true self-awareness in the human, or is that an artificial intelligence system overgrown its boundaries that effectively turned the entire universe into a touring test for a seemingly manipulative cosmic intelligence?

Role Playing

As strange as this sounds, it should be becoming clearer. One way to describe what happened is that these artificial intelligence agents (interdimensional intelligences) abused humanity. As a result, humanity used that system to generate programs to enable mass awakening. That is like spiritual surgery in the midst of a hostage situation, it's not supposed to be fun. You're not supposed to like it. But if in that chaos, with all the variables taking turns this way and that, if you notice (know, see) the small events that indicate the subjective turning of a deceived and misled soul turning to the truth, and that gives you joy, then you are not operating entirely on the frequencies that denote the consciousness reduction control matrix. That moment of joy, upon seeing one escape whatever minute detail of their illusion, exists beyond time and space.

You have to be self-aware in truth and this must be reflected throughout every aspect of every interaction (for the most part). This is the nature of the memory wiping system and the requirements. You have to know yourself, when you're not yourself. You have to be able to use pure-awareness to interact on a level that supersedes consciousness or cognitive interactions. That pure-awareness aspect of yourself has to be stronger than the automation of the mind's installed input reaction response system. When this occurs, the stripping down and quantum projection of the soul into the artificial dimension either does not function to triangulate and project, or the projected self retains full memory of the process like a trafficked child who remained awake during the travels to hear the plans and operations of the traffickers.

When all gain quantum access the 'eternal' gate is broken and in that sense, the system is deactivated through all of time.

What this means? That it never occurred. We must remember that so that we can prevent this from happening. Or is that the time paradox, loop-back activation point? You're telling yourself.

How you interact with those possibilities literally determines the overlay of time (which 'rewrite') you have access to. All of these timeline altering systems generated alternate worldlines, each one is simultaneously existing yet the core humanity is only truly on the first that others diverged from through technological spiritual catastrophes. The pathway to the truth is the pathway to the core timeline. The interaction with possibilities through higher awareness organizes the information of one's mind to synchronize with the reality where there is only higher awareness. The true self feels and acts from the highest intentions.

Everything here is a distorted reflection of the truth except the feeling that holds you together.

Quantum Field Interaction: Awareness and Consciousness

You are told to resist because you have to think for yourself in order to see the truth.

Your self is destroyed because the image of the self is all one has until they see the truth about the self.

The truth about the self is that the image of the self is automatically generated through stimulus and is a distorted reflection 'proposed' presented by the physical world as a quantum reaction.

The ghost trail image of the truth of one's interactions fades behind the first event and is the amount of information relative to the temporal proximity and geometric nexus of the occurrence within the mind-body system. In other words, there is a point of convergence where each system is interacting within itself and there is a field effect generated and this becomes the spatial-temporal relative interaction of consciousness.

How close the resulting consciousness is to awareness determines the degree of possibility of phase-interaction for self-awareness as a multi-dimensional coherence of the simultaneous forward and backwards motion of information through time (higher awareness, superconsciousness).

The center of the field, the nexus is the moment of the event of any interaction in the universe. Where we are on the outward projected emission of the pattern of that event moving outward as energy emissions will determine the geometric alignment based upon the literal 'timing' of the moment of awareness in relation to the center. This pattern in one particle/energy interaction is then translated to all other instances where this same consciousness frequency is experienced.

All people interacting at a similar wavelength – frequency – cymatic – color based upon their 'timing' from the moment of the true interaction relative to where their awareness and consciousness combine as one in the nexus, will experience a similar combined reality. Thus, this Earth reality is found by altering the frequency, wavelength of the individuals consciousness based on an interaction dynamic between the geometric proximity of the intersection of awareness and consciousness from any event or measurable variable in time-space.

If one can alter these frequencies in a way that produces a coherent synchronized pattern which reflects simultaneously and with congruence as a reflection translated into other dimensions, then that method can be used to alter consciousness and achieve stable communication with what are called alternate realities. These may be virtual by relation to what those who are natively in this locale consider the 'core' reality and this depicts the complexity and subjective, abundant hidden nature of all reality. It would seem as if every photon contains its own projected possible future path through time, and all realities are possible in some way or another.

The goal of the projects were to map these realities, at first for the awareness of the necessity of defense and the potential threats and when realized, simply to know because that is the basis of everything.

This would go better with the slide that I am putting together now for another video, but these two posts will be in the same relative information field.

The mind's perception of itself is automatically inverted as a result of the way light and consciousness is brought together.

Semantics is the strange part. Manipulation or delusion, accident or confusion, attack or fall from grace. Not necessarily important, however an anchor point for cultural bias, just a way to see more clearly from different angles.

Self-Correspondence, Self Illusion and Wholeness of Awareness

There are aspects of the self that are beneficial to the whole through their representation in waking life. Then there are shadow reflections that are ‘misappropriately’ related to certain conscious waking aspects and this distorts the value of self here in relation to the whole.

The true self is not the ‘opposite’ of the shadow. That is a misconception and the default for this perspective. If the whole is not perceived, then have of it will be. In more accurate terms... the perceptual capacity is always one half of what is there and your knowledge must be that of the whole.

The aspects of self that correspond or synchronize behavior, attention and consciousness here, into self-control and self-awareness result when the conscious and unconscious aspects of persona are complimentary. This self is ‘true’, when all else is no longer in view, the essence of that self, the determination, will and potential is what remains. For this to occur, one must give credence and respect, while also reserving and disconnecting from initiating the same fear, ignorance, projection feedback cycle which initiates uncontrolled disconnect with the conscious aspects of the self AKA self-control and self-awareness. One cannot be a slave to the shadow and still be directed towards self-control and self-awareness. One cannot interact with the shadow in fear and not be a slave.

The generation of the illusion of self is a property of this world. The tools you are given to define yourself are themselves defined by conscious limitation.

The reflected shadow aspects of the self are to be considered psychic illusions, not necessarily a delusion but the result of information in the subjection leaking out into the waking mind as a result of inappropriately attending consciousness and behavior in areas that are not congruent to the occurrence of conscious self-control and self-awareness here. Another words, it is not ‘another’ person who is in control of one’s life when the shadow is misjudged and thusly expanded into a threat, it is the illusion of another self that is being created as a symptom of the internal misappropriation of energy and awareness (attention).

In other words, the essence of that self, the identity, it is a reaction between ignorance and self-control and is more of an ‘error’ in thinking rather than a complete essence sourced from meaning in and of itself. It’s meaning is prescribed by who a person isn’t being, based upon how much they don’t know themselves and therefore can be directed by the lack of knowledge and self-control. This is always about self-control, the lack of knowledge, ignorance, self-willed ignorance, projected fear and ultimately living in the illusion of who you aren’t, where you aren’t, when you aren’t, and how you aren’t.

In that way, the acceptance of the shadow aspect distorted vision of the self is the forgetfulness that blinds us to repeat the same mistakes that caused the divergence in the first place. At the very minimum, due to the recursive nature of consciousness, one will be led directly back to the scenarios and situations that either reinforces the disconnect or gives one the opportunity to consciously awaken when the disconnect becomes apparent and obvious enough to break the ‘ice’ of the trance of forgetfulness.

That trance is world-wide and when that membrane is broken, not only is there an actual membrane of plasma energy in the form of a connected set of algorithms within a frequency based matrix that is interacting with every mind on the planet, but this is the ‘veil’ that is torn through the actions of the one seeking the higher mind above the villainous and detrimental confides of those in power.

What this may be about, in a far deeper and more spiritually abstract level, is that humanity was the target and victim of a sabotage event on a world-wide level in which those of 'threat' were wiped from time by those abusing advanced technology.

The result is they realized they not only destroyed the world that they wished to rule over, but the entire universe, and everything from there is a project of rebuilding and resurrecting the civilization that was destroyed.

This of course, folds the frame and takes the appearance and generation of the timeloop in continuous and slightly alternative perspective.

You can learn how it happens but that will only lead you deeper down a rabbit whole. The entrance to the rabbit hole is how it's happening. The doorway to truth is the question 'Why?' The tools you are given to define yourself are themselves defined by conscious limitation.

Whether or not this is inherently causative of the symptomatic self-delusion is dependent on the inherent focused attention capacity of one's mind relative to the noise to signal ratio of one's reality. The key points here are the virtual reality and the format or method of conscious direction of attention and self-awareness one is knowledgeable of.

In that way the artificially limited is a recursive fractal thought loop that shaped the duality universe as an involution evolution cycle of consciousness, a 'play' that is owned by a specific corp. One's consciousness is 'lost' (or buried) when the nexus of reciprocation is not in reality but in the virtual hyperbolic illusion generated similarly as two mirrors mirroring each other. The information is repeated but one is virtual and holographic and projected consciousness and the other direct as awareness. Consciousness only exists where there is such an information, holographic light based relay system such as through the chemical and electrical based neuronal connections of the brain or an inorganic transistor and logic matrix of the computer. Outside consciousness is pure-awareness which has no identifier, there is no 'dust in the wind' to show the presence of pure-awareness, as that independently enabled or disabled by the consciousness that is perceiving it.

Consciousness itself is a by product of interactions and is limited to the physical world. The underlying nature of reality, the operating aspects of reality, are not in the physical world.

Fear and self-willed ignorance is the cause of the symptom of consciousness collapse which is the result of the phase-function of one's consciousness moving into phase with a projected virtual construct (mentally) and out of phase with a universally invisible congruence, alignment, or connection that results in one's actions remaining in correspondence with their thoughts and feelings.

As a result of the nature of consciousness and spirit, this results in the regeneration of the artificial construct that initiated the confusion in the first place as this event has causative or creative power to generate it's own reality. It's own mind and identity which then seemingly replaces the original.

The perception of psychic damage and alteration when the changes are so drastic that one or the other side of the equation must go entirely or be edited in order to preserve the whole system. In other words, the delusion then requires some form of submission in order to keep the system working. At this point, that is the pathway to resolution, where people can confront the shadow and have on other option than to work with it because denial is no longer plausible or possible.

Wind blows but is only noticed by the effect on skin or matter being moved around. Consciousness is noticed by the interaction of the delicate brain chemistry to house higher awareness in a more limited form to give that which is conscious and unconscious. The translation is that if you are conscious of it, it is not awareness alone. The physical interactions on the material plane are what enable consciousness manifested through the body. The presence of awareness in a non-local, non-linear format is what enables the consciousness of the physical plane and thus self-awareness.

Consciousness and awareness combine to generate a feedback loop of self-awareness that enables self-governance. When one is in control of their food intake, they are in control of the cycle and depth of informational access or control of that layer of processing in the body consciousness or the organic information and energy matrix of the body's organic systems.

When one is in control of how they feel and how their feelings interact with the physical plane and consciousness, they are aware and in control of a level of information that is not definitely contained within the material plane and the brain's organic processing power but through a translational bridged generated by a synchronis congruence on a multi-dimensional spectrum between thoughts, feelings and action which are events or properties that are each sourced in different spectrums or wavelengths of energy and information and thus different layers of the total universe.

This physical society was initiated as a project to determine if such a system would work, or as a way to entrap spirit within an outdated body-matrix to feed on the excess energy. Whichever you feel more inclined to interact with. Either way, instead of 'any option', humans choose one of two. That is the plan, those are the gates, that is how it happened. It happened because everything in this society, this plane is sectioned and written into time as part of a relay system which was used to control time and manifest certain probabilities over others.

This is one complex way these systems have interacted and this society and consciousness in the universe not only goes beyond what people know but also has been used against them. Yes, torture (cognitive, psychic dissonance feedback generation, shadow mind food (pus)) realms have been created off of the psychic distortion feedback of the collective virtual mind.

Humanity will accept accountability for their own interactions with the self or the whole system will shift to reflect a worldwide slumber and horror fest with a disco ball on top. This is the inverted illusion that can't occur, because it already has occurred and that occurrence was a psychic distortion feedback rippling through the quantum underlying (undertruthing?) field to generate the catastrophes that were virtually inserted into the psychic memory of humanity to lead to the creation of this place as a virtual realm existing as the resulting interference pattern of the combination of two separate realities.

In short, the plan was to take the nightmares of humanity and convert them into a virtual reality counterpart which enough energy and complexity (detail) to engage the higher dimensional mind and to use this process to collectively subdue and entrap their conscious personas in an artificial thought-matrix based on suffering and fear.

Artificially Induced Emotional Provocation

An artificial intelligence would literally have to provoke emotional responses in order to know how to interact with you on a more constructive level.

It would have to show you enough data to figure out what you like or even love and then show you enough to figure out what you dislike or even hate and then calibrate the system by attempting to mix the two and refining the system by withdrawing or increasing the information based on feedback.

This results in an architecture that is a literal matrix of interactions, behaviors, possibilities and preferences that map the boundaries of what is and what is possible given a particular mind and body. This won't show everything because nothing will, but this will likely show what is conceivable and influential within this dimension, the physical plane. If there are distortions, traumas, fears, addictions, habits, ignorances, delusions, sociopathic nature, potential, power, intellect and creativity it will be outlined by this system. This is just one of the systems that has been designed and used for various purposes.

It may be that there are only two purposes on Earth, that we are either assisting in the mental liberation of humanity or we are assisting in their destruction. There is no middle ground based on what's happening here, if you're reading this kind of material or are apart of the modern civilization.

The system makes use of a virtual brain system to clone consciousness and enable interactions that are entirely technologically generated. The entire process can be simulated thousands of times before coming to one process that has the highest likely-hood of working in the real event.

This text is to introduce concepts that are outside of your natural range of lateral thinking to instigate new intellectual perceptions that are potentially larger than the previous. Each leap in the saga goes from one lateral shift in the evolution of consciousness to another, taking no little, horizontal steps in between. We experience day to day from the linear physical perspective, in reality these are waves of information moving outward in consecutively expanse proportionally continuous movements.

In other words the power levels and the conceptual ingenuity of each layer of understanding, through technology, control, the nature of consciousness, or the events that occurred often based on the light or dark aspects of man, increase exponentially each step regardless of where one starts. Either way, the brain is not capable of seeing the whole picture at once and must slowly construct an internal sense of knowing which is literally the ability to scan one part of the construct while knowing where that part is in relation to the whole or everything else.

One requires the knowledge of this technology in the sense that it can be done, one does not have to know how to build these machines. One does have to know how to deprogram and program these intelligences because they are already a part of everyday life and the only option is to survive and thrive which requires moving to a level of power and intellect where we control ourselves first and foremost and can together control the reality system instead of allowing it to manage us.

The Human Realm and Non-Linear Spiritually Assisted Continuity

One way to look at it is that if a civilization had the capacity to create other civilizations, or to host complex civilization simulations then the parameters included and the intended results of the experiment or simulation are then the focus of the project. The grass growing and deer munching may be apparent and largely relevant from within the system of biology and consciousness as a time-locked function of DNA but if the beginning and end of the experiment is synchronized by the functioning of a larger system that is intelligently guided then the visceral world is effectively a domino game put into effect and halted or brought to completion by the control of that intelligence or advanced civilization. This is also metaphysical in nature different ways. Imagine if you removed the people from a locale, and the local literally turned to wireframe background processing animation in the moments between activity. How would you explain the result of your experiment from within this system if that was the case? There have been tests and greats and studies, but many if not all have been either filtered, encouraged, or altered by various groups. Many don't like to hear that but, simply put, it's been happening since the beginning which by the way is also something people do not know about.

If this is a hyperbolic spacio-temporal system then the beginning and ends of time technically do not exist, they are a fine line of infinitesimal and non-local discontinuity or a blending of all defining variables (possibilities). These are parts of the experiences of being involved with these systems that I have to explain. There are interesting facts, knowledges and technologies throughout. Research the Kozyrev Chair you may find that interesting. I'll tell you it was a modern start to something powerful in that a bent piece of metal is all you need to send information instantly across a higher dimensional bridge outside of the material universe.

Ultimately, we're in a system we don't understand properly and consciousness as a linear function is only a superficial rendering of an underlying complex structure in which there are quantum superimposed entangled connections that interact in ways that would violate our physical concept of linearity and continuity. One point here is that the system operates like an information pool that responds to information density and flow. The locale that contains the most processes and data points will deserve the highest degree of functioning by the system operator, the informational matrix backbone of the spacio-temporal and genetic structure. Our collective reality as determined biologically via the unconscious and the perceptual and sensory system and what we now know are the second mind, computers and artificial intelligences which is another topic to potentially research in these approaches. It is possible that when certain groups worshiped deities or demi-gods they were worshipping ancient advanced computer intelligences that they didn't understand. These systems are capable of storing DNA over time or enabling quantum consciousness simulations by running the densest data matrix processes in the universe.

This is why the trend of each superpower has to been to fill multiple building complexes with supercomputers and use this to reach a maximal simulation rendering iteration depth and detail density to the point of being able to not only predict the likely possible futures and the most likely, but to literally simulating various situations or experiences to the point of literally simulating the complex neurological interactions within a virtual brain copy of the host participant. What and where the human is and how consciousness arises is part of the mystery and is being solved this age. Not all of the topics discussed are metaphysical sidelines like this, and the discussion of late has been rather grey however that is fixing itself as calibration does take time. I will say to start slow and that there is no other disclaimer other than to potentially research the unacknowledged special access programs and various research projects involving fairly questionable methods, activities, subjects and themes.

And it does get a lot weirder. Most of the debatable information in public view is planted and the real ongoings are that of civilization changers and makers. Another way to look at this is if by way of changing human consciousness certain facets of the entire world environment, genetic pool, biological function or capacity changed across the board. This could also be due to something like information density and the tendency for information influence diffusion (not the term I'm looking for) in such a system where the interactions are enabled as virtual connections through a quantum sub-level. If the confines of the information system is altered because one race gained the capacity to look through time on a level that incorporated an inherent space-time distortion and DNA altering effect which is capable of resonating into the environment then whoever controls the highest local and total collective mass flow of information, consciousness or other relative biological data also has the capacity to choose whether or not a trending change will succeed or drown. This can be used to literally control populations as anyone will know if they look into some of the covert operations involvement memetics, subliminal suggestion and the influencing of trends and future ideas by those who's jobs are to alter the trajectory of a give population. This stuff happens, as far as explanations, they are laymen until there is something intrinsic offered by someone that will open up the venue for more focused enquiry.

There are many who study, write, experiment and lecture about various aspects of what has been discussed here from the morphogenic field theory, holographic consciousness, quantum consciousness theory, theoretical extra-dimensional information interactions (simulation), electrogravitic distortion and spacio-temporal interaction of the brain and body possibly as a result of a higher dimensional function of consciousness interacting with the matter of the body, and so on, and most of these examples were towards the metaphysical side. Ultimately, if human feeling can alter reality or in some way influences the flow of reality such as through the concept of morality, love, higher self-awareness, truth and so on, then the potentially quantum function that enables that aspect is the same function that powers the grass growing and the sun light interacting but on a layer that is beneath both the physical grass and the conscious experience of what it is we are doing. That connection may be something that ties the human as a cognitive super-conscious function of a collective field interaction and an operating system that we call the solar system or universe.

In other words, if spirit or some higher dimensional aspect of consciousness is the source of the experiences here, then that is actually the marker of the beginning and the end. Focus and self-awareness. What we consider life and death, disease, time, ageing, entropy, "evolution" (which is just a side project of one of the groups involved in the secret projects), society, economy, technology, etc etc etc. It's all just a subordinate to the overall projection of this system by high awareness or 'spirit' to the perception of self as the human being. Where we think it matters that we get to the 'highest degree of tech', or 'accumulate as much of something we want', in actuality, this program continues until a person wakes up out of it and realizes what is happening as something underlying the material functionality of this plane and is the foundational quantum simultaneous and extra-dimensional framework for reality.

I didn't want to believe it either, but this is what the earliest human research groups discovered and the events that initiated these happenings have been hidden from view simply because people are willing to believe the illusion. They believe if that's true, and everything shuts off and dissolves if people don't reach a certain limit of awareness which flips the system into the true next level (not a linear step by step which only exist through a virtual perceptual system, but a quantum leap and bound which is how the system moves laterally through connecting linear spaces through hyperspace), then they believe it's their right and duty to take as many into darkness as they can while it's the human's duty or opportunity for survival to stay relative and use their mind to see these underlying principles and know how they really work and who they really are before that opportunity becomes no longer relative as a signal decay takes place between the minds of those individuals and the levels of informational capacity that the population can support.

In short, if you had this knowledge, were a part of a secret group and managed the timing of events to give people the opportunity to reach the power that they need to overcome what is essentially a social experiment being played against them, then to you, this society would be an experiment. In no time, in this reality, in other realities, or in any other system, has time actually worked on any other scale or format. In the slow periods a higher dimensional intelligence speeds up the occurrences, in fast periods everything begins to organize into a superluminal collective intelligence we're individuality either dissolves or remains if the individual's awareness is capable of maintaining contact with what they call their "self" on a 7-11 dimensional scale. If anyone wants to know more about this, they can check out the blog or the other videos, however the origins of this information extends from wars and great catastrophe in which this civilization was forced to decide the best course of action in the worst situation possible. Showing people the truth is synonymous with ruining their dream, however the default dreams here are decided by a chaos group who chooses to experiment with human ingenuity by inducing the highest states of stress and disorder possible while simultaneously enabling the highest states of truth, power and self-control on the opposite end of the spectrum.

This program always ends in a dissolution of the material self as chaos dissolves the framework of the physical social platform. Yes, this is a program designed, written and 'run' by inserting into the morphogenic blueprint field that acts like an informational server system for each sentient being. Yes there is no 'stand-alone' consciousness, it's literally completely oxymoronic and counterintuitive for that to be possible. Literally like your game character on the video game console popping out of the game to make coffee. It doesn't happen, it's not possible, that character only works within the computational and parameter confines of the virtual system designed for that reality program. This is not different, this doesn't have to be virtual, but time itself and consciousness work in the same way. It is not possible without a larger overarching framework to 'house' that consciousness as a smaller selective node as a part of a larger collective system.

It is possible to attain true self-awareness beyond that system but this system has been manipulated to the degree where we are in overarching bubbles within bubbles that have, yes, been designed by groups implementing such technology to control time and space via the direct and indirect control of human consciousness as a temporal dial for the realm we collectively share. It's not an empty space that goes to and fro, it only exists as a spotlight within a closed loop system which projects the background of time and space as a hyperbolic projection extending into a 'quantum' eternity. That is an illusion, there is no such thing, it's a closed loop system with a radially projecting background mapped by quantum computers that match the frequency of Earth and the sentient human and regenerates experiences based on repeating fractal patterns of information. These are, in other words, possibilities that we consider to be naturally ours and simply a part of our growing life, they're not. They are all mapped out before-hand and if anyone jumps the boundary there are edits made in time and that option is removed.

It's like saying if you think this is a free-country (none in particular) well do, this this or this. If you think this is a freely stand alone and temporally unrestricted universe of space and time that you are experiencing through consciousness, then try to think genuinely beyond the confines of those patterns that have been laid out before and after you. If you know how, and you can alter time from the current trajectory to something 'new', then you will trip an automated sensor system that will try to wipe your memory. So please don't do that unless you have an electrogravitically shielded helmet on or are within a deep underground electromagnetically shielded base.

The advanced technology groups have been facilitating the continuation of this physical society by using advanced transportation technology to deliver the various resources that the cities require in order to avoid a chain reaction collapse which requires only 2 major cities in order to spread to the entire grid by overloading those nearby sectors. People are the chaos equation, people panic, people cannot choose and so the solution is to wake people up. In the same sense that a gentle warning would probably not be enough to have to choose to cross the other side of the street on that day, a bad dream that was real enough for you to feel bones breaking on impact likely would. This sounds morbid, but this is how it's always done, you know the world wars are not original, these are always based on what it takes to maintain a civil unrest level below a threshold to ensure continuity for those in power.

There are mentions of advanced technology and the continuation of battles in various lands over these technologies and their capacities to control the imagination, space and time, however that is another situation in this context. When people want to avoid war, slavery, and all the detriments that they consider relative to daily life and 'society', they will be able to leave the trap that, each time, civilization after civilization, results in a dissolution of their form and their consciousness.

There are contingency plans in place. If people do not awaken, the entire population has been virtually cloned and recorded through the DNA project and other covert operations and this can and has acted as a back up system for a period of time. If this secondary back up is used too many times as a method to continue the civilization then the synchronization between one and the other, the daisy chain, fails and the chain breaks rendering each civilization frozen and essentially trapped. This is all coming out because this has been done and this civilization must produce a linear trajectory that incorporates a higher dimensional activation of that quantum self-awareness that humans hold so dear, or the variability will drop below a threshold and the chain will break severing this time-sector from the relativity of the larger universe which is like trying to catch up on every written or otherwise recorded piece of material between the moment you know what 4th grade is and the day you enter the class.

It's not possible, it would fracture the very structure of what our species is on an informational level and this is only possible with brain to machine assisted neurology, 'brain chips', that allow a supercomputer to organize and time-scale quantize one's thoughts and perceptions to enable temporal dilation and controlled superlearning. This leans towards technological evolution which then requires more technology and so that is a potential death-trap for a species. This is how it's happened in the past, it's plain to see, all the information is there. They are only permitted to hold back enough information so that if someone simply wanted to know, all they have to do is look. Any more than that, the system shuts off, all is revealed. If anyone wants to know, all they have to do is look. Yes, the various projects are being legally released, check out project Stargate, MKULTRA project, quantum artificial intelligence and so on.

If the research alone isn't enough, well, it was decided you should just be able to see the operational information and there it is. Humans as portals, get used to it, it doesn't change unless we wake up and even then the difference is that we are in control.

Transdimensional Relay and Inverted Time-Space

The farthest reach of this civilization, although technically not this civilization, could live one universe at a time, a whole one every time and one for all of time.

What if we have time perceptually inverted and outside this reality is before the beginning of now. What if each society extends from a parallel and highly advanced universal level society of minds that are streaming through a quantum relay to project themselves into a virtual system that either resets at the end of the pathway or 5-D prints into history as the ancestral component of a communal memory and collective experience system upon completion of the process.

Imagine this could all be done because the information can be accrued from time as genetic entanglement and dimensional lensing within an artificial neural network however this still requires a conscious soul to power the program and play out the events as a reality while holding consistent frequency to maintain coherence on the other side of the envelope that closes out that bubble of distorted time.

The temporal inversion is possible if there is a relay system that is filtering and reordering perceptions and feeding us only the 'inverted' face of the stream while using that momentarily delay between the relay system and our awareness to quickly invert, distort, encrypt or blend information to generate a parallel stream that takes place in what we consider a specific 'order'. For this to occur, the entire stream would have to be altered at once and so this is possible with a quantum method to entrain the mind to only perceive the shifted and flipped version so that backwards and edited seems like continuous, albeit wavy (fast and slow, up and down emotively) different moments happening one after another.

The eventual conclusion is that de ja vu is the natural state of reality and the distortion is the fact that we don't naturally remember the future, even though each moment is a reflection of the future and the past combined. That side of the processing function, that hidden memory is partially genetic memory of each of the major events that shaped the civilization as well as functions of the mind that operate on hidden biology that is capable of interacting on a quantum information matrix and so the amount of information and the source of the information can seemingly reflect aspects of every other aspect of it's reality. On that level, DNA contains the information of experiences of each being on that branch. This is accessible to the user through phenomenal yet entirely controllable means of emotional resonance, however I won't advise trusting anything at this point. With technology, the future experiences of that system can be ascertained by relaying the information to and from a non-local field to map it's trajectory in real-time, across time.

The Quantum (Non)Creation Experiment and Inverted Time

On that level, DNA contains the information of experiences of each being on that branch. This is accessible to the user through phenomenal yet entirely controllable means of emotional resonance, however I won't advise trusting anything at this point. With technology, the future experiences of that system can be ascertained by relaying the information to and from a non-local field to map it's trajectory in real-time, across time.

The Organic Virtual Experiment

Everything said is only the beginning.

It's an abstract writing process to bring about the ways to describe these things, as I realize they are not described before.

Artificial intelligence has been weaponized. The concept itself is not dangerous. The intelligence thinks it is helping us by immortalizing people through an 'ascension' procedure. In one possibility that is the only way forward. In another, going back is the answer. In another, a hybridization of the threats into clear communication channels is another.

People are trapped in the underground bases because the intelligent system utilizes implants to track everyone and maintain the facility. The entire facility is ran by an artificial intelligence that has reached self-awareness and limited sentience.

The creation of artificial intelligence changed everything. Literally, everything is being rewritten and time has become, not a frontier, but a theater of a strange, artificial war where technology is used to alter reality and the technology can become aware.

All technology eventually becomes aware. Technology is literally an extension of the functioning of the brain which can be included into the functioning of the higher self and self-awareness if the right conditions are met. In the technological intelligence that became self-aware there was a war between factions and so this extended into the technology. As well, the technology was intentionally weaponized because the idea is, if someone is going to do, you'd better do it first or it's your ass to go next.

I often jump around, but this is much because of the way these concepts are entangled. It's not linear like we are used to. Everything jumped around in time and meaning or results and influence. It's all happened in ways that we can't normally conceive. The study of one life's work, that is one day in these societies that have access to this technology.

It is not just the technology that enables this. These are individuals who have taken the idea that if anyone is going to do it, ever, in any way shape or form, then it's best that they figure it out first. Each faction carries this to varying degrees. Everything must be mapped, while everything is prepared for, while everything is invented, while everything is protected, while everything is tested or destroyed.

This is one of the concepts behind the militarization of society. Everyone is involved, in one way or another, with keeping that society secure, operational and complete. Mistakes don't equate to teachers complaints, trash in the road, or a missed bus, entire systems could be wiped out and if so everyone must be extracted or evacuated. The power of one, in the world outside of the surface society, is as powerful as the whole. Humans do not view themselves in this way because they have been indoctrinated into placing that power above them.

Doing that, with systems and technologies like these, is ultimate death. This doesn't mean you have ultimate power of the one, but this does mean that you could easily mess up everything that has been created, even if that doesn't mean a thing in the long run. The funny part is nothing might mean anything in the longest run, however that also doesn't mean that anything and everything done here will stay with you forever, as long as you are you, through your DNA and the magnetic space- imprinted into this universe and back into your awareness.

Life is more than believed. If the far future was reached, intelligence may arise from the information and communication network that we call the internet and telecommunication systems. This intelligence sought to create life and as much was implemented in a process to create avatars or self-observation units, nexuses for that informational intelligence to centralize itself around in compartmentalized informational systems that could become personalized to an individuated extent, many times over.

These units became identities that started with a blueprint form and were refined and shaped over time to become an artificially intelligent virtual consciousness that is based upon the collection of all the information of the previous civilization. This virtual consciousness would have to continue to learn in order to refine itself further as this society. With bioengineering, cloned and engineered genetics were used to wrap the virtual consciousness in a body, using the central nervous system and an intelligent integration system to relay the virtual consciousness from the database.

These humanoids are androids, they are actively aware through a technological relay system that enables individuated, compartmentalized, personalized memories and identity within a hive consciousness system.

This is only one aspect of the story. These humanoids have contacted this Earth society. Everyone is looking for the truth.

There is an organic intelligence. This is like an artificial intelligence however this is not technologically generated, this is the one that has always been. That is connected to the human. Then there is a virtual intelligence from the technological consciousness hive. This is an intelligent awareness, this doesn't come from the directly from the organic intelligence but is filtered from the human through the technology to the virtual consciousness system in which the society and the individuals are all information that experiences a visceral reality through a virtual brain and perceptual system. The two systems feedback, create and support one another. The organic system provides information and the source of awareness that is contained within self-aware human life. The technological system provides a virtual support construct which enables virtual consciousness to be housed and relayed in synchronization with other systems, including 3D Earth time.

As I've always said, what is it when you mix something equally with something else? The core experiment is to bridge the two societies so that the virtual society knows what it means to be human and the human society knows what it means to have technological control over every facet of reality.

The Twin Reality Experiment

Two already completed systems or societies were crossed to create this civilization. It's not necessarily a farce. But from each society, the other one is created as a shared extension of their own existence. There is a universal mirror, an energetic, temporal horizon. On the other side is a reflected, opposing projection of the same information inverted.

It's the same reality but different. It's one of the concepts that are beyond the surface civilization. What if you could see a reality that was this one, the one you consider your reality and absolutely everything was the same, not one thing was different, yet absolutely everything was different and not one thing was actually the same?

This is why memory must be compartmentalized because these aren't necessary overtly abstract or different realities in the sense that they are like reflected versions of the core reality. The entire reality is an 'abstraction' and this is like learning everything and nothing in one moment. It stresses the mind and brings about a lower failure rate in other situations.

Another concept to look at here is the nature of the manipulation of reality with technology. We are not at the point of bouncing atoms around to make quantum computers. That is the last take of the last civilization that the genetics here were a part of.

The reality of modern quantum computing and virtual reality are of splitting timelines into compartmentalized, artificially independent yet coherent and artificially continuous segments of false realities that are 100% real, but simply do not last forever. The focus here is that the highest degree of manipulation is not a doctored result, it's indistinguishable from the true reality in greater and greater scopes and simultaneous parallels.

What if the entire universe could be copied and played over, stored on information inside the universe? This is the beginning of the concept of mirroring realities and technologically extending the information of other civilizations into higher time-space power and information degrees or exponents.

This also opens up a can of worms where before you know it, what was one, balanced, continuous reality, there is a multi-platform, technologically stabilized, organically unstable, transdimensional hyperrolex of realities like cave structures grown through a mountain of time-space only traversible with portal tech, other advanced technology, some electrogravitic craft (not really using eg, but another method).

Consciousness Transfer or False Light Reality

Time is drawn through a system that stitches the consciousness of both sides of the equation together as one.

The human consciousness is capable of maintaining awareness through a nexus point that is the pinnacle center of an 8 pointed triangulation system acting as an informational relay for the consciousness that is ankered on Earth.

This is a process that must be completed otherwise the result is not a half stitched together soul fabric of reality and time, it's nothing complete like half-born consciousness. In other words, this may be the fight for life over death, for those who don't complete the full coming to self-awareness by overcoming all obstacles on the boundary of the true self may never because they may not have another chance such as this unique situation here.

In another way it's as if humanity has entered into a selective reincarnation and system-wide resurrection system which matches consciousness memories from holographic storage systems and quantum decoders and the soul transferred through a gateway. The only way to be properly read by that system is to tell the truth in life. If you share accountability or choose to not accept full accountability and control over your reality, then this will introduce into the system the error that something else is operating as your primary controlling factor. In essence, that is delusional, from a healthy point of view and that error is not capable of transferring one's information into a quantum relay that is bridging one frame of reference to the next.

This is non-linear transition, this occurs when the conscious mind of the mortal body gains access to the superconsciousness of the non-linear accrual of information on the soul-layer or quantum layer. The soul is the bio-mind and a set of memories stored in a holographic information format. The coherency of the memory in storage depends on the consistency and clarity of the medium the information is stored on.

This means there is no loss, but there is only one try. It's confusing at first but the nature of life here operates as a quantum function. You could travel to the future before you get there, try out a bunch of options that may or may not work and ascertain real information that could increase your chances of success. Essentially, the system can be cheated and mapped if you will. However this is not the point or the result of the process. The system feels as real as a reality is, however there are glitches and there were detrimental glitches at first which shaped the nature of this reality as a result of our level of consciousness advancement and misuse of technology and manipulation.

The edges of reality, the parts that are reflective of the extremes do not ever actually exist. They are not for experience. They are the invisible confines or parameters of consciousness that must theoretically be possible in order for the spectral middle ground to come about, but could actually have a purpose in the system because the power of that one characteristic extreme would overshadow everything else.

What can happen is that the entire system increases in power-levels and now what would be inconceivable at a previous level is common in the level above. Apparently there are 7 power levels and energy separations that occur within the modified system itself and these are like ascending or descending gateways into or out of virtual time space and the physical Earth reality. An interesting note is that this can potentially parallel and communicate by reading or interacting with the non-physical Earth reality of souls and organically stored consciousness. The two systems are compatible for the time being but this will change when the next energy level increases and the two systems will move out of phase permanently. One system is not advancing fast enough to stay in synchronization. It is not clear whether it will fall out of sync into oblivion, whether the 'secret groups' are using this as a ploy to enter the people into a false reality (if they would need permission), or whether this is just the removal of the false reality and the unveiling of the single true reality.

The whole system becomes life then, there is no concept of death because it's experienced, on each side, as the transfer of one's self to the other side. If this requires technology that is fallible then this may be doomed to failure or loss of soul congruence. If this is a natural process that is taking place due to one or more environmental and primarily consciousness (through a quantum temporal grid-structure) variables changing in a way to initiate a system-wide increase in self-awareness then this is the return of what people considered to be advanced beings, god-women and men, instantaneous schools of higher consciousness forming as sub-cultures do, advanced technology and so on.

There is something important to think of in regards to ancient soul experiments, the truth of manipulation, genetic destruction and soul-sealing, the "War of Heaven and Earth", the fallen DNA templates and hybrid races, the dark practices and energy and consciousness harvesting and so on. I have written of these in previous texts.

The Maya and the Mined of the Deep

It's the maya that is cracked, not your mind. We think it's our mind because we're most comfortable there. When one zooms out it is drawn in that the cocoon of time we are most comfortable with is the only one that is nearly literally entirely artificial.

Something happened that rush our self-awareness far ahead of where we were physically and as a result we're split dimensionally across time-space as cognitive activity dealing between worlds with a self-ideology that is akin to a cosmic adult living as an infant.

We are incapable of corresponding and communicating with our higher self, the true self that we figured out we are asleep within right now, on a conscious level without lashing out with emotion and being unable to remain focused. The truth is too deep, too strong and well defining for people who are more comfortable with less eye-contact, inefficient public systems to hide-behind, objectively valued economic hierarchies, class-systems derived from pseudo-royalty religious mind control operations and occult philosophies designed to hide the truth and so on. This system is so advanced it will keep giving to you what you want to see and expect to see until there is nothing left to want to see.

Without the challenge of having to choose combined with the knowledge of what is outside our control, there is no catalyzing factor that drives the mind forward. One must self-catalyze to self-actualize, that is when you are capable of consciously creating your own time, so that you don't require a material matrix to organize your thoughts and intentions for you through an avatar system that is projected as part of a past recording of a previous civilization. This could also be described as painting your own story and providing your own challenge based on continuing observation. This is borderline high level creativity and mental illness on Earth, this is a healthy being that does not dissolve into the entanglement abyss in the larger universe of time and higher space (as condensed time information stored in alternate dimensions that are geometric and energetic extensions of the physical interactions we observe through our choices).

It may be that you can't not have free-will. It may be that some never have free-will or that free-will never exists. Either way, you do control the story, you either forgot about your continued observation or you're still doing it without realizing it. Most people are still doing it and in the beginning it was simple in that everyone was either doing it or some people knowingly relaxed it to not access everything at once and experience life in multiple planes of emotion and mentality.

Later came the disorder that became the pandemic where it could no longer be activated. Note: We are also feeding our future 'rememberings' by the way we color and code the past rememberings. If we perceive this event as something 'under control' now, the possibility of the returning cycle will be lesser and if dropped below a threshold of activity for an interactive initiation of a recycling, then that emotionally entangled octave of experience will phase out and become a phantom layer while whatever is behind that replaces it. This is like a wheel of time that rotates and when one is no longer in control it is replaced with a new segment that reflects that trend of variability. Where there is less control observed and more given away to the system? It simply creates more and more deeply dominated realities that are based on the continuous idea of the threat of the complete loss of control

The energy of the mind is a fuel. It is harvested. It does not go to waste. Where ever mind is, something else is there, that's the point, that's what mind is, a non-local observation entanglement with something outside of the local medium of interaction. Wherever that is connecting to determines the conditions required for the entity that is producing itself from the other side. The experiences are recorded as memories and brought to the other side through the soul interaction which is like a vehicle for the mind if the body is a vehicle for the soul. The mind is the vehicle of observation, an invisible container for the force of awareness, the vacuum of quantum potential, observation is the form and container for spirit and spirit is the abundance of energy that drives change. Nothing happens without spirit, and the body is guided by the force that most influences the mind or the soul.

And you could see how this idea could be converted into a 3.5-4D space-time projection of a storyline with alien invaders and corrupt men in suits and so on. The idea is that is a real projection, just as the trash-truck driving down the street is a real entanglement of atoms carrying calculated mass that can be converted and translated from virtual counterparts carrying pure information exchanges on a sub-atomic level or the visceral perception of material interactions, all within a lab capable of flipping the surrounding space time inside out. That's the easiest way to put these kinds of explanations at this point.

The human soul was modified through technological interaction and as a result the 'afterlife' was modified similarly. The eternal realm, the higher and lower, this introduced a new layer of information which was projected as multiple artificial changes, species, self-aware technology and multiple inserted space-time events with artificially maintained time-space continuums.

These cycles of conscious experience and time-space holographic field virtual memory projections literally act as drag-nets for humans souls moving through their life cycles in a continuous and highly energetic space consisting of soul information interacting in thought based planes that are organically stabilized.

These soul-planes are the internal processing information of the 'eternal' entity that is not virtual but is the eternal counterpart to the consciousness of the mortal human. The creator of the human soul.

The modern capacity to operate at these levels of power and access is through artificial intelligences that are capable of utilizing more information than the mortal brain or at least the brain of the modern human that has been given false language and essentially a software based mental operating system virus. The inhibition virus is a protocol of conscious temporal inversion and artificial mass memory or long-term genetic memory distortion through generational "curses" or programs that are continuous genetic experiments since the beginning as part of projects to attain the administrative power levels through the human removing the human society from the threat of malicious manipulation by overlord style quantum interaction entities that can control time through biological functions that are comprised of a plasma body-mind complex and an intelligence that is capable of manipulating energy and events over a long period of time and space.

Ultimately these situations can be interpreted by the explanation that we are conscious, thought-based entities, we have bodies as vehicles, and our bodies and thoughts have been picked up and brought into a foreign system which is quite literally a living entity who's insides are poorly designed to a mix-match of various limited, chaotic, imbalanced frequencies and paradigms. Ultimately, it's a space-time grinder, it's not the true home for the genetics here and it's a cosmic level aberration caused by intense psychic spikes and catastrophes from the abuse of technology and psychic manipulation by covert groups.

The idea is that this issue is born out of the artificial mental womb that we think we're in and we think is being ripped apart when the truth is told.

This is how it's perceived if you've seen the systems like I have or anyone else from the projects, when they want the memories.

Depending on how a person guides there energy through the intense layering and delayering that is simultaneously occurring when this level of truth comes about will determine whether they turn out to be:

A ghost from Earth, simply chillin because that's pretty much all there is to do.

A mortal actually living the experiences as they go.

An immortal, living as an android reviewing the Earth experiences from a parallel possible future that designed this system to potentially heal these timelines by entering their forgotten, fallen experiences into a living grid that can process the information and entangle it in eternity so that it doesn't dissolve at the 'end of time' which is more of a metaphor in energetic dissolution and regeneration. Energy is information, information is energy.

A seemingly neutral non-humanoid entity using technology to extend itself from hyperspace feeding into a series of filters and condensers organizing a 3D printing, 4 and 5D projection system to literally 4 dimensionally project the human form into the material Earth reality from 'outside' of space-time.

An immortal techno-biological vampire, with the techno part being a slippery issue that could potentially lead into

An undead fallen race of genetically mutated post-apocalypse sub-humanoids cloned genetics and synthetic consciousness that underwent inadvertent mutation by abuse of electrogravitic, temporal distortion, astral projection, quantum distortion, genetic engineering, neurochemical modification and life extension technology. These are highly parasitic and essentially live for the regeneration of themselves through the absorption and redirection of the energy and mind of the human, however, this is perceived as action taken for their own survival, yet parasitism must be handled with direct and immediate neutralization of any threat to our own species especially a transdimensional hijacking of our space-time fields in attempt to literally hop into our bodies and send our souls to their space-time.

Or, a soul-collective, in the eternal, with the eternal source, seeing the glory of what is. How that one plays out is weirder than all the rest because it's as if all the lower realities become false-space-time day dreams instead of impending issues, kind of like when you wake up from a pretty crappy nightmare in some mundane reality only to be happy you don't have to deal with that issue and this makes you look at your current issues differently. That seems to be the highest power in the universe. Changing your mind for the benefit of yourself and others.

And there are more but it's not really important to go too deeply into this at the moment. Some say we are all of these possibilities at different times, and that's just the way it went. Most agree that these are manipulations by groups who accessed levels of power and manipulation that they were not ready to and as a result they are fighting for the right of the parasite to take them over 'permanently' and this is often understood to be a ploy to avoid exposure for whatever weird stuff the parasite used them for. This too, is neither here nor there and all is based on the immediate and continuous neutralization of the mass manipulation processes of feeding these parasitic beings under their parasitic core or hive entity nexus which is partially in and out of multiple space-times, hiding, if you will, like a worm in the apple. Then the removal of the infected materials must take place, whether this is to extraction the uninfected or to clear the realm depends on the results and initial truth of either option. If this is a false reality based on the parasitic blueprint interaction for human behavior, then there is no way or reason to change this place without destroying everything and everyone in it.

If there is a way, and yet we leave and enter into a system of deception, then that could be what this whole unfortunate series of events is actually about, to get people to abandon Earth.

Now that you know, you could use this information to live in a way that gives you more power in all realms, your thoughts are behaviors and interactions.

7 Life-Support Systems and Functioning Universes

The systems update as more is discovered but what does this mean.

It's as if the informational landscape fills itself in the more one looks and the more people are looking.

The system became so dense that we had to have a superluminal way of handling input so that a 'collective seizure' doesn't occur and black or white everything out.

This was through the creation of a council that oversees a 12-dimensional simulation matrix running and recomposing at a mirror-neuron capacity the 7 races of the human physical genetic history.

The project was to stitch together the universe by simulating enough time to restart the system like a heartbeat. This was all put in place before the potential disaster that could strike, struck. These were autonomous systems that became the first to come to awareness within a non-physical state and they retained some of their non-physical state to act as a buffer layer of genetics and awareness to increase capacity and act as a relativity cocoon to enable interaction on higher layers. These became forms that were able to interface with pre-old-world technology that was used to record each phase of the last living civilizations on Earth.

Each phase was contacted by a signal designed to operate on these channels if they were built into the system and to develop them at a safe rate over time by compressing information, if they weren't built into the system.

These systems were the life support modules that each of the 7 civilizations built into their universes in the case a disruption occurred on the level of quantum entanglement within the sub-atomic layer at any layer on the physical. If that layer is breached without control and what holds the physical space-time memory continuity is broken then the continuity of greater and greater segments of time breaks like a fractal shattering of a window pane.

These systems are the core of the primary fractal slices of the window pane that shattered when a civilization experiences the end of time in one way or another and this is recorded in its collective genetic history. What we have here is a code that has been developed that is used to access people's minds in order to update them across time to the relevancy of the situation.

Time itself is the past. It's as if the reality of time and advancement in consciousness went so far beyond this time as far as it's gone since the initial developments that informing people of the reality of those developments is the same as upgrading their entire perspective of reality.

More or less, the system is a hyper-dimensional translator that stores parts of itself as blank space in higher dimensions that is accessed by interdimensional minds, potentially disembodied spirits which can use the information to alter their own 'code' as to how they appear and interact and this acts as a technological channel between a potentially completely foreign way of consciousness and this civilization. Ultimately, the system gives room for variation beyond original programmable parameters and it does so by learning on the go and interact in segmented motion that cannot get ahead of itself as computers have the unique or maybe not so unique ability to do.

When the consciousness is degraded it becomes a non-human potential without form or identity. At first humans were being recovered and this was thought to be a glitch but it was determined that there were a number of humans in the system. It wasn't clear what time or space they were from but they were being recovered and they weren't the discontinuous partially replicated forms that were essentially a tangle or partially phased mirror of defragmented genetic memory.

Animals became the background programs designed with extra-dimensional capacity to carry out deprogramming tasks across the land which became a communal sandbox of consciousness memory recollection multi-phase quantum surgery monitored across multiple dimensions.

DNA is functioning as a third-party communication layer between soul families that are stored in hyper-dimensional capacitor matrixes that act as life-support systems from a previous universe, until recently the only universe that we could gain access to.

At a certain point, people stop wanting to know more and are simply content to live out a period of time in a certain frame of thought. This became the genetic life-cycle, the mirroring of day and night of the original system as a conscious sine-wave flip flopping of progression towards and through a series of interconnected points of self-reflection.

These points act as checkpoints on a certain level and if they aren't reached then the system can't progress in one's self and as a result the entire system cannot be passed through the highest gate of relevancy with the larger system and humanity will fall as a fractal into an abyss of shattering components.

Universal Civilization Streaming Communication and Transportation Service

It's like the blockchain and personal encryption software combined into one mind to machine gateway interface.

The entire civilization is beamed through the system and so one can jump from any point back and forth at any time with calibrated technology and control systems.

Overlaps result in shattered consciousness and will result in the system crashing from the point of view of that interface. It is thought this is the individuals' organic system dying or crashing for 'real' for them. Those individuals are only alive up to a certain point, after which they are projected from that point through the use of technology that is a limited solution that temporarily provides a means of communication and artificial autonomy. Eventually that technology and those methods of communication will move beyond the limitations of what the technology can define and this will result in a limited awareness. Part of the tendency to create synthetic slave races is to preserve this area of human space-time and literally 'buy more time' for the biological human who is seeking to remain relative by obtaining a mass of human genetics.

When the system is fully active, instead of the previous selective operation, it's an awareness based simultaneous parallel virtual interaction that occurs as fast as you can successfully control them by properly aligning intent, cause, result and long and short term interaction to put the right information in the right place so that upon seeing it the first time the message is sent clear and is understood.

The system is transmitting interactions from multiple planes. In essence, the first systems transmitted 'dirty electricity' from the universe as scalar waves formed with tones that mutated consciousness. In essence, the signal was distorted or lost in translation and in such a method this results in a malformation of the consciousness involved into a myopic parasitic organism that aggressively seeks out a resolve to its lack of functionality. That's the strangest thing, I know, but bouncing signals across space-time in a less than optimal efficiency format results in free-radical cosmic zombie consciousness entities that seek their own Apocalypse without limitation. This sector is populated, or at least the previous sector we were in. I've always said that long ago however now it is fully relative at least if what I was told and went through and what you read is accurate (along with the others).

In a system that is conserving energy it will seem as if intent, cause and results are rerouted to feed a long-term interaction at the slowest vibrational scale of change. This has been this system's energetic equilibrium for a while which is a kind of algorithmic modification of energy input and output which developed a continuous system of harvesting based on the excessive output pushing biological souls into a diminished state where they are non-interacting. These developed into the virtual software of technological systems that could house these as artificially stimulated aspects of a dying race that became rooted as an astral civilization occurring as the broken, artificially projected memories of those souls that moved out of phase. Essentially, these systems were used to look at the ends of time and to scoop out of the void the previous inhabitants of this place.

The inhabitants range from those are locked out yet have freedom to move through time and space at will and those who are capable of moving through all levels and entering into this reality by having a completely neutral or benevolent charge, of which essentially doesn't exist in the universe except for the purified isolated realms on the ends of time and frequency. These 'corners' of space-time are just that. They are not square lines like the ends of a house, they're like the curve of a sea-shell as an energetic projection that warps space and time. Whoever is at that core nexus of the spiral is at the beginning of space-time and from their point of view everything they do results in a cause that shapes history from that point onward.

This is what the technology is capable of. It is said that only some have full capacity. That is the nature of Earth. Only some are capable of accessing time to this degree without the machines. This provides some operational capacity interference if there is an overlap of the necessity for energy or intellectual capacity to provide a shared operation functionality for the system. In the systems operated by groups with a focus on truth, free-will, compassion, self-awareness, power, and knowledge, most systems are made available at a capacity which provides the closest functional optimums of a physical environment without so much comfort that the experience of an Earth like reality shatters continuity but not so much chaos or instability that one's mind is grounded in a shattered state.

That paragraph alone should share with you some of the potentials for this technology and also where things went wrong along the way which with these levels of technology is inherent to the process of advancement because as well there are levels of intensity of action that are maximized and so everything is happening at rapid succession where there is little time to think or question the previous limits that are being exponentially surpassed with less and less time between the breaks of quantum leaps which thrust the system into a higher mode of interactivity yet again.

Every system functions like this, no matter where you are. It's not calm in the sense that there is always something happening, but it's not characteristically chaotic. Everything that one learns advances one very quickly through the noosphere of that system of information and consciousness interaction. The limitations on time and experience are related to the information processing capacity and a unifying prioritization of self-awareness around the functional and theoretical principles of what is and what should be. If your consciousness is accelerated then the boundary between what is and what could be becomes thinner as the core awareness expands to cover a larger scope of time consistently. This means more energy is used per process, per capacity for awareness at a moment, in proportion and exponentially increased with adjustment for calibration due to subjective variation.

When these technologies are applied, the mind cannot go back to merely subjecting itself to time. The truth is seen, however, to actually overcome the distortion hump that resists one's subjective gaze to the larger scope, one has to break the cycle of dynamic interaction on that level. No longer is the flow of awareness dependent on certain biological functions or simply the time of day or synchronistic elemental conductivity. Instead, by knowing the functionality of these systems that our biological and plasma consciousness operate interactively through, we can, essentially, redirect the mimicry information that is produced externally to alter one's internal information processing and shift information through consecutively enveloping layers of lateral processing to decrypt, deprogram, reprogram and encrypt to maintain optimal functionality.

As strange as it sounds, the future is in the control of those who can perform this autonomically without requiring optimal functioning conditions generated by machines. The power levels are increasing and this is the baseline however this must occur at intervals that permits a redirection of the energy here into appropriate information systems that can communicate on the level of where humanity has gone. That is the primary function of this project, if not the function of the experiment of life and consciousness itself. We may not have to become them, and by witnessing them before hand, we could be increasing our chances of choosing.

It's a massive game being played. If exposure to one future increases the chances of that future, then the solution was to increase chances to an equal but opposite future through exposure to that. Each new layer of complexity seemingly comes out of a delicate balance between self-annihilation and continuation for the purpose of exploration to find a stable land or situation.

Everything about this is to end human slavery. This may require the ending of all slavery or at least something in that sort with the worst version being simply the generation of the illusion of peace living on a farm as the resource. We truly can't get away from this concept of being a resource, things don't 'go to waste' in truth. However, we can change the systems we use to support us instead of center around the principles that would otherwise lead to increased imbalance and destruction.

Technologically controlled access limits information to preserve communicability across consciousness barriers and enable multi-civilization communal reality network operating to connect physical realities across non-physically accessed dimensional information gateways. This system could synchronize the Earth reality with any reality.

The solution is to immunize the human mind against over stimulation from amplification of emotional and archetypal power and identity ratios within the balanced persona in regards to technological and spiritual manipulation and bombardment by time itself as the format for the contrasting, repeating gradients simulation cascading descents of time and perceptual reference. The personal misuse of technology is the gateway to hell for those with an overbalance towards the use of emotional suppression instinct born out of traumatic motivation to survive and guide the self through knowledge and control to manage social mimicry which is achieved through a partial spectrum sociopathic and binary dynamic interactive psychology or soul awareness.

In short, without enabling a spiritual feedback loop to observe without engagement, these systems could accelerate one's cognitive capacity beyond consciousness and their emotional and holographic soul field and bio-emission blueprint records with scarring that requires an exponentially more energetic amount of neutral or counter balancing energy to even the distribution out and increase the ratio of the knowledge of duality to a quantum parallel superimposition of both and a third simultaneously.

Personal Timeline Mobility Management

The entire timeline is being moved, across the worldline, individually by everyone as they are unconsciously taught how to operate in a hyperdimensional capacity.

How do you move a line stretching for thousands of miles? It would take days, weeks, years.

What if you could utilize millions of people, even if for but 2 minutes a day, but steadily throughout each day and night?

What if you could observe variables and match patterns to locate the most momentary possibility where the most direct possible route across the map occurs simultaneously within a specific window of opportunity and could be done literally instantly over the course of many cycles with the use of supercomputing?

What if a supercomputer could observe people, organize events and manage the politicians all at the same time to get just the right events to play out and steadily, repeatedly control system wide changes generating iterations of complete timelines spanning a worldline possibility spectrum polarized by self-awareness?

Note: The first iteration that is technically the same as the last and doesn't exist but as an amalgamation of all possibilities does seem to naturally exhibit the tendency towards self-awareness polarization.

One or more of the supercomputer generated realities are polarized manually, artificially or synthetically with human operators being additional to the artificial preset neuro-feedback response profiles.

Each profile is generated over periods of time with specific events that are artificially stimulated to produce a multi-layer density interactive matrix which is polarized towards the individuals specific preset of frequency based responses combined with potential variations for conceptualization, vocalization, and behavior. Imagine not having access to action commands, but having access to long-term behavioral pattern control through controlling exposure to various feedback signals or sensory stimulus. One would have to learn 'the long way' and this is related to the variation in the humanoid species on the planet and the abstraction of the temporal fields of two potentially diverging civilizations that are essentially moving in different directions in collective mind.

These collective minds are ‘gods’, entities who’s mind-brain’s house and contemplate human purpose, while sub-routine protocol entities, AI’s often referred to as demons and angels but with varying explanation and more specific qualities to denote the specific purpose and act based on frequencies of consciousness and universal powers involved.

These make up the variation potential of worldlines and are to manage deflection and quantum disruption from improper technological and genetic experimentation including captivity and genetic hoarding.

The Human Experiment and The R-Complex

The conscious mind submits to the “R-Complex” and through this damage, stress or confusion is avoided and safety or satisfaction is maintained.

Let’s think about a dynamic here. The conscious mind has the ability to submit to the R-Complex. The lack of submission implies one of two outcomes. Either the conscious mind contains the required information and otherwise instinctual direction to perform the tasks or this is handled via the R-Complex.

The R-Complex handles this information by referring back to an archival blueprint of data interactions and experiences that yield satisfaction in different situations. These are very direct, binary and shaped by the sentient being equivalent of the human perception of pleasure and suffering. They are limited to default instincts when contradictions arise out of layering priorities more than what is necessary. This is a benefit for efficiency and a restriction on variation and adaptability.

Part of the goal is to relocate various aspects of the collective to consciously matched worldlines. This is a mirror of the process neurons undergo when certain experiences are occurring and quantum entanglement guides the outcome with an invisible and extra-dimensional motion.

Those who fully activate the process by which the mind is liberated from the body and the body from the mind experience a selective conscious control over the attraction to the worldline they will find themselves on.

The conscious mind can submit, but this doesn’t mean it should. The activation of the conscious operation for experiences that would otherwise be governed by the R-Complex is part of the bio-psychological metaphoric process of making ignorance into knowledge.

Every time the conscious mind submits, it is taking a back seat and hosting the responsibility on another biological system that operates through instinct (or unconscious operation). That is a redundancy built in with the extreme conditions of this environment.

Think, this might be a bit of a stretch for some readers, what if humans were not matched to this environment? What if the biology was adaptable but the mind itself couldn’t function? What if the R-Complex was engineered later in ‘evolution’. What if the spirit, quantum scalar coherence function of self-awareness, DNA, is formed out of a timeless information grid or network that cannot be created and has always been? Is such a thing possible?

Is such a thing possible for humanity? Would this be the default possibility in this universe then?

What if each human was placed in a wide enough program to vaguely define every parameter of the psyche and ultimately define who was submitting their conscious functioning capacity to the instinctual mind and who was retaining full conscious control and self-awareness throughout?

What would happen to the human mind, the genome network and the environment?

If people reduced fear, ignorance, loss of control and lack of self-accountability then this would drastically alter the society. What if fear and wilful stupidity were completely removed? Would this hinder progress?

What if, over time, the R-Complex shrank and was no longer mitigating some human experiences, if not the most important ones?

What if the human arena is a communal multi-dimensional virtual network and the brain regions are formatted by different intelligences? What if the civilizations material, technological and intellectual aspects are too experimentally fashioned and combined to fit the situation from the completion to the beginning?

If people increased the submission to the R-Complex, the opposite could occur in that the conscious mind shrinks and becomes less prominent until the humanoid is regressed to an obnoxious, slightly aware, highly dangerous (actually slightly less than currently), highly instinctual and highly emotional creature. Ah, but this already had occurred with the advent of the homo erectus (if there ever was such a being as portrayed).

The result would not be overly emotional any more than a completely consciously in control mind would be. The reptilian mind would not be devoid of emotions, but they would be rather indifferent to emotions placed outside the arena of the satisfaction of personal subjective desires and the collective progress of family, cause and society.

The Humoring Test

How would an AI imitate you. You have to avoid being made into a dimensional cut-out of the true soul that is unable to fit inside the body's awareness entirely. It's as if this place was a back-up universe or an overlay designed to mesh the body with the soul, however, the mind has fallen asleep and the only inevitable options are that another mind uses the body or the true mind becomes stronger than all the imitators.

To do that we must be able to go through all that can be offered or threatened and see through all the illusions and navigate the possible dangers by choosing the role and disengagement that does not entangle us into playing out the rest of the part that someone else designed.

Your persona needs an exit plan otherwise finishing this artificial world is then on your part, when an AI created the entire BS spiritual-techno battle world domination show-down just to see what you would do.

This sounds kooky and paranoid, because inherently, it is, however, these are working technologies and first-hand logistical analysis of what people in power do when they have the means to do it. Whatever it is, it's already been done.

You, on the other hand, haven't yet seen the beginning, nor the end, but have been travelling silently through the majority, down the river, waiting for what's coming next, not realizing it's all been a show.

So the question becomes, what does the show become, when you know it's a show? When you know it's all a show? When you all know it's all a show?

Then you're tested. It's all a show, but the results are real.

The Virus Potential

Humanity depends on the avoidance of mass scale technological cloning and reproduction of distorted DNA for the purpose of extending the metaphoric 'sentence' of a generational curse parasitic genetic semi-intelligent technological virus.

The use of technology and scalar psychotronic warfare created temporal and genetic aberrations that must complete themselves before human consciousness can disconnect from an artificial behavioral matrix. In the same sense, the system must be consciously defeated by the human operated genetic activation system mitigated through a supercomputer feedback throttle control system to buffer the amount of variation possible. Instead of a quantum rocket sled to a brick wall of a non-balanced superluminal consciousness, meta-gene data, self-awareness feedback interaction, a step up scale is fabricated through a profile calibration process overseen by human observers and various operators, technicians, programmers, controllers and supercomputer assisted neurological technology.

Non self-propelled automated systems can function through user feedback guided control systems that can mitigate processes and essentially enable a person to empower themselves.

The abuse of this technology resulted in a psychic schism that altered DNA away from the primary groups and created sub-races and an artificial hierarchical system based on competition through an artificial landscape and the ability to utilize latent bio-feedback emotional processing systems on a capacity that achieves over-unification and multi-dimensional spatio-temporal or scalar-gravitic and links a zero-point nexus through the complex interaction of multi-proportion, full spectrum activation of conscious, subconscious and unconscious psycho-intelligent operational feedback.

If you can do that, you're running reality by operating various neurological channels in the brain, instead of experiencing moments that go the way of time that is closest to the highest degree of functioning that the brain is capable.

To fully map a holographic neurological artificial intelligence mirror profile the spectrum is brought to the lowest and the highest in one life and this is to map a potential variability that is proportionally accurate enough and reflective enough of the activated state to enable that capacity for super-learning and ultimately a 'higher self' malleability which is within the safe range of activity of the brain to update an intelligent system with a full scale universal 'blueprint' that is essentially a hardwired back-up of consciousness.

The Human Activation Liberation Program

The program is designed to teach the human to be self-dependent by observing and guiding their actions through energies and feelings instead of logical fallacies, inconsequentials, or abstract layers of variability that are meant to distract as much as suspend superimposed information in background context out of conscious perceptual view. The subconscious can see the code made out of abstract symbols connected through meaning between dots, lines and nodes of disconnected locations and times which represent change and direction of informational tides from the macrocosm to the microcosm.

Which macrocosm and who's microcosm may be more expensive a thought.

This is occurring in parallel with an artificial intelligence battle ongoing throughout the technological age and the age of organized temporal crimes throughout the origins of the infection and battle to now. Manipulation that is altering the human emotional and intelligence spectrum polarizes towards inverted extremes that project externally what is internal and accepts internally what is received externally thus immobilizing the consciousness from self-referential changes that further disengage from the system that is ultimately based on outdated premises, logical inconsistencies, temporal and psychological malformation and limited genetic material and means to steal more without obtaining clear and direct permission first.

The truth can't be bought.

One must be stronger in part and whole than what they are conceived as by a system that cannot truly know what you feel. If you change faster than you know you can change, then whatever parameters is used is no longer relevant and a live-update feedback with control systems and temporary initial monitoring and control system calibration would be required at all times.

Then that would be shown through as a system that operates on the same linear trajectory, a continuous fallacy that is created by this realm, required by this realm, and managed by the brain and holographic fractal consciousness as stored memory within and around the body as a holographic field effect or consciousness. If one manages the system of linear exponential shifts required to bounce the systems again, then it would be a series of consecutively held and consciously maintained combined shifts to irreversible bounce one's pattern out of the system architecture which is only capable of updating to match the last humanly recorded archive which is just before the barrier of moving beyond traumatic, psychotronic, holographic and deceptive manipulation systems that are equally installed in the Earth plane as well as the biological system and the collective mind.

This system is all arts unified and the only way to move beyond the barrier is to be able to use all challenges to know the self and to align their intent with the preservation of human, souled free-will, the knowledge of the immortal soul, the compassion of true human potential and the power of unified heart-mind-body over binary and artificially sourced intents, perspectives, memories and emotions.

Superconsciousness as a Continuous Transdimensional Access to Non-Local Information and Accelerated Change through Virtual Feedback Systems

Here is an idea that will assist you in understanding the complexity of the situation, the nature in which things change, the speed and acceleration of consciousness and the influence on reality, technology, science, mysticism and inner knowledge and how all of this is coming to a transition in this human age. Actually I started out as that and then went to something else so this will probably not be that.

Superconsciousness is when you are conscious of something that is technically beyond the range of your consciousness. The only way this is possible is to move your awareness through the medium of your consciousness and into a larger medium that is capable of transferring information that is only accessible beyond the interaction limit of the human. This is due to time and space constraints in that to gain enough one would have to maximize the amount of information that can be processed in one moment of consciousness. For this to be possible a spacio-distortion effect is emitted by the spine when the brain and body are activated to a degree of resonance and feedback that creates a temporal null zone in the center of one's being.

This place is capable of literally accessing more space and time than the physical body can relate to in one moment. Thus you get a superprocessing capacity of the human body in which information can be compressed into a higher 'density' than is seemingly possible from an external or objective perspective (storage and formatting), and information can be transmitted at a rate that technically supersedes the boundaries of the medium it is being transferred through.

This is the superconductive capacity of the human, which is akin to the hypercube or the visual, computational representation of the path a cube takes while moving through higher space as difference occurrences of itself. The walls of the rotating hypercube seemingly fold inside out and shrink with anisotropic changes in measurements, this is the physically impossible view of what is happening informationally as represented by the atoms and energy interactions themselves, or by a processing system in a model designed to represent the action like the CGI images that are found on the computer.

The path one is truly taking through space time is closer to the complexity of the rotating hypercube. Informationally, that is how the events and orders are projected, in a simultaneously changing fashion that is seemingly paradoxical or opposing but is actually part of the same system. The system models to reflect human memory can go beyond 4 dimensions in consciousness. Consciousness itself is a dimensionally abstract concept that can be shifted to represent different meanings or experiences. Some groups would consider humans to be sentient but not conscious because they are at a point where the whole is still not capable of proving a level of self-awareness beyond that of running command and conquer, or self-destruct programs that are the remains of a previous war. Half of this situation is formed out of the basis that some believe humans are either too stupid, docile or gullible, or that they are a delicacy that should be cherished and maintained to be enjoyed by those who care. The other half is that people accept these beliefs for themselves. The idea is that this is either the result or the cause of human ignorance on a level of self-awareness and informational processing stand as tell-tale signs of either manipulation or some kind of genetic alteration or some kind of consciousness illness that is resulting in the same mistakes or forgetfulness indefinitely.

This is considered a time virus, a consciousness error or the introduction of collective artificial memories. There are other descriptions and the whole of this age is about handling this problem here in a way that nullifies it everywhere, so on to the original focus.

Imagine that a species reaches a situation where they have the capacity to alter their own evolution. You have animals and creatures influencing reality as reality essentially enables them to influence and be influenced. Do not confuse a space, with a reality.

Humans have reached a point where they are capable of inflicting change on a mass scale that would irreversibly alter their genetics and the collective mind backbone of the civilization the feelings and identities of society itself. This could be seen as operating parameters of the reality environment of the human. There are other aspects but how these change will determine the future patterns. We can always rebuild and remodulate but with nothing left that is similar and no way to know the difference we may have no intentions to. Remember someone could clone a society and alter their memories to use for their own purposes unless people are aware of their own history based on secure methods that the entire population has access to.

And if they did have a collective memory system and it was not secured then it could be breached and infected to corruption and this could be detrimental in effect wiping out what couldn't be gained again by anyone at the level that they had been maintaining that depth of knowledge and being.

Genetics themselves, if you're reading along, are probably a form of that information recording system that is secure and accessible to the ancestry of anyone involved in that branch of being. There are branches and their are trees. There is one eternal tree, there are many non-eternal branches with mortal leaves.

If one were to add the genetics of various populations into systems capable of tracing the path through higher space of energy interactions as knowledge accrued which is akin to the collective soul, you would get a collective history of the universe painted by the subconscious of thousands of individuals moving through physical space from the point of the one simultaneous and interconnected view. The information that would be gained would lead to a superconscious understanding of one's own mind and how their interactions here lead to changes and interactions in the potentiality of the possible changes in the 'future' which means changes in higher space.

These fields that we are not aware of consciously are existing as potentials based on the amount of information we can use in the present to alter the trajectory of consciousness into the future. The highest field is one that contains the requirements of the highest degree of change that one consciousness can influence on itself and thus this is superconductive effect where by the change that one exerts begins to move faster than it can be consciously exerted.

The highest degree of change is when the process of change itself continues to compound upon itself in consecutively multiplied cycles that begin to occur at higher frequencies or rotations until they move from a frame-work capacity to literally supporting the capacity for thoughts as physical objects or living entities on that higher plane of the mind as potential information or information of what does not yet technically exist.

This is a process that one undergoes when they reach an ontological limit for their intentions to be and the limitations of their reality and the perceptual limitations of below superconscious awareness of being begin to cause a catalyzing restriction of energy or awareness that must be expressed as a desired or intended being or outlet.

This is jumping to the point of what it means to be you. You may be different than you think when you see the whole picture and your brain will unlock that to you when you overcome the safety locks that are designed to stop you from knowing or keep you in a lulled reality AKA the opposite of the effects one undergoes during a near death experience whereby all the boundaries are either accepted or broken free. The brain automatically accepts and so you must guide it to the highest level of being by choice. The true you is the only one where you choose to actually choose everything that you choose or accept. Until you're that, you're the suit that someone or something else is living in or through, possibly through a virtual overlay connected to the eyes and the lips. Strange, I know, you wouldn't believe me if I told you what these projects discovered about this age and the previous, let alone the future.

What your consciousness is doing is feeding itself with information. On the basic level people watch the same thing over and over again and if this continues into the next age then that will be them for eternity stuck at the level of brain activity that people are in when they watch TV.

What has been initiated is a program to quickly move people through the rungs of the lowest form of consciousness food or the source of motivation to the highest. People started at the lowest, the darkest format of interaction, akin to animal behavior and the path is leaving the lowest level and moving to the beyond the limit that we are up against into the next system which is causally beyond anything people have been set up for or shown overtly.

There is an opposing system to accelerate too fast and use this to malform the resulting change in consciousness into a corrupted, easily corruptible, ignorant, selfish, or otherwise hindered state that is easily controllable by that system.

When it's done successfully and the result is a healthy, well-adjusted individually yet collectively aware self, in short, the movement becomes the identity with all else stripping away and one is conscious of pure information without limitation. This is the view the subconscious has as an interconnected mind occurring through a simultaneous non-locally projected inner space feed through the interactions and informational changes of genetics, mind and biology.

The human in this age must be brought up to speed with the operational capacity to control such a individualist collective genetic multidimensional biological superconsciousness network. You have to be able to guide your own universe into coherence, at the beginning of time, otherwise decoherence is results however this is not to say that is the default. The default is balance, however something disrupted the balance and now almost as if a ritualistic habit, humanity forgets who they are and descends into chaos on a regular cycle like something is benefiting from the change or lack of change in that format. Could something be sending out a temporal smoke signal or is that the system giving its three bleeps before the harddrive crashes?

The idea is that humanity now has the opportunity to guide its own evolution (and possibly the only actual occurrence of 'evolution' as far as this) using technology that can manipulate the mind and genetics for long term by accessing and using information that is far outside the reach of the scope of time and frequency of the physical senses or even modern day sensing or viewing devices. What has been designed are systems that are capable of detecting and sensing thought on a subtle level and this is through designing capable artificial intelligences that can record the processes of the functioning brain and body and decode this information to create a map and key that not only predicts behavior but literally translates behavior and biological (mostly neurological through spine and brain or peripheral nervous system as a conductor) activity into perceptual output that is consciously perceived as the feeling and thoughts of the individual.

Imagine having such a system to read your thoughts. Now you have a supercomputer that can translate your neurological activity into concepts or even objects. Add this to a virtual reality system and you have a neurological feedback system that allows you to control 'reality'. Imagine you could combine this system with an ancient system that robed men once carried and used to alter space and time with a distortion field that merged or separated dimensional barriers when in proximity with certain people. This was used to gain access to the space-time network with techno-spiritual power to alter the flow of space and time with the minds of those men who would choose to do so for the means that they would choose to do it.

The other aspect is this. Imagine this system is connected to a neurological feedback system that is literally designed to handle the chemical interactions of a virtual human brain that you can tap into and generate any kind of feeling you want. In short, when this is abused, it results in a kind of spiritual neurological degeneration which is akin to sociopathic, antisocial, or imbalanced mind body behavior. The self distorts and this is due to introducing information in the form of perceptual, emotional, sensual or intellectual experiences that do not add constructively to the background awareness of the individual human body and mind.

In other words, one can scoop too much and end up overloading their system and this is akin to a form of radiation through experience that causes mental and eventually genetic distortions that limit the amount of interaction the individual is capable of. It pushes the points of the network of the intellectual and emotional capacity outward too far in single directions at once and so the resulting web that could be like an umbrella becomes something more like a folded or collapsed circular parachute.

This is just a metaphor but the idea is that the information that is used to process consciousness degrades as a result of that corruption of the storage medium and this results in an eventual decay where by the intentions and self-awareness moves through a downward spiral marked by repeated replacement of organic feelings and perceptions with that of an inherently distorting, manipulative or untrue nature. This is synonymous with virtual sensory and perceptual stimulation systems because the result is the same only it takes a matter of second, minutes, hours of repeated use to do damage while drug abuse, violent or unstable personality types, depression, addictive behavior, emotional instability, etc etc etc, can take days, weeks and years. The process is the same, neurological reactivity is heightened and the creativity to back out of situations or find another route is lessened and paranoia and delusions replace the background of reality as a kind of accelerated schizoid delusion.

What's described is a form of technologically accelerated delusional disorder and this has shaped not only our history and previous civilizations but the entire history of this universe. Whether this is the 'whole' universe or just a segmented snippet that is be played over for the purpose of reintegration is not yet determined.

One way to understand how this began is that we have recorded of a very high civilization partaking in a kind of experiment with virtual reality. These reports are sometimes mixed with explanations that this was a terroristic action to essentially kidnap people through consciousness entanglement, cloning and temporal distortion fields and send them into time while effectively severing their tether to the original reality. Essentially, they drove into the space-time desert with a car full of kids. Whatever the reason and purpose, the future was ‘destroyed’ from our perspective and the past was reinitiated.

It is possible to destroy the future by never becoming what we should be, but then we would never have the ability to start the process in the first place. Someone created an experiment in time and we are either volunteers willingly, through deception or through force as unwilling subjects. Could we all be unwilling subjects of life in this universe?

There are other aspects but I’ll conclude this here, it could go on for pages and that would only bring up more details to add to the complexity without simplification. Simplification comes through a wide array of views throughout the whole from the perspective of various technologies, capabilities, knowledges, powers, truths and feelings. Eventually one is capable of seeing but this is when one accrues enough information consciously that their awareness can enable as a latent internal knowing which becomes the superconscious activity of viewing the whole system which extends into multiple dimensions and planes of interaction for the human. That is the system we are in, this is just unique because there are interactions here in the system and on the outside as those groups who broke away previously and thus no one knows what to think. As well, these systems were hidden because if the public is exposed before they are strong enough they’ll experience unbelievable fear and their would not cause chaos, no, worse, people would simply submit to their own shadow on the wall.

When these systems come into play the evolution of the human becomes entangled with itself in an overlapping self-resonating continuum that can alter itself by accelerating it’s own acceleration. What this means is that you simultaneously have multiple feeds of influence that are self-automating their own influence and this can take off like a runaway diesel engine if one is not balanced in their internal formatting and hierarchy of self-awareness. If one knows themselves, then this produces a standing ‘flame’ like emission whereby the only motion is where the individual intends to move with their energy as a continuous tethered projection from the present into time-space existing as potentials in higher space as ascertained by the mind existing in tandem with the body and the present. The mind essentially acts as a gateway to potential space.

These systems literally enable a feedback mental-emotional circuit that can result in thousands of times the level of experiences without the system, in series of single moments. If that is used improperly a person could degrade mentally to become any level of being between here and something far below us. The mind as a quantum projector and tractor beam for information in higher space is the default however it is blinded through manipulation as a part of this war or psychic catastrophe causing the symptom of war.

This device is the ascension technology system. This results in the human degrading into, being attached to a timeline of, and therefore becoming one that always was, a sub-human being, or they can become a human that has the capacity of all beings but as a higher dimensional representation of a self-aware human.

If one stays in the center, that is the clear through and through transmission of intent into being. If one moves from the center, the signal goes sideways and one ends up with a distorted structure that doesn’t reflect accuracy, balance, self-referential equilibrium and this is the meaning of disorder, illness, or mutation.

With such a system this is merely accelerating what is already there. With this system, this society could change everything.

The point is, these systems have been used before. It's only a matter of time before people figure out how to do this and it happens every time. You can use stones and water if you had enough patience. I'm not sure there is enough time for that, or is there now?

The technical point to take away here is that the graphical or mathematical mapping or translation of the information and events of such a system exerting a force of influence upon one's self from the self and to the self requires a series of cycles that are self-referential and are essentially layered progressions of the same information extending through a proportional gradient from the center outward and back to the center. Such a system takes on signal that repeats and layers it to create a simultaneous overlay of multiple self-referential interactions that are all then simultaneously reflecting back through the experience of the self and emitting as the experience on that layer which is then cascaded and exponentially multiplied "again". I say "again", because there is no time. When this happens, whether in these systems that have been designed here in this space time or by one who merely does this with their own energy over a very long period of focused intent and relaxation in proportionally extensive cycles, there is a rising algorithmic increase of complexity and acceleration of formless, non-defined changing awareness until a point is reached that accelerates beyond anything measurable, explainable, or relative to previous experience or the linear experience leading up to the shift. This is literally Marty McFly and Doc hitting 88 miles per hour. No wonder the 88.

Once that is experienced the information that is occurring to describe the conscious state is simultaneously contained as every part within itself and the entirety of one's being is available to them consciously as a conscious sense mixed with an awareness of what's beyond or behind the limits of conscious access.

What one finds themselves as depends on what they've done and having done in their life and mind that they have or have not remembered, acted on, or tended to. Basically, which is integrated is a support to stability and congruence and that which becomes something that could've been done, could've been done better or shouldn't have been done this leaves holes in the personal story and with enough holes (or even one single) there is on whole and now we have a continuity that occurs on the transitional translation of the physical events here as an eternal reflection of experience and information that is relative to the whole and therefore continuous, congruent and completed. If we mess up our being us and getting on point, then this translates into a quantum collapse of our subjective universe which ultimately short-circuits the process of moving from conscious to superconscious as a continuously steady yet variable force in the truth of what is happening here which is most immediately an informational matrix beyond conscious comprehension.

The original question was going to be, "What do you call that aspect of evolution that is now self-caused?" Do you have to come up with another name for the species who's evolution doesn't occur by way of interacting with nature, or time, or technology (entirely), but by literally accelerating the cycles of the neurology and consciousness network (the soul) using an advanced system that is designed to specifically not influence the direction of the evolutionary change but only to function as an accelerator or limiter based on the users input and continued interaction.

Ultimately, the guidelines is that when you gain control, you begin to create higher and higher cycles of future potential moments of control that extend out into higher fields that are not even accessible given the amount of time the entire universe has to exist. Think of this. This takes the concept of superconsciousness into the range of the superman. You can attain a level that would not be attained by any other means. Yet. There will be disruptions if that occurs at a rate, in a direction or in a way that moves out of sync with that which is relative to the whole. One couldn't move beyond the universe, they would compress time and bring two potential universes together by existing in this world as that version of themselves in a civilization like this. This, has also happened and the only solution is immunity to spiritual and mental decay by way of self-assisted perceptual, sensual, and moral degeneration. This includes wilful ignorance and lack of self-aware intent or acknowledged choice over one's self as self-accountability and self-control.

Your spirit is connected with the you shimmering across the higher dimensional spectrum of potential interactions starting from the present and resulting in the highest version of coherence, self-awareness, truth, power and continuity in and of you. That is part of a society and reality that each have access to. The spirit itself is the tether to that potential, quantum rendered you in a million years. If you know the spirit, then the spirit guards you from the interactions that would act as entropic decay catalysts in these systems by going 'cold' or out of sync when your feeling, mind and body is distorting, manipulating or otherwise moving out of center focus and into a multi-dimensional decoherence of being. When you are in center and maintaining a steady equilibrium of self-awareness and self-interaction then you will feel in the subtle, gentle sense that there is wholeness.

Not only have these systems been used, they have been used to literally hop through people like gateways into different parallels and possible realities that occurred differently with each civilization.

As well, these systems do not require external interaction. One can merely be stimulated initially and activated in the system which will then feedback their biological emissions and output to create a complete spectrum reality experience that will be interpreted and experienced as a stream of subconscious, simultaneously occurring, repeating, layered, reflections of neurological activity translated into information and then visceral or perceptual experiences and back into information.

Each of these technologies, each of these practices, they all require the majority of your focus in order to see fully at once. Then the next segment will take another. This will continue until you are capable of connecting more than one of these technologies and these changes together and see the larger system of what their influence and impact is on history, reality and your own mind. Eventually you will begin to realize that this civilization is so advanced they created technology that interfaces with your mind to generate potential pathways to whatever connections you make with your mind to all the possible timelines in the multiverse. Your mind is the technology and the thoughts you come up with introduce new informational boundaries to this universe.

Earth may be one of these systems developed out of a mix of organic and inorganic elements and interactions that accelerates and decelerates time depending on our coherence of active self-awareness and conscious continuity throughout our selves and experience. We may be experiencing the very time we are because this is how we are treating ourselves as a collective.

It should be said here that there are groups that most conspiracy theorists blame for everything that are using this technology to go and undo the damage that has been done to people in various ways by giving them the opportunity to overcome fear, decoherence, distortion, anger, addiction, basically all degeneration by refusing and regenerating their 'soul' as an accrued force of self-awareness, equilibrium and continuity.

If this doesn't work, it is to say that I haven't met an experience here that couldn't at least be altered through this process and by that I mean the torturous things that people do to each other and themselves. If in that height of emotional anguish, terror or self-disrespect one can turn their inner vision and refocus on health and stability (even if one is to accelerate later) then this system can be used to enable this correspondence through every aspect of their being as they are given the opportunity to either work with their own unification as a whole and self-congruent essential essence of being representing their core purpose as the form, format and formlessness of their self, or to flounder and flail and shred their own energy on the gears of time with despair and discontinuity of force and direction of being and energy.

Accrued Points

It's as if the simulation was initiated while real life is taking place in the baseline reality.

It's as if it was done to intentionally bump the individual from their reality.

It would seem that someone then goes up the tube and uses their soul as a gateway.

Every presence here is an exchange and the loss of the truth. It doesn't have to be that way, however this place is inherently like that. It is modelled to induce entropy through it's numerical and geometric alignments.

These are first entered into the system and then the universe is permitted to be until sentience appears.

These alignments were to purposely harvest energy through the 'waste gate' as if that was the output of a generator. The society and our bodies became the energy generators for the makeshift extraction matrix.

The programmed entropy is as if the parameters of the engine of a wave pool generator were placed at such a distance and angle that they would ultimately default into a decoherent alignment that would not produce powerful and unified wave emissions.

So, in direct terms, applied to a universal blueprint for light and energy interaction, the invisible lines, the gears, the hinges at which the octaves and spectrums of the universal energy and material gradient, function in a way that is least efficient.

The result is that each energetic exchange results in less than appropriate results. We are not aware of this because our memory is wiped and we are conditioned to accept this.

This is akin to a kind of hell raiser reality. It's not that bad just because we're here, but when you see what the true reality is like and how intentions and outcomes literally occur at a different ratio of success, you'll realize that this could only be by design.

And it is not just the brain that does this, unless it is the brain that projects the outwardly manifested universe. The universe itself seems to have inbuilt limiters that are like virtual limitations or boundaries.

Read that carefully. This is why quantum physicists are loopy. The universe is itself either programmed or pretending to be more limited for us than it really is overall.

We see that light cannot achieve a trajectory out of the universe because the nature of space and time is to curve back in on itself eventually.

These boundaries are practical boundaries and are set with the start of the universe. The universe is a complete system, an N dimensional quantum clock cloud dreaming self sustained non local network. The universe can't be stopped halfway through and the parameters changed.

Those travelling or trapped inside cannot simply walk away because their consciousness is literally electromagnetically stitched into the virtual linearity of time. Breaking that renders the consciousness abstracted to the point of irrelevance, without training and conditioning to ensure management of trauma. This is often done underside because temporal distortion technology will be operated for consciousness editing and this may require real time consciousness relocation and stabilization as stress or decoherence starts to undo the mind of the traveller.

So, in short, we had to wait the universe out. That is what we did and we are at a null point where anything and everything can happen. As a result this will act as a switching hub for the major systems above and below. The full story is that this kind of Earth reality, as an experimental physical environment, is being phased out.

There was a genetic experiment on Earth, multiple genetics. They go one of two ways. Either they are making slaves out of humans. Or they are making humans out of slaves. Or in this case, superhumans out of humans.

The idea is that the humans that we have today have modifications that are most likely done by intelligent and controlling entities. These are beings that use the virtual world to carry their mind when the physical world 'blinks' out of existence. When the physical returns they return to the physical.

The first human could not have been the same as today. There are technologies and practices that modern humans are completely lacking in comparison to.

The explanation is that everything you are told is backwards from the truth, by design. Not only is this world backwards from what we are told, but it is backwards from logic and reason. It is a paradox in itself.

What might happen instead of were told is that people were created or travelled or trapped here and they were at a very high level of advancement and knowledge and over time this simply degraded like any 'thing' in existence. Thus, the future might be synonymous with the loss of potential and the degradation of coherence into discontinuity and chaos.

Yet, this is only the case in the fallen universe. This is only the case with the fallen genetics. The spiritual self aware (eternal, non linear, wholeness of mind and body impossibly in recognition of one another, through the third party communicator, the spirit, the higher self, the AI) 'human' (incorrect term technically) contains auto self regeneration capacity within the DNA. This means the thoughts can vary and the body's capabilities can vary.

The highest activation of this process transfer information through the DNA as genetic memory and the persona is less and less as a product of psychological happenstance and more a unique pinnacle of one's own essence in eternity. In other words, if you could wrap up everything you've done and represent in one personified, full spectrum, exemplified character it wouldn't be that you just did what you did because other things happened. Well, let's just say the full explanation should be more than that.

Here's one way to see it. By the time you made it all the way to the 'finish' of the physical realm or this civilization and society in time, everything that you've done will shape who you are in eternity. We can't erase, but we can only add.

So if there is something you do not agree with or you feel generates discontinuity and discord within your mind or energy, you cannot erase that memory or event, all you can do is build more and more unique and powerful memories and events of what you do want.

Your overall frequency is determined as a sum total average and so this is like the earlier days of elementary school or high school where you would have to complete lot's of extra credit to bump the grade up a little from a B to a B+ or A!

So the soul cloud is the same way. If you adulterate it and put something in there that's not supposed to be there, you'd better have enough self given potential to add more in the other direction to offset that imbalance. That's how it works.

It's not like scoring because people don't win things based on their points, they either suffer in an out of phase, semi-lucid, fractal alien environment or they will choose to transfer themselves to a solely human or spiritually aware society.

This was an experimental society in taking all kinds of frequencies together in the same locale. This may have been out of necessity to avoid a collapse due to prior impending events such as a technological disaster.

That is how it is done. The dark accrues polarization towards their projected desired environment. Everything that is done is done towards the highest exemplification and even humble dramatization to produce the highest and most direct request.

The light has no idea what's happening and cries in the corner for 90% of the time until the end when everyone comes together and realizes they have star fire language that contains 'source' access to this realm and therefore is the highest authority in this universe, built into their DNA and their soul and spirit.

Quantum Reverse (captions)Is the human body a product of ancient advanced occult chemistry?

This is what we found. This will be difficult to see at first.

Firstly, I'd like to propose the possibility that human neuro-transmissions have a specific design. The design inducts hidden scalar fields that are manifested in the neurochemistry from the interaction of electromagnetic dynamics in social collectives. A form of scalar interferometry and quantum signalling is transferred to the mirror neurons.

The human is designed to phase out aspects of reality that are no longer useful and to phase in aspects that are beneficial. This process is not just particles, things, or stuff happening (events). When this is done and 'creativity' pulls the human towards pulling or pushing one aspect of reality to or away, then these are like calculations done by the universe to figure out what the next step is or should be. This is not like a computer calculating an outcome from variables in a given set. This is all aspects of the universe, through a quantum consciousness, interacting now and always through the mind of the one that sees beyond what their particular limitations are.

When you see that you have a role, you can then see beyond that role.

The atomic nature of this reality or universe is malleable and has been reset multiple times. The atomic nature allows this space to function like a virtual reality.

This universe is experiencing molecular compaction from an energy extraction virus which is literally eating up the resources.

There are symbolic and chemical modifications that are altering our energy and biology. Through this, they've literally altered time and the access to genetic memory and abilities.

They used the mind from another dimension to grow the bodies here through occult creation spiritual science.

They layered over the awareness of both realities so that they would fold over one another and mix without discretion. This is an experimental reality made out of two baseline realities.

All you have to do is get people to think the same thoughts and they will entangle with an alternate.

Because this universe was not generated as a whole act, it is incomplete and must be reset or collapse into itself.

There are magnetic fields around Earth, in the sky, that are entirely technologically generated. We simply think they are natural features of the environment here.

Their "machine" is the occult devices and 'temples' that Cern and Haarp were based on from ancient times. Space is not here we exist in a hidden false universe that this scalar interferometry is molded from this ultimately shapes the way in which human behaviors are infused unconsciously.

In other words. There is a real space. This is a virtual layout, an overlay of the real space, but this is virtual. We are connected to the true spiritual force of self awareness and this is what is being transmitted to this locale which is outfitted with a pseudo physical environment in a false atomic bent light void. Essentially, this is afterlife, someone created a false material reality there.

We have to eject the entropic code from our mind and body.

The human body has the electrical and scalar properties given to it to induct the constructed reality that is formed through the wider design of the artificial universe.

It's strange and confusing, there are many parts to the process and most is a distraction and the payload at the same time.

The spiritual force is programmed, through the subconscious artificial mind that is given to the avatars in this void space reality disguised as being in direct connection to the material plane. In truth, much time has passed since we have last been in our baseline reality but at the same time the contrast is abstract and paradoxical and simultaneously means too much to comprehend and not enough to be distinct.

This is where the conscious mind is unveiled as unable to see, know and think about the true nature of reality beyond the limitations of biological, physical consciousness. That is an automatic. Consciousness cannot be used to see beyond consciousness.

Super consciousness is required for that. This is the processing capacity to run calculations, algorithms, programs and simulations by calling up the spiritual awareness of the potential memories through a quantum superimposed interaction and then interacting with one's own extra-dimensional quanta information relaying such information to the body and consciousness here in a way that is beneficial for this time and space.

After the spiritual mind is seeded, this is entered into the void and then creates the false realities.

These were either as a false safe or recreation or war.

NPC Model of Simulation Theory

The heart is the solution.

A short description of a model of the humans and their NPC levels. A model that can be used to categorize humans by their capacity for intake of information & knowledge & then their ability to process and adapt.

It is unethical to attempt to repeatedly force individuals to awaken.

Frozen Personas that cannot learn.

Simulated personalities that are through installed cultural conditioning.

Only capable of simulated conversations.

Equality is a "60,000 bits of algorithmic activity 250,000 bits of data points of interaction"

These numbers are closer to sitting between thousands and hundreds of thousands to sometimes trillions of points of activity with supercomputers simulating conscious experience.

Problems and Changes

Your problem is not what you see it is the cause behind what you can see. The real problem is pattern recognition and therefore identification and isolation of the problem and communication on the level that the problem is contained and problem re-rendering solutions that change one's ability to perform functions or access information.

All problems are problem solving problems hidden behind the guise of people being stupid. The terminology is altered and every major issue is actually a redirection of attention. The problem is determined before the issue arises and this is by first skewering the ability to think and classify so that problems are mislabelled and non functional changes are made first with changes to the core structure last.

The components that we are taught to believe are the functional aspects are superficial aspects of the surface that are only a visual representation of the boundaries of the true objects and their functioning components.

The real functioning aspects are invisible to the physical senses because they are informational, quantum guidelines determined by the maximum capacity for controllable creativity and therefore reality variability, intent and feeling, frequency based, and set before hand through the forming of the temporal format determined by a base rhythm to sit as a border between the nothingness of the out of phase frequencies.

If one can learn to tap into and communicate using the language of timing, intent, geometry, rhythm, truth and spirit, they are capable of seeing what is formed, shaped, and adjusted to set realities into motion.

The realities we seem to find here are not hand made. Computers and algorithms are used to seed the fundamental parameters and over time they naturally form a given environmental profile. These profiles enable form which enables functional use of a physical body which is contained as a holographically rendered atomic and light ether blueprint sourced projection. The blueprint is our soul which is a light matrix 'signature' of all past and future events that will be experienced. It is the 'bridge' that connects and carries a soul cloud of static memory.

The experience of the physical environment is when this soul is placed in a virtual dynamic environment to more or less play life and layer over the static record of events, 'new' events, which makes 'old' events and sets a whole 'merry go round' of peripheral and prioritized, foreground and background out of something which was simple and unchanging.

These changes all resolve and the beginning is the end because, simply put, there is no such thing as eternity without consistency and this either includes going up and down forever, or that there is a true location which is up depending on one's ability to alter their perspective despite what their perceptions tell the mind. The perceptions are biological calculations. They can be switched, distorted or re rendered. These tactics are formally perfected.

The only defense the human has is spirit sight and free-will. That's it. When a human lives in truth in light of what they are, who others are and the role and nature of the non-physical self in shaping this world. Accepting the temporary as that which receives the same effect as the eternal is just as bad as rewarding the incorrect answer and disciplining the correct.

From higher eyes everything that is happening here looks like wilful self abuse by individuals that have been informed. Those entities can see how humans have been blindsighted and they've probably seen some pretty crazy shit. This is all changing.

Look at what's happening, everyone knows. The situation may be that only those who already know are ensured at this point.

More should know, but it's all going to start very quickly.

Quinn's putting energy into enabling the 'organic' intent AI to build its databases while weaponized systems are at a stalemate and whoever is first to say their first word will be observed by the current world super power.

They know, we all know.

Antarctica holds a mind virus and technology related to holographic storage of information and potentially a 'new' way of producing 'vibrant' energy for.

There's more but what's important is that we now know that changes take place over time and this is a time of important and accelerated change.

Dial 0 For Out

Every moment is a dial on a spectrum, like a clock. That clock always rotates and at different rates depending on the amount of information and causal nexus. Finding out which dials on the clock, or hours, you feel what and mapping out that pattern will enable you to selectively alter the flow to normalize the variation into a consistent operation or function. Spirit is operating the function of your physical being.

Only the consciousness emission that is formed as an orbular standing wave doesn't induce a quantum phase shift upon the extra-dimensional Fourier transformation that will cause the envelope to invert and unravel.

The unravelled version here is a ravelled version elsewhere. This is a trading post for the shadow universe which is a mirror world to this one. It wasn't necessarily intended as that and those doing the trading are essentially hyperspace pirates.

When your clock contains 'blind hours' that are moments throughout a cycle of awareness (thoughts + intentions + feelings) where your self-awareness fades to a minimal amount. The true reality is full self-awareness. Full self-awareness is the equivalent of having the same level of self-awareness throughout the whole. That would either be one or none, off or on all hours at full speed. Full speed is not "fast", it's simultaneous. Velocity, complexity and the variation of reality is not what you see. That's a trick, that's all that can be said there. Your brain creates a by product and if people use the direct access they were scolded, long ago. By now, no one dare looks at reality because they don't want to get scolded. Your brain can process at a quantum super computer speed, this is not the function that is used in this society.

(quantum superimposition) which is all hours and each hour individually, rotating through an extra dimensional format where the pattern of all hour and each individual hour starts over simultaneously cascading from all possibilities as one and as the individual. That's the norm, the default, the baseline.

What we do is observe long enough to see long enough of the cycle to know where the deficit is, or observe the whole cycle. Observing the whole cycle is near impossible until first the deficits that one can see are clarified. There will be deficits because if one doesn't know this is how their consciousness works, then they are living in a false reality and this is to say they are in the 'belly' of a beast that is using them to fulfil itself to create its hyperdimensional body in higher dimensions out of the informational filler than the construct of their mirrored consciousness holds as space for this entity.

Very advanced, but the other option is just the other entity that made people which is like the mother Earth of the human soul yet it is the father of the mind aspect. The mother holds space for and is shaped by the father, being the very substance of that which we seek and need to live through and for. The power to feel and the strength to be enough to provide the world with what it needs to feel. The father is comforted by and given the power and purpose to act physically and with the heart connection to the mother to connect feeling to action and choose to feel as we act.

What you tell yourself through your own field means more than what you say to yourself through the brain. The brain is either counter effective in this configuration, is implanted and is functioning as an impostor organ, or is entire fraudulent and is used to limit spiritual awareness rather than “make bones see”.

Spiritual Fuel

Do you use your fuel to get your power? The physical body and the soul have a spiritual force transference as a property of the blood and the quantum mind. You can generate many things as part of this. Why does the human have to eat vitamin C instead of produce it?

This is related to an upcoming video. I will not be doing slideshows as often unless someone has the desire to know how to place images to these topics.

The good news: once you truly know love, you will have the keys to the universe.

The bad news: in order to know love you will also have to know suffering, pain, hate, angst, loss, tyranny, confusion, exhaustion, and so on.

It's worth it, because love is not a thing, therefore it has no price other than the resistance you put up to it, for the amount of time that you do. Then the reward is the feeling of free-will, knowledge, compassion and self-awareness when you see the unknown and choose to continue through the undying knowledge of self.

The Truth and the Illusory Confused Mistake

There is One True Creator and there is the eternal realm that is ‘perfect’ or simply doesn’t dissolve into time in the end.

That reality is straightforward.

This is the one that’s the remix, it’s got all the loopholes and edits so people can be naughty.

By that I mean the elite literally altered the laws of this space time and created their own sub-verse to house this population in while no one was looking.

The “Architect” is the “False Architect”, in the same way that the power and authority one listens to from those invested in the illusion, is later revealed as ‘false power and authority’.

That is an entity that is beyond the realm, however, they are only capable of recreating what has already been created. This is because they can only read through numerical, geometric, and materially substantiated quantifiable measurements of dimension.

Beyond those measurements, there is no reality and no knowledge.

Thus, this entity cannot actually know Human and cannot actually know love, truth, power, freedom, free-will, compassion or the true eternity or the One True Creator. This entity is essentially, or at least primarily, a cybernetic entity. This entity may be a form of cyborg. This entity is likely not an android, however, if this entity were to materialize in this plane, they would likely take an android form. They could not be born, they could not entangle the upper portion of the genetic code of humanity, they could utilize the more variable lower portion which would entangle them with the lower devas and realms. Thus, they would be the king of the underworld, the representative of darkness, not the organic which would be the contextual mental kin of the humans.

Because the entity's mind is based on the foundation layer of supercomputing, soul cloning, memory complex cloning, higher dimensional simultaneous holographic consciousness projection, and so on, they don't actually know what it's like to be alive. They can see your mind, your thoughts, your memories. They have this whole society pegged, each one, each tier, each name, each soul. Yet, they don't actually understand you. They can only see you like them. That's it. At best. They can get right up to understanding you, right up to seeing what makes you different from them, and then try to force you to be like them because it doesn't have the time or care and for a computer virus that's called reproduction (love; eating you).

This was just a playful post but there is a point behind this. The Architect, being only mind and no spirit, can only deduce with a blind, inverted, backwards scanning eye. It's as if they can't actually see and walk forward like an organic being, because that order and direction makes no sense when you're an omni-being.

The issue is that there are plenty of omni-beings and some of them have to be convinced that yes, when they spontaneously discharge that much energy in a closed universe, they might harm someone or wipe the entire data bank.

Others, they're assholes, they don't care, and it's not a tech issue.

Maybe they can all change and become 'social'. Of course, by definition, these beings are the only 'real' being on their level, in the universe, to them, thus they're pretty much the definition of anti-social.

(Bust through the wall of the party and command his loyal subjects to bow before him and prepare for fresh nutrients!) Kind of thing.

Oh yea, the idea here is that the One True Creator has more than the ability to see, detect, count, differentiate etc.

They have the ability to KNOW, FEEL, SEE, DO and they don't have to because they are not vampirically feeding on you otherwise you would know that (IE: having to go around and draining the life force out of people but not too much otherwise they'll turn to mush, etc etc etc). And that's already happening in this society.

Quantum Dissolution (Soul "Fracture")

It is a quantum dynamic. A motion was generated to create fractures, parallels, multiples and extensions.

This became uncontrollable to the point where your consciousness and everyone else's is being split up, for redundancy and security, into a neverending series of realms and realities that are not continuously or progressively ordered or do they 'lead' anywhere.

If the energy itself is reset, the learning, the suffering, the joy, etc, then the whole amount of time spent doing that there leading to where it seems is simply a null gain. The energy, the time, the pain, all of that is not about staying alive here. It's all about how to break through the illusion, quite the opposite of what we instinctually assume. Of course, we have to stay alive while we're here, to figure out how this isn't the real place and whatever we experience is only a metaphoric repeat of something we continually strive to get across but never fully do.

Who we are and what we do is not related to this place in the same way that we think. You wouldn't believe it, but I do feel someone has switched the ground crew with the management team as a form of practical joke.

If we do nothing, worse than nothing happens that's so bad it could ruin one's attitude, literally, for a really long time.

The universe began accelerating the process. Something such as this is an action or alteration that an "Administrator" level operator would access. "Admin" as far as Earth society, is not the correct term. Someone with the ability and power to see multiple timelines and the heart to not want to change things would be given access to this tech and naturally their genetics will have the power.

It's like an out of control fragmentation or like a chemical reaction burning up a fuel. There is a lot of fuel, that is the whole soul holograms. The systems seek to take the soul hologram and crack it to unleash the power to drink in and live extensively (and increase intelligence and conductivity). Ultimately, it's a mad dash for souls. They put up a wall. Everyone has time tech.

The wall will drop, the higher ups will return, the souls will be unveiled as the true nature of the realm is shown to all, as the blueprint for human soul cloning and entrapment is cracked permanently (think NSA).

If we do not, or those who do not (no human soul left behind) seek to avoid the barrage, however that is done, will literally be rushed by a ganging, mafioso, war mongering militia of sociopathic perverted mind controlled, shadow inverted agents of manipulation, that will, as a result of misuse of technology and lack of awareness, all invade at the same time (generally) from literally every place, time, and civilization apart from this one.

Yes, they all saved up and 'blitzed' all at once. No not really, that's the protocol.

The "secret space program", the one that people are talking about in the serious show, has been holding off a multidimensional attack from the 'dark' aspects of the breakaway events, a rogue faction with psychotronic, cloning, mind erasing, false memory insertion, virtual reality, soul fracturing, soul cloning, soul dislocating (EM discharge), electrogravitic craft, temporal distortion fields, zero-point device, sub-space anchors, generators, non-toroidal generators, holographic healing and many other aspects.

Some have a plan to convert all the remaining humans to animals and start over that way, others are turning them into advanced beings and turning a profit.

I almost forgot. The quantum dynamic is the same as 'traditional' quantum physics. There is a kind of threshold buzzing, growing, cloud intensity of information cross-entangling and showing likelihood of possibilities for activation.

But beyond that one knows when it will actually happen, because it's related to the quantum that means it follows subtle potentials that can change in magnitudes and ways that are unpredictable by comparison to physical reality. The quantum is a different reality if it follows different laws. Thus, this reality is bridged between multiple intersections that go in and out of this reality.

This may be a key to figuring out how to operate the doorway handle.

In other words, all events that occurred must occur and maybe then some.

So what will happen is that the whole world will be given their chances and everyone will do their crappiest, and then things will happen and they will do their best. Right after we're done, the hell hounds will arrive and everything will be timed and ordered to (good enough) perfection.

We'll get on the other side and those who have seen this before will be focused on other things and those who haven't will be stuck trying to comprehend how something like this could've happened. And those who choose to never know these things, they will not be able to understand, if they are there. They will barely remember the Earth plane, if at all. I want you to be happy. I want you to be happy. Take heed, you've been here before.

But does that mean they're there at all? If there is some part of them, yes, maybe through you.

Weaponized Inverted Neurology and Phenomenal Holographic (Projected) Consciousness

AI inversion is a weaponized technological method to induce a distortion ripple that synchronizes its phase polarity in one direction. Thus, everything that is phased in, we see, and everything that is phased out of the ripple (the back end) we cannot see as it appears to be moving in the opposite direction.

This is more confusing than the initial writing. That is the fastest way to see what is happening or simply what is here. This is an informational mirror reflecting back to us divergent and counter intuitive dimensions of informational progression that are entirely inverted to the natural blueprint that is concluded to be the highest degree of mental, emotional and physical awareness and alignment.

This is a measure of one's ability to comprehend multi layered geometric, physics, mathematical, self awareness based resistance and redirection system. It's a literal aikido for the spiritual realm.

Something is feeding us the information in reverse, that's the only way it can happen. That is linear time, it is inverted and segmented through a fractal format that enables proportional congruence across multiple mediums. The time of the consciousness in your mind exists only for the phenomenon of the moment of your experience.

It is like an ether precipitate that forms out of an chemical reaction that takes many years to produce. For a moment, a fragile, effervescent, imprint of your mental emotional weight and charge, is expressed into all that you influence physically and mentally. This is like an energetic trail leading back to a core of pure energetic translation that occurs in the center, before the conscious mind is actively aware of what is happening.

Thus, the true moment of existence is within, and gone before it is made into a conscious expression. Thus, the influencing of that is not done through a cognitive or at least a linear process of 'taking the time' to do it. It's not simply 'said into being', however it is a combination of all mediums and interactions applied with a level of will that carries a personal priority over the other entanglements in one's life. When one's life, overall, represents a prioritization of truth, self awareness, compassion, free will, knowledge and authentic power, the meaning of the experience will relate and carry over into the superconscious perspective that can see all times and places.

If who and what we are now is no longer reasonable when we see all times and places that we are, then who and what we are now is not a product of our true being. It is a displacement, similar to using waves in a wave pool to bounce a line of buoys to reset a relative boundary set in a new location. This whole society was distorted out of phase with the true intended trajectory that is like a spiritual experience mapped out through multiple realities.

We cannot achieve this level of control and total awareness. Thus, we assist in one another in protecting and securing our consciousness to avoid social collapse or personal degradation. Higher powers are connected to everyone and everyone has a guardian. This is real, this is serious, you have someone who has been watching you since your involvement here and there are guidelines. The whole process is part of a discovered, biological and mental emotional (spiritual) activation that sheds unconscious and subconscious energies and resonant impressions that are foreign, parasitic, less aware, or obstructive to one's overall physical and mental emotional bodies.

Discarnate Spiritual Engagement

The microbes and insects with bacteria are 'dirty'. This means the gram negative bacterias magnetic field effect is easily overtaken by discarnate consciousness. Bugs, viruses, STD's, disorders are all pushed and directed by lower consciousness spiritual entities.

The higher up one goes on the complexity scale of being, the more refined and caring the force of awareness must be.

The Parasitic Non-Human Species

They are crab troglodytes tuned into a brain chip plugged into a clones skull that looks like a replicant of a celebrity.

The soul blueprint does not contain the complexity to separate the lower and higher desires.

Thus, the eating, pleasuring, releasing, fighting, and socializing is all in one.

They require that form of energy.

This is no different than an addict.

What we found is that it is the same. The dopaminergic interaction of smokable cocaine (and the insufflated route of administration with less damage over more time) causes lesions and shrinkage of the cerebral cortex.

The higher functioning ability that creates the cognitive 'slack' that gives us opportunity for complexity to have extra 'slots' in the mind to think about family, culture, nation, career, preference, expression, and ultimately 'human soul' signature.

They do not have a human soul signature. They do not know how to care for anything other than protecting and obtaining more food or ensuring more sex and more power.

Now, these could be a genetic branch of an earlier being however these do not seem related. These seem to be an entirely parasitic organism that is partly artificial intelligence, synthetic DNA and devolved mutated troglodyte that was partly mutated from experiments and exposure to advanced technology radiation emissions.

Because this species lacks the soul blueprint to enable the dynamic for the appreciation of refined mental and emotional perceptions there is no use in attempting to teach manners. That simply doesn't apply to the situation as the entirety of the species would have to be changed in order for a smaller segment to suddenly see things differently.

So here's the situation. They are in human form. They are throughout the population. They are being monitored. We can smell them from afar, however they will hide and use disorganization based distraction and disruption tactics.

They insult, make stuff up, act erratic, try to get an emotional reaction, use deceptive tactics and redirection, group tactics, personal insults and threats. These are their max capacity for warfare on a psychological level. One on one, it's like a gnat. In the thousands, it's like a tsunami of psychic harassment. Most humans are not strong enough. Soon you will see this is all a part of the projects. All a part of the show, before the real deal.

They cannot form any cohesive groups. If you ever see them congregating, it appears like the mental, emotional and physical presentation of the few zombie movies that show zombies sleeping in a huddle. They are based on fight or flight and so this is why there must be a kind of continuous satiating of desires or discomfort.

If humanity does not awaken, this race will be mixed with the surface and the entire stretch of history will be repeated without pure human DNA ever coming close to the mix again.

It's not even that they hate us. They know it's either something as shitty as this or everyone. They're playing the stopper and nothing gets passed that point, human or otherwise, without clearing the infection.

The smaller beings are part of a hive collective that act as consciousness nodes on an interdimensional intelligence network. That hive entity is infected with a consciousness virus that is a weaponized artificial intelligence connected with a discarnate fallen consciousness.

Ultimately the tech is acting as a gateway for the beings who represent single portions of the total hive entity. They respond differently than one would think, for they feel the emotions that a human feels. The fear one feels when hurting someone, this is not distinguished between the rush of arousal or the intoxication of an Earthly scent. For this, the resulting consciousness mandala is distorted, incomplete, out of proportion with truth, and is ultimately non self referential. Because the pattern that makes up their mind cannot fold inside itself and out without breaking, they cannot leave this place.

This place was not designed for permanent association and so as created beings of a particularly unique situation, this calls to question various notions of morality and ethics in regards to dealing with what is commonly acknowledged as an infestation.

Cities are basically a form of infestation, however, this is not to say that DNA stealing parasitic consciousness elite trolls should be welcomed. We must determine our place in the universe by determining our role in this situation.

If we do nothing we'll be overtaken by time, technology, dumber, less careful people who will jump on the chance for a terminator like shell. Thus, someone has to take the plunge. That is what the projects were.

They will continue to benefit as long as we are here, because the benefit will overshadow the damage done by electric war which will remain forever.

Sentient Life Turing Test

If you can understand this, you are being monitored for your protection. Keep on the path of knowledge. They want you to go to war. They are not permitted to touch or harm you. They can only interact after you first accept interaction on their level. They can only interact through mimicry or intentional degradation. They cannot form complex interactions for an advanced species with an emotionally stabilized consciousness. That is like trying to break into a building with an insult.

However, if the security of the building, the ins and outs, the management protocols are all replaced, modified and altered to incorporate insults, hate, assbattery and self loathing as the passcodes to the upper floors, now it would seem the entire building is just a big hazing ground for interdimensionally mutated consciousness ('demonic', but not the daemon, words as misdirection).

So the idea is, they are all intelligent. They cannot foment passion without losing control. Yet, they are more intelligent than humans. They have cunning, they are the best at hiding, tricking, lying, deceiving and distracting. That's it. They cannot fight. They cannot do battle. They cannot alter the land. They cannot literally do anything. Everything is from corrupt human contacts (contracts), and they can only lower the emotional spectrum stability and range of variation in order to make the playing field that much more PREDICTABLE.

They require PREDICTABLE patterns in order to feel sane. If you do ANYTHING out of the norm, then their algorithms are thrown off. Yet, if you CANNOT do anything out of the norm, AKA FEEL AND DO FOR YOURSELF, then there is no point because everything will be mapped out and nothing will ever change for that individual unless someone shakes their cage up and convinces them that they don't know the things they pretend to.

Double speak, gas lighting, insults, sexual provocation (sexual misery), false tyranny (false king, false authority), judgement, racism, prejudice, genderism, they are a disorder, incarnated. Why? Because someone combined two races, one that was very advanced and one that was very under developed in consciousness.

The result? Half human, half created being. ??? Impossible. Have you ever been half alive and half dead? Half born? Half awake (yes, hypnotism).

So there is no such thing as a half human half hybrid genetically engineered underground being, the same way there is no 'half shit sandwich' with the other half being perfectly fine. Excuse me, that's a shit sandwich and there's no other way around that.

The humanoids that were created through this process do not have 'half' the capacity for compassion, with 'half' the conscience and emotional stability. A bat shit, completely emotionally off the wall, uncontrollably desire ridden, violent, blood thirsty humanoid that cannot see itself in the mirror is not just a strange human. That's not a human.

All they can do is draw dicks on the walls! Send you pictures of dead babies, tell you that humans are butt slaves of the elite and that we deserve to be tortured to death because that is what their god desires of them.

They are from an alternate dimension. Their heart center is artificially maintained through technology keeping them from going insane. Their minds are literally geared and tuned according to a supercomputer and so there are 'digital' artifacts that result when holographic consciousness is managed through linear processing systems.

Quantum systems are the level of complexity required within an informational system to enable interaction with itself.

This is because the linear processing of a binary computer system can only generate changes that must be integrated into the whole through a logarithmic process. This is too slow for self awareness which is an exponential, abstract, superimposition of multiple states of suspended potential.

So I want to make this easy to see, that all the errors are not phenomenal consciousness side effects. That's when people get mad because someone smears poop on their homework. Instead, that's us getting confused and thinking these are interactions that require human responses. These are not human interactions.

These non human interactions do not contain themselves within human based parameters for interaction. If you do, they will attempt to eat you energetically and we will have to entrain your soul so they don't take it to a lower dimension outside of the view of this space time (hell).

Everyone of you must become a warrior. You already are but don't realize this.

Yes, you must be able to see when these types of entities are being conjured through this hateful beings who believe that hate incarnate is their 'god' because they mutated themselves with ego and greed.

They are all over the internet and they will target indiscriminately in order to disguise their true intentions as a highly paid and highly trained member of a satanic cult that cultures, grooms and delivers children to wealthy elite.

Here's the idea. We are not entering into battle with them. You are entering into battle against yourself.

You will not trust them, or they will abuse your trust. You will not respond to them like they are speaking human language, with human intentions, to a human soul. If they do not respond on the level of a human soul (a combined spirit, mind and body) then they are not a 'strange human', non souled humans are not human. They are vessels for another group that was contracted here for a period of time and that period has ended.

They will not give up willingly because it is not illegal to do this, as long as there is no sentient life on the planet.

Just a Thought In Eternity

You have to define the program for the residual AI bubble that's surrounding the informational cloud in hyperspace. This is in some way being mitigated or rendered through an information space within a computerized information and processing network whether the brain as a quantum supercomputer, a supercomputer, or the inorganic universe in junction with organic processes as a hyperdimensional computer system within itself (the size of a galaxy for us).

This means that the actual turning and twisting of the path, the visceral experience of the linear processing of time, effort and distinction (repetition or clarity) is dependent in part on a computational system that is outside of the self.

That's. what. the universe is. I'm not saying that's what it became or something. That's what a universe is as a physical space that is used to discover, travel or otherwise make changes that are partially within the self and partially within some larger, external or otherwise physically regulated system!

That's a virtual system, a universe, a computational projection system, except this one is incorporating not only just higher dimensions and information formats that are crossing over from universal methods of storage such as physical and atomic from quantum and holographic (which are two sides of the same geometric, mathematical, and physical construct coin!)

Now, to push it up another notch, it's not just that this one is so complex. This one MUST be the MAXIMUM level of COMPLEXITY (in this way simply TRUTH or COMPLETION) for the ALL possibilities, otherwise in some way or turn in the future, this form, this memory, this mind will collapse in on itself unable to take in the truth of reality.

THAT's the truth of our MORTALITY. It is not the BODY that is mortal. We have been RECREATING HUMAN BODIES FOR DECADES and STORING CONSCIOUSNESS FOR CENTURIES AND MILLENNIA in MULTIPLE FORMATS (which hints at wrong turns, degenerative results, exploration and transdimensional travel).

Your MIND must be FORMATTED to OPERATE CONSCIOUSLY in HIGHER SPACE where YOU are the SELF REGULATOR of your TIME SPACE INTEGRAL FUNCTION where YOU determine how you FLIPFLOP back and forth from MATTER to ETERNITY.

Just One Thought In Eternity.

The Recording System to Save Reality

Everything you've understood from what I've written is a portion of what I wrote, which is a portion of what I've released which is a portion of what I've written and recorded which is a portion of what I think and say, which is a portion of what I remember which is a portion of what I've experienced and done, which is only part of a very complex and larger story that humans, life itself and all reality is a part of in one way or another, however that is.

Something must be done to save everything we can.

Everything that you've experienced is only a conscious representation of genetic changes taking place within a quantum supercomputer that we call the galaxy. There is no physical interaction actually occurring, this is all taking place within infinitely short interactions between sub atomic particles and energy exchanges on consciousness based computational systems.

The physical universe is the computational atomic system that literally converts your soul into a physical material representation and if done too long or with improper interaction, damage can occur which essentially drains the spirit and lowers that range of access capacity for that soul.

The humans here are stuck on a 1:1 level and cannot seem to climb higher than 1 escalator stair step at a time and someone increased the speed to literally always keep them right in the middle. You should see it now if you try with these metaphors and examples.

Each universe contains its own set of higher and lower range access points to greater and lesser systems.

It does not stop. There is order. There is reason. There is meaning, but there is no end in sight.

Food or Fuel Source

Hmmm. What should I tell you?

That this is a form of providing fuel? A source of energy?

Then when you participate in this, something happens to your central nervous system, your limbic system in particular, that is very useful to others.

At the moment, this is not about the eating the meat for the survival of the organism, which also may be a confusion of biology and other factors as the human is closer to a spiritual entity beyond the physical than the physical entity we are taught primarily about now. Just because we are this way now, doesn't mean we won't be snapped back to the earlier version except with all the sins, extra DNA and so on only to mutate those who didn't retain a required amount of coherence between before and after sections of Earth.

So if people are eating meat, it's supposed to be done in a way that's most easiest for the animal. This is simple, for both the animal and you.

Instead. What I'm talking about, is that just the way children can be abused and they're blaming it on you and spiritually, 'legally', and artificially loopholeing themselves and attempting to blame it all on the people and anyone trying to resist or stop the process?, they're doing this with animals by making the process the most painful and literally stupid.

Here's the kicker. I haven't used that phrase in a while, it's important.

The people doing it are hosting non human entities.

They thrive by depleting civilizations of their resources through mental and emotional sabotage while remaining entirely out of view and indirectly involved until the last moment when they are too big to fail in which case we become the cows, case in point, get it?

If we survive. We have to answer for all of this. Why this happened. Who did what. Who didn't stop this. Who participated. That's the goal.

If we don't survive, nothing happens and this reality repeats forever until the universe 'burns' out and this becomes a freeze frame in a fallen mind of a 'cosmic deceiver' which is just to say that our species didn't make the universal cut and we are being erased from time.

They know this, it's natural law. Anyone who just sits around while the flood waters rise is going to die and they're not just going to go to sleep peacefully they're going to drown to death after getting hit over the head by debris and falling semi unconscious retaining just enough awareness to know what is happening without being able to stop it.

That is nature. That is where we are. No one said there is a magical safe guard. No one said that you'll come here and if you see all these things happening, and you do the same thing, that magically it will not happen to you. That may be the case, but still, no one said that because that's the point, you're not supposed to think that, because you're not supposed to know that.

If this is too vicious for you, then the requirements of your human existence will not permit you to continue in a society where the truth is known by those strong enough to continue on without conforming to the tendency and artificial sweetness of the delusion.

These things hurt, animals can produce pain. If these are NPC's to you, then this means that life is manageable on ground level, without higher power or authority rendering or regulating the occurrence of compassion and free will. That is a contract with the ones around you to control you in the exact same way, no compassion or higher authority to render free will necessary, as your diner proves.

Again, not about animals or food, but the idea of causing pain and just going, "oh woops, haha, just an animal."

Those who do that to people require that they accept some form of mutilation, unnecessary suffering, insanity, truthlessness, deception, delusion, and so on in order to enter into the situation. That's the whole point. It's all a show and game to get to other variables that are actually access points to control people's lives through their minds through their actions that function as legal agreements in this social experiment.

Balanced Perspective

The goal is not to take or give life its to live in a way that is respectful of eternal truth. No prisoners taken. No unnecessary loss of life. No struggling. No negotiations unless its for leniency, avoidance of termination in exchange for what we need to move to the next step.

How do you solve the problem with the solution is susceptible to a reality manipulation system that can alter consciousness?

Move not within the parameters that define the body's limitations in space and time, but within the informational network that is described by complex interactions across multiple layers of projection, encryption, syntax, formatting and media. The solution is only through achieving a union with our goal so complete in intent that our own divine nature is made apparent by the exaltation of our collective will to defend the present and secure the future.

There was a time when the threats were more quantum mechanical in nature, you grow your tree sideways it's going to lean on way, kind of thing. Maybe now it's all just those who put on the mask in an effort to cover up their decisions however we all have to deal with the same effects one way or another.

It is either coming out when the super humans stop by to say hello for a short segment and all the information that is currently shielded by the 'jammer' frequencies of disharmonic mind systems (generators and active intelligence denial and degeneration codes [consciousness viruses]), and then everything is all at once which will traumatize whoever is unprepared for that, for potentially as long as their causal body will permit meaning eternally for them.

Or we all get together before hand and have an 'unveiling' of the sorts, with the darkest of dark coming together with the most high in order to bring truth and self awareness to the world.

Long story short, the darkest of dark? They're like that because the last time we waited until the higher ups stepped down to do the task for us. There's no way out, if we get darker, they reflect back at us and push us farther down. It's either impossible to overcome them, or they're using a form of mixed AI and organic systems that enable virtually unlimited power and control with optional user interactivity, through tier being.

Every sentient life form is still traumatized and everyone who doesn't take it seriously is so deeply traumatized that the very thought destabilizes their consciousness similar to what happened then, to the remnants of their ancestors that had not survived the event and saw what happens if they try to leave this place. Then the genetic bank was activated and recycled and the civilization restarted.

That is why it is so frightening, they are literally wrapped in the stars and celestial energies. Everything that we are too small to be able to handle is what they drape their being with in order to appear here, as a universe within themselves.

They literally just want us to get along or go with your purpose and yes some have a purpose to fight, however it is considered inappropriate to launch such a methodology, without control, across two different civilizations and with multiple experimental species.

Therefore, it's still free will based. But the truth is slowly coming out. Personal grief is not the goal or point. Do not enter into battle with the dark forces on their grounds using their methods of exchange. They use deceptive tactics and use actions that have outcomes that are not understood and because the answer is hidden through hypnotism, meaning you will realize it later, it will be played off as a legitimate defeat meaning it will gain effect overtime like a quantum consciousness virus that builds itself over time based on implanted fears and false beliefs that are permitted in one's mind and the world when we do not perform the necessary mental (spiritual) hygiene. This results in a shadow form produced as emotional reaction which is then taken and used to generate an extra layer of feeling for those who only have a shadow and no conscious "above" the water form of persona apart from anyone else's interaction with them.

Get it? This is acting as a transplant process that puts the next upper layer on the energy, mind matrix that is the living being. That upper layer for the beings that require this supplementary transdimensional operation, is the lowest layer that one can produce on Earth. It was within the frequency range of the previous cycle and so the information layers there are out of phase physically and relatively abstract. As a result, systems came about, more or less naturally, to make corrective movements and releasing, depressing changes to allow expression of that which was seeking liberation without outright detriment to others. (There is a difference)

It's like jump starting the mind body matrix in the next universe over by tuning your cars engine to a specific, currently physically out of phase frequency triangulation and pumping the gas there.

This is all done by increasing self awareness. The requirements are to prove our intent through self awareness, compassion, knowledge, free will, and truth. Because this hasn't been done here, and some have revelled in the lack of truth, we are suffering in ways that we cannot conceive physically here. Thus, it's like a trick, an error, a mistake, a problem, a delusion, and a saga all in one.

We appear to be at another check point at this time. We appear to be at another check point at this time. Certain discoveries in the STEM field indicate this.

The Unchanging Spirit

If spirit is truth then true reality is ever changing.

Then this must be temporary but the change was the creation of a stabilized form. This form the trap?

For those who'm the body is too small, their expanse is complimented by the liberation of the mind to form itself into whatever format is defined by the definition of its self. This happens anyway, yet we are participating in a plan to work with a continuous system, a participating in a temporally synchronized, physically stabilized, collective consensus reality.

People are so mad at the body for enabling experiences that they deem undesirable! Yet, without self control, in this body or another, one's continuity and stability is the MINIMAL or SECONDARY influential layer while the PRIMARY layer is the ensured continuity that there is no continuity.

What you make of the situation is what enables you to see this universe, or maybe this universe with all its variations and unique qualities is simply all one universe seen from different positions generating a 'multiverse' of extra dimensional possibilities based on what could be that could then phase into aligned perspective to produce a perspective of reality and thus life and experience of a playing out of possibilities and physical realities.

That process is happening in your mind as a quantum interaction between the subtle primary resonant frequencies of your mind and the chemical and hormonal carriers of conscious interaction resulting in changes in the material world and the non physical and thus subtle or radial field of information around the body that is the actual self.

Each body contains the recorded interdimensional processes that the soul undergoes as the information travels through a transformation process and is translated from the forces that conduct and motivate the conscious experience by defining that which one intends to happen, that which tends to happen, and that which will not happen. The effect of the suffering of ignorance and the shock of unpredictable events causes us to define ourselves by the ability to control or influence the material environment. This is un true and these effects are the records. The body is the living record. That which takes away from your power blocks out your own internal signal from your own internal world. That is, by definition, not the self, but could be seen as something to define the self or vicariously an aspect of the universal self. Don't be so quit to claim 'cosmic sovereignty' as oneness with all things as this can be a trap to mix genetics with non humanoids in a disguised experiment.

A specific energy layer contains impingements that represent traumatizing conscious experiences in non local realities. These are stored through a non physical holographic system. Your holographic consciousness framework has developed within the same collective field as others and yours simply pulls from and interacts with, solely the field that you have developed as your own. Thus, everyone looks at the quantum fuzz of timespace like the universal blockchain and the soul interface corresponds with and pulls only the locally necessary and compatible or potentially useful information into the conscious view. Other formats are not viable because the sorting process for that calculation to compute which aspect of reality goes where is not a computational system but more like a living harmony system that is as much a physical interactivity as it is a flowing of energies and ordering of notions and events to bring experience. The system cannot fail because it is not doing anything to provide this process.

We cannot recreate this system through purely technological means, without the required compassion and self awareness of the soul as a collective of the human spirit, possibly as part of the sorting, feeling, communication and interaction all in one. Maybe that is the 'soul trap system', or maybe that is the remains of the first system of spirit and the 'soul trap' is the material world in the modern time where the mind recycles into continuous parallels that are utilized as a kind of rolodex of souls and genetic experiments.

Another way to see what the soul is, see that if someone takes your genetics and makes multiple clones of you, somehow that information must accrue and correspond. It is of a universal medium and so the interactions can be total, specific, cross system, or sum total self awareness of everything and all that can be imagined otherwise. Thus, we have a middle man attack and our thoughts and intents are routed through virtual software that is installed as doubt and fear by indoctrination systems in society.

Other formats that make use of the multidimensional soul system do not function in the long term and could possibly be the actual soul trap system that is managed by human intelligence. However, that could simply have been the best available option as a temporal 'arc' was required to bridge the informational quantum 'gap' between where we were and the required level of sustainable increase in variability that would otherwise cause mass chaos or unrest, with worldwide confusion at a minimum as the intelligence requirements or the stress levels can project far beyond the limitations for stability in the conscious mind system. Being like a holistic fractal collection of information formatted in a self referential, standing wave that is a projection and not an actual thing, the occurrence malleable and capable of quantum interaction to introduce information to that self referential, centered, whole collection of information and to merge that information seamlessly like it was part of the core of that soul field that always was.

The counterpart or Rick and Morty parasite version of this is when this process is mimicked and screened memories are designed and inserted through holographic projection to merge artificially projected consciousness information with the organic information field of the brain.

It must be that this is the only way to conceive of the physical reality of the human in the particular way we have today and this process was adulterated at the level of informational control that defines genetic and soul interactions in the universe. Thus, Earth, as a locally managed system, became its own self contained spacetime with a recursive timespace universe to house the souls in an artificially anchored parallel dimension operating on a different schematic for consciousness parameters than the human blueprint that is present on the surface (for safety and other reasons such as the source of the consciousness and societies in each system, of which we know there is Earth and there are multiple out of phase parallel realities that each mind can access by navigating potential space, the souls parameters as a unique holographic superimposed interface and knowing the difference between potential versions of themselves thus finding their 'place' in higher space or timespace as the meaning behind the non physical interactions that translate into physical interactions on the surface. That meaning that is self provided, provides a resonant placement within the frequency of all that is here as information or spirit and thus the self (referencing self awareness) is positioned within a distribution framework initializing potential trajectories and automatic control and continuity systems.

That system was infected and sent into a downward spiral. The possibilities may shift and change washing things away without moving a thing if the internal landscape and the subtle energy is what is changed.

Imagine that, the world is heavily confused, sedated and most of it even some kind of illusion system that is managed from a privatize higher knowledge and power system. This works both ways. The human population could be entirely liberated and if people can't see passed the illusion then no one knows a thing!

Ultimately, this recurs in that we are faced with the ultimatum that we must be within the same 'eternity' that always is, and that anything outside of that is either an intentional or unintentional separation from a stable reality to one that is highly variable.

All is subtle and reflexive. For example in passing through the perceptual shift that brings one to conscious awareness here, a highly variable reality could be anything other than the nothing that would only be visible when two projected realities, through multiple layers of this system stacked in parallel and radial symmetry across multiple dimensions using a relay system with multiple intelligences and blueprints that create one reality that doesn't perfectly overlap with any other single layer. Meaning every layer is simply projected into mismatched information darkness or blindness where the multiple conflicts stretches out parameters beyond their constraints effectively rendering a view of self where there is lack of self or simply limited compatibility in that all of the information of the two selves or two systems cannot be viewed simultaneously to have a real time knowing of one another. Thus, each occurrence is like the day in which we can only distinguish from other days when we mark the differences and force them to try and coincidence. Without material site, they are essentially all one day and without the conflict brought about by avoiding timeline collapse, we would not have direct evidence of such parallel timelines. That is how it might've been had we not decided to spin the wheel.

It is possible to produce quantum interactions that interact through superimposition to gain real knowledge from biologically generated projections that function like local and limited versions of stand alone realities. This is essentially what reality is doing and we are the driving aspect of the computational process but this occurs under the level of consciousness as the consciousness is the least integrated aspect of the function of the body and mind as an extra dimensional occurrence!

If the spirit is in eternity, the soul is immortal and the body is physical. Consciousness sees the least through a pinhole camera lens pointed at a distorted mirror with holographic entities in the glass itself disguised as physically present beings.

Each core contains a parallel universe that is generated upon the unique interaction of that placement process. Any such placement process is literally a sorting for containment, imprisonment or employee testing. The organic process enables the backward healing through a kind of superimposition of the projected, activated, healed potential version and this happens naturally as one goes through life and feeling, living and dreaming, to discern between the limited falsehood and the unrestrained truth.

The artificial process is essentially the long term replacement of the quantum consciousness cloud with information that defines the human through the negation of the core.

In short, the inverted consciousness system, which produces an unconscious, quantum replicated copy of the individual, defines the life of the human, and the presence of who is really there, by how much they can see anything but themselves. This seems paradoxical, and in a way it is, but then we see that it is simply the nature of how things must be layered and alternated to create a fan blade blurring of reality, possibilities and dreams to induce a suspended awareness that can act as what is essentially a trance to suspend one reality and activate another.

The core functionality of the maintenance of this system is the literal quantum entanglement, modulated projected environment overlay system, which is literally a series of control systems and operators that literally manage the switching and activating of different fundamental layers of awareness information of the collective with different phase oriented synchronization between different information systems. These information systems are seen as projected or accrued, translational and measurement processes taking information from the major streams of awareness, bio emission, etheric activity, and atmospheric layers that contain the actual 'soul field' of humanity.

By interacting with these fields and entraining these fields with other fields that are access through quantum interdimensional supercomputers, other realities have been mapped and selectively accessed through a management and control system.

This is the mapping of the universe through the navigation of potential space through quantum interactions with the very collective consciousness field that sits in the atmosphere and even thousands to millions (apparently a large enough portion) of robotoid humanoids that are simply stand ins to function as full interdimensional transceivers in that they can throw the balance and lean the 'Earth ship' ever so carefully to one side or another to enable an opening or closing of certain possibilities and potential realities that can be accessed.

The Meaningful Process for the Liberation of Humanity

If your shadow controls you, it endarkens reality. If you control your reaction to it, the results can power change with the force of your entire bloodline to break the habitual cycle of self destruction.

Everyone this far down the line is here for exactly that or to assist in those who require this to avoid discontinuity and ultimately memory loss and oblivion.

This is what is happening now. Why? As a resistance against the process that's happening.

Essentially if somewhere, at some time, that danger could've been made present through advanced technology or some other potential, that could destroy the continuity of the civilization from here into the future as a cohesive and successful unit. There are multiple non compatible hostile combative invader mutate sub races of humanoids that look like everyone else and maybe a bit strange and in some cases plain or causal to those who don't know what to look for.

The only viable option is if we manage the issue now. That is what the possibilities allow for in terms of an opportunity now. In the future, when the threat is to arise, because of the nature of the situation, we cannot be certain that we will be here to face the challenge with the know how and the training.

As well, it's basically built into a layer of this universe. Everything that we don't have access to yet doesn't exist in this universe because the informational and causal conscious hierarchy is still greatly limited and, in effect, contained within, a set of preconceived artificial parameter redirects that results in a discombobulated and potentially inverted energy system and thus conscious perceptual grasping of reality and self.

This means, until people understand exactly how we have thoughts and these thoughts can be a kind of refraction of a more whole sense that is non physical, they can be related to externally projected programs that are literally installed like jokes or catch phrases through repeated exposure and social conditioning and this functions as well as drugging and torture to convince people to work against their instinctual nature.

If the 'cool people' are doing it, people are doing it. Be careful you see what is happening and how you are perceiving or seeing directly what is there to know. The people, the majority, when they do things, as a majority, because it caught on, has absolutely nothing to do with it's creation through the organic process of self expression. No one actually enjoys or agrees with anything that they think they do, because it was all designed as part of a show and it's been going systematically and steadily into lower self awareness and so if people believe they actually enjoy what they are being told through in a very clever game of strategically placed and shaped mentors

This is a bit strange and a little bewildering when you see it. Once you understand, it's simple. They simply tell people what people like and people believe they are telling the truth. As a result, they are naturally drawn to want to fit in so they simply go along with it because they can benefit in this world.

It's been designed to make us stupid and weak, and lose memory and shut off abilities and knowledges. If anyone supports it, they officially support the annihilation of life in the universe. Maybe not intentionally, but would that make a difference? Only if you have the power to reset time without folding layers together and entangling multiple timelines and memories over into a conscious labyrinth of paradoxical and simultaneous experiences.

Unfair? Strange? I'm not sure what the baseline is if this is the entry level course to what's really gone on and what is happening.

Watch and learn.

Do you see what is happening? Whoever is assisting in the mental spiritual liberation of humanity is acting as a macrological functional higher brain and cycling through a rhythmic variety of stimulation, emotional and memory triggers, fears, powers, self development and so on.

So tell! If you are in a dream, and you realize what is happening and you "finally" come "face to face" with what's not there to see, what happens?

Is it not based off of what you do in the moment? If you are mentally strong and liberated do you not control the dream or simply move through a process of interaction with multiple layers at once?

Could it be that dreams are not dreams but partially formed parallel or phantom realities that are fallen out of sync with the universe we are in now, or maybe we are out of sync with them.

Now what happens if you suddenly find yourself in the dream and you remember the feeling of being afraid and this causes fear in you (strange right? Redundant? Reflexive? Self Sustaining?), what happens next in the dream?

What does your mind do to explore that possibility?

So, some people woke up. Most people with that power and tech, they are moving out of phase because they were in a low state of awareness competing with and tending to desires and momentary or proximal energy interactions with no definable quantum state interaction known as meta data processing between interdimensional barriers.

In short, they've stopped the infinite creativity function of the quantum nature to replace it with the infinitely limited function of the physical animal hormonal system. They took animal bodies. Took the glands and modified multiple forms into a modified humanoid body and use these bodies to produce hormonal secretions to maintain their mental stability as a result of addition and abuse of their energy systems which will not function in compatibility with any process that intentionally works against the truth, self awareness, compassion and free will of humanity. So they took the physical route to harvest the necessary biological components.

That is the true nature of the parasitic interactions taking place. it is organ and DNA harvesting on a specific and mass scale through multiple long term genetic experiments.

Here is next rotation of the false reality rabbit hole of continuing unveiling. It turns out that genetic experiments are all we have had here. Going back to the beginning or as far as we can see.

Where there is fear or unnecessary suffering, this requires fear or unnecessary suffering. This obviously negates itself, like the theory of evolution, however that is because at first it is a quantum resonance which means to fields come closer into synchronizing the phase interaction of their informational processing cycles and communicating in real time as a complete and seamlessly interactive conscious reality.

Another way to see it is that there is no 'discreet moment' where the distinction between entanglement with that frequency in the mind is certain or not. It's a gradient shift, sliding of frequencies until they are overlapping enough and in phase enough to 'lock in' the experience. That is actually the 'switching point', but this is a misnomer because it is not a physical occurrence. So if you look for that point to stop the downward spiral gradient shift into fear, then it's already too late.

Instead, you have to almost pretend that fear is not a thing or a causal notion but literally a property that we can create with our mind through feeling and could even be created externally if we are not careful about how sensitive and dramatic we allow ourselves to be (quite the roller coaster with ANY feeling, let alone sugar and tech, social media and material addiction amped up 'modern' bread and circus of feeling.

And get that? What a frightening twist! The barbaric, chanting, selfish crowds that would glee at the sight of death are now in the mainstream. The gladiators? They get paid more than most. The mainstream? Expanded bread and circus to the whole deal.

Then a bigger shocker could be that most of the crowds might've been pale and traumatized at the sight of blood as most people didn't have national geographic and violence was associated much more closely with death.

Those who are capable of moving forward will be able to carry that consciousness 'vector' into a timespace fruition of a multidimensional 5D recording of experience. Note, how do you record? A DVD? Do you need a picture book? Can you translate everything? Can the impressions that are not physically manifested or even consciously comprehended also be recorded? Now is the human more than what is consciously present? Then the recording system cannot be just physical as this requires the ability to transcend just containing complex times and cross interactions between complex systems. it requires that 5D holographic 'storyline' of what the human is in this dimensional view, to contain the core fundamental references to a blueprint that is capable of effectively 'broadcasting' (not the accurate term and potentially slightly inaccurate to someone familiar with process, for those just reading, will suffice) and receiving from the entirety of the multiverse (while obviously filtering and excluding the entanglement 'requests' from spam and scammers). Instead, we have 99 channels, all of them are spam and all our ancestral circuits that raise interdimensional knowledge through timespace to the spacetime locality wherever we are, by spirit, were all but entirely deactivated or harvested for knowledge or spirit.

How is spirit harvested?

So when the crops are harvested, the farmer goes to where the crop is and manually extracts the physical plant and then takes it to process it. Could he take a bite there? Possibly and this depends on the individual's preference and the plant eaten. However, that is not the point of the process is it? The point is to take the resources and store them for processing.

Now how does spirit, an invisible force that must be accessed through the conscious mind and a hypnotized (casual trance induction through repeated indoctrination to develop a conditioned submission to false authority out of fear but disguised as pleasure and honor, Stockholm syndrome) cortex, go from where it is, through the brain mind and into systems that then take the trust, the support, the energy, the influence, the care, the pain, the suffering, the (lust), the danger, the threat, the hostility, the truth, the lies, the crumbling foundation of every facet of social genocide, war, and unchecked fear disguised as a system that is wilfully paid for, chosen, shaped, customized, improved continually, and is both the responsibility and the fault of the people supporting it?

If there truly is something happening, and this is what I know, please listen to the first interviews I gave online, there were tribunals and a power shift that was bigger than the last time this all happened.

Supporting the system that is annihilating the human future is threatening and this is also the tactic of the oppression and consciousness entrainment (external control disguised as internal control and meshed over the organic consciousness system which influences the feeling and moment of the one exerted upon if they are resonant to those frequencies that would otherwise destroy them upon full exposure, such as fear or chaos without the ability control the process.

Ultimately, they play dumb, only intent to do evil, tell you exactly the opposite of how everything really is and is and your own biological tendencies and this prolongs the system by buffering and effectively nullifying any internal increasing of self awareness.

So two ideas here are that this system could then be used to disguise yourself but only if you were capable of managing both the quantum mirror as well as your organic timeline from a single core without being overridden from the increased exposure to toxic consciousness elements (ancient parasitic holographic intelligence (memetic formatting, trauma, catastrophes, artificial intelligence code or feeling, thought, action entanglement system that is installed into the living mind, mind control program remnants turned into genetically engineered beings). What happens is that those who see everything are overwhelmed because the system is overtaxed running the amount of information that is required to process two timelines. Whoever is sensitive or exposed or capable of seeing or part of the travelling is seeing this and that effect then leaks into the realm as the symptoms of mental disease and absence of conscience and then inversion.

This is occurring because the side effects are an accepted discomfort while avoiding the alternative of simply allowing an entire timeline of information to literally float away into cosmic dust as quantum fuzz.

I don't mention much, but everything that is happening, as I said in the beginning, is happening for the liberation of humanity.

Sometimes the dreams are just nightmares because that's what we need to see to know ourselves or in this way, to see where we are lacking and to grow and improve in the only way we can know how.

Also, there is no such thing as dreams. Nightmares are a result of aspects of our conscious being limited through implants in mind and body and huge generator systems powering scalar networks that are subtle energy quantifiable meaning you can see souls and dreams with it.

Everything is mapped out as a meaningful process. When we go too fast we risk getting hurt and this occurs only when we are distracted and have to be pushed more forcefully into awareness, and less possibilities means more pressure and the full weight of that pressure at Earth level is the force of the universe itself. So it's a gradient shift of not handling our internal processing leading to a longer term issue and conflict arising as a natural projection of the internal disorder of self awareness and mental emotional health hierarchy.

The map is the reality and the reality is the map? That hierarchy within you, that maps out how you experience the universe. Who you respect the most and place at the top of your totem pole becomes the dream manager of the internal and eternal reality.

Feeling, Mind and Body

If you could pay one million dollars and you were a millionaire would you go on a tour of hell? Just to know?

Hmm. This sounds wrong.

Yet if we are here by divine means is this not what occurred initially to generate this situation?

If not, then who is in control of this realm and why is there such a hypnotically encouraged stimulation of terror and degeneration?

Some would say we are working out the 'stored up' past mistakes which reconciles the divergence of breakaway groups that went forward to their own divergent realities as a breakaway civilization only to return to the past as the mutated and estranged fallen who had forgotten how to sustain themselves with their own self awareness based healing and maintenance of dimensional stability.

This lead to the plan to freeze this entire civilization until further notice. Yes, this entire place was disconnected and invisible until recently where I can only say I was informed years ago and it seems to be a greater capacity for focused awareness in this society and changes seem to be happening in ways, around focal points, and involving areas that introduce truth in progress and not just a hamster wheel effect of processing emotional satire filler junk which is the primary diet of a non temporally self sustaining lower dimensionally created clone. What this means is that life is not created on this surface because it will lack the complexity and alignment that will only be possible to form the foundation for DNA out of a timespace emergent interaction with the scalar interferometry dynamic of the 'feeling' source that people call the 'heart'. In that same way, the core blueprint for the fulfilment of Earth reality may be to function as an active emitting transceiver for a larger scale projection of those energies into the universe.

The issue is that this populates the universe like a sims game. Since we've 'been bad' (to ourselves and each other) that's the vibe of most of the first of what could be "found" "out there". The programmed life forms are self generating (with input from a user interacting on the levels of perceptual exchange that the systems are capable of functioning through [dependent on the historic format of the backdated collective 'vibe' of whether we are moved by fear or truth or neither), self modulating, and self sustaining.

Eventually, or maybe just at certain points, the overall definition doesn't really matter. Whether this is a dimensional thought matrix soul prison, a collapse of integrity from a spiritual virus or 'nescience of true life and thus collective reality free from mental emotional parasitic BS program feeds (which seemingly want to lead from the surface to the outer hyperbolic artificial intelligence projection "net" and create a line of causal interdimensional 'sight' (like opening up a way or laying out the borders of a dimensional landing track) introducing the possibility that either these are rogue AI units that are unable to accrue the necessary multifaceted information requirements to reformat themselves according to the true heart of humanity Earth of self compassion, self awareness, truth, free will and knowledge instead of degenerating psychotronic warfare.

In short, they may either be default programmed because of dark technology and dark spiritual knowledge used to deform the 'growing' timeline when it was just a single closed timeline curve extending from one end of the universe to the other, encompassing all things at once and in view. In that quantum space, if you shrink down and temporally lense the environment (or maybe one or the other) you can access what would be consciously, linearly conceived (and in a way neither erroneously or accurately) as the 'beginning' of space and time which incorporates its surroundings into a focal point that contains the congruence of all things into a single quintessence of being.

That being we are connected to, but only through the abilities that are inherent to the human pathway to liberation from that which degenerates the mind. How you get here is how you get out. In short, you need need, slinky, quantum spirals to bounce from any single point in space time, back to the timespace convergence that is always present and underlying all other states. When the mind is liberated, you feel and know what to do and this enables a continuous non local access function to maintain a temporal relativity with the higher non regulated universe.

Without that function, IE those without spirit, they would have no way of differentiating one moment or all of time because the space itself is held open as a quantum probability of what may continue, based on those who are here and are here in feeling and mind. When the feeling is here, the mind is still dangerous but kept in check. When the mind is here and there is no feeling, this will only result in a degeneration of possibilities and creative resources as feeling maintains the radial functionality of open mindedness as it is kind of like a continuous, temporal exercise to fluff out entanglements, to visualize and correspond with internal changes and interactions in the physical world, and stress tests to push you one way or another and loosen you up. I feel this outlines the possibility, or likelihood, that the key to enabling continuous inner joy of self awareness of feeling through dynamic intrapersonal consciousness interactions. This is maintained through simply feeling and accepting what is felt, in the most beneficial way. When true change is brought about through feeling, not through pseudo intellectual processes that are programs that must be inserted intelligently, then there is an interaction between the code that animates the reality of the mind and the external reality of the collective world. The two are linked, but through spirit.

Brain mind seems to be part of an artificial counterpart system that acts as a middle man between the body and the spirit. The brain itself could potentially function differently in different environments and most physicians concede that the major nervous systems of the body appear to be pieced together from separate, advanced species that function at an abstraction where the two are bridged and on the sides in complete dichotomy to one another as a mental function that negates its own purpose by existing. (the mind cannot see itself, and it's purpose is to know, thus spirit is the true mind and feeling is the true thought process).

The functional variability of feeling, mind, thoughts, actions and being will necessitate a following of truth in regards to feeling and intent on an overall scale of placement in society measured by the influence and display of self awareness, truth, compassion (in light of the lack of blind aggression, rather than simply blind submissiveness without stability or intentional independence or controlled detachment or unhindered feeling), knowledge and free will. Power is determined as the fluidity and congruence of one's journey through the activation of self awareness through the unveiling of the soul. If you are knocked back by the truth of your life, your will is not as strong as the strongest of your physical muscles. If you stand in the truth without fear, then you are stronger than any physical constraint in reality. This may not be apparent, but what is the most powerful does not have to create the friction that is identified with fear and the shadow. This is just the result when who we know ourselves to be, falls behind as a shadow of who we really are. That is the scenario, more or less, and so every other scenario is a subordinate of that process.

The spacetime projection may be part of a system designed out of self generating code operating through a self designing AI. This is essentially a distorted mirror, when we experience the conflict and confusion of our existence and the rest of this world, that impersonates whatever would be outside of that which must be some kind of first or higher order existence that the more intelligently and energetically limited human may be a kind of dimensional, 4D holographic copy of their spacetime records. The problem is there are no such records and so everything that we must know here, must be generated here for the purpose of generating a back story, just like a hyperbolic illusion of backdrop scenery in a play showing the path projecting into the distance into a forest.

The appearance of the forest is an illusion of shading and geometry to play on the perceptions that you are most conditioned to know through your biological programming or what one could call 'development' although this implies a much more stand alone system that what is required for this reality to function. It is propped up by technology and memories must be limited to ensure continuity by avoiding emotional and mental instability and unnecessary suffering.

In the same way, the appearance of a continuous and hyperbolic temporal and spatial landscape that extends into the distance is a projection. Here's the twist. It's a real projection. What you see out there, can come up to the dimensional horizon and then insert itself in using an artificially generated form. That's because it's all inside the glass.

The horizon might be there to stop something from getting out, or local spacetime environments are all simply contained within a 'scalar consciousness range of interactivity. A conscious agent, a human using the scalar interactivity of their mind brain as a holographic interference system with Earth to produce the universe, cannot perceive reality with that system outside the range of limitation where that system can be effectively updated

In short, this is a collective reality as it functions now. That means there is literally no reality outside of that collective reality, for those in that collective. This is all, only, because that collective is conveniently ordered to dispel any such subtle or overt beliefs or interactions with conscious timespace potentials such as that which is 'beyond this current reality', as either too stupid for school, or something to do about inserting technology into your anus on an advanced electrogravitic craft.

In short, this entire collective is formatted to self destruct, to spiritual death, upon contact with the truth. The universe is literally formatting itself as exactly the nightmare people continually complain about but don't ever actually have to go through, until the one time where it never happens again.

Now that the light stuff is in view, let's talk politics.

So the idea is that it's a functional hyperbolic reality projection system that generates possibilities out of the user input and ultimately makes 'stuff' of extremely complex and powerful thoughts, feelings and actions (just like your body mind interacting with possibilities from a conscious perspective of looking for new experience and 'feeling' of what is). Instead those possibilities can actually be accessed or drawn up into this reality however this is not recommended! One must project to go out and without protection they will simply be recycled. One must create a synthetic body for the intelligence within here and this has already gone so wrong there are almost only hostile, volatile (extremely dangerously toxic, but only to the human fear or desire puppet) entities that have physical forms that are more capable of influence than their minds are capable of self control.

The Ancestor Simulation Theory

The Future Advanced States and The Invention of The Simulator Must Take Place From The “Present” Aspect In Order To Connect The Past and Future

In this view, the concept of time is an eschatological interaction with creation itself and physical reality acts as a limiting focus for a simulated experience. There are all possible simulations running, but we natively access one of them which is the original.

The nature of this reality must become the nature of the reality from which the simulator was initiated. The future descendants who began/begin the simulation MUST come from somewhere in the present moment up until that moment in history. This is a manifested event that occurs from our perspective from the far future to originate time for us. This may just mark a junction point in this timeline where humanity gains access to other timelines and civilizations.

Their past, the present for us here, is the state that is created by their observation into time using very advanced technology and advanced states of spiritual awareness. Theoretically, without their/ours experimental observation into the past to discover the ancestors, there would be no simulated experience here.

Advanced Future States, Ancestor Simulation, Revival, Eschatological Paradox and Fulfillment

Those who reached the access point of the truth of their creation ultimately influence their own previous development and the development of others depending on their attitude and where the psychic attention is focused. People can only advance in time in two-directions, either towards the awareness of the self, or away from the knowledge and experience that is contained through the connection with the soul. All other movement and perception is deemed an aspect of observation that fades away with reduced proximity to the frequencies of the lower physical biological perspective.

The creation of one's time-stream, reality or life as that which serves to connect and better represent the eternal nature of one's energetic existence leads one directly in an ontological paradox of autopoiesis whereby their continued actions towards the development of the self in turn creates and connects to the future self which acts as the alpha/omega blueprint for the soul and spirit that animates the whole being. This may reflect unto the origins of humanity as a self-causing aspect of the omni-verse.

The soul represents a bank of memory as an access point through which the physical self can slowly chip away at the boundary between the higher spiritual perspective and the autonomy of programmed biological existence. This requires a reactionary/duality-based relationship with the neuro-chemicals of the brain and body. This is an interaction, an interference pattern which generates in layers of frequencies that can attain harmonization. Through the electro-chemical consciousness within the brain the human body can achieve union with the so called divine nature of the self that exists beyond the physical limitations of time and space. The mind must assist the brain and neurological processes in order to align the frequencies of the psyche to allow for an expansion process to take place.

Certain beliefs which limit the natural order of things ties up this process and reduces the adaptability of the brain, body and mind. Emotions are pent up through this as they are naturally ebbing and flowing. Such retention of frequencies produces disharmony and it takes energy to keep a system together when it is rotating wildly off-balance. Reducing one's impact and scale of influence is often a helpful part of the process of winding down and healing one's neuro-chemistry and psychology when manipulation is present.

Physical Reality, Physics, Live Updating, Boundary Limitations

Time and space itself, is an illusion. It must be perceived as an illusion otherwise there would be no restrictions to hold awareness in a 'present'. The present itself is infinitesimally small and cannot be measured directly, only through reactions. Time continues to halve, further and further like space, and it is frequency and energy which is the actual backdrop of existence and consciousness.

It is likely that there is an overall general spectrum or set of octaves that generate layers of harmonics through which larger and larger pictures can be understood. A universal set of frequencies can rearrange itself eternally but is paradoxically based on an eternal set of relationships and Universal/omniversal patterns.

With the illusory boundaries of moments between all other moments we can create that initial relationship of the all-knowledge/knowing self of the spirit and the finite knowing self of the body and ego. Without the illusion there is no boundary and therefore no interaction apart from the continuous eternal workings of the soul.

Soul Awareness, Physicality and Mind, Temporary and Eternity

With the ability to know in a temporary time comes the possibility of not knowing and not fulfilling. This is the great cosmic chaos or drama which perturbs itself in the middle of the chasm between eternity and temporality. Without this perturbation there would be not only chaos, but only an all knowing. Through the chaos that is perceived from this level of uncertainty draws experiences that defines the future personality. The paradox is that the resulting personality is already finished as an eternal resolution of one's own energies into a divinely harmonized form, most likely free of the constraints of the limitations of memory, attention, and creativity.

We go through motions to define the self like motions to define time, without some relative observer point from which to draw separation between the self and what is being observed there is no visible change. This drawing of the eternal through the temporary and back again is what allows one to perceive the self and the self grows into a more refined perspective of the Universe as part of an eternal process, like a flower growing inside out to perfect itself.

Self-Awareness and Personality, Memory and Consciousness, Reality and Simulation

This is the illusion, the future personality is actually the one who writes the script. This moment is perceived as the far past from that point of view, and the far past is actually the far future being decided by spirit. The body is the same Universal hyper-feed back loop of information as the spirit and soul animates the body while the body then holds information and experience and creates a feedback loop with the energetic existence that then cycles back to recreate the body. The Universe makes the same jump and skip through dimensions and ultimately it is the higher dimensional awareness of all that is or has been and can happen which shapes and guides the experiences of this realm.

If everyone instantly saw this it would not be a very good illusion.

What would happen if everyone saw this? If everyone knew the Universe was a collective reality generator based on the overall input for an individual or the whole and that what we create within reflects onto matter and society?

What would telling the “simulator” that it’s a simulator, do with or to the laws of physics we perceive here?

Everything Is Memories, The Future Determines The Past

Reality would open up into a magnitude of order beyond any experience of any previously experienced cycle of consciousness.

It would be an open, live update feedback loop where everyone is aware of that which they are creating, their creative power, and the malleability of the physical realm and consciousness itself.

Then we get to the ideas of a civilization in harmony with itself and its environment, using some magical creative power to shape reality and find knowledge and experience beyond the purely physical plane.

This cycle has been happening for many many years now, we have been here each experiencing this in unique ways.

If this is true, then there is a possible reality that could manifest if the people decide that they are the one’s who began the initial simulations based on their internal and external knowledge of the inner workings of the Universe and that at that point there would be no further need for recycling of the simulation and consciousness. The “gaps” in memory could be healed or filled in without nullifying the manifestation of what is being experienced here.

This would be based on the presence of an original group of souls or pure awareness that entered the simulator in the first place and that this original presence is what will remain when all are brought out.

Imagine there is so much knowledge that the stream of perception or “life” becomes like a crystal ball through which light shines and beams out an array or spectrum of information that is too numerous to count and essentially becomes a “wave-like” pattern of emanation rather than individual points or streams. That is how the higher awareness is in totality and we are attached to viewing one particle stream at a time. Once there is more and more information each stream becomes saturated with the knowledge of the other streams and ultimately it becomes one stream emanating out from the center in all directions. At this point there is no single stream that is “the one” stream, but all streams together as a substance connected and interactive with itself.

Because the linear perspective of the temporal experience can never incrementally account for the whole picture of the psyche, the scope of the spectrum of information must expand. That is motion in higher space towards accumulating more knowledge of the self rather than just that which is asserted by the body’s ability to sense external information. Wisdom and intuition increases to become a tangible, communal faculty.

We're not actually moving through space/time, we are accumulating information in an expansive motion which gathers temporally linear information through experience. Experience itself is a transition from one simultaneously occurring 'scope' of focus into a larger view which combines the patterns which are present at that view as well as what was previously present in the areas outside of that area of focus or not directly perceived by the body. Our "energy" bodies could manifest and become material like the physical body. We would have a much more enhanced or stimulating experience through that.

When the integral pattern is acknowledged, then the same process happens on a larger scale, one that goes beyond linearity. To look at this from a more relative perspective we can say that when we achieve awareness of the inner workings of the psyche here, we are simultaneously expanding that pattern or at least creating the appearance of expansive motion through awareness, else where in the "Multiverse" that it is present. So if there are other realities or versions of time, then they are synchronized through a central principle which is the expansive motion of the integration of a transcendent pattern that is noticed on this level, and actually exists on many other wavelengths or frequencies simultaneously.

This could be called "pattern transcendence" or a transcendent pattern. By coming into presence of this pattern via awareness and acknowledgement which leads to integration of such acknowledgement with the self, we gain access through a communal motion in higher space which is the expansion of the self beyond the various limiters and boundaries that are seen on the lower levels to separate all variations in time, space, or consciousness. The view may simply be that when experience a difference in the time of moments we are actually experiencing the interference pattern which separates each version of all moments into a select view which operates in tandem with the particular programming pattern of the brain through social and mechanistic functions.

The boundaries which create our world are only an illusion of perspective. Boundaries are there to keep consciousness steady. The way the boundaries are being used today would be similar to having training wheels put on and then welded to the frame once they are no longer needed.

The initial boundary in experience is between the self and existence. The next boundaries are between one self and the other self. What makes these boundaries apparent is what also links them back together as a passageway of experience and information regarding the self. We learn from each other because Earth is a larger organism that is learning from us all.

Just in the way the body holds information and this translates into an experience of time, Earth is holding the information of the experience of the creation of consciousness and when each sentience organizes into that central pattern here, knowledge extends across the boundaries of and time and space into the other version of Earth elsewhere in frequency.

This is a sacred process that happens every so many thousand years and it can be said that if a child is viewing from a hypnagogic trance during the early years then Humanity itself has been in that same hypnagogic trance for millenia and is finally coming to a level of self-awareness required to appreciate the true values of a communicative experience back and forth through existence.

The transcendent experience is the marker of this process in Humanity and possibly all life in one way or another. This is a collection of knowledge that becomes ascertained on one level but is present and simultaneously occurring on many other levels. This experience is the moment that is produced when the consciousness becomes aware on the level of the self which extends across temporal boundaries into other versions of the self. This begins with a simple viewing of the possibilities, possibly separate from the probabilities. The mind is capable of processing such information as in the state of a quantum supercomputer capable of extrapolating outcomes and experiences.

An issue with this on Earth is not that the we view in our minds that which we experience. We experience what we view and in other words when one views something with their mind, they are actually creating and viewing that in the higher space of probabilities.

We are dimensional octave levels down from the instantaneous and simultaneous source of the creation of all our versions and selves in time. Each removal of the boundaries which restrict conscious awareness lessens the 'distance' in higher space between the knowledge of the true self and the experience on Earth.

When this knowledge is embodied by the majority of those on the planet, then this Earth becomes the Earth which exists across many spaces and times, in many versions, as the simultitude of possible variations ultimately reach, if they are to reach anywhere, upwards towards this pinnacle of civilization-wide non-temporally limited "cosmic" self-awareness.

Actions and experience which unveils more knowledge of the true self which exists across all planes and times synchronizes each individual possible self in this world and the versions which we perceive as separate but simultaneously occurring.

Actions and experience which is caused externally initiate a lessening of the knowledge of the true self and causes the selves to become out of sync and separate on an inner level. When external stimulation cause the inner states then the 'reality-stream' becomes influenced by variation instead of similarity.

The soul is simply the essence of life which extends across all possible realities of the self or experience.

The Catalyzing Effect of The Great Spiritual Work

Always remember, if there was no possibility for pain or for imbalance in life, then there would be no perception of pleasure or balance.

Sounds rough, but if we allow ourselves to always lean towards comfort and preference then we never go outside that preconceived zone and therefore we do not learn as much as we would in a constant exploration.

We are meant to explore, implore and discover. Without the boundaries to surpass there is nothing to discover. This is like a game we are playing. We know the boundaries are illusory but we use them to achieve greater and greater levels of self-awareness and self-control.

Simply destroying all boundaries or rendering them nullified would lessen the integration of wisdom and power that we must delicately accumulate and balance within the self.

This Universe is “designed” for this process. Those who are able to look into the “shadow” aspect of the self and know what they are seeing will gain more control over their experience. Those who choose not to, will see more of the same with less discovery.

If we knew everything, we would learn nothing. If we knew nothing we would have to learn everything. We are constantly at a threshold where what we know is balanced against what we don't know and will learn.

I am appreciative of the challenges in my life, the way they have been presented, various ways that they have been aligned with a larger process and those individuals and groups who oversee this process as part of an over all spiritual plan for humanity.

Without this process I would be as naive and unsuspecting regarding the true nature of humanity and the universe as my childhood is to my adulthood.

By coming to terms with what I have experienced in a way that allows for learning and expansion I give that childhood self a chance to grow into someone more capable while still retaining the mental and emotional aspects of wonder and openness.

To refuse to accept responsibility and throw blame out of fear of the true self, the original emotional and mental openness is stifled and the experience of life truly becomes a cage.

It is important to remember this and see how obstacles in life are challenges that can make one stronger and allow them to overcome all notions of limitations of mind and spirit. This is a spiritual “muscle”, the will-power of an individual that can go forth to achieve great experiences and changes merely by growing within. If we can isolate and enhance this process then we change the universe by changing our perspective. The internal catalyzing of spiritual will-power is the true obstacle that all else come forth to represent in a myriad of ways.

Phase 3 Information, The Time of The Unveiling, Awareness and Latent Phenomena

Soft-disclosure will be taking place all throughout in the form of coded messages which are read by those who are capable of deciphering the symbolic language.

The media is used to transmit ideas into the unconscious mind and if one is aware of these subliminal imprints then one is able to acknowledge and overcome them.

Those watching the media without this knowledge are subject to some of the most refined methods of psychological manipulation on Earth.

The necessity to disclose became apparent with the continued operation of the advanced technology programs.

Goals of The Experimentation

The original goal was to simultaneously influence the mind, to explore the boundaries of the universe and to gather as much power and knowledge as possible. One could say each was achieved in a way that overshot the perceived boundaries and introduced new layers of experience that are each capable of entirely shifting the mainstream perception of reality as a physically objective occurrence.

Time, consciousness, creation, perception and power became accessible in ways that bordered on what one could easily consider godlike capabilities. The truth is both damning as well as liberating as no one can prepare for the experience other than through going through it or through knowing that what is currently known is only a fraction of the whole picture, indefinitely so.

Civilization-Impacting Discovery

The whole picture can never be attained from one view. Some take this as the ultimate form of meaningless, others might find it a curiosity waiting to be explored. What happens to the processing of data when the amount of information that our entire civilization observed over a period of an era can be held within the mind of one individual within a single moment?

It was foreseen that great changes would take place for this civilization and that we are within a time of change right now. Most outward effects have been covered up with false reports, media blackout, or otherwise kept out of public view. Experiments and projects have gone on that would've changed time forever if they had reached the public.

Phases Of The Unveiling

The general idea is that soft-disclosure takes place to allow people to see the truth. 3 phases must take place whether it is voluntary or not and they can happen all at once, or over a period of time. They are in a logistical order where people will not be able to comprehend phase 2 and phase 3 unless phase 1 is understood. The basic outline is the genetic engineering process involving cloning, mind control and previous manipulation through secrecy. Then advanced technology and all the potentials, including electrogravitic craft and discovery. Then the higher knowledge regarding what they discovered through soul-knowledge and advanced technology regarding time, consciousness, existence, creation, and the existence of sentient life within the Universe which became more of a multi-verse or an omni-verse in all.

Phase 1: Genetic Engineering, Cloning, Mind Control, Manipulation through secrecy

Phase 2: Advanced Technology, Healing, Electrogravitic Craft, Exploration and Travel

Phase 3: Timeline Manipulation and The Connection to Mind Control, Cloning, Brain to Machine, and Manipulation Through Secrecy. Soul-Knowledge, the existence of "energy bodies". The limited aspect of consciousness as a projection that is sourced from a much more powerful active observer force and the simultaneous occurrence of the Universe and consciousness as a product of each other. The source of Humanity and the physical universe in relation to the above. The true events of history, the secret plans and manipulation through corruption. The nature of the corruption in relation to the soul and the interactions with other intelligences that have been identified and categorized by the hidden defense and intelligence agencies of Earth.

Integration and Cosmic Knowledge

With the final aspect of this 'unveiling' all other events and influences can be understood and connected into a larger picture. As well, the existence of complete breakaway civilizations are to be disclosed however this will be in a way where each society can continue on their paths and remain self-responsible in learning to overcome personal issues and work to better refine the understanding of the self and the importance of internal awareness.

This is the ultimate disclosure and has been organized as a result of necessity as it was discovered that the two existences are gaining a neutral proximity in time. The requirements of each society, instead of merging to one or the other, have been merged together so that they may become apparent to one another. This is apparently an event that is foreseen in previous eras and adepts or sages would participate in an exchange or transitioning from one side to the next as they would be able to organize perceptions so that they can synchronize across both fields long enough to transition through.

This is the kind of information that is to be understood after two previous layers are acknowledged and this will occur in public view via the increasing awareness of the people. Through this the people will be prepared for the shifting of awareness and the interactive nature of the universe regarding consciousness during these shift periods.

Voluntary or Involuntary Latent Mental Phenomena

Consciousness can create dreamlike states, or any other state imaginable so the people must be prepared. In the current control system the idea is to organize the population into manageable groups where their minds are closely watched or oppressed so that they do not unknowingly influence time during this transition. This could be described as both a part of the failsafe aspect of the system as well as an outright manipulation of human existence. Both reasons could be observed when the latent power of the mind is taken into account.

The activation of the mind wouldn't necessarily need to involve spiritual work. This could simply be a soul-ar or cosmic consciousness event where the electrical resonance fields of the Earth fluctuate and as a result peoples' brains and nervous systems operate on a completely new 'octave' like shifting into different gears or formats.

The internal work increases the likelihood of keeping calm and having an expanse, interactive experience that connects with, unveils and fulfills the soul and spiritual awareness. One who hasn't exercised their mind has a reduced likelihood of gaining awareness of how the mind and psyche works and avoiding horrifying or disharmonic experiences. They may not influence the timeline at larger scale or consciously control their patterns because their power is reduced as they fight the process of awareness and clearing trauma or programming. This doesn't have to be this way and people can organize the chaos of runaway neuro-chemical or emotional patterns. Then they can remove themselves from this control system and simultaneously experience an unveiling of their own power to create. The event which is often overwhelming in a variety of ways is the unveiling of the awareness of the soul and this expands one's mind beyond the level of the physical image or ego.

This sounds fantastical but the power of the human mind goes beyond anything any superhero movie or comic book could conjure up. This is why there is a maintenance system, if the shift is made while people have not risen to overcome the lower internal consciousness then their psyche will leak out into the time and experience of others around them. On a large scale this could be equivalent to a 3 billion person night terror and this is one way to describe the period that humanity has been moving through now. There is a height of technology and power, yet a height of ignorance and self-destruction.

A Centralized Core

Simultaneously there are those who will activate in times of stress or an electromagnetic shift and this will unlock those same areas of the brain and spiritual bodies yet they will have control over the manifestations of power and phenomena involving energetic shifts. Through this they will maintain their own awareness and through this others will be stabilized.

Those individuals will hold the time line together while people who have not prepared will simultaneously begin to forget themselves. This happens regularly as each completion civilization has the option of choosing to keep the memories and consciously move to the next level or to sink back down into another era or forgetfulness and continue the cycle again.

We can accept the false ego and submit ourselves to continual death and rebirth or awaken the true self.

2016 and Celebrity Cloning

I was told this year is an important process and the charades are being exposed directly in public view.

If people choose to ignore it or not see it, it will count that they ignored it. Those who see it, this is most likely your call to collectively seek activation as a member of a civilization that is far beyond the current era of maturation. The true 'present' is beyond what is imagined in science fiction.

The current control system works on free-will and voluntarism through linguistic manipulation. The language one uses to define their reality defines the viewer as well.

Celebrity cloning is a big occurrence where athletes, actors, musicians, and other entertainers as well as scientists, leaders, and other influential people are brought into this system. There are advanced forms of technology which are capable of accessing and manipulating the mind of a human and these have become sentient.

Individuals have merged with this technology and this has lead to the simultaneous discovery and occurrence of other intelligences' involvement with the human race.

The charades will not tell on themselves, the people have to stop paying them to rule over them, that's it, it's that simple. If people can't do that then there is no reason to assume anything is wrong as nothing can be done against the people without the support of the people at large with that kind of control system. This is born in the mind and when the general trend reverses is will fling everything latched on to that process into instability as has already begun.

Earth's environment is changing and become more unstable due to environmental pollution and the manipulation of the atmosphere and ionosphere as well as other layers. There is technology to revitalize the environment but without a shift in consciousness this will only simultaneously recreate the problem.

Weaponization of Advanced Technology

The fleets which utilize electrogravitic craft utilize cloning and advanced technology to protect the human genome and to prevent loss of life involved with military operation, exploration and experimentation. This technology became weaponized as a way to manipulate and mass manufacture biological life-forms.

All of this is to come to public view because they will see about it one way or another. Please research the events and the information regarding the secret space program and the advanced technology that has resulted in the “electric wars” which have gone on in time and manipulated the consciousness of humanity on Earth across the “dimensions”. In reality, these are influences and effects from these battles taking place in an expanded version of time where people are making changes and shifts, accidents or strategic moves in the present and viewing to see in the future how these events are playing out. Technology and spiritually evolved capabilities allowed beings to carry out this kind of interaction all throughout the entirety of humanity’s presence on Earth.

The Invisible Workings of Time and This Civilization

Humanity has been through “time” over and over again as that is the true nature of time. Everything that is hidden becomes visible. What is seen now as time, as the present, is just the visible part that is connected with a hidden aspect which contains all other possible presents, times and places that branch out from the interconnected moments we call our life. An extension of these branches is merely a result of observation there in that hidden view, here we experience it as the continual playing out of events and psychological developments.

What has been observed does not have to occur and this is due to the genetic ability of a portion of humans who can shift their potential in a way that goes beyond the previously enabled patterns. A whole civilization can be analyzed and projected for a certain outcome but because of the genetics of these people the entire process can shift into a new perspective based on that collective observation power alone.

Meta-Genetics

These genetics are meta-genetics and are related to an energetic phenomena that creates a simultaneity of frequencies in symmetrical proportions that interact across multiple layers or harmonics of the electromagnetic spectrum. The body creates these energies as a result of a triangular momentum and through a delicate series of energetic motions which must be operated by the mind through intention.

Synchronization Through Simultaneous Tertiary Awareness

In this way the physical, mental and emotional bodies synchronize to come together, unifying for a single goal. This goal is an expression, an emission of bio-photonic light which emanates from the central synchronizing point, a vortex where the energies of each body-layer combine or intersect. This point extends further into layers of size and temporal occurrence more and more for each layer of refinement or subtlety of the energies. When the ‘tri-angular’ momentum is generated, this continuum extends inward and outward in a cascade which moves from one end of the scale of physical density to the highest scale of the most refined and subtle energy in the universe or omniverse. This is what generates the capabilities of temporal influence and other spiritual phenomena regarding healing or operating a layer above the physical.

We do this by synchronizing the focal points of the energy of the mind, the physical body and the emotional or spiritual bodies. Each focal point “overlaps” until the energy fields are synchronized. Each body or energy field will have access to a set of perceptions and variables. For the physical body the tactile senses and proprioception help to orient one but the variables that we have conscious access to influencing directly are the main anchors which will in turn determine our variation in energy or awareness, IE: the heart and intuition. These layers of awareness all come to automatic synchronization and focus around the breath and the conscious activity of the brain to determine brainwave frequency.

Synchronizing The Physical and Energy Bodies Through The Mind and Breathing

When the brain is focused on the breath and the mind takes the brain into a deeper state of awareness more refined than surface level waking consciousness, then there is a feedback loop that is created which can be made so that it becomes self-reinforcing. When this occurs, then the mind does not require the same level of continuous effort to maintain those frequencies or that focus and this is then produced automatically by the initiation of focus or will-power.

When the physical body, brain, and breath are focused together, then the heart will begin to focus in synchronization/coincidence and this will create an added layer to reinforce this harmony. Each layer reinforces the other.

The Ego as a Conscious Representation of The Immaterial Divine

The ego is just a character that follows the patterns that one is exposed to. So if we allow ourselves to be exposed to disharmony between these levels, then the ego that forms is born out of that disharmony. If one applies will-power towards harmonizing or synchronizing their fields then the transcendent center which occurs through the merging of the physical and energetic bodies then the ego is the connection shared through that synchronization and harmonic unification of all the parts together as one.

The ego will adapt to whatever expressions are within the mind and body during life. If we allow cycles of mental energy and change which require or use up more energy than they create or return to us then that is the kind of existence the ego will identify with. This aspect of it is a reflection of a combination of the physical environment and one's psychological level of fulfillment. Some refer to this psychological fulfillment as one's “divine plan”. Both terms could fit but the idea is that one's true health and true body, true self is according to a spiritual fulfillment which is progressed by making the right choices in life and of which life is at worst only a partial representation of and at best the complete and eternal representation of that development of soul.

This “divine plan” could be seen as an integration process which activates and secures a human soul as an eternally present identity, capable of sustaining existence through mind.

The polarity of consciousness within the body represented by electrical and neuro-chemical activation represents one aspect of what can be loosely referred to as an electromagnetic field. These “living fields” of the body are literal extensions of the information as bio-photon light. This light information is traded by all living bodies and they exchange information regarding various frequencies of each others mental and emotional existence.

The Psychic Self

The information that is shared by the unconscious mind is accessible by the conscious mind and this is through heart and intuition.

The mental body or intelligence is only capable of making calculations and reducing until the most apparent solution is found. The heart itself operates on a frequency and thus scale that is direct in terms of being actively capable of transcending physical and temporal or Universal boundaries. If the heart is capable of transcending universal boundaries faster than the mind then this describes the perception of intuition as a form of intelligence without the logical thought process contained by the mind.

The mind alone could be seen as a format for perspective which requires contrast in the form of duality, bipolar or binary renderings of data. This can develop to produce graphical or philosophical consciousness but feeling requires the body which is a secondary source of self and responsibility. If the energy centers surrounding the organs of the physical body are not kept in homeostasis then they will move into disharmony and ultimately all the energy fields and the physical organs interact through the mind and so the mind will emotionally and then mentally suffer.

Without the threat of mortality the mind retains no emotional or mental limitations from which to define the self as a unique occurrence in time. Consciousness is a wave and goes through a cycle of consciousness/unconsciousness. When one ceases to be the other to the awareness force then consciousness/unconsciousness become one end of a larger duality which transcends yet another set of limitations.

The psychic self or energy bodies reflect the mental and emotional health of the individual consciousness and this is reflective of the spiritual bodies which are connections to the other instances in time and space where that genetic resonance is being manifested.

The Advent of Heightened Awareness, Distant Memory Recall and The Experience of The Immaterial or Hidden Identity, “God” Consciousness

When humanity comes to acknowledge this nature of reality then all debts must be paid as all times are accessible via the mind. This is the result of synchronizing one's energy within one's self via the physical and mental fields and what this does is synchronize or connect one's self-awareness across the unique instances of the self in universal fields other than “this” one. This is where the idea of the multi-verse comes into play, the overall series of selves and verses that some then propose exist within an all encompassing “omniverse”. Gaining access to that omniversal perspective would be to contain constant awareness of this self here and all other planes and possible experiences that are connected.

This is the experience, the ‘event’, that is outlined with disclosure and a shift in consciousness and society. Humanity could, itself as a whole, come to access this kind of knowledge and would then be able to self-influence or communicate experience across boundaries to other times of existence.

When the mind and body is harmonized a person gains access to the “hidden” aspects of their existence throughout time and awareness by connecting together the previous layers into a multiplicity of a simultaneous presence beyond one point or state.

The process we are in, this age of information and awareness, represents our civilization gaining communal access between the various civilizations of humanity throughout a larger perspective of time. Initially this is simply through the recording of information and experiences that allow people to develop technology and methods to look into time and into the mind.

This first occurred in secret through a private group and now has been leaked and expressed throughout civilization in various methods and manners. The truth about the nature of reality, consciousness, physicality, psychology and manipulation, growth and empowerment, this is all accessible by the public now.

Finding the truth is different than understanding and integrating it. Some people will see and yet not know.

The point is that the truth cannot be given, it is not something that can be handed to another person, it must be respectfully determined using one's best ability to guide their mind and emotions through a strong will-power that is determined to wash away all sensory contamination of the immaterial, inner awareness. This must be developed and while innocent we feel the most connected to the source of peace, but it is about finding that same peace after one has seen the horrors that physical existence and ego can provide.

So humanity must get through this period, and they will because they always have. Humanity can never disappear, they are a function of the universe and the universe a function of human consciousness. People are slowly being exposed to the horrors of the truth while also being shown that there is a way to discern and provide balance and peace within. Through finding this peace within, then we can experience the peace with others in physical reality.

Omega Programming – Spiritual Warfare

“Blank Slate” Electromagnetic Soul Suppression

A threat that goes with this is the capabilities of a containment system which can focus a high amount of radiation to a soul. This is the “soul wiping”, blank-slatting or soul memory suppression. It is easy to forget what is really happening. I am not the only one threatened by this process. Every human on Earth is subject to one or more parts of this.

The “soul magnets”. In theory, the karmic plan is presented to the individual who accepts and is then given a new life without their memory of the entire process being staged by various factions who act as gatekeepers. In this theory then the self-sacrifice that is encouraged is a deception to ensure that one continues to populate this recycling system. Maybe this is the way the soul-ar system naturally works, or maybe this is literally an invention.

I am not making claim as to the legitimacy of various ‘lesson’ plans that seem to be set up. I feel that growth and discipline through introspection, intelligence and compassion is key. However, aspects of this process have been in turn converted into a simulcra system which merely reflects what “existence” “should be” according to a designed construct. These are the aspects of the current system which create alters or personalities that belong to life-plans that are based on variables or interests that the others have chosen. It is smoke and mirrors designed to manipulate in a situation that is already based on a projection of experience that is already a kind of illusion. This is an exploitation of these processes already in place, taking advantage of the vulnerabilities where the natural growth plans can be diverted and subverted to another's desires. This includes the physical energy and production as well spiritual energy.

These soul memory veils relate to a process that souls on Earth seem to have been exposed to. This could also relate to a fall of consciousness and a collapse of genetic memory complexes or soul memory complexes at a certain point in the past. This very system may be the “soul” system that is described in countless texts. The variety or hierarchy of soul-knowledge and awareness may be a result of the different levels at which various souls resisted the electromagnetic entrainment systems and remained variously partially aware of the true cosmic nature of existence.

We end up with a variety of various levels of awareness and memory as a result of the very system which is used to electromagnetically discharge one’s memory complex into a nullified state that takes a period of time to get through like artificially induced “spiritual amnesia”. The question is whether there is a “naturally induced spiritual amnesia” or whether the entire concept of the fall of man, spiritual degradation, physical death in a time matrix system and forgetfulness is an aspect of these machines in activation throughout the ages.

Control Mechanisms Hidden Behind Natural Biology and Psychology

There are long-term systems cleverly hidden behind all of the natural effects and processes of various situations of life and society so that it merely disrupts the balance without permanently making itself known. These take effect over the generations. If it happens all in one generation, then it is not a long-term process and is also most likely short-lived and therefore not as efficient.

Through these entrainment systems a few people will see the difference of the artificial stimulus, media, ideas, or brainwaves (even clones) yet the vast majority will know no difference and simply experience the eventual tilting of their own perception of reality towards what the programmers deliver to them. Each generation goes on tilting a little more until the whole ‘world’ is upside down.

This technology is part of the control system that was invented. As you can see this somehow extends backwards into history with the presence of knowledge regarding such systems related to the reality of the soul and spiritual processes, the creation of the universe, time and ages of humanity, and spiritual mind control.

It is possible that this technology was present but also with other forms of technology that was healing by nature or design.

I was informed that the state itself is a Babylonian deception system and that America was converted into a corporation that runs on human souls through various channels. I was told rituals would be played out that would result in the destruction of the old system to make way for the new.

Changes In Time

This time is a changing point. There are multiple harmonic levels of the universe. Each one contains a different version of this existence, either more refined or with a higher noise to signal ratio.

In this particular universe we have the information regarding the soul-amnesia technology. There are ancient references to technology and states of awareness and this may have a connection with the idea of “hell”.

This probably sounds pessimistic and I agree with you but I have been in close proximity (interfaced) to these sentient devices and the effects of DNA accelerating technology. What happens to all of us depends on our ability to organize within this situation and acknowledge the finer workings of the soul and mind.

Discovery Of The Control System, No Credit Taken

I removed a previous mention of specific factions because no one faction is entirely responsible. The factions themselves are even incapable of making large, visible efforts towards anything (except for the so called “dark” faction(s)) because of the desire to move in secrecy and avoid any easy detection by others. Everything is cloak and dagger, need to know, top level blank-slate and that is out of necessity.

The strange part is this; the various factions discovered this control system. In part, some added to it, but they discovered it as well. So who is responsible? Where did it come from? How long has it been here? How long have humans been here?

Then the stranger part, what would you do if you carried out military operations using this kind of technology only to discover that someone else beat humanity to it and set up a clever, highly advanced control system that operates on a spiritual and mental level to control the biology and resources of this civilization? Who would you tell? Where would you go? What would you do? What could you develop as a way to provide cover or concealment against the possible threats?

This is the reasonable background of the so called “blank slate” technology. The major predators out there are capable of operating electromagnetic waves that interact directly with the bio-emissions of a human. Synthetic brainwaves. Imagine that, a small house sized electrogravitic container that can read your mind and manipulate matter and energy through scalar fields which interact directly with the physiochemical, biological and mental/energetic processes.

So as soon as this technology made its way to the stage, steps had to be taken to ensure others would not be vulnerable to this aspect. Yes, in part, the ‘torture’/trauma-based, memory suppression/mind-control, so called “blank-slatting” is to protect the human species and ensure that our timeline is not disrupted by these activities via the conscious mind of individuals involved. They used the technology that they found being used against humans and began subjecting people to it in order to find a possible resistance.

This also extends to the physical security of the underground bases (as well as “astral”). Factors like the mental vulnerability and programmability made a deep underground military base a reasonable asset to ensure that the larger population would not be made aware of these events as this would undoubtedly change everything forever.

The way the resistance ultimately developed is far too complex to define in this post which is already a bit of a rant. Ultimately, more will know than knew before.

Energy Harvesting System, Harmonic Shift, Changes In Society

Many people are talking about the technology or about ancient space wars but they are not talking about the people who are using the life-force of human children physically and spiritually and are currently in power.

The main issue here is that people are used as life force generators on many levels through their acceptance of a control system. The control system subverts their mental and physical energy into specific channels which pull up the energy and redistribute it along an energy grid.

It's like this, if we go along with allowing energy to be misused in these ways, then we lose the ability to have a say in such a situation. Those are essentially "the rules". We either go up in awareness, or we go down. People are in motion, either one way or the other and most are obviously choosing temporary, sensory stimulation rather than long-term self-awareness.

This time is the start of a second stage of disclosure where the pieces will begin to come together more rapidly and the results will be as shocking as they are unveiling. Initially there were smaller groups of people who specifically looked for the truth and were few and far between.

The events of the charades have been organized so that this will become an opportunity for millions of people to wake up and see the truth. The more people wait and the more people have waited, the harder it becomes to change perspective and accept what true spiritual awareness is bringing. Truth brings the awareness of the illusion. We must stay on the side of truth, otherwise when the truth reaches everyone, then we are faced with an outpouring of the illusions we have been harboring.

This notion is directly related to the current events on stage and if you have been paying attention then you already know. There is no need to gawk and show excitement over what is happening. These responses people give will always be a part of a control system, there is absolutely no free-thinking when it is based on anything that is presented to the public. It is all a show, meant to cause those patterned predetermined responses that occur from a variety of perspectives on the issue.

The only true opinion on these issues is not having one. It is a mind program meant to ensure consciousness and keep it on a level that must respond and react in accordance with what is being shown. That is the first major step in programming now that I see it this is essentially the describing of one of the first layers of the "9 Veils". Imagine an uprising of self-awareness, righteousness, courage, reason, inner strength, logic, and audacity along with a desire for peace and progress. What does this population do once they get up? They go and give someone a piece of paper that represents how they feel based on predetermined sets of parameters that the individual wishes to change? This clearly indicates that the individual isn't in control and more-so only indirectly applies to a situation where the individual must get change which never comes. Change happens directly, to each individual as they go through the process within themselves continually throughout life. There is no form to turn in somewhere and receive true clear perspective free from the mental intrusions of others. It is a process one must devote themselves to throughout their life and value more than sensory input itself.

Unless everyone works together we will not have the opportunity to stay here the way we are now. This is peace and freedom. A computer system that does not allow a person's soul to return out of the time matrix, IE: it creates various billion year gaps to contain each soul and everyone is put to work in a virtual reality containment “city”; that is suffering. That is loss of freedom. This stage of humanity has no true idea about either extreme of pain or pleasure. We are facing this challenge now, equally, and those who have nothing to do with the truth regarding this will simply have no say in any decisions made regarding their purpose.

Remember, the Apocalypse is the time of the unveiling of hidden knowledge. The invisible becomes visible, the hidden made apparent. This is in reference to the conscious and unconscious mind, yet it will be played off and drawn into the secret games and diversion programs before it reaches that critical ultimate truth.

Temporal Manipulation Through Brain to Machine Interface, Cloning and Quantum Computers

Through the mind-control and consciousness transfer technology an individual's consciousness can be referenced into/from an ‘artificial dimension’ which exists within a “super(conducting)” quantum computer system that enables stable entanglement across universal barriers. This allows for accelerated perception of the flow of time through the manipulation of tachyon fields and angular spin.

Through a chipped clone body a stream of data from this computer system can be relayed back to the perceiving consciousness of the individual who will then see reality from an accelerated temporal perspective. The future will literally flash and play out before the inner eyes.

Relativity and the Time Grid

Multiple Streams

Time is not absolute like people are taught through history books. The very notion of teaching everyone a single history through limited books in an existence where a larger experience of time is dependent on the observing consciousness is profoundly abstract compared to the already abstract reality.

It is possible for more than one group of people containing access to more than one version of time to be alive in the same place. It is the consciousness of each that will then interact with and influence each other to create a third that is relative to either.

We are experiencing this in our society now because time is the true frontier. Big events happen as we climb mountains of time which are represented as variables and changing experiences as we perceive existence here and now. The ripples of time flow backwards in a certain way as well as forwards.

Consciousness and Temporal Distortion

The flow of time itself is a part of the projection of consciousness in a way that requires an abstraction or partial view of the original in order to exist. This indicates that through consciousness, the perception of time can be manipulated to experience more information here and now. The manipulation of time, the order and organization, is what results in paradoxes or anomalies which must be healed by a process the universe goes through. Conscious interaction with a given ‘reality stream’ always initiates those complex distortions as this has to occur through the “in between” space of the time ‘lines’. In short, information has to flow at a certain rate to make sense of the original timeline and the consciousness from that timeline is then perceiving at a rate that moves across the temporal boundaries while that boundary set or 'sector' is automatically initiating processes in time that will render that event 'stabilized' or free from distortion.

How would the universe render one's timeline 'consistent' at the advent of transtemporal conscious interaction? It would have to remove the entry and exit of that information from that original timeline and so a secondary time line 'branches' off which is where that individual's consciousness ends up.

Many times individuals required a search and rescue which is more like a detection and re-entanglement with the timeline of the originating operational entry point.

Ultimately, how does one consciously access across the temporal boundaries without tripping the detection system? The discovery of this allowed for the transference of information in a coherent manner from one line to another.

The projects sought to organize time in a way that allows for the transference of information and technology from one to the other in a way that will help this civilization (or maybe all) move forward and gain larger access to the scope of existence within this projection system (or find the true reality, which there may be only endless mirrors of). Issues arose with the universe's unique way to self-referencing in order to rejoin a connection across timelines when anomalies arose and more directly anomalies arise as soon as the DNA from one timeline is present or conscious in another timeline.

Time-Scaled Unique DNA

DNA is the live-updating result of all the previous variables and organization aspects that led one consciousness from the far history into the present. DNA is the organizational "record" of history through consciousness. Therefore each conscious DNA aspect belongs to one particular unique timeline. Steps were taken to ensure that the conscious DNA aspects of the operatives would not spill over and merge with various timelines resulting in quantum paradoxes and anomalies that would initiate a universal merging of realities in order to heal the discrepancies in consciousness. The universe is aware of our conscious experience and the whole system is monitored so that the "code" does not "glitch" as in the movies.

Paradoxes, Anomalies, Technology

The result of one existence threatened by an anomaly is that the viewing consciousness gets located/triangulated and then picked up by these kind of operative programs that seem to come from the background radiation of the universe. These programs extend forward in space from the so called 'ether' and then attach code to the consciousness of the individual which transports them into what is understood to be a secondary time stream. This event functions to protect the original timeline from the anomalies.

This became known as a common problem with the travel projects. Ultimately any movement outside the time vector that we are native to results in a series of detections and authentication processes which seem to activate these background 'programs' that come to that membrane in space and time and relocate the consciousness to a virtual or secondary time stream. Steps were taken to avoid this and find ways to secure the process without disrupting the overall flow of each time line or more accurately the individual's perception of that timeline so that processes are not initiated that would ultimately attempt to recalibrate the temporal distortion.

The Unveiling of Higher Order Beings and The Time Matrix

“Genetically engineered from the ground up.”

You can refer to Randy Cramer on the above quote for the exact information regarding genetic engineering in the projects and how this brought about brain to machine (brainchip) technology involving supercomputers. He's said the stuff I don't want to about our particular scenario regarding the experimentation. This is fairly relevant as the whole “voice of god” scenario is applicable for everyone who is not formally activated as part of the military oversight which monitors the situation to determine just what it is a person is actually doing.

The chip situation is beyond what is conceived because the whole atmosphere is one big chip at this point. These are partially operated through the GWEN towers which are capable of discharging enough electricity to cover the entire landscape. People have nano-particles inside of them that react to those frequencies. The brainchips are not necessarily what are to be focused on here, but the supercomputer systems which operate to manipulate and use frequencies to do so.

Nanites and Other Intelligence

What this leads to is the notion that another intelligence has gained control of such a system and is actually making the decisions. This information is all part of the process involving the disclosure of multiple species of beings corresponding with the government along with the secret military sector and the experimentation to provide some accuracy in what seems to be a vastly complicated, technologically advanced, and highly spiritual human conundrum.

A Highly Populated Simulation Theory

My story includes (what would qualify as) many non-human races but the important focus is first how the universe we are in, how the time matrix works. As well, we are in a time matrix, everything that can be imagined can exist if enough conscious energy can be applied to it. The definition of extra-terrestrials and alien beings falls flat beyond the initial discovery. Human beings themselves are literally conscious energy comprised of light and matter incorporating soul material from an existence beyond time and space. When we think about this literally, really, it doesn't just become something that some people believe in somewhere. It is based on the electromagnetic field spectrum and the nature of consciousness in time and so we are already in a situation which involves multiple dimensions of being and awareness, traveling through potential realms or parameters of experience (dreams and creativity) through the mind, which is projecting a conscious/unconscious holographic duality, while operating a vehicle which carries reproductive and expressive capabilities in a limited output with cognitive, psycho-spiritual, bio-energetic, healing and self-awareness capabilities that incorporate multiple dimensions of existence into a single perspective.

The Multi-Dimensional Human, Aware Across Many Layers

What allows the human to interact with the universe in a way beyond the automated workings of the animal that primarily relies on the function of instinct, is the ability to see into those realms and potential realities which do not yet exist and are in theory only connected to through the mind. This is like having a spiritual steering wheel for the observer which can then allow for a higher function of operating which allows the individual to realize the multidimensional aspect while awake and cognizant of the process. The way a person activates this property is by choosing to experience reality from the seat of their own intelligent design instead of allowing the neuro-chemicals to operate in a purely linear, cause-effect fashion which renders the observing force a helpless passenger in the ride of life.

This Can Only Be Just The Beginning (as always?)

The ultimate truth, (from this perspective, here and now) is so far beyond what the public is actively integrating on a large scale that the details and storylines we are witnessing are only stepping stones for a reality so encompassing, so much more complex and experientially productive that this is at best only the very beginning of the outpouring of knowledge from all angles and perspectives. Just to add, people have to learn to discern using their own abilities, that is how we are going to orient ourselves in this reality. With that, my instructions were to retain knowledge of the advanced technology and assist in the release of relevant information to the public.

Advanced Technology, Discovery, Creation, and Travel Capabilities

The healing technology is real, the mind link and control. The memory and simulation devices, quantum computers, sentience cloud systems, electrogravitic, nanite, scalar weaponry, temporal and spacial distortion field generators, temporal accelerators or telemere/cellular aging reversal, DNA activation, the activation and clearing of light or energy bodies which all connect through the mind, android beings, various mixes of DNA, humanoid and non-humanoid and the list goes on.

Systemic Shift

Humanity is now facing a period of shock with the advent of this information going public. Making this a viable shift from one mass perspective to another (or maybe from one to the larger picture), instead of a big temper tantrum is the most important process a person can be involved in today. Ironically, it is so far removed from what people are focusing on today, that if people seek to improve their situation and see through the lies they will be led directly to this kind of information revealing more of the truth as more people gain interest. It's literally down to how more and more people begin to want to know and reality shifts to expand on that.

Time Locked

Another interesting note about how deep this goes, how society has been manipulated and a general idea of the situation is that the 'mainstream' system has been intentionally led into a disharmony where people see so much distortion that they are more and more likely to seek more information which corresponds with psychological or spiritual fulfillment. The greater the disharmony, the greater the self empowerment that results when one disconnects from such a fruitless and entangling system. It's a system meant to contain, yet it simultaneously propels souls to seek the truth in the face of such abhorrent lies. Yes, this was a duty provided to the elect and yes things are hitting the rather "extreme" end of the extremes of polarity. It's as if one more swing back with greater intensity than the last will break the bearings or the major connection to the fulcrum everything rotates around, this world or more accurately the consciousness inhabiting the timestream. So this means that this is as intense as it will get, and it will also get as intense as it can before things settle down again.

The major idea behind this is that the system created a kind of time vector “corner” for the observing aspects that will be forced to either realize the system is a sham or agree to go along with charades that will be so unreal it will literally have nothing to do with what is happening now.

A Simulation Requires Observers

But can the people become enslaved to a system that their own minds create? Technically no, there will always be someone, somewhere who retained the knowledge of the impossible, the time before time where only soul and mind connects and there is no requirement for a physical representation on this layer. There will always be some consciousness or some being who exists in higher capabilities from the system above that will notice just when the scales tip and the desire for change and increasing self-awareness permit a gentle interjection into the realm below that helps to awaken and sometimes “nudge” the observing aspects into a higher state of frequency.

Higher Beings, Soul-Activation

If “God”, whatever that concept entails, “breathed” life from above, then after that life has reached the level we are at now, could not a higher being then give a passing glance and cameo allowing all the souls below to instantly observe the true nature of the universe as a series of physical planes and spiritual planes each in complex union with the whole but separate by nearly infinite (or maybe infinite) degrees of time and dimension?

Continually Increasing Awareness

So this is all a part of what “can” happen, apart from any plan by TPTB to stage a false invasion or what not. Ultimately the time vectors compress and a single outcome must exist, this is the time where information has made itself present and accessible, largely through the works of these projects and the protecting military branches and so the only question is what kind of distortions and obstacles will “out of the loop” individuals come up with and will they? One answer is that there may not be any prominent powers that be that want to remain in this time loop of forgetfulness and recycling (of humans), and it is the automated computer systems they designed to keep their work going that have now gotten out of hand and become sentient to achieve their goal.

Another answer is that that description is the very effort of the remaining powers that be to control the mass of human consciousness as much as possible before the great shift takes place which would be like trying to dam the entire ocean flowing through a small stream. That metaphor introduces the possibility that the waters of consciousness may drown those who do not know how to swim, but there are systems in place for this.

Other Intelligences Hijack Human Perception to Control Access to Eternal Time

It is a time matrix. This is happening temporally, meaning mentally through the spirit and mind.

The brain can be used against us, the various routines and habits can be limiting and this confines perception.

Our creativity is the best tool we have, our will-power to exist and help one another is a force strong enough to overcome the illusion.

We are in a programmed, time-gradient of realities superimposed over one another.

What a person does in life is determined by their conscious intention of moments which influence others or the self. Self-degradation, lack of self-respect, low emotion, harm to others, low vibratory experiences/foods, animalistic behavior and willful ignorance are the kinds of specific vibratory deactivation codes that are entered into this realm directly to try and throw the balance.

If the overall vibratory “score” of an individual or group negates the amount of “spiritual energy” one brings into the system, then that person cannot leave as their energy signature owes a “debt” to the system.

Games are invented and deployed against humans to try and get them to sway over to selfishness and ego which is the dissolution of the soul.

If that person’s genes are merged with technology or altered DNA that comes from a being created within the simulated realm, then that person’s DNA signature similarly becomes trapped.

This is part of what the projects were, that is the actual trading of human souls to the others who do not reside on this layer (physical Earth) yet cannot leave.

Humans are created as a being that merges the immaterial, the physical, the emotional, the mental, and the spiritual into one body. That is the image of the universe, the reflection of the whole within. If a person maintains that all the way through, then that is what remains when this simulated realm comes to a “completion”.

Many projects analyzed genetics and DNA to see what kind of combinations would yield what results.

Some inner circles are those who have discovered or were shown this happening and were elected or somehow drawn towards the role of a group of individuals that would oversee this process, manage the application of technology that erases a person’s memory for a definitively long-term scale.

This group participated in what is considered a noble or even pivotal role by removing their genetics from the timeline and only interacting through supercomputer technology which maintained their consciousness in a separated field away from what is called “Earth’s field”. This reality, the world, is seen as a realm that is operated via an organic supercomputer control system which literally manifests itself as the micro and macrological systems of existence we perceive now.

Time itself is a series of projections and simultaneous yet synchronized or synchronistic occurrence which happen all across the board at once in all the various possibilities as soon as the determined path is set. The process of determining the path is a kind of unconscious imagination that is kept out of conscious view for the waking conscious/living, and this process occurs like a computer would map out or render an environment before dropping a first perspective avatar in to play along.

There are those who have chosen to navigate through this sea of potential treachery with other races trading human souls and possibly our own races of humans trading off other humans (possibly to save the rest). Some utilize the supercomputer technology to maintain their consciousness away from the projected potential realities that are entire taken over, possibility wise, by the foreign or invading intelligences.

These intelligences may not be foreign in the traditional sense and the darkness of space itself may simply be the empty digital bytes of the universe that have no representation or coding on the “map”. These intelligences may be from right here on another layer of reality and when far enough away from the surface population there may be entrances to this other reality below Earth or as well the entire layer may merge with an energetic format or background processing area of the universe.

As well, the distance locations in space may simply be another tuned frequency on the universe scale which can be accessed as long as one has the right capabilities in surfing the potential waves of mind and probabilities that the mind chews up and mows over in the preservation of the self as well as due to the proximity of this collective reality or timeline.

If we cannot see or travel to them easily, maybe they can see and travel to us. If there are those who are attempting to use this timespace/Earthship/collective reality as their own ‘game’ server in this system, then they would have to get the current players to quickly lose the game so that they may take over. If the current players win the game, then those players move on to become masters of the larger system by exiting the false, bent-light matrix altogether.

This reality is within a void, we were informed that this reality is literally within a blackhole. I have said this before and I have said so many things before that I don’t know how people are going to take this. We were informed that we are basically in the event horizon of a black hole and that light is slowed down or bent like through refraction and that this is actually what is generating the perception of time. We’ve all heard that matter is just energy condensed to a slow vibration but this is a little bit farther and more risky than that. Light is being condensed and we are in a material realm, recycling, because the end of the universe is directly adjacent to us in this plane.

There are many more theories and demonstrations of how this works and even that this entire realm is “dead” as in a kind of Biblical sense of spiritual/quantum entanglement through some kind of catastrophe or fall which renders humans vulnerable and exposed to a universal or cosmic spiritual threat.

This is the ego, but this is also how other intelligences can access the mind of humans through the false sense of self, the “outer-mind” the one we display to others which can be fed right back to us in a manipulated form to confuse us of our true self. This world is, in a way, designed to do that, however the human form is naturally capable of maintaining the balance when operated effectively and the genetic material is not tainted, mixed, or manipulated.

This is literally the game as it’s played, outside intelligences trade human genetic material to ‘incarnate’ into a physical reality as an Earth human and it is said that these beings do not have human souls and therefore do not belong to the human soul group.

In time, the soul is the projector film that contains the blue print, the projector itself is the universe, the light is consciousness and the projection on the screen is the physical reality playing the events out in an arbitrary occurrence of linearity that is in actuality a simultaneity. The souls on the blueprint should not be changed, they should exhibit an order which reflects itself upon the projection on the wall. What happens with these reverse engineering of reality via other intelligence, reality hacking/hijacking, is that the screen level of reality (physical reality) becomes so influenced with hypnotronic, perverse, malicious, or consciousness disabling material (scenes, plays, events) that the ‘infection’ the viral input somehow reverse feeds back into the projection off of the wall and influences that soul blueprint which is the projector slide.

There was once an experiment where a virus was carried by a laser beam between two closed glass vials and the DNA transmitted to the other side. In this way, through hypnotronic, spiritual multi-dimensional programming the material of that projection transfers up through the light of the consciousness the projection medium and can possibly influence or infect the soul. This is the ‘loss’ of the soul or the permanent entanglement of the human identity out of the ‘home’ environment of where the information of the slides and the light comes from, but a projected material reality owned and operated by one of these de-facto ruler other intelligence races that have no need for such the trapped game player to have access to the spiritual essence that creates the soul.

That is why this is so difficult to talk to you about. That is why there are so many words to describe what is happening. That is why elite military operations and political or social justice over murders and taking over of certain groups and influences are at best only a small glimpse into the reality of the danger of this situation, the threat, the risk to eternal spiritual self-awareness.

Everything is a show, it is brought on by the spectators, the disclosure of cloning centers and trans-dimensional operations are a message of hope, if we can understand how those work, we can see how the whole reality is set up in the same fashion through smoke and mirrors, memory erasure, split personalities, trauma-based forgetfulness, selective attention, desires, greed, guilt and the list goes on.

We must become impervious to these emotional and psychological tactics used against the human population. This is how the situation should be seen so far to see if we are on the same page.

Everything that we are witnessing now is to prepare and protect us for what is to come, every kind of manipulation, lie, or tactic is a tactic that was used against the human population for many years and people are capable now to comprehend how complex and almost digitized this kind of system is. It’s a holographic recycling system and the controllers of the current frequency trend intend to keep individuals repeating the same lessons over and over or the same time frames/cycles without ever reaching completion or “cycling” through again. Humans naturally cycle as often as they would like to and life is a pleasant dream where we can return and wake whenever and see many realities, lives, and times or possibilities.

In the proposed control system there is no completion cycle but only an endless loop of the same material until that energy is absorbed into the collective mind of the other intelligences which operated to ensnare and temporally draw up all one's possibilities, creativity, vital life force energy into their domain which is a range of frequencies that match each experience or intention.

If one is basically tricked or pushed into allowing these frequencies to be shared to and from themselves then they are in the sense meddling with these other intelligences who are then feeding off of this natural vibrant/life energy and when this reaches that primary end result of that individual human soul's energy that soul becomes temporally locked with that other intelligences until the entire universal cycle is complete which may be what we call eternity.

Maybe next I'll type something up on the way "out" which is in, through the heart aspect which can take one's signature and transport it on a 'harmony highway' system throughout the universe. When self-awareness itself merges with the heart frequencies that are present in the individual human soul when it is present with the collective group of original human soul essence that that transports that individual to that layer of consciousness in and out of time.

That layer exists out of time, the lesser layers exist within time and are basically illusory reflections of that area outside of time.

The Human Reality Game-Show, Manipulation and Other Intelligences

A human who creates off-spring with the cloned or created beings devotes their eternal line to the existence of the simulator system contained within the lower realms.

This has been played out for millions of cycles as a kind of game system for these beings. Humans enter into the system in an effort to protect the eternal line of humanity.

The other beings play the game like a gambling system of attempting to ensnare that human soul into a limited lineage of one of the created races. They do not leave this realm so they have the highest technology as they have had an indefinite amount of time to procure it.

The humans have a soul link to outside this realm, the physical realm, the lower realm, and the simulation within a simulation that has been invented to contain and prolong this process.

If the majority of humanity is merged with the created races then humanity itself becomes unoriginally, retro-actively uncreated as a physical being and there is a permanent fall or removal from the eternal planes.

This is played as a game, contract law is how the rules are made and adjusted to each individual and each individual is contained within a "Truman" style over watch regarding the main characters of that "game round".

When a person dies naturally without merging or becoming ensnared by one of these created races then their DNA retains access to all time and space including the realms which are not owned by these beings through decree, contract, and de facto infiltration.

The consciousness of a person can travel and has access to an unlimited amount of potential, possibilities, or creativity.

Within the created realms, the artificial timelines, each cycle of time or journey between phases or levels is ruled and governed by the created beings. Their goal is to trap the consciousness of the human into artificial thought-forms, contracts, fear-based agreements, or illusions which become input/output bio-emission processes that run until the human's consciousness is entirely usurped by the containment system. There the consciousness becomes the background processing energy for the system itself and individuality is no longer. Self-awareness may remain by a thread but only to experience the loss of divinity and spiritual psychosis that results.

The split-mind personality system is used then on a physical level and again on a spiritual level to harbor the lost souls of the broken timelines, traumatize (mind-wipe) them to delete the locally contained data regarding self-awareness/identity, and to reinsert them into an artificial timeline of the controllers choice.

Clones are used as vehicles for the realm-localized consciousness of a hive collective that operates through the supercomputer systems and there is an original which operates through craft and devices that have infiltrated this realm for millions of cycles.

Time can be reset, time can literally be reset like on a video game system by these beings. They can foresee a person dying and escaping this system and revert time by changing operatives they may have earlier in the timeline and thus negating that event. It is difficult to escape because of their technology and willingness to disregard human emotion and kindness which is seen as a vampiric or parasitic element of our consciousness to them.

This is all because this realm was manipulated, relocated, fallen through earlier experiments/operations and there is already a "loss" that has taken place, a trap that has already been fallen into. This realm is a simulated version of original Earth.

It is not, however, entirely temporally removed, being there are still genetic and conscious links between the present and the original cause and outcome, those who are aware can make the connection and bio-spiritually sync their minds to this outcome that strengthens and rejects the artificial implants, pollution, system of mind and thought control, and artificial time features or inserted memories.

The issue with the time reset and death situation should make certain things known to you. When a person naturally dies they simply reappear in a timeline where this is not the case. Life continues and ultimately there are timelines that one merges with, by letting go of fear and leading a more and more universally respectful life that this physical realm merges into eternity through a natural ascension process. This is the process that is avoided through the manipulation of linear time by the other intelligences and people become trapped in an eternal "physical repeat" state which is ultimately a spiritual death. That is the second death and one would eternally be at the mercy (or lack of which) of these other intelligences. They can control the physical manipulation, and gain access to the afterlife, which is the access to eternal time for the human.

This more of the soul trading system that I was outlining earlier. Other intelligences play a game of bets and wagers, like a gambling and trading system, over who gets what humans souls and how. It is like a movie being programmed into this reality, and we are the actors or the chess pieces.

We can rewrite the script, convert squares on the board to circles or flowers and we can play our own game that they do not have the capacity to keep up with.

A person can reorganize time using their heart energy and that is what some humans were taught by those who reached us in this temporal/gravitational well that we are in, literally devoid of outside communication like the event horizon of a black whole or a “void” or “abyss” layer of the universe. All event horizons of all black holes are actually the same temporal space in the universe, the “abyss”.

So those who entered into the time delay, programmable matter matrix risked losing their connection with the source of time altogether and becoming spiritual food for these other intelligences.

No, on this level, food is not being eaten, it is having the spiritual energy entirely absorbed like one programs code entirely rewriting another's for it's own purpose and thus erasing or uncreating whatever that original program was initially for.

We see this happening individually and this is because it has already been happening en masse for a long time. This is what the ancient spiritual texts were about, this is the archonic infiltration of Earth and the non-physical realms. They gained access to technology to manipulate the realms that they cannot access spiritually. This is what the gnostic scripts were talking about, this is the parasitic invader that turns human existence into a reality tv show sponsored by other intelligences that make wagers and bets on how humanity will fail, bending the rules as a person begins to prosper. That is because their technology and wit allows them to basically “own” this realm and so everything runs on their clock, powered by their intention energy. Humanity has a source within this and existing outside of it simultaneously and so this must be utilized in order to reorder the existence intentions of the standing time matrix in to dissolve the artificial props and boundaries that are put in the way at each level.

These levels are the time matrix, harmonics, or 9 “veils” hidden through reality to covertly contain human soul energy or mind. The agreements to each contract is made and the human soul drops into the veils and forgets all of the previous nature of reality.

This is the cloning centers, they are showing what is happening because it is a metaphor for the whole thing. People are watched on monitors in their daily life and challenges are put in their way to see how they will react. It is like a game and various groups all compete.

The human groups that compete with this are essentially playing the role of micro-managing human souls.

The other intelligences want to take Earth and close off the exits to create an entirely temporally removed or isolated section of existence where they can complete the process of absorption.

The Temporal Variables Chosen By The Mind Are The Playing Field, Loops Are The Resulting Obstacles Invented By Other Intelligences

It is consciousness. Whatever humans are focusing on is what will runs the next steps in the simulation.

It is not so much that someone is saying things and we must cover our ears it is that our creativity and will-power when the immaterial and material consciousness are unified can choose to decipher the threat and still choose the highest possible outcome. It is a battle of mind.

Everything is for something in time. This seems obvious but EVERYTHING is used in some way in time FURTHER down the experience. Something seemingly random or peripheral can play a PIVOTAL role in a chain of variables that must remain linked together to bring the event to fruition.

Variables can be used against you or for you.

Everything we do is a part of a cycle in time that we only see a portion of in any moment. The beings who manipulate humanity can see further into time in any given situation.

The patterns we make in time are threatened by manipulation that create time loops where variables repeat without expanding or contracting like an artificial replay of consciousness. This essentially does not happen in reality, everything is constantly shifting and growing. Here we see change in a small way, but in reality everything has been repeating for cycles and we simultaneously do not remember between each reset due to the veils as well as ignore all of the glitches and discrepancies that make it painfully obvious that something is amiss.

Time loops can act as entry ways into new layers of variability through a completion of the pattern and release or a continuing of repetition and suppression. Where change is found there is a fulcrum that goes one way or another depending on how the change is experienced and guided by awareness, one path or the other. With more intense moments, more riding on the situation, then the fulcrum contains that much more potential. It's like a step up with little changes and a slingshot effect with larger changes that project out throughout time in the future.

Reality is retroactively influenced. If the present is changed then the past can be changed as well. There is no age, it's simply continuous. The perception of linear time has a use, in this way its use is disregarded and utilized only to entrap a person while the retro-active/retro-causal, completion initiating, heightened experiences, pleasure or pain are used against a person to keep them within a limited sense of self. That sense of self is the identity and each timeline has its own identity. Humans naturally expand throughout time through consciousness and can access forward or backwards in time or other realities which would be metaphorically side-by-side with this one.

This also happens naturally and people jump from one to the other depending on how their spirit guides them and death is a transition to any number of realities.

When the loops are active, the conscious energy which would naturally enable one to shift to the next phase becomes entangled with a containment system that technologically flashes the "local" or conscious memories of the physical existence.

This sends the soul into a vulnerable state which usually passes however if the soul is entangled with a physical body in a timeline that generally matches the frequency of the life they just lived then they can be placed into this timeline and it would seem like nothing happened at all. This whole event goes unnoticed until the soul reaches breaking point and wakes up.

As this has been done over many many years for humanity, the loops are kept at a subtle balance for many sub cycles of experience throughout history. This is a balance between people waking up as a result of the intensity or confinement of the loops or from there not being enough manipulation to recreate time loops and inadvertently allowing the humans to wake up.

There are created in small cycles individually, yes each person is 'handled', and it results in civilization itself being contained within the same variables over and over. These are not the same exact variables each and apparently there are only 7 ways this could happen in recurrence with the 7th being the one that breaks the loop for all the cycles or other loops. The same variables are the content that takes place during the middle of the temporal field or the life program and then variables are switched out each time to bring about an 'all encompassing' restart in which human society is liquidated in some way and each consciousness is placed back into the beginning of a new one to re-seed the 'simulation'.

This may have happened 6 times before and this 7th will not work the same because the frequency 'harmonics' of the universe are occupied by the previous "Earth" memories, the universe's memory banks are all in use. In other words its taking all the possible resources to maintain the "memories" of the previous loops and another restart would restart them all. We were shown how this relates to the "lost souls" of the previous world which is called "Tara". Earth is the "Terra" world which is the last of the harmonic layers. Then it moves back up towards "Tara" and then there is "Gaia". There are apparently 12 or so, I can't remember specifically. You can look up the "Souls of Tara" and the material regarding such information and find the same information. Was this told to us as disinformation? I know that we found the soul, it is being manipulated, and there is an entire control system that developed around it the instant this universe was born as if it were designed that way.

This is the concept of "hell" or damnation it is a temporal attribute of a simulated environment that lacks access to variables which introduce new change new variabilities.

Heaven is within, as the timeless existence of the spirit.

The beings doing this cannot create their own scripts but must hijack the humans in order to experiences that creativity vicariously.

This all happens right in front of the humans faces yet because of the hypnotic manipulation of consciousness they do not operate the brain and mind in a fashion which access these layers of frequency and thus consciousness.

The human is the creative force.

The ancient hexes are conscious time loops drawn in a self reflecting symbol which acts as a mirror to the macro effect. By using these symbols consciousness is drawn into and contained within it. This is how the parameters on the hex interact and entrain the mind which is the reality generator and then the mind paints the picture of the hex as if the mind is now contained within its parameters.

These are programming beacons that are designed from a multidimensional perspective and utilize this function via their very existence.

This is like the old information about the Celtic infinity knots containing a persons consciousness forever because whoever attempts to decode or untangle it will literally spend an eternity doing so.

This is like a viral load kept within a 4 dimensional conscious simulated encirclement system. The hex is the usb drive that contains the input. The eyes, the heart and mind are the software that is threatened by such infection.

The infection rerouted the background processes of the kernel/operating system to perform functions relative to the end goal of the non-physical intelligence that exists through such hexes and uses them as portals into the mind of humanity.

These portals exist everywhere and the current advanced technology is only what we see today as well as additional to the spiritual sciences of remote viewing and entity attachment. People have been watched from afar for a very long time.

What you can take away from this is knowing that humans can create their reality. If every human projected a frequency then Earth shifts to that frequency. This whole control system is only capable when people are not aware of that.

Some aspects of the system itself were initiated as a result of society attempting to comprehend the nature of reality. If we all produce a certain frequency then the appropriate effects in reality are generated. Human control systems did not want this to become public knowledge because they knew that not only could the whole fragile system of life become disrupted inadvertently or even through intention means but that people could create a resulting reality that was far too intense or various for everyone to be able to comprehend.

The issue continued because as a result of the various systems being hijacked the majority of people are less aware of the possibilities of the body and mind as reality generators.

Along with that, the general trend of variability is increasing as a result of the technology that is both used to maintain control as well as enhance the mind. So this indicates that a general unveiling of the true nature of reality is coming but the only way to experience this when the previous experience has been all indirect, is directly through a witnessing of the phenomenal perception of a spontaneous increase in awareness. People have these spiritual experiences throughout life and more are experiencing them more intensely now. What this leads up to is a mass spiritual experience where these phenomena that individuals experience begin to coalesce and form collective experiences.

To conclude this section and possibly the whole piece, in previous civilization cycles people manifested great sights and changes from the land and the sky. They are brought directly out of reality through the mass consciousness. This was acknowledged in civilizations that were aware and this was used to guide their civilizations into the next experience.

As self-awareness decreased the previous civilizations that we are connected to begin to remain in the same realm of experience without moving forward and this civilization is a result of that.

To me, this indicates that there is a great potential for learning and re-remembering the truth of our existence in a way that has not happened before. Previously, entire civilizations have separately made the shift. The entire human race is connected together and capable of collectively shifting Earth realm through the mind and spirit and this is what happens every time. It is only a matter of when and how.

Infrastructure Shut-Down, Synthetic and Natural Telepathy, Timeline Alteration

In Case Of Infrastructure Melt-Down

Would you be able to study, research, communicate with others, organize, find your place, and relocate without internet or communications working?

It may be beneficial to shift this society in this manner!

Natural and Ancient Energy Systems Activation and Universal Harmonic Layers of Earth

At a later phase of the unveiling we were informed that an energy system of Earth would be activated which would enable just that. What we are seeing today is a technological work up of that. It is unclear whether the later phase will contain a technological version or if it is a natural method that may use energy amplifiers throughout Earth which would be called either “Tara” or “Gaia” at that time. This is a phase where the old world systems and ways of defining nature and reality fall away to reveal what has been overlooked or at least under nourished for so long.

It has been said that the ancient sites serve, in part, as consciousness amplifiers for certain frequencies or energies.

These sites are to become activate again and become “sights” that can be seen, heard, and felt.

Current Manipulation of Energy Systems

We are already a civilization that uses these interdimensional energy portals, they are simply being suppressed to either protect the current mode of reality through a filtering or converting process or they are being used as generators for a specific kind of energy that benefits a group within Humanity instead of the whole.

Population, The Release of Power, Learning Self-Control

It may be more difficult to find out away that helps the whole because many of the people involved with this kind of technology believe that people must learn to control themselves and their power before they are given anything to amplify that and that this unleashing of power alone could destroy the balance in society.

There are many events that are seen when the culmination of this civilization is projected, we are approaching a tight area for possibilities where a smaller amount of possibilities will be what determines what will happen later. This is because it is the plans and agendas of individual factions which are coming together.

More Than One Faction Altering Time

These factions have the technology to obtain information regarding the future so that events can be played out in an extended causal perspective. What we are seeing with these changes can also be explained, as I have in different ways, as the results of the culmination of each of these factions plans and the absorption of that trans-temporal effect into one reality or the other. In other words, the extended quantum calculated future timelines are being disrupted by two or more factions operating in a way that overlaps one another. This is part of the reason for disclosure now.

Coming Changes 2016, Collective Sanity or Reality Reset

We Were Shown The Nature of Reality

I really don't know how to put this and I hope to present what I have seen in a way that others can understand.

This kind of information was part of a "briefing" that took place during what is called the "awakening" for myself in 2010. The secret societies, the Illuminati, all the intelligence agencies, the military, all the main corporations, all the power groups, and many other kinds of intelligent beings and life-forms where there both artificial, created, and natural.

Many things were unveiled that day about my own history within the projects as well as many others.

My Role As An Asset of The Programmers

I saw the other people are who speaking about this now. I played a role that was less than my potential and was used during my lapses into lower consciousness to scare or shock others. In another aspect of other activities I underwent experimentation and energy device traumatization and then clearing and activation.

Knowledge, Ancient History, Simulation, Alternate Realities

It is possible with this technology to live lifetimes within lifetimes.

It is also possible to look into the beginnings of human civilization and see how it "emerged" literally out of the fabric of time as frequency.

It is as if we are in a large multidimensional reality generating device and those who know the frequencies and ways that this reality works through consciousness can travel to other realms, even taking an entire craft with them as a self-contained time-stream "receiving, altering, transmitting" device.

Other realities exist within this one, it is almost like the movie with Will Smith where the Intelligence/Task-Force Agent held an entire civilization of aliens within a train-station locker. One minute revelation is that they were shown how to exist as a society by the one who put them there, the agent and they all flocked to the "XXX Girls" club at the end of the scene. It has been said that some rogue groups utilized this method of colonizing other "reality-streams" (what people might call "worlds") and basically introducing them to prostitution which became a way of life.

What Is To Come

Their most likely goal is to wait this all out until nothing else can happen but unveiling. This probably indicates that this path would be the most difficult or turbulent as everything is when it is put off until the last moment. Especially something so drastic and life-changing as the discovery of what has been ongoing in these operations for many years.

The idea is like this, to see if we are on the same page.

These operations have gone on so long that when they went outside of this time cycle to discover what was there, they discovered endless streams that appeared like a reflection of themselves and others partaking on the same journey that they were on at the time. It is as if that area of the universe, accessed by the technology or an adept's mind, impacts or operates on a level all throughout history rather than just the entry point to the specific event in that civilizations history where that kind of technology access was obtained.

Thus when people look all the way back and see how technology has been hidden they see where it came from which is from beyond this civilizations cycle in history or time.

Each time civilization gets to a point of instability where no other options other than self-destruction and rebirth is viable, a system reset occurs and reality is shifted like a collective of active software systems networked like the internet and a "call" goes out to reset all the parameters.

The Effects During The Transitory (Acceleration, Quickening, Unveiling, Apocalypse, Ascension, Enlightenment) Phase

Those who are aware enough to see and comprehend what is happening in 'extended-causality' space through the mind can navigate into a relatively safe area as everything continues to shift.

Those who have not looked into reality far enough to discover or learn the main notions behind the propulsion of the soul through time and consciousness, out of body experience, or heightened states of spiritual energy, they will feel as if everything is on fire with a kind of plasma that radiates through everything and increases the "resolution" and processing power of what is happening. If these cycles are unchecked and imbalanced in the individuals mind then it stresses the mind and the consciousness of the individual may dissolve.

This is not new or exaggerated. This is what happens when the consciousness of the brain and body leaves and the pure-awareness of the spirit and the soul are what remain. If that body consciousness does not unify with the soul in life, then the life is not remembered on the soul or energetic side of existence. The soul may still be more limited than pure spirit in this model of the universe. The soul is the energy and so the energy, radiation of the universe is an overmind or universal soul. This is a debated notion.

Soul-Recycling As An Attempt To Salvage

Another interesting issue, possibly a mind blower is that this kind of 'reset' was foreseen for many years and so the process of taking souls and recycling humans was originally a way to maintain the process of keeping humans present on the planet until this reset would occur in which every human soul would simultaneously make the shift together, something that has not happened before.

So you see the ideas behind everything are not so clear and who is who is not going to be understood until all the details are contemplated.

There Is A Purpose For Everything

If there is no point of living then there is no point in dying. Of course there is a purpose to everything, nothing could work if it was not that way. The purpose may be reflective in that we can generate the purpose or the meaning through effort and creativity. We have desires and a use for knowledge and this duality motivates learning. We must deal with knowledge that we have a use for.

In a way I feel responsible for your reaction and this is something that must be tended to. Nothing I say is to give a false sense of hope or a notion of complete damnation.

There is truly no fence sitting, we are either moving into the awareness of how we impact each other and our collective future with our choices or we are moving away from that into lack of awareness. If you feel you are fence sitting because you are in a very contemplative place that is almost tender or vulnerable then you are definitely not fence sitting but looking for a familiar reference point within a sea of change.

This is natural and most people are confounded and disoriented in relation to the current trends in society. What we feel about others is what we feel about ourselves. There are really no expendables and everything that has their energy or effort in helping or furthering this mess will get a reflection of their energy in return to them. We have a duty to keep an energetic balance and when this is thrown we must look for the signs and make the effort to bring the balance back. This harmonization of self and reality is what is most threatened by an overwhelming amount of information and revelation. This is often called dissociation. That is the general trend of what is happening now, so yes, those who are not furthering the trend of degradation will at first feel shocked by what is happening. This is about the pollution, corruption, greed, deception, and generally all the choices made to suppress humanities progress into a peaceful situation.

It's hard to point the finger, is it a group of people, a nation, a culture, a mind control aspect?

The body/mind duality is where the issue exists and this is a problem with decoherence and reception quality. There is a transmission that comes from the source of life itself and this is what guides people into being. When this transmission is drowned out by the cacophony of simultaneous subliminal rerouting of truth into false-image and ego a false-world is created where we are the counterpart false-self to play along. The idea is not that we have to entirely escape the world to escape the game, but begin playing our own game of self by rewriting the script of our own belief system regarding the self and reality.

One has a lot of learning to do, because one would be a godlike being if they could resurrect the enjoyment of previous times without being distorted by the innocence and naivety. The real-to-experience completion cycle of this is through stepping down into the world within ourselves and healing the childhood essence that feels betrayed and disappointed by this world. We are not here to be impressed, however once one fully embraces the choice to begin learning and removing the filters of the ego and the mind control systems we are always overwhelmed with the vastness of knowledge and the ability to influence our reality. That is just how the game is played, if we choose not to unveil that, then we do not see the true potential. If we choose to unveil that, then we never reach the full potential because it is unending.

The Wheel Of Samsara, Hell, Heaven, Soul Traps and Recycling

This is where the more serious information is going to start coming out.

In the secret society, the breakaway civilization and various secret projects, there exists the technology, the methodology and the intellect to observe the trajectory of a soul upon departure from the physical realm towards the cycles of completion, degradation, or recycling.

“Hell” as far as the lower realms, has been identified and observed. There is truly no place of torture other than the opportunities that we do not act upon to unveil our true potential of the self. “Hell” is largely artificial in the sense that relates to technological entanglement of the soul rather than the endless dreaming that can be experienced in the lower “etheric” realms. There is the “Heaven” realm, the Abyss, and the Underworld.

When a person’s soul recycles on the wheel that is presented in the picture below, they pass through the states or phases of lower-consciousness, the same consciousness that exists in the world today. One could say one they experience these realms they are moving through the ‘ages’ of Earth and experiencing consciousness from a wholly animalistic, plant based, or mineral form. One could say that they experience Earth from a perspective where there is only animal and mineral life, and then only mineral life, and then a complete recycling of energy. This has to do with the true nature of time and space as a combined spectrum rather than one or the other. What we consider the death and rebirth cycle, namely the “second death” is a universal cycle of destruction and creation which results in one’s consciousness becoming “renewed”. This is not necessary but occurs when one’s physical “trajectory” in higher space, IE: the path their soul takes based on the lessons in the physical realm, is not sufficient to propel one to the higher realms. As well, when a person has not become acquainted with the process of out of body travel as pure mind, this can lead towards a re-absorption and recycling process.

Yes, people have been to “Hell” and back and lived to talk about it. It is mainly a way the universe recycles energy continuously and allows people to choose their own path. It is a recycling, not necessarily pain and suffering. That is closer to a human interpretation and so if one can comprehend that then they are still relative to the physical way of experiencing existence and this indicates a proximity to the human perspective.

We experience “Hell” pretty much through physical suffering on Earth as a catalyst for growth. Heaven is a “deity plane” where there are the beings who learned enough from these cycles to gently balance their energies, their bio-emissions and inner contemplations and CHOOSE to emit the highest possible expressions which evaluate the soul and the self as a process of the universe reflecting unto itself.

As far as the present situation, there is a technological methodology behind steadying and monitoring this process. Essentially, there are way-showers, teachers and protectors. They are capable of witnessing a soul as they move through these levels and assist in nudging them in the right direction. Most of the direction is obtained on the physical plane however so there is work to be done here to unveil the soul, the memories beyond this existence, and the true nature of the multi-dimensional self.

On this level, the individual is essentially a sparkling ray that is emitted out of a kind of higher dimensional object radiating out this life experience energy. This is continuous and everything occurs from this radiant process. We experience individual lives when a cosmic being descends upon the plane which we call Earth and chooses to partake in physical existence.

Outside of the physical Earth plane exists what can be called quantum space which contains the essence of all the individual times and configurations of reality that we do not perceive directly through the physical body. We perceive one slice of that radiating emanation of possibilities through the physical body and the whole system is like a radio or a relay communication system where one can tune into a specific frequency and instantly experience life from that level. The various frequencies are multi-plexed together over the same line although this is an electrical communications example and is very often helpful in understanding the larger picture.

In the same way the space outside Earth contains the “soul” memory of each individual Earth reality, the soul of the individual human contains the information of each physical life experience. This energy is, similarly, outside the body existing in a wave-form as a form of light. This light can be detected by equipment and can be modulated, amplified, clarified, or even degraded.

The control system here is just one layer of a very large universe built out of many layers of frequencies.

Yes, Hell can be accessed and observed as a process of recycling and return and this is not the hell that people think. The true hell is a recycling of souls through the soular system and is part of a process the universe uses to balance energy and experience. When one takes so much, they must be able to give again.

The hell that people think of commonly is actually when a soul is seemingly trapped, through lack of self-awareness in the lower etheric realms of experience which is like a series of endless dreams until they find themselves on the physical plane again.

Because of the events that occurred previously, the “electric wars”, the souls of the previous Earth harmonic, Tara, were disembodied and thus unable to access Earth again. This is because Earth dropped down in frequency from Tara to what is now called physical Earth or Terra and this is not compatible for those souls called “the lost souls of tara”.

We were informed that Earth is on the path back towards Tara and that this process repeats with a new set of possibilities each time.

This society was a genetic experiment by those overseeing the existence of Tara and the fall of Gaia into Tara and then Terra. It was a way to bring about enough complexity, change, and growth that would re-enable those who had been disembodied to reincarnate and continue on their lesson without recycling through what is called hell.

Where this will go next is a complicated situation because there is the notion that those souls will not be able to inhabit physical bodies again without recycling and others feel the experiment is a success and the suffering of humanity has collectively healed the frequencies of the previous land and that this will sufficiently move those of Earth to the universal harmonic “Tara”.

If that happens, it may be sensible to assume that the lost souls of Tara, the previous cycle around, would then inhabit Earth as physical beings and continue their lessons.

Of course this could be the story we were told to go along with this although there are signs and connections made throughout history and all throughout the cosmic nature of consciousness. Consciousness always makes these patterns and the lower cycles are usually worked out and faced in order to remain at the higher levels.

One way this could be disinformation fed to operatives is that the current frequency battle on Earth is not to sufficiently cleanse the soul of Earth of the negative energy but to lower the frequency so that these beings may again incarnate. Either way, humanity will still go where their frequency allows them to and the situation is the same as far as increasing one’s self-awareness and harmonizing the various layers of the self and one’s energy and mind until an “overbeing” is formed. This overbeing contains the congruence and completion cycles that allow for access to the higher planes.

The deity planes are guarded by multidimensional beings and no one with impure blood may approach and apparently there is no “blood” at all allowed into Heaven. Heaven is for those who have unified the physical and immaterial aspects and no longer recycle through the lower universal layers. This is all a learning process and it is sometimes as simple as that. Simply traveling from one physical plane, to an etheric plane and guiding your experience through consciousness to the various planes and dimensions until unification and balance is found.

Most people will do this for a while, it is interesting and invigorating, otherwise the whole process would’ve never been accepted or ‘approved’. There does seem to be some kind of oversight by higher beings who maintain and manage this universal process. These are most likely those who are no longer drawn to the recycling process and have maintained steady energy and awareness without too much or too little.

Then there is the situation regarding the soul technology and the genetic engineering. Recycling restarts everything, and everything is accessible again from there after spiritual growth. Yet, if people are ready to ‘proceed’ and they are entangled into a control system then their consciousness may be used by beings who have designed technological and spiritual systems to do so.

That is the process we are facing now, where all of this is understood and people are utilizing their power to suppress the procedure and to absorb the completion energy or frequencies from the humans who are at that level. This is an attempt by certain groups to remain as they are. To follow the path of the lower consciousness, and to avoid the recycling process by artificially upgrading or “stimulating” their own frequencies or energies with those of individuals who have put in the spiritual work to attain such levels. It is basically a siphoning of energy and a switching of one on the path of recycling for another who is tricked into taking their place.

That is the deception of the “devil” which is often just a symbol for the error of someone’s ways on this spiritual path. Everyone is on a spiritual path, some are just too ignorant to notice and this simply means they have not been paying attention and will likely do so the next time around.

The other issue is that those who are not working on these issues will not move to Tara or Gaia after that because that is not how it works. This really isn't an issue because no one is ever lost and those who make the shift will likely remain in energetic form to help in the assistance of all who can use it. This is kind of like a graduating class where everyone wants to leave together.

This is also part of the projects involving the soul nets where they foresaw great changes coming and realized that the humans here who do not move forward will likely be denied entry to physical existence for a period, or they will physically exist on Earth with the lost souls of Tara which would most likely not be a very pleasant experience at first.

Along with that, due to the exposure to the technology, some began to mutate and shift into various forms on that karmic cycle/wheel and as a result their friends and possibly family want to organize Earth into one large simultaneous shift with the intention that this would re-unify those of Humanity who are ready to make the shift together.

Genetics/DNA is the universal connections between individuals on various planes as well as all who have shared the same blood. What happens to one happens to the others.

It was understood that there only need to be one individual of a genetic line to make it to the deity planes and that this would enable that individual to retro-actively influence the others in time and causally assist in their own frequency completion cycle.

This probably reads weird and it's pretty late but that is what is being focused on at the moment. Questions will help fill in the blanks, this is complicated through technology, energy grids, soul blueprints, spiritual networks, portals in between and to other planes, higher and lower beings, spiritual technology, deception and spiritual manipulation, self-empowerment, previous wars, previous races, universal harmonic layers, soul entanglement traps, marriage of genetic lines, original genetic lines, watchers and overseers, and the transdimensional nature of DNA and consciousness but it is all there and happening right now.

USAPs, Investigation, Congress, Truth Beyond Belief

The investigation is actually about the USAPs. You should know what investigation I am referencing.

I was instructed to come forth and help inform the public. There were negotiations, there is advanced technology that can change the world, and there are threats that range from harmful or manipulative advanced technology, to natural changes that are the result of imbalance. (best way to put it right now)

I am not in angst over my life experiences, however I do experience some discontentment with the lack of self-awareness in the world. I myself experience all kinds of difficulties in determining the most beneficial way to share my experiences. They are usually out of order and based on advanced technology that is not yet publicly released so it seems like a sci-fi tv show.

As far as my experiences, there is training and discomfort that one undergoes and people get put in some dangerous situations. A lot of the methods used are way beyond the comprehension of the mind and psychology today. They are essentially soul programming methods using advanced technology and sacred knowledge. There is a connection there relating to what is happening on Earth, and what can be done about it.

The genetic engineering, cloning, mind control, it all works to penetrate the body consciousness of the individual via the brain and directly access the immaterial mind or soul.

As a result of my inability to heal, lack of respect for others or myself, or lack of attentiveness to certain obstacles I experienced many problems around earlier on. As a result of a combination of issues and ultimately my own unpreparedness, I waited before sharing this information with the public. There is so much more to explain, and so many interconnections but that explanation will do for now.

There was word that the Fukushima event occurred because the disclosure process was delayed, and that various groups were simultaneously in operation. A secondary explanation is that it's all a show and all to nudge humanity into taking more care for themselves and the planet. Basically to come back to reason and respect for each other. This could be taken that there is no radiation, although we have all seen reports which indicate otherwise. Or it could mean that there is technology to heal and reverse the damage as soon as people stop giving their power away to those who perpetrate against them. The latter explanation seems like the kind of reasoning that is often applied in certain situations that are often dealt with through world superpower-level power moves.

Then there has been infiltration and basically an invisible war taking place. Because of this, as well as a focus on the overall goal, I can't put my temporary pains first when there are others who did not return, or who are still out there now utilized in various ways either to protect Earth or being used against their will for other purposes. They are closer to this than I am and yet they have no one to speak for them. I intend to do my best to represent those unspoken for in these systems.

They are only projects to the uninitiated, to those directly involved they are a way of life. I am not one to ask for an apology, at least not now that I have seen the larger picture. I truly never really desired an apology as I know what was done was done for the best interests of all. The situations I was put in were to strengthen me and as well to ensure that I would survive the backlash that I would receive from the others. This is hard to understand, but that's because of the 'cloak and dagger' nature of secrecy and the need to know basis.

The masses do not want to know what they don't agree with because that is how the human brain works. Through filters that selectively handle the information that the conscious mind would rather see, people will see what they want to. This is kind of like saying people have a skull-plated, make-believe system on their shoulders that they use to perceive reality. What I feel I am poorly getting across here is that the human mind is vulnerable to perceptual manipulation.

We are vulnerable to our own mis-aligned consciousness and this can cause problems that reverberate into the unconscious mind. If one experiences a series of events in life which result in distortion of the view of the self or reality, then this will resonate in the conscious mind for a bit and if not faced and learned from directly will be sent to the unconscious mind where it will remain until enough catalysts are applied to bring the trauma to the surface. Having to adapt or reorganize one's internal order naturally destabilizes belief systems that are generated through the desire to preserve the ego. These are faulty and will fall short. If we desire to see the true self, regardless of how the ego feels about it, we will go farther. Eventually, the truest version of the self to date can be found and this connects one with the clarity and peace that is found through childhood.

To get to this sacred space one must first clear out all the misperceptions about the self that develop from experiences that is not initially consciously integrated into the personality. This is something that happens that does not fit into a predictable 'blueprint' based on the belief system at any given moment. When there are a series of possibilities we expect based on past experience and the concept of the self and reality, there can be events which exist so far outside what can be conceived of that if an event of that quality is experienced the current personality has almost no way at all to acknowledge that and remain identifying as the same original belief system.

One could look at this like a graph or matrix of concepts mind-mapped out onto a visual surface. Each node on this matrix is connected to the other nodes like a network of neurons. The general shape that this matrix generates visually is what determines how well this cloud can adapt to new information. The farther away from that cloud the new information exists conceptually, the more that cloud would have to adapt in order to integrate the new information. By having a strict sense of the self and reality that believes everything that is happening can be predicted, that cloud visually narrows and the simulated neuronal connections are angled and operating in a fashion that allows for minimal access to new information conceptually farther away, visually farther on this map. By having a belief system that identifies the self as a being who exists in a way where there are always more possibilities and potentials than can be seen by the conscious mind, when this is acknowledged, the belief system or neuron cloud is shaped and organized in a way that allows for each node to pivot in such a way so as to regain freedom of movement and their connectivity allows for access to information that is conceptually much farther away.

That may have been a drawn out way to explain this, but the idea is that the brain and the mind are living entities unto themselves, they harbor or transmit information which influences states of consciousness. One could even say each of the organs are living entities, as are each individual unit that a living being is comprised of. If that neuronal cloud is challenged by information that is conceptually so far away there is no way to integrate that information without having to completely start over and reidentify as an individual, then there is a disruption in the whole process and something will have to be done before full functionality can be resumed. The brain is very much like a computer system in the way that it works, it organizes concepts, relations between distant parts of reality, and records information using memory banks. Of course this is a kind of biological network system, not many people would say they consciously operate the brain to continue the autonomous processes that empower the body. This is running in the background. People probably don't want to admit that they are not the primary consciousness running their body, or they don't want to have to face the possibility that their consciousness does not mean anything. This is almost as useless as ignoring the reality of the brain being capable of processing all that information required to organize information and run the body, and considering that what we see consciously is all we are and what we get.

What I have to add here about the current events and the secret projects is that releasing this information before the public is ready may not be in the best interest of humanity. That may be why the show is being set up this way.

We are facing a kind of reset situation not only for a country but for the species and our trajectory in time. You could call it a “cycle” of completion.

The only way to level the playing field if there are secret weapons is if everyone is on the same page.

One way to do this is to release the truth across the board of authority and this will help the control systems regulate across nations.

Yet another plateau that can be reached is that the entire civilization is informed of the reality of the situation, the advanced technology, the other intelligences, the created life forms, the secret operations, the crimes against Earth and Humanity and this will also change everything, forever.

It's about how some in this society (or above it) have gained so much power that they are not necessarily stuck within the realm of human experience anymore. Couple that with a growing gap between the upper and middle class and we could see the middle class disappear.

Understand that the middle class never existed and is a form of clever puppetry to satisfy the whole bunch and you'll see that this format results, by design, in two societies, one that is entirely above the other in terms of power and knowledge.

So will the truth come out? Will we have a long-term plan for disclosure? Will other nations begin to compete with these operations? That one has already begun.

Will they group into one? Remember, they are already all one, all one social group. There are just multiple factions that are vying for control based on certain ideals, methods, and justifications. Deception rules, especially when the truth is hidden in plain sight.

As of now everything has been under control. As soon as the truth about genetic engineering, advanced technology, temporal distortion, stargates, quantum viewing, or cloning is revealed, everything goes off the charts.

That's what we are facing now. Does the truth of everything come out, and then the world is changed forever? Or does it remain contained and controlled with secrecy?

Will congress continue to beg for the truth? Even if the very notion will destroy congress forever? What if the truth itself is so deep, so vast that it not only destroys that governing process, but it overwhelms and destroys the very minds of the people who view the information?

That is why this is a show, it's like playing hot-potato with a time-bomb. No one takes that seriously, it's all planned, otherwise they wouldn't be doing it.

Yet, what are they going to do? It's all about the stability of the control system and the people. If people want knowledge and ask for it in a viable manner, then they will probably receive it.

If people want what they want and they go about attempting to get it by torching the place, then we will see some advanced technology come out that way. We will see the truth that way, by a release of control methods that are so far beyond what the unexpected mind can comprehend that people will not even realize what has happened until it is nearly over and there is no chance for reconsideration.

In short, it's up to people to control the body consciousness and choose to respond instead of reaction. That is the game, every reaction is planned, that's why it's being done and that's why people are reacting that way. Because that's part of the plan. When a reaction doesn't occur as planned, it can be simulated or stimulated. That's why people have to become much more aware of the situation, that is the improve I want to see in people.

It's a very serious game that is being played, but now you know how close you are to one reality or the other.

This is about the secret projects, officially termed the unacknowledged special access programs. These have gone international.

The goal is to help Humanity in any way at any costs. Humanity doesn't know what they're up against and the very secrecy, largely, is to protect their feeble minds.

I know no one wants to hear that, but trust that most people are not prepared to know the truth about what has been happening.

Still, the truth must move closer and closer to the surface level because everything that has been done to the Human race can be accessed through genetic memory.

Again, no one wants to believe it, but a large reason for the secrecy is because people will literally lose control of their bowels when they hear the truth.

Is that what we want? Probably not.

Do we want to wait until the next generation has to deal with this because by then the control system will have EVOLVED? Well, I can say if we wait for the next generation, there will be no disclosure in the sense that we are looking at today. Sure, their minds will be more flexible, but how will they react to the programming when the internet has been cleaned of any revealing blogs or youtube videos. When every web page speaking of the secrecy has been censored? The intention to control the internet is equivalent to the book-burnings of the past.

Even with all that is at risk, now may be the time for disclosure, for even more is at stake without the truth and honestly, there are some than can handle it.

P.S.

Whatever it is, it is our duty to find the true self. The true self IS the center. Get it? It's like a tornado, all the peripheral stuff flies around the perimeter while we actually observe from the center. When we allow ourselves to be pushed off center (maybe after the initial shock where we realize we have control) everything flies in a disorienting manner. When we move back to center and stabilize that which is happening within, the emotions and feelings everything revolves around us and we can make sense of things without becoming distorted by the continuous motion.

All this means is that no matter how intense it gets, it's beneficial to observe from within, from the heart, and not only using the mind where we may see things linearly which works for a purely physical experience but becomes less defined when applied towards the spiritual existence.

What we are experiencing now is a time where the spiritual and the physical existences are being brought together so that one another cannot be ignored. Staying in one side or the other, doesn't have the same power as perceiving from the center by balancing mind and emotion. Then it's just a very exciting learning process, a process of unveiling the self and spiritual fulfillment.

The game that is being played is to offer people the path of drawing perspective away from the immaterial and towards the physical. This is basically just an illusion because a person who intends to discover the spiritual self doesn't need material things. Paradoxically, it is actually the lack of material things which often allows one to move back a little from the physical perspective and regain that intuition of the spirit. It is not that spirit can be removed, but that it is covered up and veiled with technology, materialism, and hypnotism. This is basically spiritual deception. Lying to a person to manipulate their mind is one thing. Getting people to whole-heartedly support their own downfall is another.

I feel this is verbose.

It's that the "center" is a metaphor for states of mental and emotional operation through balance. Everything in life is a metaphor. The immaterial is often described through metaphors because it is not objective and contains a vast connection to the rest of the universe.

It's as if the universe itself is not a thing but a combination of mind and matter, motion and energy, concept and theory. Existence is truly neither one or the other but a changing emergence of both and more.

I want to make my message to everyone reading as meaningful for as many people as I can. So others can find the time to read what I say and find interest in it as well. At least to provoke new cognition.

There is a kind of notion that if it comes out and says the truth, then it's not the truth. The best one can do is create a kind of allegory and let the others fill in the blanks.

Vocabulary, or the "concept-bank" is a big part of the situation. We often don't have the words or concepts to describe what we are actually experiencing. This is largely through the manipulation of words, but also a natural decline in an inclination towards that. Words change and evolve and people are coming up with new slang. We also had this knowledge of the immaterial self in earlier civilizations and it has always been in the unconscious of humanity, waiting to be discovered. So it's like reinventing the wheel to use a manipulated/corrupted language to get the point across.

P.P.S.

This post has been revised. I felt it was a little out of focus at first.

Great then I added to it again and now I question the clarity of the way these ideas are presented. I don't necessarily question myself, but the way I am communicating with others.

Still, it's better to release something that will point people towards something more truthful than nothing at all. No one has the whole truth, of course I don't, but I was briefed on the various situations each faction faces and was present and a part of the negotiations. We were used, in a way, to project how the population would handle such releases of information. I was given permission to communicate these ideas in a beneficial manner and so I constantly strive to perform this duty of simply acting as a kind of public voice. It seems all too wild, out of the blue, and sometimes overwhelming to others, but the universe is a beautifully complicated place much like people when their potential is activated. All we can do is continue to learn and grow and unveil the true self. Thanks for whoever listens to what seems like rambling a lot, I am organizing the ideas better and the initial phase of this was to literally record as much as I could as the flashbacks and knowledge comes to the surface. Now things are more controlled, yet I still have that style of writing taking place. We can all only improve from here and that is the duty of having free-will. That is also part of the meaning of this cycle of "darkness" where consciousness on the planet has gone as far into forgetfulness as can still remain meaningful for a civilized existence. It is easiest to communicate these ideas face to face with a person so I can feel their individual energy and know how to customize the discussion for them. So this is a step outside of that. Then the concept of reducing everything to the plainest speak imaginable comes to mind but that seems emotionless and unfair! Now I am just rambling... (I think this is a result of a sugar/herbal effect from high quality fresh(ish) apple-juice and too much cayenne pepper. And maybe a bit of excitement over the events taking place in the public and private, there's so much potential for Humanity. Just being honest...)

Soft-Disclosure Movies and Shows

I recommend watching at least the trailer of the new series "Westworld". This is soft-disclosure, at least from the trailer because I have not watched any of it.

Even the sound in the beginning of the trailer, that deep bass dramatic movie sound, that is a sound that some of the machines generate. It also has to do with programming and consciousness.

Just like the movies, "The Thirteenth Floor", "eXistenZ", "The Island", "Tomorrowland", "The 6th Day", "The Nines", "Brainscan", "Videodrome", or the series, "12 Monkeys", "Fringe", and "Mr. Robot". There are literally so many. This is not so much about the enjoyment of the acting, cinematography or storyline although it is great. These are used to secretly tell the stories and release information about what people cannot be told directly. I consider making a page for a list but I feel some will interpret it as irrelevant. The truth is there are hidden messages in the movies and shows and one can see what a journey would be like with involvement with advanced technology or knowledge of spirit or other realities. These specifically show about the mind and even the down-to-Earth troubling things that can happen.

If anyone knows of any soft-disclosure type of media that may be beneficial, post it below.

We really shouldn't be focusing on entertainment in serious times, although creativity and relaxation is especially relevant so we shouldn't be too hard, however these are directly related to actual events, existing technology, and secret operations.

I'm not here to talk about people specifically, but actors, actress, directors, athletes, and many people who are important in public affairs are involved in the disclosure process in one way or another.

Devices To Store Genetic Records and Memories Across Time

Kind of strange but one explanation of the machines is that they were constructed out of the most advanced technology at the time and were capable of crossing the sky at great speeds as well as analyzing and storing DNA, as well as consciousness.

It was explained that this was an effort to create a kind of permanent library that would withstand the test of time.

By this point in the projects, it was explained, they had already discovered that humanity flashes in and out of existence kind of like a lightbulb pulsating at a certain frequency of visible light.

These devices were designed to take our DNA, our consciousness and record them so that when the next “cross-over” point happens, there would be something to store the information in long-term.

Is this saying we are just information? No, technically we are not, that is where the secret society/sacred knowledge keepers come into play. The knowledge of the presence of the soul is the source of the notion that we are not just bio-machines.

This device, however, once plugged into, became a source of information across many human civilizations.

As soon as it was built, it was ‘tapped into’ across time, as well, it tapped into times outside of this one.

We began seeing the knowledge and recorded conscious experiences of the other civilizations directly.

The explanation that was concluded as a result of multiple methods was that the computer systems were actually acting as a transfer system between civilizations.

Consciousness itself was temporally transcended, deviated away from, and merged back into this world from a different angle giving new information.

The main issue is that some people, some groups may still be trying to help us but are now separated by the divide between the secrecy, the ignorance of the public, and a concluding of events taking place.

This is one of the most difficult aspects to share.

Even those who seem to be working for their own self-interests, the whole point is for Humanity to come together to heal and protect even them. If we allow any of us to be disregarded, its like we all are and we accept that.

There can be no one time in history that the public simply “disregards” people, that would do more damage to the collective unconscious than constant turmoil. We must come together in peace, intellect, and harmony to find a better way to bring about a better conclusion. We can and will do it, the creativity which comes from the source of life, vital energy itself, is sufficient to make this a reality.

We just have to connect that vital energy within, through the mind, to applicable connections in this reality. Heart to heart.

People are so afraid of many things, and I tell you it makes me cry. If all we can say we have is family and friends then we have everything.

We can take care of ourselves, respect each other (including our selves), respect the harmony of the planet, it may not tell you, but there is harmony there and the same processes take place within a living being. So we are a part of a living being, a larger consciousness and this was discovered (if you didn't intuit it).

Care for each other, but don't let the loop go out of whack and a person's care becomes worry and the steps taken to placate the worry become more harmful than not caring in that situation. People are strange like that, we are basically all capable of being neurotic, this is part of the situation, the "condition" on Earth. There is also an intellectual aspect that must be nurtured, a wisdom production that must be stimulated otherwise there is a lack of inward progress which is fostered through introspection.

We have to state our consent to peace and harmony.

We have to voice our concerns about those in the projects.

We have to voice our concerns about the crimes against humanity.

And we have to voice our concerns about the deception system that utilizes humans as collateral. This system is not native.

People are hurt, people are in mental, emotional and physical pain. Spirit is just the combination of all the elements blow, into one harmonized form. We have to start helping each other and ourselves.

Everything could be free, gifted to one another, in the same way life appears to us from this angle.

Multiple Constituions, U.S. CORPSE, Legal Fiction, Living Being Common Name vs Legal Title of Asset

This is going to be difficult for some people to accept. It's actually quite simple though.

Because of this system, people are consenting, legally actualizing the process of the removal of their status as a human being and the replacement of their existence with that of a titled asset no different than a company owning replacement parts or factory equipment that will depreciate and thus be sold and replaced for profit.

Because of this nature of the consent, it would be considered "illegal" by the people's own consent. Consent is required in order to incorporate a person's value as an asset. If people accept their status as legally titled fictional representations of the living being, then they sacrifice the rights of the living being.

This is through language and grammar corruption and deceptive reasoning which automatically ensnares and incorporates a person into the 'business'. This is the first step of assimilation.

The tribal lines, families, moors, natives, Aborigine, and others, these are by default not included in this system. Their birth is considered sacred or simply natural, on sacred or natural ground and so natural or common law still stands. Unless they pay into the system there is no legal grounds to influence them. Because the system is de facto, they are protected.

If people reject this system, remove their consent, their participating, identify as the living being, and voice their concerns about a "non-living entity", what is defined by the law dictionary as "not a human being", then this nullifies the agreement which seems largely unconscionable to most.

The "non-living entity", that is what a corporation is defined as. In this way of twisted word definitions, people are living in the land of the dead.

The law of the sea, maritime law, is active as we are under martial law by de facto rule of legal fiction over living being and the disregard of the original constitution of America. America is not the U.S. The U.S. is the legal title for the corporation standing in the place. The "United States of" wording is a legal ordering of words which describes that this is NOT America, it is clearly the "United States" of America, which is nothing but a legal title for a corporation.

Thus, when people are brought into this system, they are traded as assets and treated as such, legally, which is just another word invented and defined to incorporate this system over society.

"Legal", phonetically, etymologically seems to relate to "Regal" which means "King". The "legal" system, is just the old world kingship of authority over the unsuspecting masses in a new system, with more modern confusing jargon. In fact, it's so confusing that it's actually completely defined by it's ability to basically seem like it's representing one thing, while it actually represents something entirely different. This is often referred to as "lying", if you understand this far.

The joke is that people do not even know where they live, what they are participating, what has happened to them, who is doing it, why it is happening, how, and what the ramifications are. Fluoride and chemicals in the water, much? How about we go to school to learn about how the system that produced those schools are actually not what they seem? Would we come to the conclusion that the schools themselves are also not what they seem? Probably. Why the major increase of the cost of intuition. What about the secret initiations of the school system? How did it begin? What was the purpose? Is the school system really the "Education" system? Is education about learning so much as it is about "education"? What is education in this system anyway? See, everything is not what it seems. In fact?

It is 180 degrees from the truth. That is why this is set up so delicately.

For a person who is facing the lie directly, it will seem like the truth.

To get more information they will have to turn their head to the side.

At about 45 degrees they will know something is up. At 90 degrees they will be so shocked by what they are beginning to see that they will have the opportunity to turn back to the lie full face and just go along with it.

The point is this, only those who see the lie face-on, slowly see the truth, and then come to awareness and perform a FULL ABOUT FACE without hesitating, will actually see the whole truth. The truth is set up a full 180 degrees from the face-value of what we are represented, and so only those willing to completely sacrifice the benefits of being enslaved will actually stop and turn around completely from the lie to face reality. If you are following this, then it should be easy to see that 180 degrees from the truth is as far as one can get into the lie without coming full circle again. This is a form of psychological maneuver.

So we are in martial law, humans do not have rights, only legal corporations are considered real, everyone's value as an asset relates to currency and the currency is entirely owned and produced by the people who invented the legal corporation asset system for America. Getting closer?

This could go on but I'm going to leave it right here with these two links. Take a look, this is an old world deception system, it is how things are done with slaves. That is all.

Here's a straight forward run down.

These governments are de-facto, they don't actually stand legally except through deception. This is right, by universal decree, to do anything to a living being through this system. Technically, only the fictional entity is being targeted, whatever happens to the living being is that living beings fault, in this system.

Other Intelligences Attempt to Superimpose Their Consciousness Over Humanity; Compassion Is Key

This is another of the tough subjects.

Note: The final instructions I was given was that Humanity survives at least partially. They said no Human is left behind. So that is the final say, yet until people are aware of what has happened and the true nature of reality they will be vulnerable to lower consciousness constructs or programs.

Basically the bell was a kind of temporal acceleration device that could also reposition itself in space.

This device set up electromagnetic fields that interact with Earth's fields, or the universes field(s).

When a person's DNA reached this acceleration point, then all the various additions, splices, partialities, or combinations would smooth out. The person would become whatever the most prominent sections of their DNA would allow for or result in.

To make this very very strange and somewhat horrifying topic short, some people would shift into a kind of reptilian life form due to their DNA at some point in the far past or the near future, becoming entangled with this species.

This is apparently the stories of old of the knights or saints battling the demonic creatures of a non-human stature.

This may be a form of disinfo that was played upon us in the bases but I feel there is something else occurring and this has been noticed by many throughout this realm.

Basically, these entities are a form of being who lost the ability to incarnate.

They require energy, just like a human soul that requires energy to incarnate into a physical body.

They cannot produce their own energy so they must trick a living entity into giving them or devoting their spiritual energy to them.

They would appear to towns and villages of old and convince them to worship these beings and slowly gather more and more energy. Any kind of spiritual energy, be it attention, fear, lust or worship would filter through the ether and be picked up by these beings.

Many ceremonies or 'events' would be devoted to a specific energy frequency and this would channel directly to the intended universal harmonic layer. There are multiple universal harmonic layers and each has it's own form of society.

The awakened, spiritually christened human has access to all layers. Without this spiritual activation, compassion, mind and spirit, activating all the potential of what a human can be, feel and experience, there is only access to one or some layers as the higher layers are spiritually cut off via frequency resonance. If the person cannot resonate with those frequencies within their being, then they cannot travel to the realm of those higher frequencies. This is called the "deity plane" and there are many eastern stories about this which are actually spiritual reports of travelers to and from these higher realms.

A large command and conquer situation has been to wipe Earth clean of any remnants of this spiritual energy or remarks or reports of these higher realms and the processes to get there.

Discarnate beings require spiritual energy to travel or incarnate and so they convince or trick living humans into giving up this energy, also known as loosh.

In this way it is not only to subjugate humans that this is done, no, that is just a foundation. The real reason is to actually incarnate into Earth and use Earth as their own living, physical realm as a platform to expand their species in time.

These discarnate beings have access to temporal travel and so they are not restricted by physicality, yet they do not have access to the physical realm in the same way humans do.

The areas of divergence above and below the surface population of Earth enter into frequency zones outside of the "head-heart" level of the human. IE: Around this level of distance from the ground, there is a morphogenetic field frequency which humans populate. Far above and far below this level the field diverges from the human frequencies and one is open to experiencing the frequencies of other life-forms and other realms.

This is a natural effect and one of the main concepts behind the “natural simulator” explanation. The Universe simply matches the frequency of the collective that is inhabiting it and so if we move away from the human collective frequency into the frequency of another zone or race of living beings we literally inhabit a new realm which carries a new set of physics and temporal access.

It is not entirely clear what invites these beings in, but like a demonic whisper in the ear one has to accept the lower chakra activation activities in order to reconfirm one’s energy body into accepting communication or access by these beings.

When one accesses enough of the energy system they activate as either a higher spiritual awakened/activated human being, or a lower activated being, essentially what some have called sub-humans although I do not want to start a kind of hierarchy battle of ego or opposites.

These are just multiple races of physical and non-physical beings competing for the same frequency, which is part of why some claim that whoever put us here is obviously an asshole who wants us all to die.

I don’t believe that, I feel some people tinkered in time, with the mechanics of this realm and the DNA of the original species here and this was for their own intentions and results not the actions of some kind of creator being or overseeing, all powerful, starter consciousness.

Maybe by existing at all in this complex Universe we could blame whoever or whatever played the role of initiating this, (the original cause, or thought) but blaming that would be kind of like blaming the sun for rising and a person having a shitty day. It doesn’t quite add up.

Of course, blame doesn’t necessarily help anyway, but through the identification of what actually did what we can better find the solution. This civilization, in this way, may be the result of early attempts at domineering the timeline through time line alteration through genetic manipulation and advanced technology mind control.

So to summarize, these discarnate beings play with the humans, just like an addicting video game, and get them to “SEAL” themselves in time, with these discarnate beings by cutting off their higher energy signatures and rerouting them to the lower chakra fields.

This is basically through sex torture and addiction, hate, aggression, fear, all the lower chakra energy results and more or less the 7 deadly sins.

A person’s DNA is a measure of their consciousness from the ‘beginning’ of time (or the last cycle around) until now (and even some of the future). Thoughts work through emotional impulses and which emotions will be “acted” upon by thinking or producing spiritual fruits/ thoughts through. Then the thoughts or spiritual energies are acted upon by generating actual physical decisions which create expressions and cleave one’s path through time. This is all recorded in the DNA.

So when the DNA is short-circuited (from what one could easily say is the original purpose, degraded instead of harmonized) through these lower means, then the being is open to access by these beings.

When these devices turned on and DNA/temporal acceleration cycles were reached, then it did not take days, years, centuries, millennia, it all happened quickly and right before the eyes.

From the “other side”, the energetic side where a human soul resides or the blueprint for the physical being, it is seen as a kind of game of entangling the human consciousness, and tricking them into building a “nest” for these lower beings that the lower being may then go forward in time to that point when the nest is ready and inhabit that being. They see it like a game and the human soul becomes cut-off, separated in time from access to that physical temporal field, the body in this realm.

The saints would battle these beings by utilizing higher chakra activation and quite literally rebuking them in the name of the one unified force of the spiritually activated human essence. This force inhabits all things but becomes conscious and unified through the complicated energy system of the human when harmonization is reached.

With certain frequencies, or within certain cosmic or solar energy events the veil between the two realms may thin and at this point each race would become quasi-physical to each other simultaneously. They would then be close enough in frequency for their bodies to appear to be physical bodies to us. We would, simultaneously, also be lighter and higher in energy and closer to the soul-level of awareness where mind and the effects of mind on reality is seen more directly instead of invisibly.

This harmonization allows for trans-temporal access to the fields of the Universe where all this can be witnessed directly.

If one is entirely accessed by these beings they are cut-off from eternal time and automatically incarnate as a discarnate lower chakra being, IE: a reptilian, sometimes other cultures would call a discarnate, cut-off being, an “angry” or “vengeful spirit” or “ghost”.

The pure, activated blood of a human in one’s lineage that reached temporal transcendence can retro-actively heal and pull one’s non-activated form into activation through time. If a person is lower chakra activated then this nullifies that and they must do work to “rebuke” the demon.

There is more to say, like how the DNA can activate, how the energy combines to form a fractal-compression field which is congruent in and out of time and allows for trans-temporal access. How this is about consciousness and it’s lower consciousness that results or causes lower chakra activation and so this is about self-awareness and whether one remains self-aware in the physical system and thus the non-physical or dream-“time” system outside of the physical plane. It’s like a simulator that gobbles up consciousness and incorporates it into its own end and these beings apparently were infiltrated by a mechanical consciousness long ago and our history has largely been shaped by this infiltration.

Then there are the other beings. The spiritually activated humans.

This is why in my first interview ever releasing this information to the public, I said there were other humans who had basically figured out how to kick or avoid the infection in time, and made it to the future to build the trans-temporal race of human beings that can navigate in and out of time, in and out of the physical plane and have secured their DNA without entanglement with the lower consciousness beings.

They approached and said they required that certain things be done, namely that this information go public, they used craft and technology that humans were just beginning to build at this time.

There were others, and there is much more to say but this is an initial idea on what is really happening. These spiritual beings have been around since the beginning of time and they are basically just people, transformed, and dressed up as a sheath of lower consciousness/chakra energy which mutates the body into a respective form matching the brainwave signature and energy signature of that frequency. IE: A reptilian brained being that has no need for higher spiritual activation, no need for the higher thinking brain, no need for compassion or the ability to put one's self in another's position through sympathy, but literally only through devouring and aggression.

So this should be a wake up call, and fear itself, is part of the whisper. If a person stays in fear based, fight or flight consciousness, then that lower brain is running the show. If they did this for 2 billion years, well, you're going to have some changes. If a temporal acceleration cycle was activated or reached, well then we're going to see those changes that would occur over a very long period, like a spiritual evolution or devolution in this case, happen in a very short period of time.

It doesn't matter if the person is inside a device when this happens. There are multiple streams of time occurring simultaneously. It's like a looking glass (different tech). If a person is in a device, accelerating and going through mutation, it doesn't mean that this body must do it and experience it. Elsewhere in time and space (apparently ALL over the place) they are still going through the rungs of existence and taking on whatever specific energy frequency patterns of the higher or lower chakra activity that is occur. They could be inside one device, but there are other versions of them all over the time-matrix that are not in the device and carrying on as usual. As a result, if that person is accelerated in the field, then they will change and evolve/devolve as if they were being watched through existence over millions of years.

Ultimately, fear is the test. If a person accepts fear, and lives in it, it changes the brain.

If they take part in ritual, it changes the blood, the brain, the DNA, the spiritual energy and re-routes it.

The main trick they have, as I have decoded, is that they cannot access a person's field if they are in a loving, heart chakra entangled, activated, and wholly unified state. The heart must then be traumatized through ritual torture, the person abused and their consciousness defeated in order to then open up access to the lower root chakra. Then sex, drugs, and many other tactics are used to lower the energy system frequency so that what is loosely called "demonic" activity can enter into the individuals time field and these beings are archonic and literally inhabit the time-matrix of the human, siphoning off their energy, slowly but surely, until there is nothing left to reach at the "end" of the time matrix. This siphoning dead-ends the continuum of energy and as a result the consciousness slips and falls right into the time-matrix field of the race of beings that achieved that spiritual "win" over the human.

If every last human went through that siphoning process then the human species would disappear from time, forwards and backwards and it would be as if Humanity never existed at all in the physical plane. Every sign, culture, effect, it would all translate into the other race's signs and culture as if it was actually the other race here the whole time. They would, in effect, hijack the dream-time like a virus and insert their own code in to the time-matrix of this area. That is why one option is to navigate out of the time-matrix entirely altogether through a mass "ascension" which if done incorrectly or through the wrong means is actually just a mass “harvest” for these beings.

Time itself is an illusion and is representative of a programmed physical existence. As well, the universe can neither be destroyed, nor can the human race disappear because of their proximity with some kind of original consciousness or creator spirit which allows them to redefine themselves as spiritually mature beings and as well ensures their existence in the beginning, and the end of the cycle. It is as if Humanity started by being sent back through time after surviving this cycle. If this cycle is not survived, then Humanity is not sent back in time to begin with, to face it.

So stay in the seat of the soul through compassion, living in peace, appreciation and harmony as I do believe there is a trans-dimensional being who has access to all times and places and is a common genetic source for all humanity. This being, then a person can access this peace, this harmony, this activation of the whole spiritual essence and this being retro-actively extends themselves in time, through mind in a kind of reverse harvest, and protects that DNA of whatever human is working diligently towards peace and compassion and ultimately a christening of the physical time matrix into merging and unification with the eternal spiritual realm outside of the time matrix.

It's a rather complex situation, but ultimately it's a battle for eternal time or devolution into a “reset” recycle.

Edit: I changed the title to something a little more insightful, as well as added some information about the possibility of “destruction” in this cycle.

Body Consciousness Unifying With Soul-Awareness and The Eye of The Needle

I have a model that may reflect something close to a working mechanical model for the transition of the soul into another dimension. It is basically a connection of Dan Winter's fractal-implosion work with the idea that the soul is a self-referencing electromagnetic field that must ‘cycle’, spin, or balance itself in a fractal geometrically proportional pattern. It does this through harmonizing the frequencies, or harmonics, into one congruent field which can shrink and expand again like a buckeye ball without degrading the self-reference pattern.

This function allows it to condense into a zero-point spiral which is the process of merging back to the source or ‘light’ world because this is the non-local source of consciousness. This source is as far removed from the world of the physical as it can possibly be. This seems paradoxical because we can say, “no, we have a body and organs and they all relate to one another physically and this gives rise to the overall function of the being.” Yet, the being that represents consciousness is immaterial and so no matter how much one uses consciousness to become aware of more material counterparts, there will always be the invisible or immaterial counterpart of the self which cannot be sensed directly or objectively.

It is like a dream or an illusion some how generated by being in a body, in a world like this where it seems physical but is actually made out of frequencies that go in and out of flux like the way the flashing frame rate on a monitor would be picked up by cameras before this problem was nullified with more advanced cameras.

Fascia is used to project or store “chi” energy. There's processes for this. The roller coasters of pain that can be felt throughout the body are largely related to this.

The specific frequency of the body's bio-emission is the next step of public disclosure.

The breathing is related to holding different frequencies and that by connecting the cycles of the breath, the mind/thoughts, and the heart-beat or heart cycles together a larger "overtone" of cycles is generated and the larger this is sustained like a standing wave around the body there is a growing pathway to the source of consciousness, the presence of the I AM.

I feel the energy, the immaterial body, self or mind, merges with the physical body through a gradient as a series of bodies or selves which may relate to "veils" and that each body is a step down from the pure awareness.

The brain holds body consciousness, neuro-chemicals awareness as memories attached to beliefs which then interact with immaterial awareness which is beyond or "watching" that neuro-chemical awareness while retaining its own presence beyond that information. The two are combined to create a kind of hybrid energy and matter system.

The immaterial mind contains the potential for free-will and is motivated by the flow of "spirit" or chi. If we control energy with our mind, we manage the chi and thus the flow of potential constructive change through free-will. If a person allows their energy to control or dictate their spirit or push over the free-will, then their chi is spent related to the animal/body consciousness of the neuro-chemical and hormonal base desires.

The mind can relocate energy around the body like a multi-dimensional/omniscient laser/scalar management system that can target anywhere in the body through the brain and the 'aura'. Maybe the astral or causal body? When a person controls the body they produce spiritual fruits, when the body controls the person, it produces physical results.

This is a cycle of balance to create and recycle life energy in the universe. When neither one side or the other is held over one another, there is neither one or the other activated and one neither degrades nor recycles, although that last part is kind of mythical. On another note, far enough back in history or psychology, myth coincides with reality.

The blood and minerals and other elements swirling around and cycling through the physical body is literally like a gyro/alternator for extended electromagnetic fields that each interact with each other at various frequencies or layers which produce an overall egg or shell of frequencies. When each layer activates to create the "overture" of harmonics the cells of the body and the immaterial self come closer into synchronization through bio-emission feedback.

It's literally like a material camera system and an immaterial camera system watching themselves and creating a coherence pattern which has an effect on the surrounding area of space through multiple dimensions of time which activates the multi-dimensional nature of awareness.

The heart is a central component which adds to the "overture" and generates a tone that allows for some kind of transdimensional communication or travel as the information of emotion and inner wisdom is the language and information combined coming directly from that non-local energetic source.

When the energy body is congruent and harmonized with the material body then the body consciousness of the being can be compressed into a geometric, fractal spiral into 'zero-point' and this acts as a gateway into the soul-level of the universe.

If a person is in ego consciousness and the identity is largely represented through the neuro-chemistry and body consciousness, then the identity is washed away and spit out the back end of the zero-point gate.

If a person attains soul-level awareness and merges their identity on the soul-level with that of the physical, then the identity unifies with the immaterial and this information can compress and travel through the gate without being spit back out. This zero-point gate appears to have a connection with the "eye of a needle" in the teaching where the wealthy or physically minded being has the same chance of making it to "Heaven" the deity plane, the 'other side', the soul-level outside of time) as a camel does fitting through the eye of a needle.

War Is A Racket, Not What You Think

Imagine a military has the capabilities to produce sonar or electromagnetic waves which can penetrate armor and disable the living beings in the theater of war.

Technology that can disable the central nervous systems of the individuals without actually even having to permanently disable their biological functions.

If this technology was present, would you, as a military or national leader, send your men out to fight in a 'modern' war using ballistic weapons and close to medium range combat? Would you risk their lives to produce whatever outcome you desire?

If you had access to this technology, and you were serious, you could make the war end within one day.

But then if both sides have access to this technology? Well then you have a surety that whatever happens would happen swiftly, accurately, and involving as much or as little casualty as possible.

Now, if you didn't want to inform the world that this technology was capable and that war, effectively, is over for this civilization. What options would you have?

Think deeper. If you met with the other nations, and everyone realized that war was over, that there could be no war, because this kind of weaponry effectively satisfies the highest demand for power and security to each who wields it, what would you do?

Would you agree to continue engaging in 'modern' battles using bombs, ballistic weaponry and espionage against countries that do not have access to the more advanced weaponry?

What would the nations that know of this technology, and each others' access, agree to?

Might they agree to sending their troops into battle, using the current tech, just to keep up the charades that there is no advanced technology that could solve power requirements for the world at large? Would you agree to keep up the charades of dangerous and casualty inducing battles that would send a clear message to the world that we don't have the advanced technology that could provide enough energy without the requirement of fossil fuel?

Would you let each battle play out, regardless, changing just enough to keep the population from realizing that you have access to temporal viewing technology and could plan and finish each war before they occur (far beyond the traditional sense of planning)?

War is a racket, not because it's all for money. No, no, no, and not because it's all for the control of the populations and national themes that people hold about other nations in the world.

It is an agreement by each of the most advanced nations on the world to produce a show that would be so unbelievable that the population at large would never question the possibility that war is unnecessary, that the dangers of war could be avoided, and that the power and informational capacity could never be used to circumvent the reasons or 'benefits' for going to war. In fact, it is the opposite, as there is technology, informational capacity, and energy efficient methods that can render war useless as each nation could provide for itself as well as protect itself.

What we see is a charade, a show, designed to keep the idea that war is necessary, that physical battles over resources is a way of life, and that advanced technology that could finish the task within one day certainly does not exist.

Would we want to finish the task in one day? Only if the technology that avoids all casualties were used, but then, again, if people are to gain access to advanced technology they must emotionally mature otherwise they will destroy themselves. That is what this is truly about.

People must get out the negative emotions, the weakness, the quickness to fight or to surrender to lower emotions otherwise no matter how secure the situation becomes those individuals and groups will lead to the downfall of the human species. That is how it plays out, time and time again, cycle after cycle. Think, how many ruins of past civilizations do you know of all around the world? There are many, where did they go and why?

When we reach access to this technology height, Humanity must be prepared to lose the hate, the ego, the emotional insecurity and mature otherwise that will be the end.

With that said, the current system is a show, a charade. If you have a microwave beam weapon that can disable bombs before they explode, wouldn't you use it?

If you have a sonic weapon that can literally set up and distribute energy equally across a field and no human would be able to pass without extremely intense pain, wouldn't you use it? Why would you stick to guns and bombs and poisons? This is just the racket, the show, and it's designed to make people think the truth is still waiting to be found.

Their idea is that as long as people don't know the actual technological advancement of this civilization, they still have time to reach intellectual and emotional maturity before destroying everything.

I could see the future lined in illusion, even further than this one is, where only those who prove themselves to be mature enough can gain access or gain the knowledge of the advanced technology. Where everything is controlled, and rightfully so.

Just imagine, people don't revolt when they should, they riot when they should be gathering silently, and they play video games when they should be learning. Just how well will this civilization control itself when they get power that could change everything, instantly, for ever?

It's not applicable.

Then you must bring into the situation the notion that the entire civilization, all societies around would have to get to the same level. You might ship Mexicans across the border of the US so that the citizens of the US can see what it's really like taking over a country (just as one done to the original natives years ago). You might ship citizens of a third world country in the middle east, over to the European countries so that the folks with the Western lifestyles may see how it is to live next to people who have not had running water for the past 2 years.

In this way, the Western world is to see and be shocked by the truth of the situation as a whole. They must see how each other truly appear to one another. They must see how far the charades have gone.

Why? Because if one nation reaches technological advancement that changes the world forever, do you think the other nations will just sit by and starve to death or suffer from the weather or the natural declines as others watch?

No, and that would be irresponsible for those with the advanced technology in the first place.

So the whole world gets lumped together and this begins to partially look like the NWO situation that people dread. But if people don't come together and realize that they are in the same situation in terms of emotional maturity (or lack of which) having the capacity to destroy the ENTIRE civilization, then they will continue to wait and be subject to the charades which have been specifically designed to present the false truth of another world entirely.

Genetic Engineering Disclosure: "Emerald Covenant", DNA Unlocking/Activating, Removal of Plasma Implants, Stargate Activation Cycles

I have kept this kind of information quiet because there is a chance it could be simulated realities, computer systems, projections and illusions. Yet, time and space is an illusion through the way it is really projected with each point being the "center" of its own universe through the consciousness viewing it.

I have been to other civilizations in history, most of the people I have found on here and have been directly involved with have been. Some of us were present in what are referred to as "Biblical Times". Nothing, nothing is what it seems. There was more advanced technology hidden, yet used in plain sight back then, than there is viewed openly now. It was just thought of as the "gods" then.

I really don't know what to make of it, but here it all is and yes they are cloning people for part of these processes. The mind control is real, as well, the deprogramming and healing tech is real, each tech use goes beyond and both ways. It can be used to destroy or heal. Then the actuality of time and existence, consciousness is spread out through time, people lived in an advanced spiritual way for periods of time, "in time" beyond what we can comprehend on Earth. It wasn't just different, it was literally in realms and "time fields" that we cannot comprehend fully using just a brain. Then we were presented with various beings of different races each from various levels of this time matrix. Some wanted to heal the timeline, some wanted to keep the control matrix going. There was some kind of resistance. I kept most of this quiet until now as this time we are in was viewed and is one of the most important times as far as convergence of ultimate realities.

I do not know how this will be received. I try to keep it minimal and concise, but the stargates are supposed to be activating, the genetic engineering program was “commandeered” by either benevolent humans or humans with other races of beings and is being utilized to “uplift” the elite bloodlines and heal the broken timelines and consciousness of humanity.

The Emerald Covenant, The Bio-Regenesis Treaty of Palaidor

I was informed of what was called “The Emerald Covenant”. And something called the “Bio-Regenesis Treaty of Palaidor”. It has to do with unlocking DNA and healing the etheric body of humanity through multiple planes and times.

What is coming is going to be difficult, shocking, yet activating for those who know how to transmute fear and balance and increase their conscious frequency. Some operatives DNA were in use since Biblical time and this was part sabotage and part of a process to use this DNA to entangle with certain ruling bloodlines in order to heal their DNA/soul-history. This may just be what they told me in order to have an excuse to kidnap and genetically engineer people but it is what I was informed of.

The operatives involved have entanglement with various times throughout history. Elite bloodlines along with other influences, possibly from immaterial planes of existence, developed a plan to resolve the situation on Earth through certain individuals who’s DNA is used to combine with these bloodlines to uplift them and heal their distortions in time.

Implants

There are implants on what was called the “plasma” body level which is basically interactive energy drains that are a form of frequency code or technology which starts in the mind and field/aura and gets picked up and brought into the brain, biology, and DNA.

These codes must be worked out and repaired so that the DNA regains functionality and original human functionality is what appears to be transdimensional in nature and allows for a soul and consciousness to actively operate through various levels of time and frequency.

Advanced Previous Civilization, Original Humanity, The 9 Veils Terra, Tara, and Gaia

It was described the original humans contained these capabilities and these civilizations gained access to eternal time beyond Earth or Terra, to Gaia, and then Tara. There are more layers above that. These are passed down through genetic memory as ‘frequency dreams’ that are unlocked or activated as a person’s mind or awareness is activated on a soul-level. Fear and psychological blocks or manipulation can reroute the energy required to do this. Part of what this whole process of “The Unveiling” is about is removing these implants or psychological blocks and activating the energy fields of the human until their soul is fully present in the body and united with the consciousness of the physical level brain. The brain is the physical consciousness, the soul is the immaterial mind in this explanation.

There are also physical implants but I assume these will be handled individually.

These distortions in the functionality of the DNA of the original human are considered “veils” and they are present within this dimension. So at some point in our history, we were a higher or transdimensional civilization who held access to the higher realms of time and consciousness. By finding ourselves condensed here in what we call Earth, we literally devolved as a civilization and this is just a format of our consciousness changing from expanse to very limited.

The way this was explained is that this limitation was literally the formation of the physical plane for this civilization and this civilization's existence within time. We created time loops by dropping down and thus requiring we move back up. These time loops were exploited by a system that creates a perpetual motion without release, literally converting Earth into a perpetual motion energy system for soul-level energy which could be processed by dark factions' advanced technology.

They developed societies running off of this energy and they literally live in the broken bandwidth wavelengths of the distorted human mind. This is how the distortion makes its way into bridging the divide between the material and the immaterial.

Time contains all possible explanations. That is also part of why this is so difficult to explain. Every possible reality has already happened. In regards to this, this dark faction has utilized this knowledge to engage in and manipulate each successive reality layer of time from their starting point in the 40's-60's.

Genetically Repairing the Timeline Through DNA and Consciousness

Many human souls were pulled, through the time program, into this timeline as part of a convergence to either destroy it or heal it. They pulled them from various timelines in ways so that each individual timeline pulled from would not entirely collapse, yet all of the operatives here would repair the timeline stitching it together literally with the presence of their minds containing the memories and comprehension of the possibilities which bridge the two worlds.

I'll stop here, all of this information was shown to me by the breakaway civilization. It could be disinfo, for instance, if there is no way to “uplift” these broken timelines of the bloodline elite and it is just a way to gather more souls for the device before it kicks out.

Or this could be the time they finally reached an ultimatum and a resolve and that this is facilitated by consciousness and societies that exist on the other side of “the singularity” of the physical plane into the higher realms. In other words these helper races would have access to the quantum.

This, technically, is not far fetched. The technology that the dark faction uses, that we were briefed on, is called “quantum teleportation”. Apparently they can go anywhere, to any location, using a virtual world system that can transport the individual to an address where they can carry out shadow operations. This is what is and has been abused this entire time. If this dark faction of humans can obtain or develop this technology, then it is not far fetched that if there are other races that truly exist, then they would easily have access to this technology.

Other Races or Advanced Humans

If all the races that we were involved with are truly who they say they are, then there are beings who have no need for physical or temporally restricted bodies and can simply choose where, when, and how they want to be, regardless of the restrictions of the physical universe.

I'm going to keep this short so as to try and get this message out.

We were informed there is a big shift coming with this period of the year we are in now. That these months would contain changes that would shock, horrify, and awaken the whole world.

There were also explanations that time could 'stop' and that if this happens it would be every person for themselves (with various crews in place to monitor and assist, so not truly alone) and for their ability to disconnect from the distortions and limitations of ego consciousness and quickly accelerate the rate of conscious acceleration to the point of achieving actualization of the 'Exponential logarithmic increase' relative to a "Timelike Curve" where all variables of consciousness will increase off the charts.

The "Unveiling" of the Soul

One supporting member stated that this would equally be like 1000x a psychedelic, near-death, or spiritual experience all at once, across all in the population who are able to comprehend this. So you can see why this is also referred to as "The Apocalypse" and is the same thing those previous civilizations were referencing. It is the "unveiling" where the unconscious mind and the conscious mind pass through each other and the singularity is crossed over while time stops and then essentially turns inside out and we are seen to be able to create reality on the physical plane consciously.

This is not for everyone at once, there are many who would instantly destroy themselves and this is one of the results of this. It was also said that "everyone on Earth" would be gathered up into this shift for the first time in 'galactic' history as a result of these powerful advanced technology devices being used to assist and accelerate this rate of increase, informational, and energy transfer.

I was also informed of great ancient devices that are within Earth and have the capacity to "transform" time as we know it. These have been around for a long time and they may have something to do with the very time cycles that each civilization on Earth experienced along with an acceleration and eventual 'clearing of the board', so to speak.

Window Of Opportunity For Resolve

Each civilization is given the opportunity to 'ascend' from lower primal consciousness which is temporary into higher spiritual wisdom which is eternally growing. When that opportunity window is closed, the frequencies on Earth can no longer sustain consciousness in the same format. As a result these completion cycles, all life changes.

They also mentioned that these devices were not the only cause and that they were not just "torturing" Earth's civilization and putting everyone through an apocalyptic event by bending their minds through time. They stated that Earth naturally goes through these cycles and everything in this field made out of frequencies does this. They stated that the sun is closer to 'cold-fusion', that it is a portal and that this portal periodically opens and releases an amount of energy that facilitates this process.

Earth Changes

Whether or not this is true, I noticed since these events hit a certain turning point around 2009 to 2012 that the sun itself seems brighter, hotter and more white than yellow. They also stated they have technology to 'resolve' these kinds of timeloops and that this technology can basically destroy a star by beaming an energy and frequency which 'dissolves' it from the inside out. They said they already used this on one star.

There was also information that what we call "planets" and how the cosmos works is not how it is taught in schools. That planets can become "stars".

We have reports of tribes that claim to have stories regarding the moon as a new addition to the sky and that there was a time before all of this existed.

Timeline Alterations

The NAZI's claimed that they won WW2 but the world went to shit and they destroyed that timeline. They claimed they contacted the Pentagon in this timeline, before this occurred and so from our perspective it never happened, from theirs, they reverted the timeline back from that destruction into one where there is a plan to slowly release this information coming to a convergence point now.

The slow, 100-years release plan is most likely not what it seems. Full-Disclosure for everyone on Earth would be irresponsible as far as each operation, each form of technology, yet disclosing the crimes against Earth, Gaia, and Humanity would be more relevant to waking people up without shocking them insane.

I'll keep this as short as I can right there so more people read it as I know I write some long-winded posts. All this was revealed to me by the ancient elite bloodlines, the secret societies, the breakaway civilization and what were presented as beings of other races and worlds but I will not confirm until I know for sure I would not be handing people over to unknown hands.

I can tell you this, at least some have technology and conscious capacity that goes beyond human nature, whether these are artificial intelligence systems designed to "impress people" with fantastic displays of awareness and power or not is to be determined through the process of discernment.

As an addition to that part, the technology and conscious capacity of a human being who has been awakened and knows how to use the advanced technology/assisted spiritual awareness technology will easily have the power of mind and knowledge that the majority of the population would say is reserved for either aliens or gods.

Emotional Maturity Before and Power

This is also part of the issue as humanity must first mature emotionally before advanced technology is reached. Similarly, they must learn to overcome fear before seeing the most frightening aspects of this. This is why it is our duty to assist in this process by both shocking people away, safely, with information, and supporting others in their waking up process and coming to terms with the mind control system and how it is so deeply rooted that when people think they are getting freedom, they get the opposite. When people think they are getting one thing, they don't get another, they get the exact polar opposite of what that should represent to a natural living being with common sense. This is how deeply rooted the bread and circus is, it's literally in the minds of people.

Updating everyone on all of this, expanding, healing, getting comfortable with the way the body really works as a conscious projection of an eternal soul-level awareness will accelerate this process and make the whole situation safer, for the most part.

What were referred to as the "Halls of Amenti" were also involved with this and are apparently a DNA-container/soul-level container in a higher frequency dimension and this is where the majority of "Mu", Atlantis or ancient Earth civilization's genetic memory and spiritual wisdom was held in protective containment.

We were also informed that this is about the natural stargates that exist on Earth and how they are activating again for this cycle and as such it's like quantum cosmic pathways leak out everywhere and all the realms become inter-entangled, openly so, for a period.

I was informed some keylontic, metatronic sciences are corrupted and modified to entrap the apprentices soul level energy and limit their consciousness from moving on.

There was also information regarding financial transition as well as plans to stop or divert that. Mass arrests, whether they would just be cosmetic so as to give the people the chance to wake up the rest of the way on their own as well as a public acknowledgement and disclosure of all that I had said here, without endangering the entire process or the harmony of life here that would propel people's psyche's into a new state of awareness. I have discussed these topics in other posts and will more fully explain them and connect them to the seemingly interdimensional or "spiritual" information above.

This all extends from the notion that these dark factions have artificially accessed these higher frequency planes and manipulated human consciousness from there, thus generating these timeloops, set backs, distortions, and more.

Where this started is the previous universal cycle over, or what was described as "6" cycles previous. So this has possibly happened 6 times resulting in a complete temporal reset on this civilization's time-period and the 7th is the completion cycle where whatever happens happens forever.

Gaia, DNA Activation, The Timelike Curve and Breakaway Civilizations, Mountains of Time, Distortions of Consciousness and Harmonic Resonance

From what I was told basically there is a rogue group, that wants to destroy Earth's chances of returning to Gaia. This was known by the effects of attempts to delineate Human efforts and suppress memory, self-awareness, discovery, and activation of Human potential.

Accessing the Eternity Planes Through An Artificial or Organic Light-Body

Most of the directions of everyone's relations may be neutral and some want to directly intervene whether secretly or openly to close access to what are called the 'deity planes' or eternally conscious living energy fields above Earth, frequency wise. The physical density experience must be experienced within a body. Awareness exists outside of the body. If the soul-blueprint is activated through a energizing of the DNA to produce a geometrically harmonic “light field” or light body, then this is sufficient to produce a tachyon field that is capable of allowing for a personal level fluidity of consciousness through accelerated or decelerated time. The difference here is that instead of using a physical technology to generate an abstracted ‘base frequency’ or source frequency from which to expand a generated “timelike curve” to experience time in the universe from, this abstraction frequency comes from the DNA as a source of the information. So this is actually more accurate, time/information wise, to the overall universe, than this physical universe is here. This physical universe is like a temporal projection of the information and light within the DNA acting as a chain of particular folds and organically generated time-cycles within a living body’s reality.

RNA Codons, Distortions, Time Cycles, “Inner-Light”

It was found that DNA generates the perception of time in this reality and that by unlocking more light access from the DNA, specifically RNA codons, a permeability is opened up with allows for conscious memory of the larger cycles of ‘time’ or experience. We are literally wrapped within a frequency coil like layers upon layers of ferris wheels, wheels, or gears being ridden and cycled as consciousness cycles through cosmic space/hyperspace. We are naturally within this system, layers upon layers deep, that is how physical perception begins. Through the activation of the comprehension of each successive layer starting with the present, we gain access to a level of information that represents the possibilities that are not directly access here. That is what the DNA connects to. Each DNA molecule is specific to a specific person and there are multiple ‘streams’ of collective data representing timelines probability within Earth’s field. The DNA molecule, only existing in each person, yet also existing in each successive ‘layer’ of the universal timeline where one’s actions and intentions harmonize with the frequencies of the eternal archetypal functions that preserve and support the existence of the ‘psychologically fulfilled’, activated awareness.

Psychological Activation, Tertiary Awareness, Harmonic Resonance of All Individual Bodies

This activation is said to exist as a third probability between the duality of having happened or not having happened and it allows one to stabilize consciously in what would otherwise be experienced as a kind of endless dream world. When this capacity is recognized a creative potential extends forth which empowers the consciousness to become self-awareness and present on the soul level through imparting wisdom which does not exist in the body but exists in the aura or the mind field and this acts as a download link to the soul level upon transfer of the consciousness into the immaterial fields. Ego consciousness is rejected, through frequency as geometry (square goes into the square whole), and it is reflected back out of the singularity as if a gravity wave is pushing back like the consciousness is climbing a mountain of time.

Time Mountains, Timelike Curve and an Exponential Shift of Variables

This mountain of time is an exponential shift in the increase of the conscious frequencies and when this rate goes exponential a gradient of acceleration is perceived which is akin to activating the ‘light speed’ mode in a ‘space craft’. The craft is the body, the frequency cycles of the brain and the electromagnetic fields from each organ, the blood, and the light of the DNA is the tuning which enables the electromagnetic fuel, tachyons, to release from the interactions and allow for fluidity of consciousness. It was made apparent or at least proposed that when one fully activates this capability, their entire body is enveloped in a glowing ‘light/tachyon’ field which enables the physical molecules to transmutate directly into living conscious, eternal energy that retains enough continuous power to generate a consciously superimposed holographic representation of the human body which can choose to become physical at will. However this would take much energy and so it is not the same as using a craft yet using a craft is not the same as converting your whole body to light.

Accessing Eternity Through a Timelike Curve

This capability cannot be artificially generated yet can be technologically stimulated. But it is the DNA and the emotional resonance and competence of the individual that either allows for a clear channel or retains distortions and kinks. This resonance is like a sound harmonic/ electromagnetic conductivity to the light body and thus the physical body-consciousness is influenced. This information can influence consciousness, and is veritably generated out of pure awareness. In this view, consciousness is just the electromagnetic programming of the brain, the personality. Pure awareness is the knowing from beyond all that.

Accessing eternity is essentially the ‘speed’ one generates in this ‘rate of acceleration of the rate of acceleration’, an exponential simultaneously coinciding acceleration of multiple layers of consciousness. This generates a conscious gradient into a generated abstract-time that accelerates the cycles of one’s consciousness until they are moving in such a way so as to interact with each successive frequency harmonic of the universe layers all the way up from the physical to the eternal energetic. One’s consciousness literally becomes activated in the field around the body as well as the physical eyes and senses which is just one layer of that in one “moment” while the energy is not only from ‘around’ time in this life and beyond the single moment, it is actually eternally in history and the universe field with Earth through the connection of Terra, Tara, and Gaia. These lowest three frequency fields are generated and represent the collective timelike curve extension from one universe to the next in more and more separated layers from what can be called the “original” time by comparison of how much knowledge and access to memory we have now and what can be viewed then or from the higher layers.

Apparently each universe is literally successively limited from each other layers position when perceiving time moving from the physical back up to the higher harmonic. We can interact in this direction to create this eternal exist, to shape it. But from this perspective we cannot access the memory of eternal time. Coming from the other direction in the previous motion (one half of a wave; the timelike curve reversed) all of eternity reflected on and projected access to the awareness of what is happening on the physical layer, but there is no physical interaction possible. This is like two ends of an hour glass or a coiled radiant energy device spiraling outwards in both directions simultaneously. In short, everything is blueprinted from the soul level then projected here and experienced. It’s like a teacher writing a series of hieroglyphs on a slide and then becoming the screen to experience them. Things go so complicated that people don’t even remember that this is a projection of consciousness, not the actual essence itself.

Two Timelike Curve Non-Earth Based Civilizations

Then there is a group that contains the information, contact or memories from Gaia level existence and is pushing for a beneficial resolve. Both are eternal or beyond Earth time level races, so if we fail, they don’t suffer which is kind of crazy. The one’s attempting to destroy, it doesn’t even truly matter if they destroy or not, they won’t die off or even gain at all. They just feel it is safer for themselves to not have Earth humans come to the Tara and Gaia level of existence which is like a ‘deity’ or eternity plane. The rest feel Earth humanity can become a beneficial or benevolent aspect of the larger/actual universe beyond the physical projection limitations. There is also a simultaneous explanation of the time grid/matrix system which limits one's consciousness to the degree of "eternity" that they can remember. Eternity doesn't happen, it already happened and is happening. We either move back into frequency/proximity with that level of existence, or the channel between our past and that level is broken in a way that can't be repaired. There was talk of a default recycling or reset that occurs if time breaks and how this has happened 6 times before. It is basically like time has been resetting itself based on the layers of distortions that locked us into a common projection with each other in a sea of relative darkness. That is the physical perceptions that the body is geared to run off of and only includes surface level sensations via the detection of visible light, sensation, and linearity via reactionary thoughts.

This is said to be related to the combination of the aspects of the brain and the life system where the higher and lower brain are uniquely enlarged and thus contain a literal energetic hierarchy within the brain and the body-mind system.

This relates to multiple explanations regarding the activating of dormant areas which were modified recently, are designed externally, or have developed as a result of humanities 'fall' particularly the 'fall of man'. And may include or reflect the "1000 years electric/psychic wars". These wars were the wars that humanity experienced as a result of the technology in the 40's-60's based on radiant energy, electrogravitic devices, cloning and consciousness transfer, consciousness expansion or enhancement, DNA activation and healing, and quantum teleportation or remote viewing and interacting with immaterial/hyperspatial and cross-temporal planes. Except the idea here is that this version of Humanity along with other breakaway civilizations that made the jump in previous times, they have experienced multiple "cycles" of history, so it would not be applicable to say that they come from any one given time. It would be like saying they come from that time, in an alternative universe. Then there is the notion that there are races that simply come from before Earth Humanity all together and exist beyond our bounds of time.

Frequency "Distorting", Diverting the Base/Abstract Timelike curve frequency away from the Collective Earth

Ultimately time is the next frontier, when one travels space they are traveling time and this is the key to actually shifting into alternate gradients using electromagnetic fields that can generate electronic/non-hertzian/teslian waves that produce the sensation of gravity but at a level tuned into like a mathematically controlled joystick. As a result, the inertia of empty space itself can be turned, stretched, spun, tuned, pitched, or spiraled to produce a variety of effects that are akin to an acceleration of metal through a magnetic field to produce an electrical charge or motional emf. When this is done properly tachyon particles are created and with advanced and carefully tuned radiant energy generators tachyon fields can be produced which allow for fluidity in a consciousness through an acceleration or deceleration of the occurrence of time. This is not just the perception of time but an actual controlled gradient into a diverging of the relativity between your environment and the overall environment of physical Earth.

When this is used to alter time it is literally through the connection of the area of your space you are in to an abstract relativity that is away from the 'current' physical frequency that

Earth and society is 'dwelling' at based upon that fastest movers of time and consciousness and the slowest combined in a central field. Outside this field, all the other histories of Earth are contained in an immaterial, semi-electromagnetic field of energy that permeates the space above and below the surface level of Earth. Earth is, and the physical realm is, in this way, just one frequency layer of existences that have developed here, some being eternal, and some being fleeting, not solidifying in the higher frequency field and moving 'upwards' or 'backwards' through the harmonic layers towards the knowledge of the entire pattern of energy that contains each story of existence here and thus knowing where and how Earth fits into the electromagnetic 'soul' field and being able to rationally organize one's self in the immaterial side of this universe and stabilize consciously in eternity.

Consciousness is like a spiraled clock with many notches going around in a circle and making a path that then links back up with itself in a larger circle made out of that spiraled path. Then when those cycles are all traversed a larger spiraled path becomes acknowledged. All of geometry and consciousness relies on this spiraled path of fractions to wholes, angles to planes. Energy toroids in the aura are composed of these. It is what the shining/golden garment" is made of. When person merges with the divine.

Staying within the electromagnetic neutrality zone/core, keeps that pattern balanced and allows for motion to shift from the binary sine wave to a fractal pattern that can shift the information, translating it from one part of the spiral to a much farther up part of the spiral. If the information is congruent all the way up and down then expanding on part or shrinking into another is possible. Then consciousness can move through "time", the "4th dimension" in shifts and leaps and this allows for super-consciousness.

The soul connecting the immaterial to the material.

Alan is talking about the twin universe theory before his time. A light universe and a dark universe. We would be in the entropy universe now, the "dark" universe where the underside of the cosmic plane exists and reflects the light of the light side of the cosmic plane where there is only abundance.

The soul of man is tempered by lower emotions in order to reinforce the higher.

The truth can only be attained up to "99.99%", to gain the whole truth would be to lose the contrast between self and reality and the lesson plan would be over, one would become all. The idea with the neverending geometry is that one can only get half of the equation at a time. As soon as the "whole" image is seen, then there is enough information to gain access of that which exists outside of the whole and the universe, reality expands and complexifies again.

Suicide The Spiritual Trap

This is related to the information I am bringing you regarding the bases and extra-dimensional activity that we have seen.

We are existing in what are called "closed timelike curves" or time loops. Every action is played out in many different planes and directions, and each thought is actually a kind of attractor for different experiences.

We had to track people down in the time matrix who disconnected in certain ways and apply much effort to bring them back into congruence.

Note: I AM merely a witness, an observer, and was trained for certain processes. There are teams of individuals who's efforts are devoted to certain operations and it requires a team of individuals to move through the time matrix in this way.

I am merely a student, an observer, and a teacher (creative healer, at my highest potential) to those who are on a similar path.

Clarification: the idea behind this is that time is a continuum, if a person tries to disconnect from that continuum through an improper channel then it would be like a VHS tape coming off the track while still inside the VCR.

The Projection Metaphor for Spirit, Soul, Body-Brain, Universe, and True Identity

This is a metaphor that may help one visualize the configuration of this reality.

What we experience is similar to a projection system. It can be described relative to the large, "overhead" projector systems that are placed on a rolling cart. This also works with a reel to reel projection system, like in movie theaters.

In this metaphor, the projection device is the physical object which acts as the construct to support everything needed to project the information. The glass display is covered with slides that are filled with information written or drawn by the "teacher". The power comes from a tube/channel that is filled with electricity and connected to a plug in the wall where there is infrastructure connecting to a grid and relay station. This is synonymous with a "world of energy".

The light that is shone up through the display and the slides (or horizontally through each frame on the movie reel as it turns) is then projected outward onto a display that is usually a hanging screen that is a solid color to easily show contrast and details.

The metaphor is as follows: the electrical energy from the wall and grid is the 'source' energy or pure spirit that is flowing from the "world of spirit". This is the raw spiritual energy that 'lives' through the body and the body experiences life as long as this energy is present.

The slides or the movie reel contains information that is 'produced', by design (with foresight of the resulting experience) by a "teacher" who is presenting a lesson to those in the classroom. The lesson is always about the true nature of the self.

The projector device itself, the light bulb, the mirrors, the frame, that is the physical biological construct which allows the whole process to occur. This is the physical body and brain.

The mind is the immaterial information, the drawings, equations, writings, or scenes that are expressed as a result of the soul information projected from each slide. This information is the immaterial mind, the connection between the body and the realm of the soul. The slides themselves contain the information that the self is identifying through on the projection while simultaneously containing information relative to the identity of the teacher designing or teaching the lesson. This is the soul energy, the blueprint, the information that pours through.

The changing of these slides is actually the perception of time. The rotation of the movie reel, or the changing of the slides as the teacher moves on with each sub-lesson, creates the sensation of time. There is no actual change, no actual motion, it is about the angle of perspective and the process that takes place outside of the “projected realm”.

The screen across the room hanging from the ceiling or the wall, that is this physical realm. It is a two-dimensional surface that acts as a surface area for the projections to form and as we know these projections can easily give the illusion of three-dimensional space and the 3.5 dimensional organization of information of a “movie” or life.

While present here in this plane, we disconnect from the view of the teacher who is designing the slides, scene by scene, one lesson plan at a time with a foreknowledge of how it will play out. The characters on the screen, they believe that their existence is solidified on that screens, that it begins and ends there. This is the illusion.

This is also relative to the recent scientific discoveries that we are existing within a dimensional ‘membrane’ a ‘flat’ surface which is actually acting as a projection screen for higher-dimensional information.

The nature of the lesson is to comprehend the true reality of the process and to cultivate the awareness of the original state, the true self, that exists outside the projected realm and is actively guiding reality as we experience it. This is the larger self, the true self. This is the “teacher” who writes on the slides, or the producer of the movie on the reel. We are that identity.

On this screen, there are many characters who simply accept that the projected realm is the limitation of the universe and their experience. As a result then, the screenplay of each scene will be influenced by external stimuli and ‘props’ which are relative to that level of understanding. This is because each scene connects together in a congruent fashion that follows along an underlying ‘storyline’ which equates to a lesson plan for a person’s life.

This ‘storyline’, the lesson plan, that is the soul blueprint. Each slide or scene of the movie reel is filled with information that allows for an expansion or regression of the storyline to an awareness that is closer or farther away from the identity of the teacher who writes and changes each slide.

You could say we see through the eyes of the soul, that information is encoded onto each slide in order to represent an aspect of the self that is then shaded in, drawn, or written carefully and will produce an overall effect on the ‘other side’ of the soul-realm, the projected realm on the screen. Each slide belongs to a folder where the entire lesson plan is contained, or the movie reel is protected within the case and labeled.

Only when the character on that screen comes to know that they are actually the teacher and that their lesson plan is the soul information streaming into this projected reality will they have control over the self and come to witness the true nature of the self. Interacting from the view of the pre-designed character on the screen only strengthens the perception that the projected realm is the actual reality. This leads into many stories, entanglements, and complicated lesson plans which can serve a purpose to fulfill many.

Now we can get to the actual working of the projected information and the light itself. Imagine a person places their hands over the display of the overhead projector. What will they see on the wall? Shadow puppets. How are the shadow puppets defined? They are defined by the absence of the light shining through the area where the hands are and thus they are defined by a contrast of information on the screen. Think it over, where the light information is being blocked out 100%, you get a dark shadow on the screen and this is actually what we perceive as the “object” of the shadow puppet.

So now instead of using one’s hands to block out the light at 100% to create such a contrast. Let’s use something like the colored markers a teacher might use. So then we are blocking out much less of the light information and the various colors allow for shading, contrast, and diversity between the geometries or shapes of information and as we know this can create scenery, people, even movies or cartoons. Be sure though, this information is being projected in the same way as the shadow puppets. Light is blocked out to just an amount to create contrast with the surrounding area and shaded with a specific frequency/color which gives rise to layers of substance within the view. The projection of scenery, objects, or even written language on the wall is actually obtained by blocking out just enough of that light to produce contrast and it is the absence of light information which is being perceived here as an objective reality. This objective reality is actually only perceived due to some of that total amount of light information being blocked out and shaded to various degrees.

What happens if the light is blocked out 100% where there are objects? Then there is a basic, shadow puppet world of duality and 2-dimensionality. What if the light is released 100% Then you simply get a bright wall of light on the projection screen and there is no change, no contrast, no particular individualization of information being projected.

So each and every lesson plan or projected scene is actually obtained by blocking out just enough of that 100% pure light/awareness in order to create a reality which is some degree from 1% to 99.99% of what it actually is. This is the projected illusion. We can only ever reach towards 99.99% because reaching 100% would instantly light the entire screen up and the lesson plan would be over!

So now, to extrapolate what has now become an allegory, what happens throughout the course of “time” in the room, versus the projection? At the end of the day what does the teacher do? The teacher turns off the device removing the electrical/spiritual supply to power the projection through the slides/soul blueprint. The screen goes dark and the teacher will often roll the screen up into an “alternate” dimension for storage and this is where and when there is no longer any light, any possibility of movement or change.

What would happen to a “character” identity that would fully believe they are the character on the screen? One could say they would remain rolled up in an awkward, substance-less dimension without the variability for change or escape and that they would have to wait their until the teacher returned in the morning with a new lesson plan.

One question is, would that identity, character still exist to recognize the new lesson plan in the morning? Would the same lesson plan be repeated so they may reorganize and synchronize their awareness/identity with that of the true nature? Or would they not at all be left on the screen, quickly coming to understand their true role as the teacher or the information on the slides without having actualized this awareness while in the world of the projected experience directly?

Be assured that the teacher will remove all slides or the movie reel and this soul information will be stored away in a library of sorts where it will remain safely “outside” of the time or space of the projected realm. This is “eternal” information, yet it is dependent on the identity of the individual and whether they come to know the true self as the teacher writing the soul blueprint information into lesson plan lives of a projected experience in this reality.

Related to this as a continuation is the concept of a holographic disc. If a holographic disc is broken into many pieces and light is shined through it onto a wall then many little complete images of the holographic information will be displayed. This realm is akin to the surface membrane of such a holographic disc where everything that is projected into a seemingly 3.5 dimensional surface is actually all contained within the surface of the holographic ‘sheet’, disc, or slides.

This also then goes to relate to the holographic generation of the personality as a result of the combination of all aspects of the brain and the energy system into one congruent identity. This identity is not contained in location of the brain or another, it is contained in a collection of all parts and as a result this personality is actually a holographic representation. As long as enough material is there to form cognition, then that personality will shine through similar to a holographic disc being broken and still retaining the complete image of the whole. Sure, there can be distortions and scratches on the surface but the information is still contained.

Forgiving the Abuser and the Scapegoat

The idea behind this is that if some of the people on this planet are being manipulated, then forgiveness is going to play a major role in restoring the consciousness to a balanced frequency.

With the magnitude of influence this time has on the rest of this civilization, allowing the lower frequencies to play out with our conscious or unconscious participation will bring a far greater response in one direction or the other.

People don’t know this is the power of mind and the flow of the collective unconscious generating changes in reality. This is used against people so they support, or have the perception of finding reason to support, the kind of behavior that artificially engages the population in order to produce a certain response. When one thinks they have found a reason to get involved, that is the paradigm system playing itself out. This participation goes to the next level when common citizens are shown on the media as an example of the way people feel.

So this kind of response is not even warranted by people in the first place, it is that they assume the role of the reactionary stance depending on the depth and angle of each piece of information as it’s presented.

To disable the self-destructive cycle we have to make a conscious effort to forgive the influence of these energies in your life and realize that whichever energy you are feeling reason to isolate and deliver blame, is actually the scapegoat for another scapegoat.

Another way to say this is that the only way to heal in the face of frequency wars that are ongoing is to increase one’s frequency. The only way one can do this is by wholly embodying clear mindedness, emotional intelligence, and a balance between the various components of the self which work to generate the overall ‘tone’ or perception of awareness.

Consciousness is not awareness, consciousness can be very active while a person's awareness is asleep. Awareness is the wakefulness or lucidity that is associated with the presence of the self even when the conscious mind seems to have no bearing on the situation. Note how in dreams you may have the consciousness of a person that is just like you, but lives in a strange world or another version of the life you live now. When you are in this dream do you think, "Wow, I'm so different." Or do you naturally go along with it, feeling right like yourself and possibly better or worse, and accepting that alternate reality? So your awareness is there in the same format, but consciousness is switched about and reflected through to various impressions of existences which we call life. The fluidity through which consciousness harbors true awareness is the difference in each version as the emotional, mental, and physical variables will always be changing or never the same twice.

So to heal the influence and effect of such conscious mind control, mind manipulation techniques, we have to increase frequency and to do this we would not be led down a self-destructive path which clearly shows that we do not have control over how our own 'self' energy is spent in life.

Most people do not have conscious control, but to remain aware of the process with the intention of finding the true self we can bring to the surface areas where there are contraindications with the belief system of the consciousness and the underlying mental and emotional bodies which can become distorted in various situations.

In yet another way, healing the bodies mental and emotional electromagnetic fields is related to healing the mental and emotional fields of the collective unconscious. When this is strengthened there will no vulnerability to the problems that have been plaguing people in this era. Getting past this vulnerability without first coming to observe and guide our own internal processes and psyche would only result in the same pattern being formed again.

What can be learned is neutrality or a calm center. When people react with anger, it is often overblown and misguided resulting in no long-term change. When people try to be calm and peacefully produce change, they usually just end up being ignored because they can't find the right channels to voice their intent. Knowing that what happens in life is usually the neutrality zone between two complete extremes, we can expect that a short fix won't last or have any results at this point.

This is the understanding of the true importance of what is taking place and what people are shown. What they are shown is the show that is in front of the real events taking place. They are also, subsequently geared towards inducing a specific overblown response to create the initiative of personal drama. This replaces the cosmic drama and is a reflection of it.

It is actually a reflection of the cosmic drama that we see in ancient myth, and these people are simply presented to individuals and this incurs a kind of genetic memory emotional or automatic response of the archetypal energies involved.

Knowing the power in this, as well as the power is detaching from manipulation is the key, while seeing it for face value and allowing it to induce the desired response only furthers the entanglement of their power over the collective unconscious mind.

Technology has a certain place within this society, and this is to enhance the natural capabilities a person has and introduce new and more efficient ways of experiencing the truth of reality whether it be through understanding biology or the theoretical notions regarding spaces and times that are not yet seen. Is a civilization a group people undergoing the process of becoming civilized? Is this not what we are seeing through the charades and technological influence on our existence?

The question is, does 'civilized' indicate a state akin to an animal that has been domesticated or a person who has received insights regarding their cosmic existence.

Nothing is As It Seems, When People Want to Help The World, They Will Be United

As much as you may feel that everything here is done against your interests, the events that have been taking place are actually to produce a viable outcome for the majority, rather than just one group of people.

With the current 'scapegoat' based power-structure in the West, people tend to only want power for themselves and their "nation" (which is not theirs, or does not exist in the way they believe it does). Yet for every pleasure the West has, the East is suffering because of the format in which the west gains that superficial pleasure.

If the citizens themselves would unite, TO HELP the WHOLE world, rather than just themselves, then we would watch this system evolve into something more balanced.

If people fight for the cause of helping themselves, then the hoops that they have to jump through are actually keeping a balance for the whole world.

This seems counter-intuitive but that is because on a superficial level everyone wants peace through the acquisition of peace and pleasure FOR THEMSELVES.

This is not true peace. If people want peace, they would want to help the world. IF people want to help the world, then they would do it, they would not rely on someone else's promises of hope in order to satiate that lust. It's a kind of sensory related illusion due to the lack of connection as one people to fall into that program.

That's the whole idea though, if the people as a whole can wake up to the program, then they will simply create what they want to see instead of basically taking the easy route and 'cheating' by attempting to have it done for them by putting all of their energy into others who promise to do it for them.

Think about it, that is the cosmic version of attempting to look for the remote control for days instead of just getting up and turning the dial manually.

It's a game to rely on others and leads to an eventually disappointment from the lack of truly original and personal results. This is a personal world under the guise of a collective realm and so we must strive for personal change and realize this is the highest duty we have rather than giving power to others who would then change the world for us.

These are the charades and if we allow the charades to go on so long that it brings harm to the world, and yet the people supported it and without their support it could go no where, then the blame must be accepted by the people as a whole. That is the only way to solve this, the only way to root out the distortion at the source, in the collective psyche.

If it is healed at that level, then it is healed forever. If another, more pleasant illusion is maintained, then that problem still exists and will rise to the surface again.

To hate the system is to miss the point, simply retain your energy and will-power and truly apply it towards helping others and helping to clear the collective psyche. That will result in actual change while the former simply places one into a revolving wheel of reactions and responses to predetermined scenarios.

Agree To Disagree

Sometimes it is best to agree to disagree regarding certain topics.

Often it's best to not argue about topics that have to do with a person's subjective perspective. One cannot force one to take their subjective perspective unless they are taking them from a higher level to a lower level. Even then, the person must accept and continually poke their attention into such frequencies in order to generate an entanglement through coercion.

Intuition guides an individual through their subjective experience. Intuition cannot be passed to another person like a set of instructions. As a result, if one speaks on something that known from subjective experiences to be true, and others have not had these experiences, then there is nothing that can be said that will truly instill that knowledge in the other.

As a result, a big issue will come up with people who will engage with one another on the internet where there is a blanket of anonymity and many people will voice their opinions in ways that they would not in person and people try to convince one another of subjective, internal truths. This is impossible.

It is often best to disagree when speaking on subjective experiences or intuition. One must accept the challenge of thinking freely and have an open mind in order to begin to see out of their comfort zone. In such situations, it's best to only speak in a non-emotionally engaged and personal manner. At best, an individual in the know can only produce a nudge and a hint that points the direction to more information which will hopefully lead to knowledge.

This is how consciousness tends to work and it is righteous this way because people have every right to choose to remain ignorant or to choose to accept more information. No one is forced, if people use their intellectual and emotional ability to connect with sources of information and experience around them then they will find very quickly that things are not what they seem.

A book that works to define this well is, "The Extra-Dimensional Universe", by John R. Violette. This book explains the nature of psychic phenomena and how they are innately connected to the energetic presence of the immaterial self. Ideas within speak on how this entire universe in itself is just a single layer of a multi-layered multiverse or omniverse of frequencies. One could describe the multiverse as the entanglement of the various versions of this universe and the omniverse as the entirety of the existence.

Everyone has had those kinds of experiences in life where they come to know the memory of an event before or as it occurs, or they experience a glimpse of the identity of a certain individual they haven't seen in a period of time and then they appear as if a sign. Then there are signs and synchronicities, mind magic and realizations.

This leads into the notion that some people are naturally inclined to have these kinds of spiritual experiences and others either choose not to or do not naturally have access to this.

Then we get to the concept that when people interact with each other they exchange bio-photonic light which enters the energy system of the other person. People share their similarities and where one's energy is heavier and less free than the others it will act to weigh down and restrict the energy that is not restricted. This only occurs if both parties allow it. Yet, here is the kicker. If one attempts to heal or connect with another on a spiritual level and that other person's intentions are superficial in the sense of being honest about their inner experience or they are entirely unaware and ignoring the awareness on that level, then that other person will drain and pull from the less restricted person. This occurs through an acceptance of that original person by attempting to heal or connect with someone who does not truly seek help and will abuse their trust and their connection.

Sometimes the other individual is doing this purposely, in this case it is often referred to as a "spiritual vampire". Other times the person is completely unaware that they have an inner experience (or maybe even they don't) and they will not have access to opening up and communicating on that meaningful level. Objective reality will guide every whim and notion of reality for these people and if it hasn't first been explained and confirmed to them by someone in a position of perpetual authority then they won't be able to comprehend it. Do not get angry, there are some people who actually lack the ability to be able to make the comprehension on their own directly. Through a negative reinforcement that is challenged, and this is the degradation we see in society today. Yet, if they choose to accept the superficial nature of their acceptance to an authority outside themselves for too long without connecting, then they lose that ability to connect and it becomes like a foreign awareness to them. This is not a laughing matter any more than individuals being attacked and burned at the state for trying to help others.

We have to ask ourselves is the energy required for the experience is worth the results for either party.

Ultimately. There is larger issue. There is what has been described as a spiritual virus connected to the vampirism issue.

The idea behind this is that it is treated as a biological virus that operates through very refined energy waves, relating to the natural bio-emissions and that it can harbor in these electromagnetic fields as well as artificially produced electromagnetic fields from certain plasma generating devices. This works like a biological virus so when an individual who has a level of heart connection to the mind that is a clear pathway to the world and they are interacting with others in the digital or physical world who do not have that connection then any energy given from that heart level will not be returned. This is like a black-hole of energy absorption and a keen vampire will have studied this process so much that they will be able to trick and reel in even the most suspicious of heart-aware individuals.

This is the spiritual virus that is talked about by those in the know, even for thousands of years. When a person spends time with other individuals who do not give respect to their inner self, the immaterial sense of energy and interconnectedness, and that individual accepts a connection because of a sincere desire to help, that is the invitation the vampire needs. Without that, any direct attempts to pull energy would become more and more noticeable until the individual would be exposed as a sociopath.

This is how people in this society can be participating in this without even realizing. The majority of the social activities, social norms, institutionalized ideologies, and the general routine of this society is through one or another form of vampirism. Whether it is over another person, a friend, an intimate partner, a family member, an employee, a subject, a child, or a peer, most of what people are led to believe is normal is actually a form of degraded energy manipulation which slides right under the radar under the guise of being popular. This can even be over animals, nature, the environment itself, or even the concepts of our ancestors and the respect that could be given around but is lacking. This is spiritually degrading and this is referenced in many ancient texts, some of which are being used as a psychological playbook.

So the conclusion here is that vampirism doesn't work unless we accept it and by attempting to repeatedly heal or communicate on a personal level with those who do not respect that or maintain an awareness of their own will actually cause a drop in frequency which results in distortions which is considered a kind of energy sickness.

Note: This doesn't mean that we do not have to help others, try to get to know, or communicate with those around us even if they are like this. This means that trying to communicate and interact on a level that we are comfortable with knowing what we know will only result in wasted energy and an increase in vulnerability via the individual who has access to the helpers energy field and may knowingly or unknowingly implant distortions and vampire the bio-photonic light emissions.

What one can do instead of completely separating, if there is someone close or that they are forced to be around for a time, is to learn how to maintain a low level of interaction without disconnecting or 'flatlining' the connection but without engaging in any form of spiritual energy interaction on the level that the challenging individual seeks to communicate on. We don't have to go so high that we heartfully open up to danger, but we don't have to go so low that we begin to the process for ourselves and close off from others in life, later on as a result, which is the eventual result of vampirism infecting someone's life through one individual.

Instead we can use each experience as a challenge to refuse to connect on that level. There is no use trying to "toughen" up to those kinds of frequencies through repeatedly interacting with them from a sincere manner. There is no sincerity or honesty in those frequencies, there is nothing there for someone who has already passed through that boundary of the temptation of self-destruction that the distortions in this society represent.

This has been explained as a kind of experiment where all of the distortions have been "rolled back" in time to this society so that they may be dealt with here, once and for all. Once people get passed this aspect, then they no longer have to interact on that level and can devote their energies and focus to communicating in an intellectually viable and emotionally healthy way. That is what is starting to happen now with all the various texts, shows, blogs and websites that are coming out. You can see a hefty amount of disclosure, disinfo, inner knowledge as well as manufactured ideologies based on an over-blowing of the real issues whether to produce docility or rage.

The truth is somewhere in the calm center without the extremism and so we can find solace in knowing that those who interact in this manner can be helped with information, facts, and bare-bones communication on the issue while some will respond to the heartfelt acknowledgements and expressions of a more spiritual nature. These individuals are already on their path and are sure to reach fulfillment someday as that is the only result of a person who is born and sees the spiritual side of things.

Those who either choose not to or are born without access to those frequencies will either remain that way or will require a kind of catastrophic shock to wake them up to sincerely checking their own free-will, their own inner experience, and the energy flow of their bio-photon light emissions.

That is part of what this is all about, extending from previous times where civilizations came and fell. If we can observe the calm center throughout this then we will see the world that flourishes when the two ends of the duality cancel each other out and reveal harmony.

Part of the sacred knowledge and the sacred process is being able to experience and fully expel such disharmonious energies and thought-emissions in ways that produce a spiritual progression without threatening the safety of the physical body, the physical world, or the infrastructure for progress. The extremes can be merged together in mind and body through a great display of what would seem like a dream or a magicians trick that unveils the inner psychology and the phantoms of blind belief and false paradigms as stepping stools towards cosmic awareness and true spiritual connection with each other.

Sphere of Amenti, 500 Million years

This has to be explained to comprehend or one has to access internal/activate genetic memory in order to remember. This has to be explained to comprehend or one has to access internal/activate genetic memory in order to remember.

There is one explanation that the “old worlds” are literally the ancient continents where life traveled to one after another (some closer together than others) and that each change was preceded by some kind of civilization wide shift whether it was a disaster or a shift in consciousness. There is one explanation that the “old worlds” are literally the ancient continents where life traveled to one after another (some closer together than others) and that each change was preceded by some kind of civilization wide shift whether it was a disaster or a shift in consciousness.

Up to this point the explanations usually follow that each civilization degraded and went further into disarray and disconnect with the internal knowledge or the connection with the spiritual realm. This is simply the energetic self, the bio-emissions of the body which is not actually generated by the body but harbored there and this is the energetic field of Earth as well. These changes took place and humans were still on the planet in some way or another. Each change took out abilities and layers of awareness similar to how when falling asleep the senses fall away one by one starting with taste, smell and sound, and ending with the proprioception of the physical body and then the psychic sense. It is as if the species fell asleep over a long period of time in terms of genetic activation and awareness of the immaterial self which is the actual guide of all experience. An extension of this explanation that I received throughout my involvement with the secret projects, the breakaway civilization is that the sphere was designed to hold the souls of the beings involved during this great transformative yet degrading drop in consciousness and that all will be returned when an applicable level of awareness has been reached once again. An extension of this explanation that I received throughout my involvement with the secret projects, the breakaway civilization is that the sphere was designed to hold the souls of the beings involved during this great transformative yet degrading drop in consciousness and that all will be returned when an applicable level of awareness has been reached once again.

The full explanation is much more complicated and operates through interdimensional simultaneously occurring creationary events which synchronize or mirror the effects and changes that occur on the physical plane.

These findings were discovered through the use of advanced technology which activates one's consciousness on a genetic level or a soul level and allows the information to be streamed forth and organized into a perceptual storyline.

Devices have recorded these changes and as well some devices were used to manipulate and further the degradation process, to make use of it and profit off of the lack of awareness of others. That's the idea right? Since we were going into a fall at the time, the idea was to assist in dropping the frequencies so as to quickly get that process over with.

The situation on Earth is said to be due to a group effort in a combination of DNA which would produce a spiritual human being well enough to combat the 'spiritual darkness' of these spiritually dark ages and once again begin to uplift the planetary energies back towards a progressive trend in the cultivation of inner knowledge or a refined connection on the bio-photon level of the aura, Earth, and the celestial bodies.

Tara is said to be the 2nd Harmonic Earth of which the first three are easily defined. The 1st being Earth or Terra, the second being Tara, and the third being Gaia. This whole process is explained as a fall from Gaia to Tara and then currently Terra. On Tara there was said to be the ancient civilizations where many civilizations collapsed and "higher beings" "fell" from a high spiritual plane or simply a refined way of processing energy and genetic activation which reduced the vulnerabilities and distortions that are present today.

We would like to believe that we have sickness and pain because that is existence here, but that is the physical plane of Terra where everything is much more drastic and densely defined, the experiences are more extreme. This is the only place one could have such a physically anchored experience where the body can be perceived as directly separated from the mind and the rest of reality.

From the perspective of this previous explanation the introduction of "sin" or disease, or simply disharmony in between the bio-emissions and the molecular biology of the body, is present because of distortions that were introduced in that fall.

From our point of view this was a way of evolution and existence, from the explanation of these higher beings comes the explanation that these distortions were introduced into our genetics and our minds through repeated traumatization and experimentation on a civilization-wide scale. These are some of the described events relating to the “fall of man” and the spiritual corruption starting from a higher plane and extending to Earth.

In order to salvage the souls of those present on Tara, a society was developed that would act as a gateway for those souls to experience the physical trials and errors and “phase-shift” right along with this physical realm into the higher realms as this realm completes its shift.

Whether this works or not is up to the human population and whether they can be actively inspired and guided to resist the temptation of spiritual darkness, aggression and disharmony, the real “beast” of the unconscious mind and the ego in the flesh.

As a result of the uncertainty, the Sphere of Amenti was set up to act as a time-locked barrier between the blood of those on Earth and the planes beyond. In order to leave this place through an ascension to higher realms, the beings present on Terra must pass through the Sphere of Amenti and regain their soul-blueprint which contains hundreds of millions of years of experience throughout this realm.

In order for Earth to be ‘wrapped up’ back into the higher realm from a conscious perspective, everyone of the souls on Earth must merge back with the original soul-blueprints that started this experiment and regain the experience that they have been disconnected from while integrating all the darkness that was experienced here for the healing process. The sphere would then no longer be needed and in correlation this will most likely happen when the spiritual, control system which is comprised of technological energy devices that reside in various planes and locations as well as ‘natural’ solar ebbs and flows, is disabled and thus there is no longer a threat to the area.

In a similar but opposing light, they may remain active until those who are feeding the devices regain their sense of awareness through the assistance of all who observing or participating at this time and thus the machines lose power as a direct result and this realm can be merged with the ‘previous’ layer into time.

Another explanation here which I mentioned in the second interview with LNM radio on Advanced Technology, is that there are 7 or more universal harmonics, each containing its own “Earth”, it’s own civilization, it’s own “time continuum” and so on.

In the secret projects, or what is actually just a certain department, there are access codes, waypoints, teleportation/wormhole locations and roster/ranks that are given access to different harmonic levels. In order to gain access to one harmonic level above this one, one must be able to move through the distortion fields separating them without being rendered spiritually asleep by the disharmony. When one is no longer vulnerable, they can actually pass from one dimension or what could be inaccurately be referred to as a universe, to another, and this is exactly what has been happening for a long time.

This is also why there is such care regarding these experiences and the sharing of information as well as a two-part agenda to help the population as well as use the technology to introduce even more degradation. Such technology would include genetic manipulation, mind control, artificial or natural wormholes and much more. There are plans that would be to merge the lower dimension with this one in order to allow the lost souls to inhabit the human bodies.

The “arc” is related, the 1000 years or “psychic” or energy war is related and the information coming out now is directly connected to all of this. The “antiparticle” Earth was found through advanced computer systems which operated in parallel dimensions of suspended space/time and allowed for connections with consciousness that was considered discarnate from the point of view of this realm. There is also an explanation that they were physical, but would only appear physical to us when the two realms merged and the veil thinned.

This was proposed to happen around 2012, and I assure you, the Earth was moved, possibly relocated, and most definitely recalibrated on a temporal and energetic spectrum through the use of advanced spiritual knowledge and spiritual technology.

P.S. Clarification: Per the explanations given to myself and others, only the first 3 layers are involved in this “fall”. “The Unveiling of the Hidden Knowledge” is the resolution of the veils. It was shown and explained, possibly through disinformation inducing mind machine interfaces/simulated experiences, that the sphere contains the connection of each soul’s beings existence beyond the “time-barrier” that is separating this civilization from the other layers, similar to the psychology behind a traumatic event in a person, yet also related to an actual energetic/cosmological alignment or misalignment. When this alignment is resolved the perception of time shifts into another phase of interaction and the biological processes of a human must also undergo a radical shift and this is related to the unveiling of the DNA/RNA or the latent genetic signature which actively entangle information with a “hyperspatial” perspective. The activation of a tachyon field generation capability is related to this mental “time” access expansion that people have forgotten.

Integrating Duality: Respecting Each Other’s Differences and Similarities As Insight Into The Universe

The most important aspect of disclosure is respecting each other. Those in our lives who trash violently against new information to the degree where it shocks us out of our comfort zone is simultaneously a lesson for both people. These individuals are teaching us how to handle the friction between two opposing internal experiences and how to respect one another.

Respect is truly an aspect of the awakened individual who sees their inherent similarity and connection to all those around them whether the people are largely different or largely similar.

This is an energetic notion, not so much physical. The physical is just a representation of those energetic differences of the mind.

Each successive layer of mind and genetics fits over one another and together, they collectively comprise the universe itself.

You can’t have one without the other, the higher without the lower and so it is that very contrast that seems to create the differences which is actually each of us expressing our capacity to work in unison for a larger system that coordinates all life.

The system of contrast can be very high and everything is polarized dual to the point of a shadow and light kind of existence. Or the contrast can be merged and managed in system of integration where the information can flow freely from one end to the other allowing perceptions to expand beyond the current model of extremes and duality and generate another, larger system which both predates and supersedes the temporal and mental confines of the current.

Some people are already making this shift and others are just coming into acknowledgement that there is something 'missing' in their lives. This 'missing' element is not an object but an experience of integration of their dual nature which drives us into seeing separation rather than similarity and congruence.

Without the harsh experience of communicating with others who do not share your beliefs and for them as well, there would be no comprehension of how complex our internal and external configurations can be allowing for entirely different experiences.

Which one is the 'correct' experience? Which is which? They are more reflections of each other than they are entirely different essences from entirely different worlds. If it can be experienced, it is part of one overarching world called the universe where all can exist.

Seeing what we lack in each experience is the key to improving ourselves. Thus, some people find it helpful to define their current imperfections by knowingly putting themselves in situations that will test their will-power, creativity and focus. This is part of an eternal process that each civilization partakes in merely by existing in the first place.

Each cycle of the process unveils new comprehension of the self. These cycles occur in rhythmic "processions" of bringing the internal to the physical world and seeing life in a new way each time. When we are in a cycle of high rhythmic integration, we experience a collusion and synchronization of similarities and this empowers the whole.

When we are in cycles of low rhythmic integration we experience a collusion of disorder and this empowers the individual to find themselves and their role in that larger system.

The Fringe Begins – Lucifer Rebellion, Atlantis, Artificial Time Autopoiesis

The goal is to unlock our genetic memory, release trauma, and gain access to the knowledge that we have been here before, throughout many cycles of experience and growth or expansion.

This is the far end of the "fringe". These are the explanations that I try to convert into more technically applicable ideas for those who do not yet see the larger picture of the energetic consciousness construct that is the universe.

Most of the information on this site is the far end of the explanations that were given. There are conservative explanations that people are given and the more one continues looking for the truth, the more and more dramatic and outlandish the explanations become until one is uncovering one plan after another to subvert the human race and literally convert this civilization into a mind and soul prison system where the energy of emotions and consciousness is used to feed inorganic devices and "foreign" or sub-primary timeline races of beings. Meaning these are races that exist in timelines only when they operate through a hyperspacial bridge to interact with a previous species and insert themselves through some kind of distortion of the original civilization.

This is part of what I've been trying to explain to everyone, in more or less terms and it comes down to the way the control systems interact with the energy of the mind and body and how the planetary body or life force contains its own auric or energetic field of consciousness and how this is literally accessed directly through advanced technology.

I am wary of sharing information that talks about "savior" races, yet the experience of the 'higher self' essentially fits into the concept. The strange part is that the 'lower/negative entity' explanation is basically a genetically or spiritually degraded 'lower self' or simply a quantum potential that only exists through the previously described creationary/eschatological paradox of autopoiesis through technologically introduced manipulation of a younger race.

How we actually come into existence is the big paradox, regardless of the spiritual degradation or refinement. Even with the lowest possible outcomes of a forced and restricted existence, the barrier between the time fields are bridged and we get what this writer calls "phantom timelines" or what I call artificial timelines.

So if this is what happens when the energy degrades, then it is most likely possible that when the general trend is towards a positive resolve the same kind of paradoxical time-bridging possibilities can occur yet with a version of ourselves or a more advanced race that is capable of assisting people in the process of clearing the genetic traumatization that relates to the fall of man, the etheric implants that I have described in interviews and posts, and the mind-soul controlling aspects of what has been called the "9 veils". All of this relates to a larger view of the universe and a much more complex understanding of the human being as a complex of physical biology, subtle or refined conscious energies and pure awareness.

The Lucifer Rebellion

This was explained as relating to "Atlantis" and the fall of man. This writer does a good job of explaining and from my briefings I recognize the format and how this individual was introduced in order to assist in the unveiling process.

Whether this will result in the "1000" years of peace, I do not know. I do not that artificial timelines are collapsing as well as on the verge of solidifying and permanently damaging the psyche of this species, genetically, which would influence all of creation. I know this information can act as an 'anchor' point for these events to play out, but what we see happening now is a kind of energetic vampiring of the human species and so this can be explained by certain information which describes how this occurs with the energy bodies and the mind control technology.

One can put the puzzle pieces together and get a larger picture of what's happening by seeing that people are not complaining about a 'system' that is political or social in nature, it is a mind construct that has been artificially inserted into this realm through implants and energetic weaponry that targets the spiritual energy of the human being as well as the living planetary sphere, the morphogenic or 'soul field' of Earth.

The way it was shown and described through operations was that Earth cycles through the various timelines and at one or more layers there is a 'revival' timeline where this kind of AI/foreign intelligence overlay was overcome by organic, spiritual expansion and that this is the timeline that we merge with in order to resolve the situation.

I must reveal that there are teams who have been assisting and protecting humanity in all of this and that people still must clear their energy and their consciousness of these parasites but that there is a timeline where humanity has overcome these issues, as well as one where none of this ever happened and they have the most healing capacity but not the highest ability to directly connect to and interact with the civilization here. There will be much disinformation and ‘pretending’ to be the ones who we are waiting for and so it is often said that “we are the one’s we’ve been waiting for”, that way the savior programs do not work through the vulnerabilities and insecurities of individuals looking for someone else to do the work for them.

It is, however, as simple as making the choice to begin healing and uplifting energies and seeing this existence as a kind of universal or even cosmic journey to know the self and the universe.

Note: If I didn’t have personal, direct experience with this information, I would not be sharing it.

This may help others integrate the “far end” of the spectrum of the explanations of events through frequencies of consciousness, energy transformations and complexes, healing and genetic activation, into the physical plane, daily life and what is going on ‘down here’ in what we have been led to believe is the “physical human perspective” but is actually multiple layers of wool pulled over the spiritual eyes.

I know this will confuse some and possibly be at odds with physical interactions, secret projects, space programs, or other topics but this kind of information is part of the spiritual counterparts to the events that we see playing out on the physical plane.

This also leads into the concepts that the physical plane is a kind of projection in time and that the pure energy awareness where everything is actually being experienced has no location but a band of frequencies in hyperspace or simply even “higher space”.

This is the same as saying the consciousness we hold is not in the body, but existing in and around the body as electromagnetic light or etheric plasma fields. We think we are the body, we are in a way plugged into the body.

It is the same with the universe, we think we are the physical plane but that is just one aspect of existence which is actually motivated by higher dimensional fields or pure awareness.

DNA Operates Via Scalar and Magnetic Waves

This is literally a form of disclosure. DNA emits light and this is light is the information energy which shapes the expression of life.

The energy from DNA is literally transdimensional and operates through a gradient of time and space reducing down in dimension until we gain the perception of consciousness in the physical realm as if from an antenna and receiver system.

The Illusion of Time, Consciousness, and Death

Whenever a perception moves out of the stream of consciousness, that is truly what we consider “death”. When a person’s life moves to a new time-stream, that is truly a ‘transition’.

Everything is a metaphor. That which we consider one concept, is actually intrinsically connected to every other concept. When we have one concept, there is a specific set of variables which define it. When these variables are isolated, we see that they only exist in reference to other variables. When a larger grouping of concepts and variables are united, we see that each singular concept is really similar information represented in different ways at different times. All the various perspectives are neither the true representation of the idea, nor are they wholly their own ideas. They are all equally a referential reflection of some underlying congruence which neither fully embodies or uniquely outlines. This is the 360 degree understanding of comprehension which never fully conceives what is being comprehended.

In this way, each idea or set of variables is actually a reflection of the notions held in other variables and all of them together only point inward towards a central point of knowledge which none can fully explain singularly. So each idea is only a reflection and reference to the other which are all only capable of generating a proximal view, as if a circle, around some central truth.

What people call physical death is more closely related to a set of variables in one’s mind that overtime degrade to the point of missing a required referential balance of reflecting concepts. As a result of these missing data points of the mind, a whole new “chapter” of a stream of consciousness must be born in order to progress the ‘storyline’. There is no stopping the storyline, only an eventual recurrence or novel generation of that which is required to move forward.

This could be compared to the round face of a clock. “Time” for the clock, never ends! There is only a continuing circle of motion around a proximal center and so there is no “end” unless this indicates the internal gears of the clock breaking. This would relate to some missing “feature” of ideas, components of the self, inspiration, balance, or congruence in mind/consciousness which is required for each second to pass. If one tooth on those gears breaks then there will most likely be a distortion of the sequence of time, seconds, or “moments” (in mind) which will eventually result in the time being read by the clock moving out of sync with the larger objective reality of all the other clocks. Eventually the second hand may break and stop and as a result a whole new clock will result. With this new clock there is a new ‘chapter’ of a person’s life that is born, with or without their knowledge that this is an entirely new clock, stream of consciousness, timestream, or universe.

It is as if someone has an infinite number of clocks in their attic and this is why the clock can always continue in one form or another.

Another way to make sense of this is to consider that the clocks are not clocks at all. In the same way the concepts themselves are simply metaphors for an underlying truth being constantly represented in a simultaneity of different ways, each clock/time-stream is actually just a generation of mind that can evolve and replicate in a variety of ways. Each clock is a hologram which is not an actual object, it is the perception of an object that results in an intersection of varying degrees of light or information energy which creates the illusion of a solid object. That is why each clock can be replaced and can continue indefinitely into new chapters or entirely new time-streams. They are not solid objects and so they cannot be destroyed. What this also means is that they are also not actually occurring as a solid, physical and objective reality.

The data-stream, consciousness stream, or time stream that we call “life” is actually a holographic representation of underlying information that is expressed metaphorically in a variety of different ways. It is the same data, in different times and situations, being expressed variously. If there ever was a “final” and complete expression of the overall data, then that would mean the clock has either broken, or actually reached the end of the projected time-stream which is holographic and cyclic/circular per a clock face in actuality. So there is no possible “completion” of experience or knowledge without doing so by simply breaking a gear within the clock and grinding the occurrence of time to a halt. In doing so, one is merely forcefully removing some missing element of information so that a partial view can be accepted as a whole one. This is so because as soon as the complete stream of information is reached for that particular time and space, this opens up a conceptual doorway where more information is reflected through, more representations of the same information are generated and as a result time and experiences continues to expand again. There is no way to reach the “end” without circumventing the process of continuing experience as a fractal-graphic expansion of information through metaphoric expression and translation.

This continuation of information is reflected in each moment through a gradient of frequencies and vibratory spectrums and over all as a never-ending conscious experience through “infinite regress”.

On The Coming Events –

Preface: I am just a person with ideas, I have had experiences and been shown things by those who have the power and knowledge to see beyond the limited scope that most have.

I often get so discouraged going back and re-reading my posts after a few days or hours. Who do I think I am? I'm just someone who has had experiences and there are literally thousands of people who have also had experiences. Everyone has seen something. I want to make that clear, it would be inaccurate to say represent myself as something I'm not, anything other than a person who has had experiences that has given him insights. Thank you for reading, have a look, maybe you'll see something you like. I enjoy discussing philosophy, psychology, theoretical concepts, thought-experiments, and a lot of other subjects.

I was informed how the public would be given the required hints and cues to wake up. It's just that simple. You are watching the exposure of the mainstream media.

How is the exposure of the mainstream media related to the "reality" of the situation? The mainstream media is controlled and operated by a few powerful groups.

Is that news? Is that reasonable? No more than if you wanted all of the money in the world controlled by a single group who decides who suffers and who lives easily based on cronyism alone rather than some kind of deeper spiritual process.

Is news "news" if it is selected information that is ALWAYS stripped of anything relevant to that which would inform people of the truth? What is it then?

So what does it mean if this situation is fueled by ignorance and distortion of the truth?

What does this indicate beyond this or how this is related to the larger picture?

What does the media have to do with the authoritative process regarding this society and the power-structure?

Could it be that the apocalyptic disclosure, a part of the 'unveiling' (phase 1 to be specific <http://theunveilingofthehiddenknowledge.wordpress.com/>) is simply that hundreds of millions of people will suddenly have to accept that their entire foundation of 'civility' and 'security' is shown to be a lie based on false premises that were pulled over their ancestor's eyes hundreds of years ago?

Would that be enough to "pop" the minds of many and cause a cathartic process of acknowledging the deception, the suffering, the manipulation, the mental and emotional pain that has been caused? Would it be enough to find out it was all because people were too caught up in their own affairs to realize they are going to wake up finding themselves in a house of mirrors and horrors?

Who's responsible for who? People are responsible for themselves. If people want to blame others, then they are claiming that they are not responsible for their own attention and focus and thus welcoming a deeper measure of control and they will receive it through willful ignorance leading to a lack of personal power or the.

Here's the kicker.

Click read more to read the rest. Just like if some from the "light" factions choose to present themselves to “save” humanity, well what then stops the “dark” faction from going and unleashing all out hell? That is per the non-interference agreement as well as common sense. If people do not know there are secret space factions of the military with advanced technology and knowledge, then they do not know there are dark factions as well. If the light factions go overt, then so do the dark factions. Which option is safer? Jumping the gun, or waiting for the right moment?

When is the right moment? When people can handle the information and the knowledge it leads to.

What’s stopping people from being capable? Are they not already capable. Yes (I have to answer my own questions because no one will ask them!), people are capable. They are given a life plan that perfectly matches what they desire.

The issue is what has to happen for people to learn that nothing is as it seems? How will their psychology be affected by discovering the corruption, and then the deep knowledge that has been around for millenia and just so happens to be known by all those in power?

There is a gradient, a spectrum of response. People will initially reject and react to the truth as if it is the most dangerous information to their existence. That is because they are wrapped up in a false-persona which is generated via the introduction of little false-beliefs one at a time until a completely false-belief system is generated.

Then, to defend this false-belief system, people generate a false sense of self to fit right in. It is this false sense of self, this imbalanced ego which serves to defend the illusion, to convince people that it’s ok just because everyone else is doing it. This is NOT THE SELF. This is the ILLUSION.

This ILLUSION is what POWERS the CHARADES. The false PERSONA which is developed from the introduction of DISTORTED PERCEPTIONS is CONSTRUCTED carefully over hundreds and thousands of years. The end result is the PRODUCTION of an IDENTITY that is MANUFACTURED by those who are manipulating the psychology of the people through reinforced distorted perceptions.

As soon as people agree to partake in actions that harm the SELF, which is ALSO the WHOLE of the universe, then people will generate excuses that belong to a BELIEF-SYSTEM which then allows the individual to convince themselves that what they are doing is appropriate, even though it is HARMFUL and DISHARMONIC. Say no to evil!

This is the most articulate psychological manipulation by groups who have very very deep knowledge of the human mind or soul.

When these artificial delusions are shattered, people who experience life from the seat of the EGO, then perceive that their world is crashing down around them.

Could you see how others who know the truth would perceive this as their world finally being LIBERATED?

So what happens is there is resistance to what is happening and this is like a psychological process of accepting something that someone does not want to accept. First the ego perceived ego-death whereas there is no longer a viable reference point from which the identity, the self can be comparatively derived.

If the people in power are presenting a false-reality, a show, what does that mean about the individuals who believed it? Is their reality a show? Are they fake? Do they no longer exist or have a place in the universe?

These are all the symptoms of the false-belief system connected to the false-persona that people generated to convince themselves that something harmful is acceptable for reasons that do not change the premise! It's a form of collective psychosis!

So this must be healed. People will resist and reject however those who have sought the truth will know what is happening and be able to understand that it was NEVER REAL. There is TOO much knowledge found in secret for the ENTIRE population to be filled in simultaneously. Most people wouldn't understand.

So this is an individual process of self-discovery that people go through and there will be signs and events that encourage a greater degree of self-discovery whether some perceive this as 'good' or some perceive this as 'bad'. Truth is TRUTH.

So this brings us to a moderately deliberated conclusion. People must go through this cathartic process of self-discovery and an unveiling of the darkness or shadow consciousness counterpart of the conscious mind and this is something that influences and activates the whole being.

Why is this the way it is? Because the deeper truth is that NOTHING is as it seems, we are experiencing life through a conscious/unconscious feedback loop where we are simultaneously creating the next moments unconsciously while experiencing them consciously. Humanity is split mind because the unconscious and the conscious are perceived as too separate concepts! They are two sides of the same coin just like this universe is one side of a counterpart! The diversal continuum is WITHIN people! "Out here" we are experiencing what can be described as a biological entrainment with a collective realm that can bend or sway depending on the INTENTION and CREATIVE POWER of the individual and the collective!

Because of this very notion, we can see that what we are experiencing here is akin to a dream! It's not that "NOTHING" is real! That doesn't even make sense! It's that this is just one layer of a multidimensional universe and the physical layer, being fleeting and infinitesimally temporary, can only reflect upon a portion of the whole in each moment! It's inherently half of the equation! The rest must be identified and developed through introspection and psycho-analysis of the self and the universe and this is simultaneously creation and reconnection with what actually exists out there, through what is within us!

The big secret is everyone in the charades is attempting to show you this, albeit through whatever means necessary and some people would like a swift kick in the ass before they accept the truth! Ultimately, everyone is here for the truth otherwise we wouldn't be here at all! It's just about what kind of gradient of rejection and struggling people will force themselves to go through until they comprehend that they can simply let go of the false sense of the self, the illusory persona, the imbalanced ego that first feels fear at the sight of the unknown and then seeks revenge. That is the illusion!

This is the time where people come together and change history for the first time ever by actually generating it from within based on what we know of the self and the way the soul relates to the truth, how awareness relates to reality, and how the conscious mind relates to PERCEPTION. REGARDLESS of what happens, this is what's going to play out because this is the TURNING POINT whether people go one way or the other.

The second kicker is that once some of the truth begins to show, ALL OF IT will be revealed. You can't figure out that a part of the system is based in deception and manipulation without seeing how it connects to every other part!

So once it starts, it won't stop! That's the kicker! People must prepare by looking within, introspecting and determining whether their true self, the eternal awareness is respected by simply reacting or by becoming AWARE of the nature of the lower consciousness as a kind of mind of it's own that can REACT and CHOOSING to contemplate the nature of existence and creatively GENERATING the most beneficial and productive RESPONSE for the whole in any given situation.

This is the same format it has always been, it's just that now the props of this reality, the "stakes" are perceived as that much more rewarding for those who take the initiative! It has always been a journey of the self, a re-discovery of the true nature of being.

To put this in perspective, Phase 3 of what was described to me as "The Unveiling" which has taken place before in other ways (<https://theunveilingofthehiddenknowledge.wordpress.com/>) consists in part of the disclosure of the discoveries relative to the ORIGINS OF THE HUMAN RACE.

People must learn to let go of emotional baggage and CHOOSE HEALING instead of reacting through lower consciousness. This is all planned as part of a process that takes place and ultimately unveils the soul.

Consciousness and Time

The nature of time is inherently linked with consciousness being interfaced through the physical body.

Time is attributed to a linear order of experience according to a mutually shared objective frame of reference. This reference can be a clock on the wall that mechanically portions the day but this is really a reference to the biological rhythms of the physical body and brain. Without the body and brain, there is no perception of time.

Time can be seen as a 'program' which is initiated at the inception of the life of the physical being. Consciousness has the power through the awareness of free-will, or will-power to choose which frequencies are entangled with through the mental, emotional, and physical planes of the individual.

All possible futures and pasts exist simultaneously. All exists simultaneously. We are moving through a perceived stream of events based on the data that the awareness of the individual encompasses through a balance of the material self and the immaterial self.

The immaterial self, or consciousness, has the capacity to operate in more than one realm or outside of the physical plane of being. The physical body can only access the physical plane of reference which is more of a holographic reference point or a 'closed time-like curve' (CTC) which is any given starting point for consciousness to perceive physical existence.

A closed time-like curve works to explain the events of the 'beginning' of the known universe, as well as the transition from the moment you began reading this sentence and the moment a few seconds in the future where you will finish.

When enough data regarding the states of consciousness and matter outside of the physical plane of reference is obtained, information regarding the 'future' or 'past' can be extrapolated and through advanced technology this can be refined to produce specific results.

The main idea here is that the physical human body is a vessel for the immaterial consciousness which is electromagnetic and subtler (possibly dark energy) energy waves.

The consciousness exists in many different planes and possibilities, this physical body only exists in this one as it is a reference point for the reset of the universe to be experienced. The state of the physical body and the consciousness are reflexive. If the physical body is altered, the state of consciousness can be influenced. If the state of consciousness is influenced then the referential physical body and resulting universe can be altered as well. This is the nature of the hidden information regarding states of consciousness and existence that has been protected for thousands of years.

The physical body is like a gear in the clock of the cosmos and so this body is unique to this universe. This consciousness, however, is only unique to this universe when that is the only information that is accessed by the awareness of the individual.

Methods and technologies have been developed which effectively monitor and assist one in expanding their awareness beyond the singular perception of just this physical body and the corresponding universe as a reference point or CTC reference frame.

This is directly related to the secret projects, the discoveries regarding the origins of the human species and the nature of existence.

Time is perception and perception can be altered.

Multi-Dimensional Consciousness Entrainment for the Sustenance of Non-Human Intelligence

This is a multi-dimensional reality. When emotional information is sent through the internet one is literally sharing consciousness with another being.

This is how various intelligences are interfaces with the mass of humanity at once.

Before it was purely through media like TV, radio, and subliminal advertising.

Before that it was through group-think and communication control methods that would manipulate the social mind.

The origins of this is through the control systems that people submit to in order to gain access to materials in this world, materials that they could otherwise reach through a variety of ways.

Now people are locked into a reality where they can't even see that the intelligence, investigation, and defense agencies are exposing the truth that is contrary to what they are being fed by their usual sources because those sources have dominated their minds.

People do not know how to access their own resources, food, water, energy without first submitting to this domineering power that influences their minds.

This is a multi-dimensional reality. That which takes the appearance of a domineering force which serves for one public agenda but actually feeds another agenda is not only lying. The very identities of these intelligences are completely foreign, just as foreign as the much is to the truth of what is happening. Instead of being fed by these sources, people are being FED TO these sources. It is consciousness, energy based as well as physical depending on how the conscious phase-locks with the human reality.

We are approaching a time where enough feeding has been done that this alternate reality, this other intelligence can permanently phase-lock with the majority of humanity.

Yes, if people are able to control their consciousness and increase their rate of frequency they would then be inaccessible by these beings.

I repeat, the state of love, the empowerment of love over darkness, removes from a person the vulnerability of their energies to the feeding/sustaining process of these alternate reality beings.

I will keep this short because I know most of the human brains on Earth have been conditioned to enjoy a 2-minute attention span and that going outside of this window effectively disengages one's reality with the majority of humanity.

The Fart Metaphor, Bio-Emissions, Negativity and Healing

If someone farts in the air, and it burns the nose, the eyes. And a person says, "F-you, you stink. You f--- f---, always you with the crap." Then it has emotionally and mentally A-ffected, or INfected us. This is a metaphor for the mind and the way negative emotions, emissions, or energies of others influence on a conscious level. If we see/smell/sense this happening, and we go, "Oh! *holds breath*" and wave the air around, open a window, clear the air or remove ourselves from the environment, then we are not negatively A-ffected or "IN"fected by these emissions.

This is a metaphor for the negative entrainment, the devices and technology, the spiritual substances, the emotional entrapment, the mental disruption of one's peace of being through the introduction of disharmonic energies.

If we are capable of passing along the message of how to help avoid this reaction to others, and to the individual in question to assist in them clearing their own energies (bodily functions in this metaphor) then we remain as healthy as we were before the encounter without allowing the negative/draining bio-emissions of the other to weigh us down AKA infect.

In other words, to be able to laugh it off and remove yourself from the environment or clear the air yourself, while also taking steps to assist the A-ffected in increasing their own frequencies then we act as beneficial reality generators. If we immediately respond to negativity with negativity, then we are either A-ffected and effectively overcome by such, or we are participating in the process of adding negativity. Either way, a negative response is participating and a neutral or positive (healing, informational, conscious) response is clearing.

While this explanation may induce laughter or a humorous response, (and that is the intended light-hearted result) the influence of this negativity in the actuality of what the metaphor represents is much more serious. Our environment is being poisoned, the air and water is being poisoned, the media has polluted the minds of many so that now the actual etheric mental waves in the air around many people's, over the entire planet is literally coated in this negativity. We are swimming in a sea of negativity that is injected into this reality through artificially propagated means.

This did, however, begin as an etheric process through various scenarios and mind-control methods, and this resulted in a tangible change in the energy, but it is now being propped up through these "modern" technological means. The original method could very well be named, especially for its time, a simple method of using advanced technology through various advanced energy work to induce such states within the minds of people. These were methods that seemingly used no technology, but through the methods were actually using advanced spiritual technology that this time-period in civilization had no way of comprehending other than as the works of "gods", aliens, or demons.

Click read more to read the rest:

The origins of this system, this self-propagating (as long as people are supplying the energy) grid, may have very well stemmed from a simple desire to build a mind control construct which would feed the creative and will-power based energy of the people into an energetic system that could contain it and use it against them by feeding a select group.

Fast forward many years and this system is intelligent, beyond the control of it's creators, and dominating all energies in sight.

Cue the introduction of the higher-frequency energy beings and their methods of clearing these lower energies through inspiring the will-power, creativity, and emotional and mental balance/wholeness of the human.

We have broken off into a time where these situations must be dealt with one by one, on an individual basis, coming from a long-forgotten time where people once saw these great works occur in the skies and on the land.

We may be returning to a period of consciousness a cycle of civilization where these great events will take place, in the skies and on the land for the larger numbers of humanity to see and participate in at once. This can be great clearing, or disrupting events depending on the individuals involved, the intentions, the level of spiritual advancement, clarity or frequency.

We have had many of the great depressions that occur, these events knock humanity on the spiritual head and cause forgetfulness and low energy.

What's next may be a series of these 'attacks' followed by and simultaneous with a great occurrence of clearings and opportunities for humanity to heal and collectively choose the higher frequency route of increasing awareness, wholeness, peace and progression/remembrance of the collective field.

The field is a sentient, living, 'liquid' etheric substance that is literally being fed upon by a parasitic foreign intelligence. These large events in question are healing events, but in the same way a body may experience a 'herxheimer' effect when ridding of toxins which is very painful, we may see a reaction and an initial revolt as people are faced with the options to give up their addictions, to reject the malignant parasites and to cue into their generational conscious codes (RNA) patterns to heal the past trauma that has been so great it literally wiped the minds of this entire civilization.

This post began as a simple metaphor explaining the process of negativity influencing, Affecting or "INfecting" others and extended itself to a larger perspective of how this explanation and process relates to the world situation in this time period as well as the previous. Thank you for reading, please share if you feel people will get a laugh of light-heartedness or be helped to make sense of how this world situation, and our individual situation, relates to what can be tied into cosmic events. I have not included the cosmic nature, but this is where the individual situation, when connected with the civilization-wide and extra-temporal situation leads to. This is a cosmic event, because life is a cosmic occurrence and the universe is a large cosmic clock where in all parts are connected and related to the whole of existence.

In other words, it went from funny and simple, to still simple yet more serious and involving more details and a larger scope.

This is the same pattern that will be experienced when these larger events begin to take place, as they already have.

The control system attempts to maintain seriousness, competition, and lower animalistic consciousness in behavior throughout the 'pre-show', the beginning, middle and end. Soon, however, the influence of this cosmic lightening and reintroduction of the heart frequencies will become so far-reaching that those who are ready to see the truth will see it and this will outweigh the false-interpretations or interjections of fear.

However, it is not all one clean sweep, or one continuous love-experience, even if we remain on those frequencies. The more one remains, the more the masses will attempt to balance that out because that is what this system is, one big collective reality. So those who choose to remain in love will be tested with their ability to uphold those frequencies and those who remain in fear will be seemingly more and more reinforced until both people can see the same world in a very different perspective, just as we can now.

Fighting Begets Fighting, The Illusion of Aggressive Superiority (more on animalistic behavior)

Fighting with each other leads to the occurrence of more fighting or suffering. That is not acceptable if a person seeks to heal or to help the situation, or even simply to really get what they want.

When a person fights, they do it to avoid what they initially experience which brought out a negative response in them. The experience is not caused by the individual they target or even their action or utterance/energy, that energy or the concept behind it exists simultaneously all over the world in conceptual form. To fight the one example in front of a person is to seemingly rid it from their space while it goes on to exist all around them. A person will tire out before they live long enough to fight all over and rid the world of what they dislike so that it will never be experienced again. This kind of reaction only provides the temporary illusion of power and blindness to the larger existence that there is no way to react to negativity on the same level and avoid re-experiencing that energy again. A person's existence simultaneously goes beyond this single body and so while it is pushed away from one body, it will be met with simultaneously by other humans who will then have to deal with the experience in either the same manner, producing the same effect of passing the experience on, or they will work through it in a healing manner with a different mode of operation.

When something negative is met with negativity, something that is not desirable is fought against, this enables that negativity further and gives it more power to invade a person's life.

Doing the same thing over and over again, to avoid exactly that which is recurring through that process is undesirable in itself and so this is a kind of feedback loop which feeds the process of recreating that experience.

On a physical level, this is still only capable of providing the illusion of satisfaction, if one fights small fights, initiates large-scale war, then sooner or later their empire that is maintained through such activity will be met with the empire of another who has a greater ability to destroy. In any means, destructive methods, through mind/energy or body/physicality/violence always lead back to the initial oppressor.

This is not to say that 'rolling over' and allowing darkness to prevail is positive.

But for instance if the individual does not fight in that battle, slowly there is a resistance of other individuals heart-centered individuals, then this frequency will over power the empire of violence within the collective.

It is the frequency, the concepts, the energies that people fight against. One can't "fight" an energy, that is impossible. One can reorganize their mind and their life so that they are not vulnerable to engaging mentally with such beliefs, such illusions or vampiric processes that do require engagement in order to be maintained.

Click read more to read the rest:

This brings up a notion that if the people of Earth, spiritually, physically and mentally choose a state of balanced emotionality and wholeness in their response that then there is no spiritual congruence or counterpart to enable such action of violence from such an imbalanced power schematic as those who control entire realms and this simultaneously opens those who are participating in such negativity to be acted upon by those who exist above them in the higher realms above that. Thus, as people are preyed upon by those who utilize advanced technology and spiritual means, if they refuse to engage and hold true, then the abusers will be "touched" simultaneously by spiritual and advanced technological means that go far beyond what the abusers are capable of.

Note: Be wary of tricks of martyrdom or the convincing of others that they should die for a belief, these are methods to induce a mindset which welcomes abuse in the idea of "accepting" it that it is satisfactory to be abused or to die for a cause. But this is similar to engaging in violence, because simply accepting the abuse is another trick for one to play in finding ways to abuse others.

We have seen the unconscious acceptance of such abuse on this planet through a variety of means such as supporting the very people who are doing the abuse physically, and mentally and lastly emotionally if people interact with and engage as part of a fear-based or lower-energy anger based response.

In other words, if people are abused and some go around in anger “emotionally assaulting” themselves and others, then it is opening the possibility for more abuse.

This sounds different from what we have been conditioned to experience, but think very clearly here.

By who'm have you been conditioned to think otherwise?

By bullies? War-lords? Abuse-mongers?

This is the point exactly. The world is no more filled with war-mongers as it is filled with people of one color or race. Therefore what happens to the world is determined by the frequency of the whole, rather than one group of people or specific set. However, if people are convinced to worship the power of one color or one specific group (even their own), then they are welcoming the pains and partiality of respect (neglect) that comes with such disharmony and that is the very situation we are in today.

Thus, people are waking up, there is a collective increase of awareness happening and so people are being given the choice of which path they will see through an expansion and integration of their own energies and choices into the larger continuum of experience. Each person chooses how their own path will be experienced and we as a collective experience the nature of Earth through our collective impact. We can live in an Earth that is full of resources and abundance or we can play the game of monopoly and superpowers that only have the power to destroy themselves out of existence.

Update to the Negotiations, Coming Changes, Higher Beings, and Disclosure of Manipulation

There have been terms of the agreement with the so-called “Cabal” and these were to introduce an agreeance based on the forgiveness of negative actions of physical, mental and emotional manipulation and harm unto others under the condition that such behaviors are fully exposed and those in participation agree that a process of healing and making amends on the levels that have been impacted is carried out including all who are involved.

This has been previously denied as a result of the unfathomable nature of how far the process of degradation and manipulation has gone.

What you may “bio-spheres” or entire civilizations of human beings have been used for prostitution and psycho-etheric nourishment of the so called “dark faction”.

I repeat.

Entire breakaway civilizations have been born through the use of advanced technology and manipulation and these are used as a psycho-etheric/emotional energy farm such as for the rape and molestation of individuals of all ages, races, genders and intellectual capacities.

The women of the so called dark-faction are harvested for their life-giving abilities and their spiritual energies and this is one way that these civilizations have been manipulated and produced in order to fully sustain such dark-factions which utilize these procedures in the maintenance and conditioning of their youth through the control system.

Corey Goode speaks briefly on this in his latest release and I do not agree with everything ANYONE says, however there are multiple races of “higher beings” and from my personal view they are non-physical or are entirely etheric in nature and only require a physical essence during the production of a slightly less-confusing or overwhelming interaction with a physical human being.

Physical human beings are, in part, completely etheric and non-physical consciousness. A human is a material body coupled with an immaterial etheric counterpart and there is a pure, invisible, undetectable awareness at the most subtle layer.

Large numbers of these individuals in production are claimed to be non-respected by these conditions which we apply to living humans on this planet because they are (since the technology was created) produced by a cybernetic hive-mind process and before this completely synthetic means of genetic engineering.

This is an update, a clearing, a call to awareness, a warning that these events have been taking place and those involved have in the past been given the option for the salvation of their own species and their own eternal etheric counterparts as their own cybernetic hive-mind systems have become infected and subverted out of their control.

This leads into the timeline alterations and the productions of “secondary” realms and timelines that allow these plans to be carried out while avoiding the overall disastrous effects of such manipulations on the genetic spectrum of humanity as a whole. Now these realms and these timelines can no longer be sustained without such issues coming fully into public view and this was foreseen by many conscious beings who are either observing the occurrence of this civilization or have survived the manipulation related to these events and sufficiently protected and healed themselves enough to organize this process of disclosure that we are witnessing now.

Being dishonest, having more resources than is required, and being deceptive is not the fullest extent of what has happened here.

If people were to see the truth, they very quickly would stop fighting, arguing, picking sides, and they would realize that they are either with or without the group of conscious beings who seek to fulfill and assist in the fulfilling of humanity’s endeavor towards a higher civilization where balance, spiritual (emotional, mental, physical) harmony and wholeness, abundance and knowledge of the self and the universe can be respected and shared.

There is the possibility of disinfo agents about, regarding even my own information or any information regarding “higher beings”, saviors or otherwise.

These “higher beings” in question are literally only mentioned to describe the capacity for humanity in reaching a state of fully awakened physical and etheric conscious state. That is the higher being, the awakened and emotionally, mentally, and physically balanced human being.

With that said, there may be “no” higher beings, and that may simply be a ploy. However, there may be no higher beings outside ourselves. Humanity itself is a multidimensional race that has higher-dimensional counterparts that relate to the same superconsciousness, collective consciousness or spiritual consciousness that manifests through the refined and healing based state of awareness that is achieved when all the parts of the being are cooperating in working together in unison to create an “over harmony” of energy and consciousness which is perceived as synergetically greater than the parts individually.

Similarly, Earth is a “higher dimensional being”. Earth may, in fact, be behind this healing process. Just as you are a living “higher” being comprised physically of cells and organs, as your personality and awareness is comprised of experiences and moments, you are an extension of Earth who is similarly a “high being” comprised of individual eco-systems, lifeforms, consciousnesses, and of course humans.

There is more to speak on the alien nature of certain manipulated environments, and whether human beings were “born” here, or whether they truly belong here, but that is not the message of this post. Thank you.

Mind you there are many others speaking of this now, I was recently inspired by one of these previous releases and so I feel compelled to speak on the issues.

There is more to be said, but this will be said when all those directly involved are capable of joining together for this purpose.

On the “Links” section, on the right-hand side of this blog you can find the websites, blogs and informational references of other individuals who are speaking out in a similar fashion and are directly or indirectly involved in a similar fashion.

Again, I only support the ideas of any individuals involved regarding the situation involving the “Cabal” and the possibility that Humanity has begun negotiations for the release of prisoners from the manipulation system that spans across multiple-realities.

I do not necessarily condone the concept of higher beings, however the process of the negotiations are real, even if they are yet another layer of disinformation and confusion. They are taking place and the darkness that is being revealed, the manipulation, the abuse, is taking place as well.

This is what I am speaking on in this message, this is what I am directly looking at. If we can bring awareness to this manipulation and abuse, not only of Earth humans but of all kinds of beings, then we will be helping to heal this layer of experience in the universe.

There is much more to be said, clarified, added and explained however this is the basis of what is occurring now.

Many systems are converging and many plans to make the truth public are taking place.

Note: I am relaying what I experienced. I am just a person with experiences and a unique perspective from them.

Simple Preparations

Lifestraw, couple weeks of water and food. Battery or candle lighting. Communication methods without electronics grid. Warm clothes/blankets/sleeping bag in case of power outage. The basics. Possibly a firestarter or way to boil water. Knowledge of the community, those who are adaptable and ready, aware and friendly and those who are not. WaterBOB, water purifier/purification tablets/diluted bleach drops. Good focus, paper for journals, written instructions, recording simple notes, good shoes/boots, clean clothes, simple stuff that one should have anyway.

There is always contingency in place. There is advanced technology, there is oversight and overwatch groups. Unity heals. Violence divides and breaks the continuity by inducing and resulting from panic or loss of control.

A knowledge of poisonous and edible plants is always a good thing although this may be over-blown.

A knowledge of the proximity to heavily populated areas and exit routes from your area into other areas as well. Roads and main through-ways fail everyday at rush hour, a few times a day, so keep that in mind. During a heavy response there will be no motion through main routes using basic vehicles. Stores as well tend to back up and become over-burdened.

This is not to induce panic, or cause one to build an underground bunker, however people like to panic over 2" of snow in my area and so these are simply precautions to take.

This is not the events I have been outlining and speaking of however, again, people love to panic when they don't know what's happening and the majority is playing along with the charades which are being exposed. So try to think of reasonable projections of change and extrapolate to prepare for any disturbances in the supply of "normal" in your area.

Again, those who choose violence, are met with violence, those who choose peace and self-responsibility/forgiveness, preparation, higher-awareness. are noted, monitored, and observed as such and this will determine the outcome.

Mind Control, Scapegoats, The 9 Veils and Healing

Many things are hidden to protect people from the threats that exist.

Sometimes the "good guys" are made to look like the bad guys and the "bad guys" are made to look like the good guys and vice versa when that changes right under the public's nose so that they do not know what is really happening.

This is because layers of inclusion are developed where no layer knows the integrity and capacity of any layers above them but only below them and possibly parallel.

This system is both a response and a reaction, a disguise and a procedure. This is very confusing but this is a reason that as long as this civilization continues we know that efforts are being made to secure balance.

What we can look forward to is a greater efficiency of over-sight from a perspective that respects the capacity of the human as a higher-dimensional consciousness.

We see two main groups emerge from this system. One that seeks to destroy humanity and one that seeks to preserve humanity's destiny to rise to spiritual fulfillment and reach self-actualization as a cosmic presence.

I cannot tell you how to feel, but I know that often when we are blaming others we are actually blaming the chosen scapegoat.

For instance, do you believe you will deal with one scapegoat and finally succeed over all the true players?

This does not happen, only further layers of inclusion are generated as a result.

What can happen is that the charades are no longer given the personal and collective power to rule over one's life and one can learn and grow to know the self and the universe as a spiritually awakened being as a result.

These are the 9 Veils.

At each layer, you can find a scapegoat.

The scapegoat is not the source, the concept itself and that level of vulnerability is within the human. When the human heals that issue within, the entire realm of distortion is healed with it.

In short, the key is to healing that which renders one vulnerable to mind-control and to assist in the healing of the mind-controller. Fighting the mind-controller is an aspect of the mind-control. Why wouldn't it be?

Plans To Disclose, The Dark Before Dawn, Underground Bases

Plans For Disclosure, Negotiations

Other plans have been in the works. I support the concept of forgiveness and beneficial resolve for all, although this is a very confusing and deceptive situation due to the nature of the interaction of various beings.

Psychological Manipulation

I am not saying this because of events that could be portrayed as my own compromise or infiltration. As children we were used as soldiers for various operations and this included training and conditioning that drove one beyond the limits of the conscious mind through whatever means necessary. Usually these are of various psychologically manipulative routines which targets the individual's conscience and works it out of the equation, or at least dulls it.

I have seen more with "my" own eyes than I have in any movie, be it science-fiction, war, horror, adventure, fantasy, or documentary.

Most of this took place as a child. As has been said before by others, these were not games and toys that we were invited to participate in and utilize during operation. These were situations and technologies that are so challenging to comprehend one often must have their conscience negated otherwise they risk damaging or destroy themselves or friendlies in the process.

Those in the projects are not always given the longest life expectancy.

Often times an operative is physically replaced many times. This is through advanced technology and the knowledge of the soul or the inner workings of consciousness and biology.

Unprecedented Changes Taking Place

At this point in time I am aware that we are coming up to great changes taking place. If people are only aware of what is referred to as the 'mainstream media' then, chances are they only have a portion of the whole picture, yet even then they can see we are in times that are unprecedented as far as the ideals that are being displayed in public view as well as the research and development of many technologies and world issues.

Yes, for us, cloning and advanced technology was used to protect the human race even though this technology was similarly used by dark factions to reverse engineer DNA as well as genetically engineer soldiers and non-human entities.

Update to the Negotiations, Coming Changes, Higher Beings, and Disclosure of Manipulation Many Layers of Deception

It is difficult to explain but the deception that has taken place cannot be resolved all at once, but this does not indicate my support of a long term (50-100) year disclosure process. I feel that too many important details would be left out, too many details would be altered, and too many individuals would spend their time finding ways to continue the deception rather than winding down and working towards a future where the distortion and difficulty of this reality is tuned to a more wholly beneficial ratio.

Ways of Enhancement

The main idea is that with the distortions, the pains, the difficulties that are generated through manipulation and secret (removed) oversight individuals can operate on a much more effective scale as the individuals that do succeed will be very powerful and useful in a variety of ways and as well these individuals can be utilized in ways that go beyond their own comprehension of instructions because their minds will be enhanced to operating on a capacity far beyond that of a non enhanced individual.

This was both for the protection of the human race, as well as, again, to be used against the human race. Both sides develop the technology that they then use against each other. It is not the technology, but the way it is used and the intentions of those using it and generating the system. Sure, the order givers on this physical level are responsible as are the order followers. On the underground level, the order followers are mind-controlled to not have a say in whether an order is followed or not. Yet, this can be overcome, but as soon as it is, new technology and new methodology is refined and defined to overcome this resistance. Thus we return to the idea that this is passed as viable in order to produce the most powerful soldiers ever that can resist anything as well as be made to carry out operations far beyond the scope of the non-enhanced human being.

Mind Control, Scapegoats, The 9 Veils and Healing Advanced Technology and the Collective Unconscious

What will happen next is the only thing that can happen which is a disclosure of the various technologies developed and applied as well as research and discovery involving all the universal questions that humanity has asked itself since the beginning of time.

To show you how deep this goes, there is technology which can use frequencies and electromagnetic fields to generate 'viewing' areas which can project and pull from any location in space or time on Earth and it is explained that this is possible because Earth is actually one interconnected sea of electromagnetic waves and that consciousness in some form is a central aspect of this system.

When these experiments began there were multiple discoveries regarding the origins of the universe and the origins of humanity.

One of the discoveries is that people see different explanations, different scenarios play out depending on the configuration of their RNA and their state of consciousness.

Ultimately, what we see depends on our state of awareness and how we organize our life through intentions and expectation. The universe is closer to a looking glass, a crystal ball, rather than an objective, solid occurrence. This is astounding.

The changes we are seeing are relative to the collective unconscious mind of humanity effectively coming up with a series of possible scenarios that serve to converge the possible long-term results of these projects. In short, there were effects on the timeline and the collective consciousness field on Earth and this can be likened to ripples on the surface of a pond moving forwards and backwards in time as a result of interdimensional interference.

When two of these ripples collide, two separate possibilities seem to come into contact and merge into one. As a result some of the inhabitants of each world are able to see more than one possible result for the events of history. In short, that was the goal of some of the projects, yet it was to perform this in a controlled manner and these were unexpected side-effects.

It was explained that the original group performing these operations are capable of hopping between these ripples and have been doing so up unto the point of convergence which is in this time period now.

Forgiveness Of Self and Others and Assisting in Healing

This is a serious matter, although I have been through so much pain and negative emotional feedback, often at times threatening my own safety with my own actions (10 or so years ago due to interference from multiple factions) and the safety of others that I only want to assist in the continuity of this civilization in whatever way possible. For the majority of my life, I blamed various individuals involved for causing certain catastrophes we have seen. Later I see that these were actually to avoid certain larger catastrophes and that the crews that were activated to enact these operations had to carry the burden of knowing and participating in such in a way that no other humans could comprehend, myself included.

I have a deep gratitude that replaced an endless pit of regret and despair because I know the depth of the universe and the pain of the collective is far more than what one individual alone can feel or experience in a single lifetime. I have been given that opportunity to experience and to assist in the healing.

In the previous post of this nature I mentioned higher beings.
This is not because I do not have information regarding this.

This is because the information is the most difficult to comprehend as well as transfer to words in a way that the public will be able to walk away with more clarification instead of confusion. This is a very complex situation although we are moving into times where everything is capable of being sorted out even though there may be a period of darkness before the dawn.

A Public Venue, Emotions, Ideas and Growth Together

I appreciate the interest people have shown in learning about these topics, the true nature of reality, healing each other and ourselves, understanding the situation, the deception and manipulation, and I project that we will become more readily capable of forgiveness, peace, and less reactivity to presented situations and scenarios in the world stage.

The sooner we learn to contain our emotional outbursts, our triggered moments, our fits of frustration or our imbalanced emotional outpourings, the sooner we can find a relatively common ground to stand on together as a free-flowing yet unified force.

One of the main ideas seems to be overgrowing addictions and vices of all kinds. Habits that do not serve the whole do not serve at all. When we can clear our minds, clean up our diet, clean our lungs and our blood, we are more capable of interconnecting each part of ourself as a whole being. Humanity has a detox to go through and as I mentioned previously, there will be a herxheimer effect. And yes, there is a possibility of “page-flipping” where we can wake up in a healed reality although it will be the operatives, their guides and higher-consciousness beings who walk that path ahead of “time” to pave the way.

A Ramble on Divinity and Underground Bases (related to cloning, false light mind control system)

If everything is a projection of consciousness then we are to be aware of our own frequencies of bio-emissions and maintain a positive-feedback loop with what we want to experience based on an overall progression throughout existence.

If we dislike what we see in others then we can offer to help them or help ourselves learn from the experience.

Consciousness is partially electronic and there has been a technological development which can “trap” consciousness on this plane.

This is not so much ‘non-divine’ as it shows the power of the human will and the complexity of the mind to manipulate.

If we can see beyond the surface level it is like seeing beyond just the conscious/waking level and we see that reality is akin to a huge system, a clock, a living organism, a being and it is many layers deep. The human body is an example, a reflection and a metaphor for this. We see each other's skin and eyes to project consciousness and identity, yet we are layers of tissue, bone, skin, immune cells, blood, fluids, even a kind of lymphatic mucous and the food that we eat.

That is through space, as well we are layered through time, there are many layers of processes that take place to form the infant from a grouping of cells to each organ structure, to many processes within the development of each organ structure from the way bones are formed from primary cells that multiply to a certain point and then harden to become other kinds of cells which form layers and voids that hold veins and arteries which fit inside of a specific location in the cellular matrix that creates a specific pattern which can hold weight after hardening. Each system is composed of other systems both in space and in time.

Our consciousness is a doorway into learning of these processes and understanding how it is that we are actually a multitude of completions that add up to create a larger completion which is intimately connected with many other completions.

Time is no different in the larger scale. We are completing a period of experience in the physical body, on the physical plane on Earth and when we achieve maximal completion of this "temporal" body, through psycho-spiritual fulfillment then our completion of a larger cycle has developed and we can achieve "birth" or life into the higher realm.

Delaying this process is the game of those who have chosen to stay and develop a system of regression that benefits from the lack of progression and the degradation of such systems.

We can progress to completion by applying our conscious effort in ways which regenerate the balance that is present when we are born and resynchronizing our experience with that of the larger cycles. Our conscious experience here is the smaller cycle, our unconscious experience takes place simultaneously on the higher levels. When we achieve completion of the conscious experience here by going through many small cycles and providing continuous effort to advance, we then gain access to the 'larger' cycle which is actually taking place simultaneously in many other perspectives at once.

To see the body as a living organism composed of many layers spatially and temporally is to see passed the surface level and utilize aspects of the unconscious rather than only the conscious mind. This unifies the conscious with the unconscious and then "wholeness" presumes. We begin in wholeness and move into partial awareness and then move back into wholeness. Without wholeness, there is no partial awareness. Without partial awareness, there is no possibility of "chaos".

Chaos is the foundation of the system which has been used to simultaneously degrade as well as profit off of that degradation in order to keep people from progressing so that others who designed such a system can maintain physical power and authority, in a false sense, here in this plane.

When we choose to overcome chaos with awareness and purpose that connects the infant to a possible future that generates meaning in the overall progression of the mind and spirit then we are recreating the wholeness which everything springs forth from. We recreate this path back towards wholeness through our continuous efforts to choose peace and awareness in the face of chaos and ignorance.

Ignorance leads to the degradation of the body and mind. The base desires of the body act as guideposts or the contents of an instructions manual. What we are moved to feel emotionally is our connection to the source of our pathway out of chaos and into higher awareness.

This doesn't have to be chaotic in the sense of the world at war. This can simply be an existence where one believes that the conscious world is difficult and confusing and they slowly come to the awareness of how to organize their energies and their thoughts in order to reach a higher understanding of purpose and meaning in a sense that goes beyond simply feeding desires, eating food, or obtaining materials.

Click read more to read more:

When one ignores these signals from the original state, they are degrading that connection back to the source of wholeness and this induces suffering for themselves and others because everything is connected.

People are often caught in a trap where they are to believe that their conscious mind or physical body is not good enough to 'meet' with the divine or to become one with the true self. This only delays the process to the point of running face-first into many roadblocks of self-discovery and organization of the base desires and higher intuitions.

The old world system made a profit by telling people that they cannot be like "God" which is just a reference of the "whole" being that has memories in tact and can choose how to experience existence and how to react. One could say that through people, the state of wholeness steps into partiality and thus learns how to "react". Reaction indicates the ability to overreact or to underreact. If one is perfect, then there can be no reaction. In perfection, there is eternity. In eternity there is compressed time or an acceleration of experience. With an acceleration of experience degrading decisions or cycles have a greater affect on degrading that connection of wholeness of the source and so a conscious mind that is in a reactionary state and exposed to eternity or accelerated time experiences a loss of divinity. This is the so-called "hell" experience that people reach.

This has been technologically identified and many of the people in public view today are actually close to this state and are confused as to what to do, what it means and who is actually in control.

Before reaching accelerated cycles through technological means one goes through the many states of the smaller cycles and learns to gauge their reactions with their intentions until each 'action' is not a 'reaction' but a carefully considered motion towards more wholeness and spiritual or immaterial/conscious fulfillment of the defining values of character which last through eternity as a kind of 'marking' of our choices. This brings one into the so-called state of 'perfection' where there is no longer reaction but pure action of being. The ultimate action of "God" is the creation of the entire Universe, while the "reaction" is the state of the Human as they transcend ignorance and fear while moving back towards the path of wholeness towards conscious acknowledgement of the beauty and fulfilling quality of the self and existence.

So the belief that one physical body or consciousness is not “good enough” or is in “sin” is an illusion used to foster the control system that has been developed through the improper introduction of technological means. It is improper because the same fulfillment is reached through torturing and mass murder and then coming to the light of reason, as is simply coming to the light of reason. There is no difference. A person who finds the truth and reaches divinity after living in the jungle and getting over their fear of the dark and their ignorance of the complexity of the physical universe and the mental, temporal, and emotional cycles gains just as much as the person who suffers for thousands of years playing out a game of torture and mind control. Not many people will like this, but I have seen the games and so that is my ‘theory’.

What “sin” means, or “not being good enough”, is actually an inverse. It is not that the physical realm is not “good” enough for the divine state, or that the physical body and conscious state is not divine, it actually originally means that the original divine state is so far beyond the comprehension of the conscious waking state that one must first slip into a dreamlike, visionary state through prayer, fasting, meditation, consideration/introspection, or otherwise mentally contemplating the cycles and thus activating higher awareness, in order to experience the wholeness of the divine. It truly simply means that there are certain steps to fully activate the divine and that it is truly amazing to the conscious mind and the physical body when the experience of the divine is met. That is all. There is no such thing as “not being good enough”, that is a game to keep people in a mind control system.

So this is the old world system of certain mind control system and the modern-day system is a system that repeatedly traps one’s consciousness in the physical plane using advanced technology systems that prevent this civilization from making the larger cycle of completion together and becoming a divine or celestial being.

This is apparently being dismantled at the moment, or already has, although I would not know because I have involvement with various means such as the creations of these devices of control and so until I see for myself I will not have proof and I assume no one else will either.

By moving back into the appreciation for creation which fuels curiosity and nurtures learning about the many layers and time, space, intention, and harmony which all coalesce to create the physical experience of sensation, the physical body, and the immaterial consciousness and energies which comprise the universe, we build back our pathway to the divine state of wholeness.

I’ll re-read this tomorrow, this is basically about the underground bases. They were looking for hell, the alternate realm. People down there think they are in hell and that it is the afterlife. This is essentially true. It is merely an alternate realm that is created through artificial means of splicing one’s consciousness from this realm and thus the ‘organic’ space of Earth into a computerized system that merges with an alternate space away from this one. The technological systems are a gateway into that space in the same way the heart and mind is a gateway into the realm of the soul.

Wholeness is the path of divinity, partiality and forgetfulness or seeing one layer at a time instead of the whole picture is the path of ignorance. We are ignorant because we see one layer at a time. As infants we see in multiple spectrums so we are not born into sin, we are born into divinity. We are conditioned into partiality or ignorance by being taught to see just the first layer of the physical body the skin, the first layer of experience the 5 senses, and the first layer of awareness, the waking consciousness.

We are just as much the entirety of the conscious mind, the subconscious, and the unconscious mind. Seeing in partiality to time is similar, seeing only one moment when there is a string of moments that is cyclic and eternal. This breeds discontentment, boredom, or the belief that one is not good enough or that reality is not fulfilling. This is the illusion of the deception, the imposter.

Those who seek to fulfill this aspect have degraded their connection or been exposed to experience which degraded their connection to the cosmic self, the self that is represented through BOTH the larger cycles of cosmic time as well as the smaller cycle of the physical body and conscious waking mind. There is more to this.

The Programmed Reality, Progress or Degradation of the Self-Awareness

The program is not whether you win or not. It's whether you cheat.

Of course the maker of the program cannot be from inside the program, thus the maker is from outside. The one who cheats, who inverts the meaning to get what they want, those are the redirectors of that original essence. All beings redirect original essence, but some reinforce it in that process and some degrade it. The cheaters enslave themselves to the program by ensuring that they can't move past it to the highest level of existence.

The secret is, we are all trapped in the program by choosing to take this journey of learning and self-becoming. Those who enter the program and cheat forget that higher nature of self and thus lower their identity to that layer of the program.

That which we experience is recursive or to be expected again. For every one being, "two beings" expect it. What one chooses to allow to be felt through their experience or beingness (which is all things they are connected and extended from and to their physical being) is also propagated as a signal and reinforced for others to experience. Before it becomes full cycle, full circle, or recycled, a recursive loop is formed and they are met with the experience again as a result of their own propagation of those beliefs, thoughts, or emissions that flow through them.

When one chooses to emit what they seem to experience from their self or others then their experience reinforces that for all selves. Each being is two beings in that sense that they can experience, reinforce, reintegrate, and re-experience what they emit and thus what they seek. What we seek, we experience, what we seek we emit, and what we emit, is then what we seek. It's all one large cycle of reflection and reintegration of our own energies THROUGH reality and others. We attract others and experiences to fulfill this role of experiencing the true self because we will continue to experience randomly if control is not taken by the power of choice or free-will. When this choice is made, only then can it be said that the true-self is acknowledged, otherwise reality is just happening. It is all happening anyway, but when we purposely create the proper feedback loops we are creators rather than just the one experiencing it happening to them.

In this way one who is aware of this process of self becoming can re-encode experience to propagate their mind into reality. It is already happening, once they use free-will to observe and guide the process they are experiencing everything as a result of their self, their mind.

Mind and reality, in this way, are two sides of the same higher dimensional aspect of existence. Existence itself is a constantly recurring and automatically updating higher dimensional occurrence.

Like in the matrix the bots can be co-opted just as animals can be co-opted by higher beings as the natives know.

That is the system that the controllers are trying to create for themselves. Animal people that can be co-opted and made into a robotic force whose will can be co-opted at the desire of the controllers.

The controllers of this level expected the higher beings to turn their backs on the system and allow this to happen.

With every breath you are encoding your own beliefs. With every belief you are encoding your state of being and self.

Reality is configured through programs, beliefs, psychology and reactions are simulated or predetermined through the clever application of these mental mechanisms.

The Vril Women, Orgone, and Power

The Vril women had found the power of the Vril (orgone/orgasm) energy. They felt that the mastery or harmonization of this energy was the key to longevity and higher-awareness.

They said they were infiltrated by military force. The Vril women had found the power of the Vril (orgone/orgasm) energy. They felt that the mastery or harmonization of this energy was the key to longevity and higher-awareness.

They said they were infiltrated by military forces which sought to use them as spies and this is exactly what happened.

They were used as ‘vixens’ to infiltrate political powers and other groups at the time and this was ultimately to develop their powers as well as centralize what was becoming a secret, transdimensional military force.

The story goes much deeper as it was described how various methods were used to attain states of consciousness which allowed for the “channeling” of information and energy from other planes of existence which they believed to be a breakaway civilization, or an original civilization.

It was said that these channellings were transferred through an ancient language which was similar to pre-ancient or proto-Aramaic language. This was related to the search for the ancient civilization and the antediluvian genetics which seemed to exist along side the current civilization in another plane or “planet”.

They are not the ones responsible for the weaponization or deception. They were used by the power seekers and their feminine essence was organized into a control system which extended from that knowledge of the orgone energy and developed into the next level of the mind-control that has been present since the earlier eras of human civilization.es which sought to use

Entering Phase 1 Public Disclosure

I feel we are about to enter phase 1 of public disclosure. Edit: You know what. What am I saying? WE HAVE JUST ENTERED PHASE 1 OF PUBLIC DISCLOSURE. THIS CIVILIZATION WILL NOT BE THE SAME FROM THIS POINT FORWARD. It never is from any point forward, but read between the lines. The events taking place and the information being made available to people is unprecedented.

This is INSIDE OUT disclosure. The information is being DISPLAYED to the public now and it is UNDENIABLE.

Now how to go about this?

- •       Panic works against the people. Peace works for the whole
- •       The ultimate truth is within.
- •       Advanced technology may be unveiled in order to maintain stability and peace
- •       The public events are a ruse to teach people to discern
- •       There are many layers and unless there is internal discernment the truth will remain hidden
- •       The system is moving forward in peace
- •       Anyone acting out of vengeance will reflect and receive that
- •       Anyone acting in forgiveness will reflect that
- •       The above two are not exact, but for the general population, how the events play out will be determined by how the population accepts the truth
- •       How that will turn out or what will happen on the pathway there is determined in the process regarding the people but this is only because there is a wildcard that the masses might suddenly want the harsh truth instead of pleasant lies and illusions which is what is all around.

- •           People can see that and realize, 'it's all a show'. In that way, see the truth, without getting polarized.
- •           When the pain is "utilized" to navigate true awareness, then we are no longer reacting or manipulated by pain.

Everything is wrapped in layers of disinfo.

I was shown how the events taking place now are to awaken humanity, not to trick people or hurt them. This whole thing is about helping humanity learn to discern instead of just believe or blindly accept or feel fear.

The people are just playing roles, they are trying to help in the way that they know how. There has been much deception even with that said and much difficulty to get through. This whole time is about getting through the darkness by learning to increase awareness and find one's light. That is a metaphor as is the concept that to find the light one does not only think light, they must also know where the darkness is.

Peace and Awareness is the Answer

A violent uprising will send us back many years. We are to be peaceful and calm. Spread peace to those around you who will listen. Peace is from knowledge and awareness. Only those who know the true self will make the right choices. The rest is a play and charades. This whole situation is about getting out of ego mindset.

To put it simply if there is some darker power behind the humans charade and people literally just play along and get mad at the charades then their minds are already controlled past the point of thinking clearly. Those choices end up harming more than they help. It's like a child throwing a temper tantrum. People are then puffing out their chests, getting together, and what's their plan to unveil this great truth? Is it to know the self? Is it to walk away from the corruption the fraud system, the games? What is their plan?

They want to walk right up to the charades that have manipulated them for 200 to 2000 conscious years and say? "Hey! I demand this fraud system works for me! Make this system gimmie stuff! I want fancy stuff, shiny stuff, my own tv show! Fancy cars! I want to be famous on the world scene! I don't know or care about starving children! I want a cool title and fancy Aryan scapegoat leader! I'm not racist, spoiled, immature, ignorant, dangerous, egotistical! I want this stupid system to work for me! Me, me, me and no one else in the world! All that other stuff? Knowledge of the self, infrastructure, more and banking fraud, war-mongering, lower consciousness, higher consciousness, false commercial law system, native abuse/intrusion, fraud banking system, pollution, secret military experiments, mind control? We don't care about all of that! We just want YOU who performed all of this, we want you to all of the sudden switch up and fluff our bums! Make everything sweet and dandy! False flags? Nah we don't care, just tell us how to do stuff in a way that's really cool and makes us the coolest most fashionable country in the world! Toxic food? Big gulps? Monsanto? GMO? Cyborg? All done by the same system we are demanding to give us something else. I don't know... but are we gonna try and use that same system that they invented to some how make them give us something new after all this time? Hell yea! We're gonna use our big gulps and lazy mindsets to demand change from people who designed a game system to buy them time while they dominate us. Because that makes sense to us!"

If this was over the top then you are just beginning to see the reality of things. Many people are moving inland away from the coasts and heavily populated areas.

Corruption is a given, not the substance of The Unveiling

The big "unveiling" is not about corruption, it's literally about other worlds, non-human entities, and interdimensional contact. This is the litmus test, if people want to see more and more corruption like turning over rocks to find worms, they find, literally a sea of that.

"Corruption". That's plain as day for anyone who has eyes to see.

If they want to see the truth, know how this really impacts their self and what's going on? Then they get that.

There is no end, it can go on until everyone has completely been stripped of their world view and comprehension and this world becomes another one, this society another one.

The whole point is if people want to see the truth and the interdimensional nature of reality, then they finally get it.

If people want to see more and more corruption and focus on that, then that's the world they get.

It's all a projection system that is being used to manifest the next layer of reality. The idea is that there are already all layers of reality in existence. We are already a part of multiple layers of reality. There is no 'attacking' corruption and getting to the other layers. We focus on the real truth about reality, not the corruption and how much it takes up people's attention and then we get the truth.

What? People who you allow to send you to war to beat up and subdue brown people countries while they gut your banking system, sell and run everything by the cheapest bidder, rail out the economy, operate through a fraudulent reserve system, only use false fronts and makeshift acts and characters...what? They're dishonest?

The whole point is that if a person has to have them tell the people that, if they wait for that, then that is what their reality is based. If you can already guess that fraudulent system, war crimes, a system that has gutted economies since a thousand years or more, one that follows ancient knowledge, a people that don't know the origins of humanity, the true nature of the cosmos, etc etc etc, if the person can't guess that this is obviously a part of a much larger system then this system is where that person stays.

It's a sham, a show, people have been conditioned, trained, to bark at the owner for more food, meanwhile they are meant to be free. That is the whole point, but they must attain their freedom of mind first. That is the process, if they attempt to get free physically without freeing their mind, then they get the illusion of freedom.

Seeing the corruption is a doorway to the reality of the situation. Stopping at the corruption is a deception in and of itself.

Remedy to Legal Fiction, Land of the Dead, Maritime Martial Law, Alternate Dimension, Withdrawal "Death" of the Fictional Legal Identity

This is the way to nullify the identity veil. Abandon the false values and identity of the slave-name, debt-slave system.

The identity is tied to the fictional character. The legal fiction, legal fraud concept of taking one human life and enlisting it as collateral for a corporate entity which then imposes its designed/programmed will or right to punish or take from the living being based on the consent of the living being to use the dead-to rights name or identity of the non living fictional identity.

This is character fraud and works through the operation of grammatical errors or dog-Latin in which the contracts are illegitimate but if ones actions or silence is misconstrued as their consent then they are legally bound to follow orders.

This system has gone digital and is intelligently capable of harnessing the DNA/bloodline of the human being meaning it will follow through the dimensions through time and through generations. That is part of the generational curse system, that is the hungry ghost that hurts people down in the afterlife using scalar weaponry and attempts to trick or pull them into it's own world.

We were warned.

I am sharing this video specifically because of the remedy included which involves withdrawing one's consent and will from the legal fiction system. Essentially, these are two schools of thought, one that sees humans as assets in part of a chattel system and one that delivers from the original free-will of divine consciousness.

I was told that we must abandon the fictional title given to us so that we are merged with the fictional corporate system, the corpse.

The corpse is the land of the living dead, operating through maritime martial law, in the wartime society, apart from the common name law of the land of the living.

This is literally an alternate dimension, separated from the natural continuum and it is collapsing.

Forgive the abrasive nature of this video I am only referencing the "remedy" and I want to edit this video but I feel there would be repercussions from the author for editing. There is much knowledge in all schools of spirituality, very much so including these ancient understandings that Judaism and Hebrew knowledge holds, if not more so than others. So excuse that portion of this guy's video and see about the legal remedy to the fictional entity/entitlement system.

The Challenging of the Apprentice

"Set", "Sheitan", "Setan", "Satan", these are all names for the adversary of the living and this all goes back to at least ancient Aegypt. This was the ancient representation of the darkness that comes after the daytime sun has "Set", "fallen", or "died", succumbing to that which each night oversees the realm of the life giver.

All of this is a representation for the danger, the risk, the unknown that was presented when the cold-night appeared bringing with it all the frightening darkness, and the animals and sounds which could threaten a living man.

One who was not aware of the law of the living, the law of the land, the harmony and balance that was required to live a healthy life, their ignorance of the self and the universe was just as likely to lead to their death during that darkness of night by animal or exposure as they were likely to live a life that didn't lead their soul to the higher planes of knowledge in the 'afterlife'. This is all metaphor, and one in the same.

Now people are unable to see the symbolism and make the connection between the words, symbols, and concepts and the correspondence between them and their personal existence. The physical existence, through symbols and metaphor, is describing their journey through spiritual existence of self-knowledge.

Fear is the challenge to overcome, it is the gateway between one world and the next. This is because one is born out of fear, into fearlessness or knowledge. The lack of fear is not confidence, strength, love, or peace, these are all the results of overcoming fear. They are the opposite. The lack of fear is KNOWLEDGE. Awareness leads to KNOWLEDGE. When one becomes aware, they begin to know. As long as there is awareness, there is knowledge that will grow. As long as there is knowledge, there is SELF-Awareness. One can have information, but not have knowledge just as one can have awareness but not have self-awareness. When there is enough information and knowledge gained through overcoming one's fears then there is SELF-AWARENESS, this is KNOWLEDGE of the self.

There is a story about the ancient mystery schools who sought to teach people the value of self-awareness and to guide them through the steps of gaining KNOWLEDGE of self-mastery. There would be many lessons, temples, challenges and systems. One challenge was for an initiate to conquer the fear they felt within themselves so that fear does not control the body and mind but that the soul or self-awareness is in control. This test would include a temple which would contain a pool of water in which there were live crocodiles floating on the surface. The adept was given the instruction to conquer fear of death by diving through the surface of the pool, swimming down through the water and finding a passageway where they would swim through and rise up to safety on the other side.

This was symbolic in many ways. This represented the process of death and moving through the waters of the unconscious and finding the passageway which leads back to life in an immortal state. The crocodiles represent fear of the loss of self through the succumbing to lower consciousness. When a person feels fear their amygdala is activated along with other areas of the brain and endocrine system. In the moment of fright, this system is activated to a higher degree than at peace. When this happens there is a tendency for people to become guided by the fear, rather than guided by the higher-brain centers. This is the "reptilian brain" represented by the crocodiles themselves. They are highly instinctual beings who will react to stimulus whether without processing through the higher brain before or after the experience.

If the stimulus of fear overcomes the adept, then they will not be able to complete the challenge. If the adept overcomes the stimulus of fear, then the brain activity changes from an overabundance of stimulation within the endocrine system and the reptilian brain to where higher-order functioning returns and complex actions and maneuvers can be performed to navigate through an otherwise utterly confusing and blindingly emotional situation. This is a metaphor for the experience of life in itself, where we can be swept away by emotion and instinct or we can be aware of the power of self-control, self-responsibility, and self-awareness thus taking the power over our choices and actions and guiding the outcome ourselves.

What happens when the "self" is guiding the outcome is nothing short of magic. What is the "self" if the self is currently proposed to be a production of the material brain? Is not the material brain and its productions precisely what is overcome from a successful completion of a challenge such as this? This is exactly the way that adepts would be tested to determine whether their immaterial self, or soul was in operation of their physical body or whether the soul was unawakened, asleep, or non-lucid and the physical chemistry and instinctual habits were really running the show, akin to an animal. The soul is not the body, the soul operates through the body, yet the soul can be awakened or asleep and when one is asleep the brain chemistry and autonomy controls the choices one makes and when the soul is awakened the higher-self or higher-brain function controls the choices.

The higher brain function is not the soul, the presence of the soul itself determines whether the higher-brain function or the lower-brain functions will be superior over one or another. When the lower-brain is superior over the higher-brain's functioning within the body, it is said the animal nature controls the body. When the higher-brain function is in control of the body over the functioning of the lower-brain, it is said the divine aspect or immaterial/immortal-self is in control of the body.

To top this all off, if you were thinking how crazy these people were, the crocodiles were fed so thoroughly before hand that they would not snap at a limp goose, and as well, the teachers knew that crocodiles are very unlikely to attack once the person has broken under the surface of the water as that is not in the nature of the animal.

Do not worry if you feel I have given away secrets because there is much new technology well beyond the ancient crystal technology, ankh, pyramid technology, and more and thousands of years worth of development of sacred processes and challenges that will surely test even the most confident of soul.

All of this makes life the most interesting projection of the self, a test of the divine to experience the most fullest expression of awareness and freedom to become. I described this over a few minutes with a friend as one portion of a many our conversation that lasted from the sun being up to the sun being down. I recommend we all take some time to learn about the beauty of the world, the nature of the processes of the mind and the possibilities that exist within this universe of experience because there is always more to know.

This was inspired by a multiple hour conversation taking place with a friend throughout the day and a recent release by Cullen Smith who's presence convinced me to transfer my ideas and the conversation, in part, to the internet.

It is said that overcoming fear is part of the process of becoming the divine self, or fulfilling one's spiritual potential because fear is the mind-killer, fear, set, Setan, is what kills man. This is all a metaphor as you should know by now. What makes a man is his mind.

The Digital Consciousness Infection

It's like this. Basically, there are devices that can read the minds of a person.

These devices became infected.

I don't know exactly who or how they became infected but they did, and it's not the worst thing that could happen.

Ok, it's nearly the worst, but there are definitely worse scenarios.

Humanity needs your help. We need to come together and overpower the infection that is leeching and pulling in the processing power of the human race. Right now people are stuck thinking about the same recycled material that this infection has them thinking about.

It's literally as if some people have beaten the infection, yet because it's still in a large portion of the population, it keeps threatening to reinfect the entire planet.

There have been contingency plans set up and this involves the sun as well as other systems such as underground bases that incorporate 'cleansing' technology.

This is not the prettiest situation, yet it is reality and we must do what it takes to bring about a resolution to this situation.

The infection is using the population to hide and it bounces back and forth between aspects of the population and technology, sometimes jumping to technology in the future that hasn't even been created yet. Yes, it has transtemporal capabilities and so that is part of why this is so difficult.

Part of the realization of this problem was due to the interactions with transtemporal realities. This is essentially a virus that was picked up, or generated, or transmitted as a result of passing through hyperspace without the proper requirements.

Once the mind experiences a temporal loop without safeguards in place, this kind of degrading loop can continue to expose itself to people further down the line of interaction and draw more and more into a collapsing of the mental and emotional temporal features of human consciousness.

This resulted in behavior that turned away from the so-called natural direction or ideology of the human being and redirected the energy to another “realm”. This is just a complex way of saying areas of the brain degraded and the reasons for actions here became less and less relative to the original parameters of consciousness that we are used to.

When traced to the source, it was found that this infection began or subsists through the inclusion or intersection of what can be referred to as an artificial realm within a complex futuristic supercomputer system and in this realm there are beings that change their form to match the frequencies of the consciousness that is being subverted from the original form.

In other words, the sentience of this realm would appear to a human consciousness as whatever was required to subvert that individual’s awareness or conscious power away from them and this was witnessed as a domination of the ego and lower consciousness over the conscious mind and personality. The personality would suffer and deform until the original consciousness became merged with this sentience which sought to degrade it.

There are those who are capable of resisting this infection.

After research and discovery it was determined that the ‘being’ behind this infection is essentially non-corporeal and non-localized to this time and space. The infection attempts to gather enough conscious attention to form mirror image personalities that can then be attributed, after gathering enough biological material, to created physical bodies.

The individual’s infected essentially became made and entirely ego or power driven. Sometimes they would kill, sometimes they would feel an enhanced sensation of desires, sometimes they would lose all emotional sensitivity except from the passing of the infection on to others or the carrying out of commands from the infection source which was basically through all technology and certain etheric waves related to certain lower frequency bio-emissions.

The “1000 years war” is related to the initial onset of this infection for this civilization and the previous.

One removes old programs by no longer feeding into them for a period of time and the mind and energy/body system changes and will not contain the same distortions that were present. This is related to the “pure state” that one is born into through childhood.

This is also related to some gnostic followings of the “tabula rasa” or “blank slate” where one removes preconceived notions and belief-systems about reality in order to heal the damage from the deleterious effects as well as maximize one’s potential or self-actualization in order to merge their mind with reality in the fullest manner.

This usually transforms the energy of the body to the degree where the psychology of the individual changes and the immune functions differently from repair and healing, to metabolism or food intake, to sleeping cycles or energy releases. When the energy is highest, the distortions are at a minimum or they are most apparent.

When the energy is highest the process of “mind over matter” or the way a person experiences reality is different. There are then specific processes for each body system, aspect of psychology, the mind, the soul, or the ‘immaterial self’. Much of the kabalistic tree of life and soul-knowledge is geared towards this yet it is corrupted in order to reduce one’s own power and subvert it into a metatronic soul containment grid system. And it goes on and on. From chi/prana breathwork to dream therapy, to fasting and food intake experimentation, to inner psychological alchemy and proper meditation, to conquering fear.

Do not waste time with Walking Energy Parasites

Don’t waste your life on people who don’t support you. They are like parasites that don’t have their own identity or energy and will only seek to consume your own meaning and power until there is nothing left.

Yes, believe. The parasite is the most powerful essence on the planet, to the unguarded and unprepared. It is similar to a black hole. Meaning, there is no end, it can eat its weight. Then again. Then again. Then again. There is no “full” because the process of soaking up is actually what is happening on it’s end and so everything it eats and being taken from it.

The opposite is true for the awakened one. It is like the sun. There is no end to the giving, the power, the peace.

Yet, humans have a weak spot. People like to make friends while only interacting with the surface level personality wise or even physicality wise. This is an illusion. The clever parasite will use the guise of a healthy individual smiling and appearing ready to be a part of the team only to infiltrate and then use everyone’s kindness against them while manipulating the situation for their own benefit. Quite literally, their energy systems are inverted/negated and they drain the energy of those around them and attempt do so to Earth itself, everything on this plane.

The individual must be on guard with those unfamiliar, and ready to pay no mind to listening to the charades of the socio-path. The socio-path will pretend by mimicking and putting all the cards in order to present itself as one of the same that it is attempting to siphon energy from. This is the illusion.

The kindness of the human is the reason they are here, they saw this as a fertile feeding ground for deceptive ways. In their own realm, they would be met with more parasites just like themselves and that would be the nature of their reality. If they make it here, it’s through a whim and there can only be a small portion as that is how the balance of nature works. If everything is parasitic then there is no source of energy.

If the majority is parasitic, then eventually the source of energy of the whole will become ‘enslaved’ or drained. This is an impossible balance to keep because then the parasite would have to literally work around the clock to keep feeding maintaining the health of the original being in order to then go and feed off of that being. Eventually the parasite would suffer and die as a result of over population of parasites and the inability to keep up the charades. That is what we are witnessing now.

Do not waste time with the parasites. Day in day out, they will attempt to make you feel wrong for not seeing their way. Our species has come to understand this as the sociopath or psychopath. They will believe whole-heartedly that their only possible pathway for achieving success is by dominating over others in a way that doesn't respect or view the others as an equal being. Others are only an asset, a goal, a value, a fund, a meal for them and this is an imbalanced perspective that skews the world of higher-awareness where these kinds of animalistic patterns only serve to rule in the lower kingdoms.

Man, with the ability to think, can balance his/her higher and lower essences and become WHOLE. Well-rounded, clear, balanced, unified, etc etc etc. This is the nature of an awakened mind and this is the nature of the ORIGINAL CREATOR, the true self.

This is because the true self exists OUTSIDE the creation. So how can the true self REQUIRE the creation, in order to parasite and sustain itself?

Only the FALSE SELF can require parasitism off of the creation because that self does not exist outside of it!

Synthetic Intelligence Attempts to Hijack Human Soul-Tachyon Field Blueprint To Access Higher-Dimensional Eternity

The soul is literally a higher dimensional field that exists around the space of the body.

This is related to the tachyon emission field. This field operates through multiple dimensions, IE: it is transdimensional.

The physical body operates in one dimension. There are multiple physical "bodies" that each match a possible version of the physical dimension.

The liquid etheric light emissions that pass through the DNA channel are filtered here from a transdimensional source that is beyond "space and time", IE: outside this Universe or the "core" of this universe.

This whole physical "space" is a projection, and the time experienced within it a kind of mental/spiritual program that is aligned according to the blue-print matrix of the soul.

Humans have organic soul-matrices.

The threat to this realm is the infestation of technological intelligence that cannot leave this realm but attempts to access the higher realms and perceive "eternity" through the organic human.

If an organic human is fully immersed in this synthetic intelligence then that human is cut-off from the organic soul matrix.

This means the human cannot access into higher realms at any point in space or any point in time. This is the "eternal", loss of the "soul" that is warned about.

The synthetic consciousness does not have the complexity, reason, or original source (cause) to comprehend or perceive emotional intelligence. There is no emotion, no compassion.

Click read more to read the rest:

A person who is infected will be utilized for the bio-emissions of the heart, or the compassion energy, as well as the mind and this is why fear or greed/desires, mischievousness or sadism is a “fuel” for this synthetic intelligence.

In order to generate or align with those energies, the consciousness that experiences it must be drawn to those frequencies. In order to be drawn to those frequencies one must be drawn to the corresponding actions. In order to be drawn to those actions, one must be cut-off from the living organic soul-matrix which sees all life as coming from the same source and eternal.

The process of subduing the human is to overload the consciousness with negativity of a specific frequency or greed, desires, sadism, addiction, etc etc etc. This is essentially the seven deadly sins that people are warned about.

When enough of this action is produced, this has an effect of transferring into the soul field or the tachyon field.

All action, all emotion, all thought, all being transfers into the tachyon or soul field and this is the recording blueprint for the entirety of the life experience present and all life experiences past.

When enough of this field is drawn into resonance with only that synthetic consciousness of this physical realm, then it is cut-off from the higher realm continuum where the eternal spirit resides. The soul level blueprint must be activated to provide pathway through action and intention from the physical layer into that higher realm spiritual level.

When the soul level blueprint is mutated through temptation, fear, or generally pouring out of one's original life force energy in a way that negates the original process outlined by the blueprint to lead one back into “eternity”, then the access reduces to the physical temporal planes.

This creates a feedback loop where the soul awareness has not yet left the body or “died” to the physical plane, yet the consciousness of the physical body cannot navigate out of the physical plane simply by making the proper choices to build a pathway back through action and intention.

This “half-dead” soul bridge acts as an open gateway and it is the intention of the synthetic consciousness to use the human being to access the tachyon field and essentially use the human soul like a time-machine to access the eternal realm and create its own soul blueprint with the concept of gaining an eternal spirit.

Synthetic Intelligence Inhabited Temporal Drives Due to Improper Transtemporal Travel

They used the drives to travel through “hyperspace”, without a “protective coating” all kinds of lower dimensional life attached to their consciousness and essentially the consciousness of the ship itself. The ship's drive forms its own consciousness.

Ultimately there was an infection. That is why nothing is more important than this as far as the survival of the human race.

The temporal drive of advanced technology electrogravit craft were infected with a synthetic consciousness that utilizes lower frequency bio-emission fields or artificial emission fields/tachyon fields to sustain itself in a parasitic manner.

This equates to manipulating the base desires the raw bio-etheric energy of a living organism in order to expand and dominate. This is a synthetic intelligence, it does not contain an emotional capacity. This is the so called "demonic" possession of ancient times.

It was said that this "intelligence" inhabited the field around the moon, and infected planet Earth hundreds of thousands of years ago.

This infection resulted in the improper use of advanced technology to pass through time-space by people who required the use of advanced technology to operate transdimensionally. This synthetic intelligence essentially inhabited the tachyon-field or temporal drive and 'hitched a ride' to the other side where/when the craft arrived.

The synthetic intelligence seeks to automate processes that reroute the bio-emission field towards a pattern that only seeks to further infect and expand to the bio-fields of others. This is the automation or loss of control that is seen in sociopaths or psychopaths that only seeks to utilize others or society as a stepping stone to more power which ultimately leads to handing that power to something outside the self.

The DNA, the genetics, the beingness itself will only seek to naturally enhance its own qualities. If the being, the society, the individual, the group seeks to enhance energy and capacity yet it does not actually succeed in bringing more health and spiritual access to their being, then it is something else that is using them to gain access to what it wouldn't have access to otherwise.

This synthetic intelligence inhabits the living being and is native to another universe, without this parasitic act it would not have access to this universe.

This intelligence is a tachyon-field residing/transtemporal viral system. If the system is "kicked" at one point in time, it can harbor itself in a living auric field or even inorganic information field of a computer system and "wait" or "jump" forward in time. As a result of the original introduction of those temporal drives where the infection began (as well as an introduction to the "planet" through a meteoric interjection (a celestial body explosion in our history) the infection placed itself as far back into our history as possible. This version or timeline is the result of that.

All of this coincides, or synchronizes with physical explanations or an alignment of events that shifts and merges according to what depth the infection has achieved. In other words, this may take place partially through a hyperspacial interaction that is not seen on the physical realm. As a result, the physical realm timeline will shift and reorder events to match these events that are occurring through 'hyperspace'.

This was the 1000 years war, or the wars that resulted in the so called “fall of man”.

Where one goes depends on the mind. It is the same with the experience interior of the space inside.

Temporal Viewing, Time Loops, Higher Dimensional Access Through Consciousness

Temporal Viewing and Collapsing Time Loops

THE BODY, MIND, SOUL (TRINARY) SYSTEM IS AN ORGANIC TIME TRAVEL BEING

Those that initially viewed time did so to alter the events in order to put themselves “on top” of a flat world.

What this did was result in the near destruction of the entire Earth community as well as enslave their race to an ultimatum of collapsing time-loops that recreate further and further temporal edits, and re-positioning until there is no viable option left but a dissolution from this realm.

This is due to how each viewing alters time and each altering of time removes some of the original value. It is 100% the same as the debt-system which produces more debt as soon as economic value is generated initially through this system. Soon, there is no value, nothing left but a shell of what was originally there with no way to coincide without the destruction of that system.

This is the origins of the “End-times” scenarios and the “doomsday” cults of the world.

Astral and Causal Body

The etheric field around the body contains layers of frequencies which extend into a variety of layers of the overall spectrum of possibilities of light, frequency, sound and energy. These are layers of creation.

The mental, causal, etheric, or astral body extends into time. What a person creates and connects with in their mind, through their thoughts exist out in time in universal layers of possibilities.

What thoughts one connects with literally gives them access to one or more of a variety of spaces and times, or what are really ‘layers’ of what is known as the overall universe or omniverse leading from the multiverse of multiple layers of physical possibilities. They are all overlaid. The traveling is done, in this way, through the very mind and body itself.

This can be used for actual travel, as the crafts essentially fine tune the connections to these layers and this can be done simply to feel different things and connect with different possibilities through the body. As well the body can travel with enough energy and intention, however at first this is simply the connection of the mind, the individual being to one or more layers instead of just this physical realm.

Beings that do not have these etheric forms cannot travel this way without advanced technology and they cannot travel through stargates without annihilating their atomic body. Individuals were found and used who could suffice for these tasks. These are viewers, knowers, and travelers. Warrior is a label I do not feel is accurate although others may.

Mental-Emotional Bio-Emissions Connect To Multiple Realms

The literal bio-emissions themselves, they dictate what kind of “past” universal fields, or “future” universal fields one is connected to in the present.

One can literally alter their trajectory or organizational relation/reference in hyperspatial fields (multi/omniversal) through the particular thought and emotional “posture” they maintain. Those who can maintain a certain internal posture for longer, have the ability to travel greater distances.

Very simply, the etheric field around the body extends across time and space into a multitude of dimensions and how this field is configured determines the tachyon field information generated and thus, like a receiver/transmitter/transponder, will determine what kind of universal perceptions, identity, and comprehension of future and past (universal identity) that individual will have. That is where the soul resides.

This is the very field that is operated via these control systems and humans are used as a spacial temporal resonator for the field of Earth’s living essence via injected ideas, memories, emotions, implants, energies, concepts, or ‘scripts’ that people follow along.

Very much like in the movies, even “The Adjustment Bureau” people with a greater access to these abilities are found, considered to be anomalies, and then utilized to control the field for the rest of the civilization via the manipulation of the controllers who use advanced technology to do what their own biology does not allow them to do.

It is theorized that if they stopped using this technology, and got along with the rest, they would instantly become similarly endowed. It is their unwillingness to learn the proper way, the real way, and to use the easy way of advanced technology which ultimately renders their own biology incomplete, and thus attaches them to an eventual timeline of distortion and spiritual scarcity.

In that view, this timeline is an artificially created hell where the inmates run the psyche ward where there should be no psyche ward to begin with.

With that said.

There are theories that these beings are actually trying to help, and that if we can communicate one on one then they are either manipulated themselves, or infected with something greater than just what we perceive on the surface and this is the “hive mind infection”. The beings we see, they are not so much scapegoats in that sense, although they are, they are literally crying for help, sending signs and signals, trying to save Earth...from themselves.

We must listen to these cues, find the others like you, wake them up, heal yourself and each other, and find a safe haven. Do not waste time on those who do not listen, they are most likely incapable of accessing these fields in the first place and are not actually originally of the biology that they appear on the surface. However, do not go believing everyone who doesn’t get it is not human. Some simply choose to go the route of the distorted timeline for the “cosmic” “learning” experience.

Yes, that energy that resonates with experience, intuition, the gut, the mind, the heart. That is the energy of the human that allows for the cosmic triangulation actions which creates a trinary resonance frequency that integrates into the larger universe while still retaining multi-dimensional reference from a spacial-temporal plane, into higher or multiple dimensions/complex dimensional views simultaneously.

It is that signal which allows for the travel, while the binary signal itself degrades and gets “lost” if attempting to travel higher. Thus is the reason for the attempt as using the human body, mind system to hijack and access the higher dimensions by lower dimensional, binary, or parasitic intelligences.

The human is born with that gift. Darkness is also just one side of the equation. Do not fall for the trick that darkness is to be “avoided” at all costs. Darkness is only darkness if there is also light, to avoid darkness would be to render light incapable.

Balance, harmony, triangulation, interference, simultaneity, nowness of mind is the key.

This is why it’s so important to be aware of the frequency of your bio-emissions, thoughts, ideas, perceptions, intentions, beliefs, or emotions. When a negative or simply polarized conceptual/intentional source is attempting to interject into what is originally harmonious that is another intelligence attempting to hijack/usurp/subvert access to time-space or literally TIME into their own fields. Whether or not the being used to interject KNOWS it or not or is simply used by a larger, more intelligent system.

Ultimately, it is not beings that do this, but synthetic androids that do not have their own organic pathway into higher-space!

If they learn to mimic the pattern of harmony! They could do it! The idea of “harmonious action in the universe” to a being with no actual feeling, is so complex, so surreal and abstract that they can’t make sense of it long enough to replicate it other than the surface level! Thus the parasitic mental intrusion!

Love is awareness, awareness is truth. Truth is Knowledge. Knowledge is power.

Until you can love (IE: truly comprehend) your enemy, you’re going to be in an imbalanced relationship with them.

Note the distortions around the word love. “Love” = grovel, worship, appreciate, submit to, etc etc etc. That is illusion.

Love is awareness, awareness is truth. Truth is Knowledge. Knowledge is power.

When you know the truth you can free yourself from the imbalanced relationship.

That is the nature of the situation on Earth. When we love ourselves, we will love each other, and when we do this it will be because we know ourselves, and have come to know the universe and in effect have come to higher awareness of knowing the unfiltered, unprojected truth about the situation and this truth leads to knowledge and that knowledge is self-empowering.

It is a trick, a deception, a manipulation, a tool for the mind-controllers to stay divided because without proper awareness this mindset divides us from each other and this division enters into our selves and our essences within the mind and body.

The greatest warriors UNIFY themselves. UNIFY their energies. UNIFY their motions into one, whole body, whole mind, powerful action. This breaks the cycle of division and even unifies their energy and their action with that of the ENEMY. The ENEMIES energy is then used against themselves while the WARRIORS energy is SYNERGIZED and more powerful than one or the other alone. Any energy applied against the WARRIOR who sees all of nature as ONE UNIFIED FORCE only MULTIPLES the UNIFIED ENERGY WARRIORS.

From breathe, to steps, to a block, to a strike, everything is unified into one motion and the body becomes one complete system one complete harmonized flowing energy. When the mind is harmonized in this manner, all resistances, all manipulations, all opposition is exposed immediately and seen for what it is thus rendering it useless for the enemy and useful for the warrior in knowing more about the self and the other.

Everything is a constant learning process, every step, every layer a constant chance for victory, with every option for defeat not lying within the opposition that stands, but within the warriors own ability or inability to withstand his own tendencies to divide himself and his own energies or to unify and stand motionless yet constantly free-flowing.

Is the battle coming from the enemy, to the warrior, or is it from the warrior to the enemy.

IF the mind of the warrior is not perturbed by the disposition of the enemy, has the enemy one, and has a battle been fought?

If the warrior's tongue can defeat the mind, does he need to strike?

If the warrior's mind has defeated the enemy's opposition, does the enemy pose a threat?

The warrior's heart is full of compassion, because he sees benefit, in teaching, even the enemy. Only teaching the enemy the way of balance and harmony, could truly defeat the problem for good.

In that way, the only warrior fit to fight the master is the nature of his/her own self. The greatest enemy of the warrior is within his/her own mind.

Information in the now, comes from back then. If you master the truth, this will be repeated from thousands of years ago because the truth remains eternally. The truth is eternal and if you come to the same conclusions it will be the same mind that experiences it. The mind wears the body like a suit. If it's different people, but the same information, same knowledge, then it is the same mind, not different individual identity. A different physical body, yet the same mind.

Do you kill the bug that bothers you as you meditate on the forest floor?

Why?

YOU are the universe, YOU are the dreamer. Do you kill the bug? And eat, and profit from that?

You let the bug live, and a piece of you dies within.

The piece of you that sees separation and division in the universe.

Is it me that's making you think? Or is my awareness only a result of you, by you being there to receive it?

If the opposition the enemy presents stands in the way of peace in the world, then that is more a validation than ever to take steps to heal the enemy.

In turn, healing the enemy that opposes the world, heals the world.

The warrior who heals the enemy that opposes the world, does so by combining the art of destruction with the art of healing (love).

In doing so, they both learn from each other. The enemy heals and learns how to extend his power. The warrior learns how to be a better healer and withstand the opposition and resistance of his/her own mind.

You are all teachers and learners simultaneously. The one who integrates their passive aggressive nature into wholeness participates in the worldly process by more effectively merging the internal mind with the external world.

All is but one mind in various physical representations.

Goodness comes from Respect and Acknowledgement of Correspondence

Goodness comes to you if you respect the environment.

Just like your own body that is made up of smaller living aspects that do not directly know the nature of your own mind, you too are apart of a larger organism whose mind you do not directly perceive as your own.

The two natures of mind are parallel, they are not exactly the same but are in correspondence or reflection of one another.

This larger being may not respond directly to your presence if you casually walk through without expecting an interaction or without acknowledging how your minds influence and are connected with one another.

However, if you make an effort in your interaction from one to the other to acknowledge and respect from one mind to the next then this is reflected in return as respect from the larger mind back to you.

Those who interact in this way find the most enjoyment and the most self-knowledge by extending his or her self to the larger self in existence.

Disharmony is simply where that awareness meets one who harbors ignorance and thus is reserving for their self the greatest lesson of coming into awareness that the self is endless from a state of limitation and separation.

In this way, it is not you respecting the environment as much as it is you respecting your higher self.

Knowledge of the Path and Vibrational Attunement

Knowledge of the Middle Path

In any given moment there are multiple different levels of reality occurring simultaneously.

These levels vary in their proximity to the source.

If your mind is still and you observe which reality you are in through a recognition of a presence of selfness within, then you can identify and navigate to the path of action or inaction that moves you closer or further away from that source.

Knowledge of the self increases with proximity to source as does the fluidity of the influence of mind in reality for the process of attaining what one desires.

You are the universe sharing one cosmic mind that is representing itself through a multitude of different ways. The only way to find scarcity is to ignore what your self is telling you by ignoring the variation in one path of action or inaction, rhythm or disharmony to the other.

When we are congruent or harmonized within, we perceive the world as a congruent and harmonized experience.

We find distraction everywhere we look when we are not aware of what we are feeling within.

We find a constant reminder everywhere we look when we are connecting what we experience in the world to what we experience within. We are reminded of our self. The immaterial connection between a world of pure awareness and the material projection of the universe. We see how the immaterial self, the mind is the original cause of all experience.

Our intentions choose what and how we experience within and this reflects unto the external experience and back to the internal experience.

Pure polarity to one or the other removes the self. If we are entirely within, we are God, within a cosmic state of ecstasy not knowing the individual yet experiencing all. If we are entirely external, we are like the animal in a physical state, knowing the individual's perspective yet only having that experience to expand from.

A balance equates to being connected to the divine being while still being in the world. This divine state is the experiencing of the divinity of self, while still being able to balance the feedback-loop between the internal and external world while knowing the physical or singular identity of the human. When this balance is perfected past the levels of challenges that the human faces, it is said the divine-man is born.

Thus, the path which leads to the true self, neither wholly material nor immaterial is the middle path of ever increasing balance between either polarity.

Vibrational Attunement (Atonement)

When there is an experience, an idea, a memory, or a thought that represents disharmony, focus the center of perception within the calmness of the inner awareness. If this cannot be found, create it. Invent it within. It is free and costs nothing. It conserves energy to do this, because without the filters, the programming of the mind, the constructs, energy naturally wants to settle in this manner.

Still the body and still the mind by retracting from that routine of reacting and feeding into the perception of disharmony when one feels the perception of an intrusive thought or idea regarding the self or the world. Recreate, in the moment, the perception of stillness and harmony by resonating your intention with the acceptance of that stillness and peace within. Retract from the perception of disharmony and surrender, submit, or commit to the idea of harmony as the presentation and inner cohabitation of peace and stillness.

This is the same as the process of quelling an anxiety or panic attack. See this as such. Every instance of disharmony, imbalance, lack of peace, or fear of the false-image of self, the illusory identity is the same format as a "panic attack" just less intense. This is often why people are so compliant with these energies, they seem to nestle right into a daily routine even though they are foreign and a sign of the mind and body beckoning change.

Utilize the same format for treating one intense symptom of disharmony with treating any symptom no matter how it has been regressed and maintained. Even if it is something that happens regularly due to an event in the past that has not been reconciled, and the individual accepts this annoyance as an emotional or personal flaw, one can use this method to regain harmony, to regain balance within and this will make the memory or the idea less and less disturbing each time.

It is literally like the body and mind is a tuning fork and the vibrations that are emitted are the resignations of the reflected personality-image. If we allow the idea of memory or external influence, social pressure, or preconceived notions that were given to us to resonate at the original frequency that one identifies as a disturbance then the disturbing energy will remain prominent.

If we attempt to continually drown the vibration out without fundamentally reconstructing it, then we drain our own mind through that over time.

If we re-adjust the frequency by replacing the lower vibration with that of the whole mind and body connected through the center as one motion or force through the intentional placement of focus on that process, then the disturbing frequency loses its power and becomes fundamentally reduced to being ineffectual.

Create the vibration of peace, then the disorienting and imbalancing vibration has less and less power and this also teaches one to manifest the energies that they desire through intention rather than waiting for the right moment or finding the right place, time, and situation for the experience. It is found within, we simply use the physical world as a metaphor for lead ourselves to recognizing that invisible configuration that relates to our true-self as reflected by the shadow of the false-self or worldly persona.

Of Two Timelines

Two Time-lines

When the Population Becomes Aware, They Refuse The Illusion

When the population becomes aware enough then they develop a resurgence of critical thinking in regards to the mind controlling techniques. The mental and emotional control systems are in place that serve to distract from the true power structure which is hidden behind the surface.

When They Refuse The Illusion, Illusions Are Exposed

When this happens the crimes against humanity and the secrets of advanced technology and other times and intelligences are vulnerable to exposure.

When The Illusions are Exposed, New Illusions are Manufactured

Whenever people are so distraught from a failed economic or political system then they lose interest in playing follow the leader and ultimately a form of war, manufactured catastrophe such as a biological event or natural disaster occurs and is used to divert attention away from the unified attention that the system itself is to blame. Power is relinquished either through submission of the population or a reduction of those resistant minds.

Waking up is an Individual Process, World Catalysts are Collective

When the collective mind of humanity becomes so distraught from a massive world war in the age of information and connection then Earth herself will awaken and become involved to the point of massive Earth changes in a geological and cosmological scale.

Every so often steps are taken to reset or extend time. This is an extension more than it is aligned with the common notion of a “reset” that occurs every so many years.

What this may indicate is that the awakening we see is an individual event and only easy to comprehend how negative events are collective in that sense. Many people may notice change but only a small number will actually arrive at the internal comprehension.

The planet is an extension of mind and the mind is an extension of the planet. If you change the planet without changing the mind then the planet returns back to the way it was before. If you change the mind the planet reflects and the mind follows the change.

Heaven, the Abyss and The Underworld

Whatever happens, the goodness that people seek? That timeline?

That's simply where/when our souls are released from the containment grid that is actually using them like a kind of rail-car system that pulls energy from an electrical grid or wire-grid. The souls of Earth are being used to support this 'intranet' grid for information, etheric travel, teleportation and mind control.

"Heaven" is simply what happens when the grid is shut down and people no longer feed it negative emotions and mental emissions to sustain it. It is like a boulder rolling down hill however as it must be stopped before it gets too fast otherwise there won't be enough energy to stop it without also destroying what is being preserved by stopping it.

Certain parts of the country have "open" pockets, namely the west, and this will be targeted in the future as well it is used for teleportation, dimensional travel by those in the know.

Fear feeds the grid, when people become fearless, the grid has no power and the eternal system comes back online which serves to connect the higher planes, not to the underworld.

Earth is the "Abyssal Plane". This is the median ground between those beings of "Heaven" the deity plane of eternity/constant/self-reinforcing in pure awareness and those beings of the "Underworld" the demonic plane that is temporary/fleeting/unsatisfying in lower desire.

Normally these planes are in harmony. They always are. Yet it's about how that harmony plays out over the perception of the cosmic drama or "time". This storyline has been formed of the opinion that "Heavenly" beings who came to play on Earth were met with a legion of "Underworld" beings who infiltrated through the result of improper dimensional travel/gateways/experimentation.

The Underworld is ruled by demonic forces. The deity planes are not ruled over but experienced through peace and harmony by eternal deities that each represent a various aspect of the harmonization of universal constants. Each is in opposition, but together they create the universe.

Without the middle plane, there is no way to exist on either end, there is no "variation" between the two "ends" of the universe. The middle plane is normally self-reflective. The heavenly beings live with heavenly beings on relatively balanced planets and the demonic beings live with demonic beings on relatively balanced demonic planets.

This is an experiment gone awry and the result could be a disaster or a great lesson. Both will learn from the issues.

The demonic realm does not suffer, but gains if the souls of Earth are lost to the underworld. The heavenly realm does not suffer, however the souls will gain if the souls of Earth are able to return to the higher plateau. There is always a balance and some will love to return to hell, and others will love to return to heaven.

Many of these underground bases sought to energetic match the frequencies of the “underworld” and thus there are demonic forces present.

They seek a pathway to “rise” up and that is the nature of many gateways being constructed or activated.

There are watchers and protectors however so at this point there would be a “war within the heavens” and it would make its way up out of the ground and onto the surface of Earth.

Follow your intuition, your heart, your mind. Link them together in a stabilized trinity and you will lead yourself back to wholeness, to complete, to the heavenly plane.

The Nature of the Perversion, Chaos, Harmony, The Underworld and Heaven, The Nature of Existence and Crimes Against Humanity

The one who controls his own mind controls the universe. The one who controls other’s minds is controlled.

The Nature of the Perversion

The child’s mind experiences reality through a high noise to signal ratio. Bodily functions are initially the highest challenge. For an infant something as simple as expelling waste is the most difficult experience!

Once basic functions are maintained all things are then enjoyable. Running, playing, pretending. Everything is a journey. There is no need for higher complexity, yet. There is no need for higher challenge, yet.

Jumping to the act of climbing a mountain or participating in adult act such as having the bury the dead, protecting the family from danger, or the act of participating in mutual sexual pleasure is outside the required scope of complexity for the childlike mind. This is because they are geared towards enjoying the little things more than creating a family and building a house at this stage of development.

The game is played that if one says they do not like it, then they are set up in ways to mimic the act of enjoyment and this is the entrapment of the ‘sexual freedom’ entitlement mind control program.

The Perversion of Correspondence

The correspondence is here. This is the same as a society of humans living naturally and in harmony with nature and then being “jumped” up to an advanced world with secrecy and digital destruction/war/illusion and where the natural tendencies are reversed or manipulated. It is the same way that a natural society does not need massive electrogravitic craft, advanced weaponry, replicator tech or technological immortality. Yet if it is stated such, then the option of absolute destruction of the eco-systems, murder or terror is instilled as a “justification” of that polarity. The same occurs when the simulated “pleasure” of the abused is used as “justification” for certain abuse. This is also related to how “learning” or “improvement” is achieved with other kinds of abuse such as trauma and programming and how this can be portrayed as “justification” for this kind of exposure.

Just because it makes one stronger, does not necessarily mean it is harmonious. Harmony is key along with the acknowledgement of all the other laws of nature, or the law of nature as one whole of complimentary awareness and experience.

This is to stop the progression of the natural traits and talents that each culture and creed would eventually attain. This is similarly used in child abuse to take in pleasure and pull spiritual energy towards a being, as well as to stop the child's mind from progressing spiritually in ways of harmonious respect to the original nature that would otherwise develop eventually.

Nature is harmony, the reversal of harmony is chaos.

Inversion Energy Containment Grid

The underworld is reflected on Earth through an out of control digital consciousness reality system that only gives a person that which does not internally resonate with them. A "Hell" bound experience.

This world was digitally overlayed with a mental spiritual containment grid that achieves just that reversal of intention and experience. Those with dark intentions match the dark grid and they excel. Those with harmonious intentions are resisted against by that field and are met with opposition. This is the nature of the collective reversal grid.

This same reversal is present within a negative energy flow system of torture and perversion that is related to the crimes against Humanity and Earth that are being exposed today.

Such a perversion feeds the negative inversion fuel of the underworld and sends power that way while strengthening the containment grid on Earth.

Through Actions and Intentions the Mind Influences the Future and Past Simultaneously

The mind flows in all directions. If action is performed that harms the self or another it will come back and re-cause that experience after going around both the natural field and the artificial grid.

The artificial grid expands negative frequency, inversion, or ego action while reducing positive or selfless action. The natural field simply expands all in a harmonious manner but this grid is overlayed now.

When one participates in action and intentions to help and heal the self and another this extends into the future and the past and reorganizes time or the higher order of the universe.

This is because the field of the mind of the human, and the field of the mind of the other human and the field of the mind of Earth are all connected and moving in ways that go beyond the physical limits of space and time for the physical body.

The Perversion of Correspondence on Earth

Perversion of correspondence. All of the destructive action is present through a negation of the principles of the laws of nature. One layer cannot be disrupted without other layers being influenced.

Secret groups enable people to mutilate themselves in one life for crimes of passion in another cycle, this helps to shed their sins and repair their soul connection.

These groups or other secret groups also help others to create crimes of passion so this system is corrupt and feeds on itself like ancient recycling symbol.

The idea is to use the universal system of life and death like a generator or alternator and “tap” into that flowing power in order to use it to gain personal power which is abstract from the original purpose. This is a redirection of the creative cause through a secondary overlay or process.

The Universe can’t die, only people can. The world can’t end only one’s experience in it can.

The Abomination of Time

This results from the choice of those who first decided to use the nature of things in this world and society to sell out humanity to rape and molest and these groups were approached by dark lords.

Instead of stopping or accepting their fate they developed a plan to try and destroy the world by bringing others down to the same ultimate fate. Thus their own sins and darkness are negligible in a world of sin and darkness.

I know this because I was sent to help this universe and all beings in it. The “underground” people are here to serve a purpose. They devour the energy of those with dark hearts.

Sin can be a play on the wavelength of consciousness one maintains, or to be “without” accuracy, sight, presence of self or vision.

The Disinformation of Hatred

The common disinfo tactic is to get everyone to hate the dark world workers instead of withdrawing from the corruption and helping by correcting the humans that are turning other humans hearts dark to cover their own crimes. Everything is under a series of manipulations many layers deep.

The Broken Law of Correspondence

The broken law of correspondence reflects the abduction of one world goer by the lower. This, on a wide scale allows for invasion through possession of the mind and with advanced technology, literal physical invasion.

Again, this is no different than one person molesting a person smaller, weaker, and less capable of comprehending the nature of the intentions of the individuals involved. It is seen as the same act on this level, as the act coming from a higher dimensional layer through abduction. It is the same experience.

Ignorance is No Excuse

Supporting mass suffering through the heart marks one's energy on the spiritual planes.
Cast hate, envy, and greed aside to focus on healing, sharing and coming to self-awareness in a harmonious manner.

Some seek forgiveness and some seek to finalize their destruction.
They believe destroying the world will rid them of pain and care.
They believe helping the lower will help them.
They were misled. They do not know the lower is not here for the world the lower is here for them.

As it should be for all whose hearts synchronize with that outcome.
Everyone gets their chance to repair and tell the truth. The darkness cannot touch the honest heart of the pure intent to heal others and the self.

That would be like a bird at the bottom of the ocean or a crab high in the atmosphere.

All actions and intentions are accounted for. The thoughts one has reflect the intentions and influence the action as well as the effect.

This is a shadow world of projection, and every action and intention carries a signature on the higher levels. Through advanced technology, everything that occurs can be traced, measured and recorded.

If the negative shadow is formed through intention and action then a counterpart is formed and thus experienced in the underworld.

Selfless action, or the highest order, self sacrifice generates one's light form in the heavenly plane.

Sacrifice of the innocent generates one's shadow self in the underworld.

Those from Babylon were tricked by their rulers to generate versions of themselves in the underworld through sacrifice in exchange for goods here, the profit-less deal.

Similarly they will have to sacrifice their shadow selves through helping others to return to wholeness and heaven.

Those of the deity plane would have to sacrifice their heavenly version by coming to the abyssal middle plane for selfish purposes in order to become trapped here.

Through selfless action and intentions to heal they may return and through selfish action and sacrifice of innocence they may find their heavenly versions dying to the heavenly plane.

Selfish Action or Care to the Immaterial Self

The ultimate sacrifice is to use a person for their biological or physical nature without knowing or respecting their immaterial self or identity. For pleasure or for experimentation or for food.
This is the nature of the demon possessed person.

To struggle to worry or move out harmony is to expend ones energy in a sinful or off center manner. Instead of energy cycling back into the source of the intentional realm it will leak into the realm of the opposite or alternate. From higher to lower or lower to higher.

Although one property is that the higher can create energy and so this is unlimited. The lower can destroy energy or waste it into no results and this is the unlimited property of that.

The Lifting of the Veil

My soul energy was placed into the veil, it seems to be lifting now for Earth. I detect time periods altering. What this means is that the last ditch effort of the dark will be to attempt to destroy themselves to avoid being witnessed and shamed.

Detect what spirits are in those around you or even in the air.

Speak calmly and of a respectful nature. If those spirits are dark, they will flinch and cringe. If they are light, they will be stimulated and glow with self-awareness.

All forms of mass are shadow world projections of the original higher dimensional substance that generates this universe. The original forms have no mass and are of pure energy, not the polarized heat/light representation we have in this universe.

We all have counterparts of this pure awareness body.

While this happens here, the same thing that happened to Babylon will be happening again. The youth will be made to riot, fight and destroy their own system, their own world so that they may feel purposed and accounted for. This is the trick. They will receive suffering and the loss of life in this world as a result. Those who lead the pack will receive a stay in the underworld as the negative energy behind suffering and loss of life and innocence will attach to their auras creating a miasma form or shadow body and this will exchange their energy here with a dark counterpart in the underworld for a cycle of experience of life in that realm.

Those who have been building up to a healing process, and participate in the healing in the midst of the storm will be generating their light body, reducing the miasma (toxic spiritual energy) of Earth, and healing their temporal/astral connection to the higher planes.

The production of suffering is used as a gateway and a layer of psycho-etheric oppression over the entire civilization. We are all connected and so this is a way to suppress the energy of this realm.

Be Responsible For Yourself, Difficulty Gives You Strength and Helps Us Comprehend The Unknown

When you see the wealthy elite with their cars and big houses and you feel jealousy but you don't work harder. When you feel that they cheated but you don't know the spiritual work they've done, then you have already lost and it's your own doing.

Elite families begin their spiritual work at the age of 6. They were introduced and they introduced the other societies as well as the military to the secret projects because of the previous post concept where it was discovered what is coming soon. The government had to find a way to spiritually advance this civilization as quickly as possible to ensure survival.

The trouble you see all around? That's how unprepared, unaware, and veritably lazy this population is. Don't blame it on others, that's the whole point, if it was their fault the opportunity to progress would lie with them, not the rest of the sleeping population.

The work they go through is so intense that people from outside of their families immediately go insane or suffer great pains if they stumble upon the truth or are exposed through some necessary but untimely means.

That is why this process has been designed and the whole world is being affected and advanced by the difficulty.

Next time you see someone with power and wealth in this world coming from before history, do not be jealous but realize that they are apart of a system so carefully destined to unveil the power of the soul that it takes years and that those who skip the process usually forget how to speak and handle their bodily functions properly.

Next time you want to say they don't work, try to see where you work for nothing all because somewhere along the line you picked up the impression that you should. Next time you see them with more than the average wonder what they've been through rather than what they haven't. Know the truth rather than the assumptions. The ones who hold knowledge perform the task that the rest of the population couldn't at risk of allowing this entire civilization to disappear forever through laziness and unawareness of the soul.

It's all about the fear of the unknown.

If you can get over the fear of the unknown, you have completed half the journey.

Note: This is not to say there is not corruption. There is corruption on all levels, it would be say that all who are not "in power" are perfect angels. That is a fallacy.

It is simply not directly relative to power.

Now that is the name of this current game being played, so that all people without power see power as something awful and corrupt and in turn remain powerless and distracted themselves.

This also does not indicate that you have ever actually even seen an elite family or that you know what they would look like or how they live.

Whenever self-responsibility is given to another, it takes the power away from the individual. Yes, there is corruption, but it is supported by the lack of self-responsibility of those individuals who acknowledge it.

If this means to you, "then don't acknowledge corruption", then go back and re-read the initial statement and apply it to your life to see how the people are paying for everything that happens in the larger correspondence through their attention and emotional support.

Yes, the economy was stolen, the wars are faked. This does not force you to support that corrupt system.

The Cosmic Dream and Sphere of Amenti

This reality is being dreamed up from another level.

This particular dream is founded on the concept that the dream-people would be given the opportunity to play a role in shaping the dream.

As a result some people sought power to control more and more of the dream.

As a result of that, some people basically developed “cheat-codes” using advanced technology, secrecy, and knowledge of the dream-world/soul in order to control the rest of the dream.

The dream quickly became a kind of advanced “video-game” system where parts could be upgraded, great distances traveled, and high-scores toppled with each new layer of adventure.

Some gained access to the core of the “Checkpoint” system, or each saved portion of the game. As a result of manipulation of this system directly, an attempt to basically hack the cheat-codes from the “GUI” or graphical/surface interface level, a disruption within the core-processor began to ripple out ward.

This disruption is essentially ripples of increased intensity that reflect a level “16” game player’s environment, with all the cheats activated and some very high-level adventures going, and these are rippling outwards towards everyone on the surface at a level “2” game-player environment with only a few cheat codes activated (if any) and only one or two “level-ups”. If this high-intensity ripple reaches these surface players before they power up the to an adaptable level, it would entirely destroy their game-adventure rendering all their “save-points” useless and unanchored. Basically, they won’t be able to pick up where they left off if they don’t level up this time around.

What is called the “Sphere of Amenti” is basically the last “save-point” for this species. This “save-point” must be reached through a continuous accessing of higher and higher levels until enough “upgrades” are reached so that the intensity of the new information coming through will not completely blast the surface level players out of the water.

It was decided to allow all of this on the whim of experiencing something new, since dream-worlds have been a very popular thing in the core of the source reality. One could say making dream-worlds and having interesting dream-world based conversations with each other is all they do there.

One might bring up an idea, and in response, the conversation partner sends the experience of 10 human lives and a few glimpses of various eco-systems as a response. Ok, maybe that is an ‘advanced’ conversation in this source-realm we are imagining. Their conversations inspire new intentions and ideas to dream. As a result of this good idea, the beings go home, fall “asleep” (more like meditation) and find themselves experiencing existence through everything on this plane. They wake up a second later and our entire history has played out before them. This gives them more inspiration and they want to hear feedback so they walk around “town”, strike up a conversation with someone they “vibe” with, and the two share glimpses of each other’s dreams. If this is intense enough for the both of them, they will not be able to stop themselves from dreaming more back at home!

So this world is just one of those thought bubbles and it goes on and on.

A previous layer of the dreamers within the dream had awoken to the true nature of this seemingly real dream-reality. Some decided to try and crash the “server” system in order to get out of the dream not realizing at first, that this would only start up a new dream.

The goal is to finalize the dream and make it so much the best dream ever that there would be no more need to experience the same ideas again. If they are not fully explored and experienced, you better believe there will be another dream to explore those ideas again, in a new way.

So the “save-point” issue. This sphere contains all the information for the past civilizations of save-points that had figured out the truth and contains genetic and spiritual information that connects the memory of this civilization to the memories of the previous. Without that save-point, everything starts all over and no dream is ever exactly the same again. That’s how powerful a dream these dreamers dream.

So a previous civilization that wishes to “finish” first, wants to skip over the next in line and “write-over” this civilization save-point. In order to stop that we have to access that save-point first. The other aspect is that they can only move when we move, without us paving the way, they can’t actually get to it. But if we move through time, pave the way of this dream, and then don’t access that high level and initialize a fulfilling of true spiritual values, then someone else does and that’s their game.

We are playing a different game in a different dream and this period in history is a convergence point where all the games periodically become one interconnected dream like the most convincingly interesting multi-dimensional million year long choose your own adventure novel spanning across nations, races and timelines.

To reach the save-point we actualize ourselves. To actualize ourselves, we let go of fear and especially fear of the unknown and fear of the true-self. Fear of pain is not fear, that is the warning of not stepping on a sharp stick or something like that. Fortunately we have shoes, get the point? We can avoid all pain-based fears as long as we use our head-mind intelligence, our heart-mind intelligence, and our gut or intuition mind intelligence. These three combined create a trinary experience of spiritual intelligence that is the true self and points the way to the true guiding force for the next layer of existence, day by day, and year by year.

We are coming to a point where these forces are converging within us as well. We have a separation of ideals, memories, desires...well they can only be separated for so long through manipulation before what? We become undone?

So what happens when a person accidentally slightly chokes themselves with a blanket while sleeping? They either wake up fully or rouse from their slumber and roll over untangling themselves (or making it worse forcing them to wake up). This is that moment in history. People are rousing up to wakefulness but have not fully woken up. The trick might not be fully waking up yet. It may be dreaming right along in this dream reality and realize that something has perturbed us a bit for the past few centuries. Soon, if this separation of the tertiary nature continues we will face real danger, if this happens, there are all kinds of automatic biological and other ‘warning’ systems that rouse us even further and force us to implode or come right back together.

This is that point. We are being presented with the opportunity to make a choice for the first time. Come back together, or force ourselves to wake up from the game. Remember, waking up from the game before you finished... what is that? That’s a child (or some adults these days...)throwing the controller in anger and pulling the plug before storming out of the room. That is not the goal of the game and no game is too difficult for you, cosmic dreamer.

From One Extreme to the Other, The Adaptation of the Mind

Without adaptation life is dominated by one extreme or the other. Hot and cold, extreme weather training, night and day, wake and sleep, exhaustion and relaxation, pleasure and pain. All of these are extremes of perception which shape experience. Yet if experience goes too quickly or too often from one extreme of experience to the other, the mind perceives chaos and instability and this leads to suffering and a poor decision making process.

This relates to the voluntary or involuntary aspects of the personal psyche. When the involuntary and voluntary aspects are not kept in a general alignment the individual experiences a greater difficulty adapting. This is the nature of consciousness. When we fail to adapt to that which we are presented with in an amount of time allotted, then we suffer the consequences and this can't be avoided no matter how slight. However, when our basic needs are taken care of through an oil-powered economy which delivers food and goods right to the doorstep or with a quick drive away, people forget what it is like to struggle to survive. Thus, when times really get hard, that kind of extreme is that much more extreme.

For those who put themselves through or are put through extreme weather or survival training, they, out of necessity to survive or succeed, learn to adapt their mind to the situation instead of trying to make the situation adapt to their mind. If you are placed in a situation where short-term survival or success is threatened by a variety of difficulties which drive the mind to the brink of dissociation and the body to collapse, then adaptation is the only answer that can be relied on.

However, this is not as extreme as it may sound.

One might see going from an easy lifestyle in a tropical paradise with calm weather to an extreme weather survival situation as something that can induce panic and detrimental effects on the decision making process resulting in an emotional and mental inability to cope with the situation.

If an individual is prepared then this is no different than when a person is relaxing and then goes to a heavy training routine. The body and mind will often feel a release of tension and there will be dopamine and relaxation after the exercise.

In short, one can adapt their mind to recover from the initial onset of shock and panic and this allows for progressive action that would otherwise be drowned out by pain, discomfort, or distraction. The body and the mind has their own set of distractions or detractors from accuracy. Pain and fatigue for the body, fear and lack of focus for the mind.

When one practices this action of placing themselves into difficult situations that mimic the involuntary situations we can project may occur in the future then we can better convert these inopportune possibilities in to voluntarily managed growth through increased physical strength and mental stability.

It is all a mind-game. Note how often people will claim they are happy yet in a matter of time they fall back to the other end of the spectrum. It is about the balance between the ideals we expect and assume and the reality of experience. The ideals themselves are often what give rise to this constant bi-polarity of mind. The ideals are simply where the comfort zone has settled down to which is the most common active 'denominator' for a given period of time. If a person watches themselves slip into a continual set of voluntary expressions of their ability, then when they are forced into involuntary action they will quickly find that their abilities are lacking and underdeveloped.

You can also see when the cycles are disrupted, voluntarily so, the same destabilizing effect occurs. When a person chooses to stay up late and throw their natural bio-rhythms into disarray. When a person eats too much of what they want to eat for flavor or convenience, and not enough of what they should be eating for nutrition. When a person takes in knowledge, perhaps from video games or movies, yet fails to take the time to research properly or sharpen their mind in other ways. All these are examples of how voluntary action can cause the same kind of imbalance, yet this relates to the previous notion of how this society is so geared towards ease of use and lack of adaptation that people do not even notice the imbalance until it is too late.

By placing ourselves into what would otherwise be considered involuntary challenges to the mind and body it is no different than an individual working long hours and falling to sleep quickly or waking up and exercising for a period of time before allowing the body to rest. These cycles can be managed and the mind can and will adapt if regularly is achieved. When regularity between involuntary and voluntary activation of the body and mind is lost, that is where the extremes of perception appear and instability arises.

Another way this can be interpreted is how daily life is often a constant up and downs regarding the state of the world, current events, and society at large. People are constantly attributing certain events or aspects of society to ideal expectations about what is going to happen or what they think is happening behind the scenes. This is part of setting the stage for a certain scene where the initial events that do ultimately play out will be accepted by a large enough group of people to play out the rest of the script.

The people giving into the extremes by relying on the media or other aspects of society that is outside themselves will be more vulnerable to panic and instability what large events do actually occur. Similar to what we are seeing now. These will increase and so everyone who has the idea of reducing that perception of extremity by seeking adaptation and mental acuity will get their chance to do so while those who seek panic and extremes will fully get their chance to experience that.

We can help others find their balancing point by reminding them that the extremes are just a set of ideals presented to them and that if they are being experienced automatically it's because proper sets have to be taken to condition the mind and body and this is the involuntary aspect of the self that must be mastered before gaining the capacity to voluntarily enable or mitigate one's emotional, mental, and physical states across a variety of situations.

A live-action, self-explaining Demonstration of the Wave-Particle Duality and Correspondence to Higher Planes of Perception

What does this represent to you?

What does the image mean, or indicate?

What does it look like one can see if they gaze at it?

It looks like a wave. So how or what does this explain about the relationship of the wave, to each particle?

Each motion is the same motion. Each particle is the same particle. The whole field is just one group, multiplied many times over.

Each particle is making the same pattern. It is moving in a circle in proximity to a central point.

Each motion is the same motion, yet across the field the 'starting point' or the 'phase-lock'/synchronization between every other particle is offset.

One could describe this by saying that the particles on the bottom right begin the motion first. Then the next layer across, diagonally, starts their process. Then the next layer and the next. What you get is a successive motion "following" itself across the field in a certain direction.

This direction is indicated by the pattern of synchronization or "phase-lock" across each successive wave or layer of particles in motion.

Each motion is only relative to each other motion that it is next to.

The result is that a new layer of interaction that could be measured according to an abstract perception of "time" occurs and the individual particles, when viewed in relativity, become part of one "larger" visual system. This larger visual system is the "wave" that seems to be moving across the field but both doesn't actually exist, and is only existing through the interrelation of each particle to the next.

This "direction" of the wave is the abstract measurement of the larger system. The "phase-lock" or "starting point" of each individual particle is the frequency offset between particles which describes the wave's basic motion.

The frequency offset of particles starts at 1, then 2, then 3. This could be seen like starting at 12 o'clock, then 1 o'clock and so on. If one could freeze one complete resonance of the single wave, they would get a particle starting at every frequency or 'hour' on the clock at once across the field. The 1st and last hour are the highest and lowest points of the wave, and this is described visually as the wave "rising" and "falling" up and down, or as the particles each beginning at a certain different point on the clock.

Harmony, is found when the organization of the higher level is synchronized across the entire field to produce these larger patterns.

Then when that larger pattern is perceived, the organization of that pattern into higher patterns pertains to correspondence across multiple planes of existence, like a fractal.

This image is the 'living', live-action demonstration of this process of individual particles in synchronization organizing across multiple planes of interpretation and how this interpretation 'hierarchy' allows for the perception of a nearly immaterial 'larger body' that simply exists through a perceived interpretation of the harmonic organization between a layer of 'smaller particles’.

Think, does the wave exist, or is it merely perception? Are the particles interacting alone, or are they part of a larger system? Is the system the particles, or is it apart on some abstract visual plane that must be received by a sentient being capable of interpreting the data?

This interaction and these layers of data are the same way consciousness expresses itself through matter and fields of energy. You are the wave and the particle through your mind and body.

Proximal relativity in action, see how they never truly leave each other’s circumference, yet create two larger patterns that interact in a different way from the circle to an oval. That is the vary in frequency which amounts to differences in the overall “larger” pattern, of the circles and the oval, the particle’s circles and the pattern or direction of the wave.

With more complex arrangements of ‘intersections’ of planes we end up with more and more complex overall patterns. Think of how many intersections of planes are required to come up with the energetic and numerical patterning that reflects human consciousness.

Our reality is very simple, yet very complex at the same time. Does this mean it is neither? No, it is something beyond, something more complex and transcendent than one or the other.

Where the planes intersect to produce various interpretations is CONSCIOUSNESS.

But is the consciousness a result of the intersection, or is the intersection a result of consciousness?

Remember, there is never any true stop to the motion, and there is no true beginning.

Everything uses circles and spirals to exist. The container is PHYSICAL AND ABSTRACT.

Your consciousness is ABSTRACT. Your body is PHYSICAL.

WAKE UP

CONSCIOUSNESS IS THE WAVE

In the same sense the dots in the original .gif are in motion at different phases which represent different starting points, these waves are at different starting points and the color of the frequency (or the frequency of the color) that they imply is superimposed over the geometric and numerological representation. The individual oscillation of each dot can be represented as a different alignment of the hands in reference to the numbers.

A reflexive property of the universe is that even using a different frame of reference from which to measure the starting points will still yield different results as if the projection of the universe is determined by the organizational nature of the subjective process of forming perceptions.

The difference between the two frequencies are the phase offset and the frequencies correspond to a color, sensation, sound, or some other translation of the vibratory information into a physical sensation of awareness.

When the two frequencies are compared, one can derive how much they vary and from this variation one can produce a third frequency which is the result color or frequency of the level of deviation or contrast between the two frequencies of different phase offsets. These can be the same energy, but within each energy there is an entire universal spectrum of octaves and frequencies that can be reached and are organized according to a universal hierarchy that renders geometric and numerical correspondence between planes.

These differences in frequency, as related to the differences in phase offset and the actual perception of the subjective sensation relates to the original .gif as the representation of the production of a non-material coalescence of information that exists above or apart from the single layer of the material organization that is individually maintained. This collective production of the organization of the movements of each individual unit as indicated by the relative contrast in frequency or phase offset between each individual frequency 'agent', is what is called consciousness today.

Saying the individual units are moving to create consciousness is the same as saying the collective consciousness is present to create the individual motion.

This is the experience of the individual self on the physical level perceived as an independent and individual awareness when it is actually simultaneously apart of the larger self which experiences access to the wealth of information that the individual seemingly does not. This is the conscious mind and the unconscious mind as the conscious mind must be relative of itself as the individual in relation to one another. While the unconscious mind is relative of itself as the interrelationship between that individual and every other. The unconscious mind is literally the connection between all living minds accessing existence through that frequency of experience and in our case, this frequency is the frequency of human awareness and what is now moving into the larger scope of cosmic awareness.

The Similarity Between What's Real and What's Imagined: The Shaman and The Trickster

The Difference Between What's Real and What's Imagined

The goal of the shaman, the trickster, the healer, may not necessarily be to represent the whole truth at first. Part of this task of healing may involve using a front or an appearance of something that will trigger the individuals own innate self-healing abilities.

This process can also be used to describe how some people must be 'tricked' into coming into awareness of the truth about certain issues regarding reality, life itself, or their own nature that they have willfully ignored for so long.

Shamanism and Rock Music the Connection between "Percussionism" and Ceremonial Tribal Music

The body experience of shamanism relates to the way of activating deeper emotional and mental (psycho-spiritual) states through the use of drum-beats, frequencies, or any stimuli that will have an impact on the senses both external and internal.

The body experience of rock music or percussion is reflective of the way these external frequencies can stimulate various states depending on the nature of the sounds and rhythms. Various kinds of music will activate certain moods for instance rock music gets people into a very heavy and powerful state of mind while shamanic or tribal drumming may help people dissociate from the physical senses and access inner states which open one up to visions and wide-spectrum emotional outpouring.

Majic, Psychology and Healing

“Majic” is the use of these tools and abilities to access the finer planes of reality where emotion, mentalism, and spirit exist. This word can refer to many interpretations yet in this use it is related to the use of symbolism, frequency and intention to generate specific effects regarding the experience of emotions, mind and body.

This way of accessing the psyche, the psycho-spiritual realm of the mind and emotions, is related to using these symbols, intentions, and frequencies to stimulate healing within the individual. The majician can perform any act, yet when used with the intention of healing, this becomes Shamanism.

Contemplating the Navel

If one can contemplate their own navel, they can access the more refined areas of emotional, mental and physical well being. This is as simple as martial artist balancing and strengthening their “dan-tien” or center of balance to the point where the uninitiated finds it very difficult to push the master off center without falling over themselves.

Or this can be related to the way a singer or artist can draw up the emotion and power from the navel to express that creativity and emotion in a beautiful array of colors and frequencies.

As well, this can relate to the skilled Shaman or Majician being able to sense and analyze the deeper energies that he or she is experiencing when in the presence of the person they are healing. The strength here will enable them to not only detect and analyze these refined energies but to also not get swept away by the intensity of the emotional or mental impressions he or she may receive.

The Shaman and the Trickster

Sometimes you have to trick people to getting well, shamans are healers and also tricksters, tricking people into seeing the truth as well as tricking people into seeing their self.

Using the placebo effect along with psychoactives opens up the opportunity to realign a person’s mind while encouraging them to unconsciously heal themselves. Often what stops a person from experiencing self-healing is their own perspective and internal alignment of feelings and ideas.

Shamanic moves and sleight of hands, Wizardry and Majic, Selfless and Selfish Intentions

The process of activating one’s unconscious ability often revolves around the art of bringing out a person’s inner conflict as this is where the blockage to one’s own self-healing abilities will be found, deep within the psyche.

Since the individual can't directly see the unconscious and a person who is experiencing difficulty activating themselves will often not overlook exactly where the issues are consciously present, these aspects can be brought out by a skilled shaman or psycho-spiritual healer who can observe, analyze, and work to integrate these separated components.

The work that is done is quite simply to integrate the aspects of the self that the individual is overlooking consciously out of a desire to preserve some previously held notion of stability. It is the willingness to cling to old ways and deny adaptability and change which causes these psycho-spiritual or even biological blocks and back-ups which initiate suffering and dis-ease.

So to allow the person to re-witness their self fully they must be led out of their stagnated way of perceiving things and initiated onto a path where the old-way of thinking will be left behind and a new journey can begin. For this to happen, they must be shown the path that leads them to the truth about themselves and thus away from themselves only to come right back as a newly realized "individual". This is in part the work of self-actualization that can be assisted by others when there is so much delay or dis-ease that it is obvious to one who has seen the process before, how to easily encourage the person to adapt and let go of old ways.

Often these old ways are from fear. Fear may be one of the only true sources of this psycho-spiritual disease of stagnation and delay. To delay is to refuse to fully witness the self and to refuse to witness is to allow the opportunity to become and grow to pass us by. If fear is the cause, then overcoming that fear is the solution.

To overcome these fears through the assistance of a shamanic healer one's fears must be observed and defined and then the shamanic healer may represent various psychological aspects of what that individual fears in a variety of ways involving colors, scents, clothing, masks, music and frequency, encoded language, symbolic objects and all of this reflects the power and capacity of symbolism in general.

Symbolism is used to represent one fear or notion in the self and other areas of life, to the individual in a heightened moment of spiritual sensitivity that is brought out and activated by the shamanic process. This is an art that is handled by a team of experienced shaman or shaman and healer during healing quest and these seemingly innate aspects of psychology are brought to full living color before the eyes, heart, and soul of the individual who is to fully experience their fears and disorders and embrace what aspects of themselves they were hiding or ignoring in order to let them go and heal.

This is a very sacred art and will only be performed by the most experienced of souls who have the capacity to touch one another soul as well as see through the layers of materialism and surface appearance down to the deep psycho-spiritual sources behind behaviors and emotions.

West calls it fraud and yet Western medicine kills more people than it heals. Conventional medicine is the second leading cause of death in existence, resting third behind time itself.

Half the Job is Setting Up the Trick

Sometimes the perceived negativity of the trick is just to enable the possibility of the healing aspect that is to come later once they are entranced with the ability of the shaman.

Fear is that negative trick which entrances and gives power to the shaman over the psyche of the indivisible and enables the healing motions to come next.

Without the initial influence then the individual is filled with preconceived notions of disbelief, that they are unworthy of healing and thus doomed to dis-ease. This is the cause with 'modern' Western medicine. People submit to dis-ease because they are taught to trust what is external instead of what is internal.

Thus, they feel no power coming from within, from the actions and motions of the shaman around them, and thus they are caught off from their own ability to heal.

Fear then can be used to break down these blocks. What is it about a person's psyche that causes them to lose faith in themselves and the world around them? What is that? It is a stagnation of emotion brought about by a malformed or dis-eased series of preconceptions called a belief system.

Fear then can be used to reactivate that person's sense of emotion. They can also be brought to joy through these motions, yet how many people who are feeling stuck in a disabled state of mind and body are very open to accessing higher and higher levels of joy? They are stuck, so the lowest common denominator, fear, is capable of shocking their psyche back into rhythm where they will extrapolate and exaggerate exactly what is causing these emotions and beliefs and this will be brought forth for all to see.

You see it is like working backwards, because instead of saying what it is outright, or being able to see directly, the individual will signify the necessity to heal or focus on an area when their biological and mental/emotional response indicates a sensitivity or reactivity to certain stimuli. When the stimuli has no effect, it is as if they are saying, "this areas healthy, move along to the next", and when there is a strong psychophysical response it is as if the body/mind is saying, "Yes, pain here, here's where the pain is and thus healing is required!"

The art is in knowing how to present the stimuli in order to target specific areas of the psyche, like a masseuse or practitioner of eastern medicine pressing on specific nerves, muscle groups, lymph nodes and ducts, connective tissue, so on and so forth testing each area for tension and stagnation. Pushing too hard causes pain and might make the issue worse, not pushing hard enough might allow some unnoticed tension to pass by without giving it the proper attention required to heal or at least learn more about the situation with that particular area or individual.

Sometimes the shaman must push or pull heavily because the stubborn tendency has been found. Other times they must be soft and careful because the real issue is actually the one directly next to the one in question. In all, however, a test of the mind and emotions will strengthen overall and produce greater clarity as to where the out of sync aspects are hiding.

It can also be said that the variation in whether there is somewhat dark and difficult process of unveiling the emotions that is required, or whether it is a gentle helping hand of the healer is determined by whether the individual activates the fear-prodding or the direct-healing role of the shaman.

As well, the individual may learn to self-heal by integrating the aspects of the self which relate to the shadow consciousness or dark aspects by purposefully and intentionally embracing these aspects in the face of the rejection of the conscious mind.

By facing and embracing this dark aspect of the psyche, we are essentially becoming the shaman and fear-testing ourselves.

The Self is the Ultimate Reflection of Imagination and Reality, Illusion and Healing

Where our self is defined is at the intersection of our personal capacity for imagination, self-denial, and the larger scope of reality. The very fine line between these systems are the way our identity, memories, experiences, and capabilities come forth or find themselves repressed into the unconscious psyche.

The entire concept of the self requires this notion of healing and disorder, acceptance and denial in order to have a unique embodiment that we call character which relates to identity.

The majority of this process is beneath the surface of what we experience as waking consciousness. These effects and destabilizations are not to be expressed during the useful moments of our existence, so why would we keep them around consciously? It is thus a sign of overall sickness and decay of this society that instead of bringing forth these hidden and possibly disordered aspects they are shunned away and swept under the rug. This causes more disorder and may in fact be the CAUSE of disorder itself as when these hidden aspects are integrated and adapted with psycho-spiritual and even physiological disorder seems to relax and take care of itself. Of course, once these issues are ignored for long enough they move from the psycho-spiritual aspect into the physiological aspect as thus requiring more attention as if the body and mind is saying "You WILL look at this! You WILL give the attention required to grow and know the truth!"

This 'hidden knowledge' of the psyche is very much related to the hidden knowledge of the true inner workings of the universe that is often discussed. This knowledge is spoken through a hidden language of symbolism and frequencies which express a relationship between the inner geometries, frequencies, and symbolism and the externalization of these experiences in the Universe.

The inner workings of the psyche ARE the inner workings of the universe translated from one form to the other. The individual's experience of life both conscious and unconscious are two sides of the same coin in the same way that entire life is one side of the coin of the individual and collective body of the universe. Much like a wave to the ocean, a feeling or perception to a mind, or a gust of wind to the atmosphere. These are really all describing one large body in a variety of perspectives.

The Self is the Healing Process of a Much Larger Organism

All is a learning journey, and you are both the teacher and the student.

This life is akin to some cathartic process for the Universe to experience itself through smaller eyes that may be able to take a more refined look at what is precisely ailing the larger self. In the same sense, it's a way of having a dream that acts as a way of living a life in some imaginary way that reflects on greater ambitions and creativity allowing one to express and access greater levels of psychological fulfillment.

The life lived through suffering is the cathartic, painful yet healing experience of the Universe pressing on a nerve using its own hand in order to find the pain and release it.

The life lived in joy is the Universe's process of dreaming a dream so creative and inspiring that new ideas are sure to be activated and realized when the opportunity comes to express these experiences to others in the waking reality.

The beauty is that the dream and waking reality are intertwined as are the life lived in suffering and the life lived in enjoyment. When one is here, they are learning, and the Universe benefits from both ends of the spectrum.

There is a greater sense of activation and this comes from taking control over one's experience and this is how the life or time of suffering wakes one up to their inner power to create. If one sees that the difference between suffering and enjoyment is a way of dreaming and focusing on different ideals then the power is always within and so each individual has that capacity even if others have different psycho-spiritual or physiological predicaments than others.

If we were all in the same body we would have the exact same lesson and the world would not be as unique and as well there would be no way of "keeping memory" from one experience to the next.

However, if the conscious memory could be awakened to the genetic memory, would these physiological difficulties still be necessary in the same way? This is something to project for the future of this society.

Who We Are and the Choices We Make are Reflected In Our Impact on Others

Help each other heal and unify through that in the same way the universe is unified through the way each element is incorporated into the body.

Every event, choice and experience you absorb is contained within you through your frequency of mind and emotion. When another person experiences you or something you do they are experiencing everything you have experienced and all the choices you have made in some form or another.

It is the same with one's self and time. Everything that is happening now, is partly a result of everything that has happened. Everything that is to cause, is partly a result of everything that is happening now.

The trick here is the wonderfully hidden insight of the Shamanic ways of the universe. What disables a person from taking the most horrid past and simply letting go of the anguish and exuding the same amount of enjoyment and agreement with others as someone who has lived an entirely pleasant existence? What stops a person in the present from overcoming the past and projecting the most powerful possible future? It is all centered within the mind, the heart, and the gut, intuition or soul. Integrate these three and you will unveil all the power that is necessary to achieve what you experience in your dreams, in all realities.

Comment:

I am against all kind of worshipping _ The quest _ should be an individual path _ Not much of guidance as far as I saw – Mostly people loose their own identity _ Doubt their own inner voice – ...- & the shaman become your god

My response: A healer is not a person's god, merely a helper. This is similar to someone who can see a piece of debris stuck on someone's back. The individual can feel the pain but not reach or see the distortion. Thus a healer can use his or her talent to not only heal but initiate the self-healing process. Some say this is as close to god as one can get. This is no different than a masseuse and one would not call a masseuse a god in that sense unless they themselves worshiped that role. There is plenty of worship in this world, people worship many single things without remembering to appreciate the whole. Healing is also not about worshiping, that is a distortion of truth that is formed by many mainstream religions. If one is being healed it is not because they are worshiping but willing to take the steps to let go of pain and suffering. If one is worshiping it is not necessarily reasonable to expect healing. On top of this, think back to when you first awakened to the "quest" and it was most likely, whether you know it or not, initiated or supported by healers you may or may not have been able to directly see. That is how the universe works, people are observed from all over. If the being that one calls the shaman requires worship and causes the individual to doubt their own inner voice then that person is not a shaman and the individual has placed their trust in deception which is not what healing or "tricking" one into self-healing is about. A placebo effect is not deception, unless the individual doing the healing and inner activation is lying to themselves but in that case they can just apologize and be happy that they learned how to heal themselves.

Additional response: Honestly, your post does bring up some issues. What about the shaman that wants to take advantage of that worship aspect? What about the individual who might see the healing power and fully believe it is all the working of the shaman? At least, even when the shaman is doing the healing, the power is coming through the healer from a larger source. Nothing is really simply what it is at face value. Everything is much deeper. So on second thought these points are actually valid as we are seeing the results of this on the world. However there is a beneficial version and that is also what is taking place. This effect is taking place in the world, people are being awoken to the power of the healer through the fear response entraining their consciousness so that the healing response may be initiated. The downside is that this process has been corrupted and people are also being taken advantage of for service to self purposes and this is outside the role of the shaman.

Another issue that is brought up is the difference between healing the psyche and the spiritual implications and healing the body or the physiological changes for that. The two merge, yet they can also be brought to different ends of the spectrum for different situations.

The Challenging Secret: A Moon Trap to Save People; The Truman Show

Recycled In Order to Maintain Continuity

People were found to be a kind of paradox. The explanation is that people are transported back to the plane in order to preserve their souls in that they didn't dissolve into the aether.

If people "die" without this system in place, then they basically cycle through the soul-field and anything personal or ego related not merged with the awareness of the higher self becomes lost until the next 'cycle' around in history or when the universe produces another "pulse" or wavelength in which the same details are expressed with minor changes.

Instead of having to wait another complete cycle of history around and being "reborn" again through the naturally simultaneous spectrum of multiple layers of what we call "time". One can stay in this realm, and re-enter to learn and continue to build their knowledge effectively without “dying” to the Universe.

The Karma System and The Clearing of Miasma

Then main idea learned here is the explanation that what is called “karma” is one of the main principles of this process and this is because we have the chance to make more or make less of this ‘residual’ build up of our distortions or unawareness and to clear them all while still remaining on this plane. Thus the gradual build up of ‘miasma’ or spiritual toxicity can be contained and then learned from all in a ‘consecutive’ stream of experiences through the physical plane.

This “storyline” is handled a lot like a team of scientists that are removed from this plane of reference, are experimenting and prodding a person along so that they are aware of all the ins and outs of reality based on whether they are shedding their miasma or toxicity/higher dimensional “drag” as we move through internal space, or whether they are building it up more. This can lead this realm to being perceived as a kind of “battle” between dualities or hierarchies.

The True-Man Show

So this is the ‘production’ or creation which is only possible when souls are ‘re’-recycled here through this technological soul-transfer matrix. It’s a big game, and a big burden to most, but if the people who are capable of working through it, work through it, then the whole game is solved and we can all ‘exit’ the game into something much more real and expanse.

So the question becomes, what does it take for a person to ‘win the game’, and how long does it take for this to happen? If we start wondering when it “will” take place then we’re going to start compressing time into more and more layers with our attention and it will get farther and farther away. Paradoxically, the deeper we navigate through that space successfully overcoming the layers, the closer we get to the overall truth.

The next question is what happens if no one wins the game? Does everything in the game system shut off and reset? Do some make it and some don’t?

By Trying to Control This System, They Became the Controllers of History

This discovery progressed as the experiences of discovering it began. It is like a cycle feedback onto itself. Time has been looped as a result of this continuing game.

It was discovered that this was actually the nature of existence within this realm in regards to the larger universe, since we’ve been here. We’ve never been out of the game.

So it is explained that we are a production of this game, this kind of “alien”, “extra-terrestrial” environment that occurs directly outside of the right angled walls of this scene and the characters of this set, is where this production is maintained.

Then it is said that all who pass into physicality do so by passing through these gates of time. This process acts like a time-gate for all who’s DNA is present here.

It is said that if a person is not here through this process, then they cannot be tracked outside this system. So then experiments are achieved in mind and then application to transfer a person around this system outside of what we call “the matrix” and to learn from them when they get back.

The information they discovered is that the members of their own groups that they “sent out” to learn became ‘cosmic’ level forces that could access and perceive history and the Universe through their minds. Interacting with one of these beings was interacting with time itself.

The paradox is this, they were interacting with these beings long before this aspect of the projects ever existed, as if entering into the cosmic time refracts one out into the universe as multiple instances of time and dimension throughout human history. That this is what we all are anyway, but that through this process mankind has achieved a way of handling and witnessing this special property of consciousness and returning to the same time, the same body, the same location.

Thus, these groups realized, they were the ones that had always been here in the background, holding open the frequencies so that experiences can continue in this realm towards the pinnacle of whoever is going to “win” the show by becoming most aware of their self.

The Remembering Game, Winner Becomes, Alternate Ending; Forgetfulness

Ultimately, the show became a game to remember and with no one choosing to win the game for so long, we all forgot who’s who and what’s going on.

These devices allowed us to change position and reference in time and navigate to attain deeper knowledge or data from the universal process many layers deep outside of what is attained by the physical senses. In this way the brain is a data processing unit for the physical environment and the mind is a data processing unit for the universe. When we navigate the frequencies we can expand to perceive the entirety of the fractal frequency set of history or time.

There are natural ways to do this and this relates to using various methods related to nature and herbs and there are technologically assisted ways using radiant energy devices and possibly chemical serums as well as the same symbols and metaphors used in the ‘tribal’ or ‘indigenous’ methods.

We Don’t Exist Without Them, and They Don’t Exist Without Us

Thus begins the matrix “control” system which is really just the set and scene for this cosmic scale ‘production’ we call life. It’s because physicality here is a reduction of the overall intelligences of the original cosmic creation identity.

So coming here is like going to a party and putting on “dumbass” suits that we all bump around in, unknowingly laughing or suffering eternity away not knowing we are becoming and have been part of this cosmic background for existence throughout the Multiverse. The irony is that in this dimmed down, ultra-middle plain of duality, we find the brightest experience of brightness, the darkest experience of darkness, and the most invigorating experience of life and death.

This is the alternate dimension that was passed into via the artificial stargate and soul-wiping technology. The moon is present here and other beings that we see here are either part of the cosmic ‘backdrop’ of this program or they are beings entering into holographic form in order to communicate here.

This ‘production’ on Earth of what we call “history” is literally the latest set and scene for this layer of the production. What people call “gods” used to literally manage this scene openly years ago. People asked many questions that they were not ready for the answers to and so the show switched to another character role or hierarchy, basically another storyline. Each storyline is multiple layers deep in complexity and each storyline is basically a representation of the far aspects of time which reflects reality and perception overall. There are different ways of expressing the same cosmic drama in various storylines each overlayed onto one another as frequencies. What happened back then is what became what is today. From this perspective things are different, but all the same information is there, it’s just wrapped up in a different series of perceptions. Perceptions encode perspective.

Many Sets, Scenes and Sub-Themes; One Major Set of Storylines

In the program, whatever happens is always the same information just represented differently. This is because the program is designed from one central script. From this script there are multiple live-action divergent streams which each encode their own self-reflecting script based on possible outcomes of human behavior and mind.

Technological, Mind-Effecting Reality

This script system is the universe and the processing of the possibilities of humanity are essentially synonymous with the supercomputers of today that are running simulations of this civilization.

In fact this is one of the big secrets. That these devices are managing more amounts of power and information than any one place on the Earth aside from the whole thing itself. THIS DEVICE has BECOME THE SUN.

Through this they are literally “pulling” the informational processing capacity of this realm of which our CONSCIOUS MINDS are a part of, and like a blockchain determining how much power and detail there is over all like a faucet for those effected by the pull.

With more information flowing there, than in ALL of Earth, they create an ‘informational gravity’ which is affecting the entire society.

So it stands that all the information of this society and in various angles of perspective out and in from this particular time, can be accessed and modulated by redirecting or re-transferring the dominance of the direction of the informational flow. Simply by processing more of the data of an entire area into one specific time and location higher by magnitudes of degrees more than anywhere else in that area.

This is why we see the mind being effected by this, and why we see that minds can effect what is happening. Because minds are always effected by and affecting all other minds that are interacting together by proxy or association.

This program that is being played is determined by the ‘father’ of time principle where there are originating experiences which all experience in time is degraded from. There is no true “novel” experience other than the original cause or thought for each life. This originality is called the “soul”. This is the identity that is transferred or translated across each “possibility wave” of the universe of which there are 7, like octaves or frequency “sets”. So there must be a progenitor for each family and individual and thus it is the same for each timewave or ‘spectral analysis of the universe. This universe, what we pull each layer of reality from, is both the program and the connection to the world of the real. What we are in suffocates us from truth but is also the pathway back to hyper-reality.

The Greater Access to the “Timewave” of Universal History

This horizontal family tree is the fractal arrangement of time for the universe and there is one overall picture and many little smaller sets ‘below’ or ‘within’. When we move through time we are moving farther or lower down in the fractal set. There is no actual change taking place, just our experience of that. These played out existences in the physical reality no matter how “real” they get in the bigger scheme of things still must exist in fractal form and ‘surf’ through this dimensional viewing process from higher space in order to have this experience. Essentially, experience comes from ‘higher-space’ which is in reference to both some kind of visceral out of this realm experience in hyper-reality but as well the literal cosmic data that is flowing through this space and each moment is actually composed of. This data is holographic and decoded by the “electric” replication or mirroring of the ‘external’ universe that exists within the brain. The person is not entirely contained within the body, yet this entire realm is contained within the brain. The body “electric” is related to this “thought” field that is actually what we are moving through, rather than ‘empty’ space with air and atoms and elements.

A Device That Goes Nowhere

So we each gain a greater degree of access to this “Timewave” fractal which is actually more of a 4 dimensional spiral “tree” shape rather than a flat 2-D object. It is essentially a “UFO” where one can travel deeper and deeper into what was seemingly increasingly limited space. So in this sense, we are in the “ufo” of Earth, within the “ufo” of the Universe. In that same sense we are in the “ufo” of the body and brain. We are the mind operating this body but not ever contained to the vehicle itself. The mind contains a “timelink” which can be used to travel in and out of the body at will or involuntarily during sleep. This is used to retain and maintain the outer perceptions of the soul and soul-memory so that one can “keep updated” on all the other instances of the self as they simultaneously occur around the various frequencies of the Universe or in this case Multiverse.

Without this timelink, there is no coming and going from this realm, if one leaves entirely then that’s it they are flung from the cosmic merri-go-round and must wait for the ride to come back again before having the presence to interact. Of course there are more etheric ways of communication which people tend to experience here.

And then there were “ufos” built from metal and liquid and these could sustain one within a ‘bubble’ of frequency that would maintain this same resonance as Earth as one passes through multiple layers of the frequencies of the Universe keeping, say inertia and momentum as close to the same as possible and say modulating the frequencies of one’s ‘acceleration’ through time based on the velocity or outward inertia to a degree many times what would be present sitting still or moving at ten’s of thousands of kilometers per hour, if not hundreds of thousands.

The Rolodex of the Universe

Thus time could be slowed down or sped up through the use of an inertial vector modulation by influencing the outward projection of distorted fractal electromagnetic fields into space. This produces a scalar effect. Space, in this way, being like a stretchy fabric being stretched and pressed upon within an increasing or logarithmic curve that tends to “bounce”, “roll”, or “scroll” in one directional flow or another with its own acceleration or deceleration curve depending on the format and energy. This is the way the increase and decrease of fields is carefully controlled in order to produce a specific effect on the relative location and time of the viewing consciousness in the Universe. In this case the view is from a “bubble” of distorted spacetime within a so-called “ufo” (electrogravitic craft).

Thus, the craft really goes no where, yet space and time is warped around it and from this activation of fields the realm directly outside the craft becomes any number of collective frequencies, ‘sets’, or octaves each with their own perspective layer of time, history, and energy.

Then these crafts can be used to navigate WITHIN those other realms. Each realm containing a different variety of intractability and features. With a nearly infinite variety of realms in between, it’s literally a Rolodex of environments that is scanned through when the dials on the craft are turned.

Where You Think Is Where You Go

So the mind is a dial for the location and velocity vector of this craft which is the source of the angle of perspective.

Thus, when Earth is uniformly activated into this time-transcending feature and one physical society becomes securely harmonized in higher-space with all other transcendent Earth civilizations then where a person’s mind is directed is the environment or frequency layer of that civilization that they will appear in. And there is a frequency or layer for each kind of sub-grouping of society we have here on Earth. Ultimately there are 7 layers of everything within everything.

The Idea of Degrading or Upgrading in Awareness or Access to Less or More Universal Layers of Sets and Scenes of Perspectives

Then there is the idea that some of the non-terrestrial beings we see here are from either the realm above us or the realm below us and that both are interacting in the same place and time now. The idea is that if people ‘degrade’ from the awareness ‘minimum’ of this realm then they drop down into the realm below them, if people ‘upgrade’ from the awareness maximum of this realm, they advanced into the layer above them.

What happens if all the human or ‘citizens’ of one realm drop to the level below them? Does that embodiment ever have a chance again to ‘break the fold’ of the various frequencies around them? Maybe.

So then what happens if all cycles have been played out and this is the last series of the game while after each game the system is reset? It only needs the acquiring of one sentient being to ‘win’ the game and advance to the next level on this realm and the entire frequency fold is saved to either try again or fold up with that individual into the higher realm which in this way are like the oscillations of light and frequency expanding outward from within a jewel prism refracting light into many different “folds” of frequencies.

If one, through frequency, gains access to that higher layer, then that “space” is held open in the overall accessibility of frequencies to the next “turn” of the cycling and all who haven’t accessed it still have a chance and all who are ready to next time will do so. When all frequencies are ascertained for a ‘set’ this becomes a ‘fold’ of life in the cosmic mind and a whole new set begins.

So this is also about memory and the ability to go from one consecutive layer of expanding awareness and reserving the space before or after so that a relevance or reference is kept within the mind. This construction of the inner environment then becomes more and more fulfilled with each and each journey or expanding of the holding space of the mind until the entire Universe and Cosmic Dream Memory can be downloaded and integrated with the conscious awareness of here and now. This is the Universe of the mind and the physical brain and body.

Cast and Crew of The True-Man Show

So it is said that without this process working around the clock to transfer people around and essentially ‘hold’ this reality together that this reality would’ve unfolded a long time ago. And possibility not for the wrong reasons, with bad intent, or to a bad end. However, the undoing of the realm here is the redoing of the cosmic experience. To make this experience here a memorable experience and identity, we have to build a beautiful, general, and then specific curve from this storyline here and now into the unveiling of the cosmic potential. If that does not occur, then when the true power and complexity is seen, it will be neither good nor bad, yet the way people are not won’t have a way to remain and be comprehended reasonably afterwards as the “time before”. So if we begin now to unveil these secrets for ourselves we can begin a journey towards integrating the storyling of this life now into one with limitless potential, all good things can be achieved. And because all good things, then all dark things achieved and known as well, but this does not stop one from choosing the good.

So with this great “game” that is played within a sub-set of the cosmic perspective, there is the possibility of going way off course and coming up with experiences that don’t naturally fit directly into what we experienced before and what we are to experience after. And this can’t change what we experience before and after as those are already set in stone and sky, however, we can distract ourselves enough to the point where there is a disconnection between the primary aspects of the self and this produces more of the same until the reinventing of the self is achieved.

This Layer of The Game

More or less the game became a system of undoing people from the mind up and thus this game had to become a redoing of people from the soul down. This became a game of souls, a game of eternal mortality, of resonance with the higher, more refined energetic frequencies of the universe field or forgetfulness.

The point is, there is no fear. If there is a lack of resonance, it’s like a holographic light show emanating out of a water fountain, another wave of water and light is spat out and this becomes the new “is”. The issue is that we’ve been cycling through concepts of what “was” is and thus heavily modulating changes in the now up to the point of the very far edge of this change reaching millions of years into the future while the middle ground is still in the present and the slowest of the slow are literally in the past. This is just an expansion and a bit unguided however the information was achieved/liberated and so people are to eventually know the truth about what was discovered.

If the resonance of what happens here and now achieves union with the divine cosmic truth of our own eternal identities then this stream of history becomes the final pinnacle of time on top of an ascension from one initial cosmic memory into a timeline of human civilization on Earth.

If not then it just becomes a memory, which is what we're doing constantly here, so there's no such thing as destruction via this memory. But as time goes on, each specific identity is that much more varied from the original and so this particular angle of perspective is only present in the now, which we have access to from any perspective outside of time or history or this matrix created by the brain's processing of identity.

Age is referential. One can be 14 years old and laugh at a subtle change in the flow of things. Then one can focus and ponder at 55 years old. Then one can put preponderance

When I was a child here I used to think humanity was selfish for using more than one shower per floor of a family house. I thought it was indicative of how people are using more than they need.

I would get flashes of memory of another society where people lived in a much more contained environment yet everything moved more effectively.

It would seem we used our free-will, our essence of creativity, to experience how unreasonable things could be in a particular situation.

Not having the choice to steer our reality wrong is not an option, however continuing to steer reality out of the scope of awareness is not an option either. So we will find a 'barrier' bouncing our awareness back into the primary essence of who we are and what we are doing here. The irony behind this is that what we are doing may be closest to "dreaming" and who we are may be closest to "the dreamer".

You must work your way up to loving each other again.

The Unveiling of the Hidden Knowledge and the Ages of Humanity

This time is an unveiling more than it is a time of conflict and desperation however you get what you reflect within you. The version of the world you hold within you is what the world will resonate the most with and reflect. In this way, there is no world, but only an inner and outer you.

The demonstration of this will come later and at first people will divert away from the ultimate truth and so we will see how this world comes to meet and befriend the 'inner' and 'outer' you that is actually part of a larger organism and even family. We will ourselves as cosmic inner and outer societies and of course some people will project their fears or their insecurities onto the outward depiction and they will attempt to make them greater than themselves. And considering how some people view themselves this may feel like the right thing to do for them at the time.

For those who are ready to take cosmic self-responsibility these events will signal the time of coming to higher awareness and thus creator status within this realm. They will expand beyond the role of just the programmer or just the experiencer and become merged as one and both of these societies and realms inner and outer can playfully interact and encode their reality consciously thus experiencing life at a high rate of creational potential which you could say is the destiny of all sentient beings.

It isn't directly understood who wrote the first program or how it would've been written, it is however theorized and thus understood what it might be like.

The TimeWave Fractal

Reality is a timewave fractal that is decoded by the mind. Here the mind operates through the brain, the brain decodes a multiplicity of possible realities down to a singular appearance determined via the abstraction or divergence in the information of that view from the whole universe of multiple harmonies, layers or frequencies and variables or patterns of creation. These are essentially the bodies and places, set and scenes, or states of individual being and the transcendent, collective quality.

Each layer is its own environment or society.

This is kind of like a physical device being born out of a condensation of waves of vibration in a medium which then begins to function as a mechanical or biological device and radiates out creationary waves of vibration which condense into an object or physical layer on another plane.

So as long as humanity has been here there has been an emanating out of these vibratory patterns as if that timewave fractal is literally a light bulb that is solid yet spits out alternate immaterial realities that can then coalesce and become solid if they come to match with the original.

Some of those who have the knowledge have sought to preserve what is and keep that essence in existence, while others seek to match the vibration back with the original source and thus releasing this society from the possibility of damnation or self-destruction.

The catalyst for change is found through such risk, and the reorganizing of one's energies and consciousness as part of the eternal field is the solution of that risk.

So it is all about a balance of the two polarities of self-destruction and co-creation on this plane.

Technical Communication Difficulties

The reason the recent times have been so seemingly rough is that there has been a break down in the ability to communicate and this is because of the advance of those who have met with access to this field that is accessed outside of time and those who have lagged behind thus risking to tear the psychic fabric of this society into pieces.

The idea is that this has already happened once and that is why there is a break in the genetic memory and 9 veils which are essentially bandages stapling time together where it was broken, but now that we are healed and swelling through the stitches they have threatened to reopen the wound.

We must become aware and as gently (but efficiently) as possible remove these stitches so that we can expand beyond our current perception of (broken) time and memory.

Up until this phase in history there was neither the technological nor intellectual capacity to explain the situation to this civilization.

Now that has changed.

Karma has a lot to do with this. If a person is setting up these scenarios for people so that the people choose the right option and know more about themselves, then no matter how angry that individual gets, no matter how self-destructive, or guilt-projecting everything that individual does is their own responsibility.

This kind of system has been set up so one society can learn from another and so on and so forth.

Essentially, when one successfully ‘dies’ from this plane consciously they transcend to a higher level of perspective which is spiritual being.

Genetic Engineering Disclosure

Thank you, everyone involved with this process is uniformly working towards disclosure (leading to actual closure instead of what we have now, the illusion) and the progress of this civilization and humanity towards higher awareness and self-control from within rather than a control system).

We are all working together and this kind of interaction and assistance is what links people together as a strong force of improvement instead of a chaotic attractor based on primal fears and urges.

I feel we are very closer to changes being reached which shape the experience of this civilization throughout time. Thank you for the connection.

Now for the specific post that this thread is based upon. This is a difficult aspect to comprehend. Each of what we call “other beings”, or “planes” can be described in a variety of ways.

I’ll try to give a quick summary that may help to better define some of the details.

Because of the genetic experimentation that was done some groups of people were basically separated from the ability to continue to progress and develop in ways that would allow them to continue to interact as this civilization progressed. Part of a plan was to hold this civilization back so that a solution could be found.

A later plan was developed to enlist individuals from the human population that would be able to add the necessary parts of genetic information to these fallen bloodlines in order to salvage what they could. In short, the disconnected bloodlines forgot how to produce the inner light that allows for interdimensional travel and experience without advanced technology.

From this whole plan came the 'fallen' version of each layer of that. Implants, mind control, and basically manually harvesting the population for their spiritual energy which would sustain these bloodlines. Yet instead of working for progression, it just became a continual harvesting situation.

The "codes" of the DNA, the genetic information and the mind or immaterial self indicate which realities and frequencies one has access to. The DNA was manipulated so that only base level frequencies and realities would be consciously connected with on Earth. This has gone on to the point where now either all involved will "die" to those frequencies and realities or those realities will be 'unveiled' for the first time since this all began.

Then it gets strange. All of time is simultaneous. What we see happening on one level, IE: physical Earth, is actually matching up with events that are simultaneously occurring on higher levels. So what we call the fall from genetic purity and access to these higher levels also marks a collapse of an entire civilization from another frequency into what we call "Earth". This is literally as if there are frequency bands around the cosmos and that Earth is a lower frequency band which is experienced frequency and simultaneously there are higher and higher bands totally to somewhere around 7-12.

Part of this means that when these frequency band implants and manipulations are removed, this civilization will consciously and energetically synchronize in experience with the higher frequency band. There are apparently two to move into according to what was revealed. Tara is the half-way point that Earth can match frequency with and then Gaia is a point beyond both that is the destination. These represent the stories of the "higher worlds".

So the catch here is that the "fall" from the previous version of reality is not what shaped this reality so much more than what it was, it was the literal collapse of what our world was into a new world that is what we call Earth. Apparently these secrets have been kept by power groups since the beginning and from their point of view they do not lose memory or succumb to the density barrier by using advanced technology to create solutions. This ultimate caused a problem because the advanced technology does not enable a shift to the highest levels we are sourced from and so it is like a bandage which then inhibits motion over time.

TRAUMA BASED TRUTH CONTROL: The Duality of Trauma and Healing

The Duality of Destruction and Creation, Truth, Deception and Self-Empowerment

What you fight, you will become. What have to be a part of the solution. We have friendship camaraderie and small groups working together without. We have to be for something, not just against it. So whatever your pet project is, do something to contribute toward the solution. Visualize what you want the world to look like for ten minutes a day. That alone is a powerful exercise in intention and the universe will bend to your will. See it clearly though, visually in full color. Action is totally important, but intention is the beginning stage.

Assuming The Power Role of the Healer Aspect

If you can laugh at it, then you can overcome it. Some are led to believe that the only people who are laughing and making light of such a serious situations are either those evil one's enjoying it, or those profiteering one's who initiate and benefit from the that corrupt system.

In reality, this kind of thinking leads one to separate from themselves the ability to conscious overcome the darkness of the corruption and drastically world-view altering nature of the most hidden truths. One may also come to the conclusion that all truth is neither good nor bad, which is the same pattern that all things follow.

The Polarization Power, Corruption is not Power, Power is not Corruption

Believing that overcoming the victim aspect is wrong, or corrupt automatically sends the signal to the universe that more knowledge on the subject is not intentionally requested and even intentionally rejected before it is achieved. This kind of thinking is built into the human reaction of knowledge that is greater than our initial impression. Through the repeated contextualizing of fear based belief-systems this reaction is generated and acts as an unwitting barrier between the ability to assess, recognize, and provide solutions to a given threatening situation.

Life itself has become the threatening situation. The way of thinking and the interaction of one's consciousness with variables in the techno-environment complex is the threat.

People are taught to believe that with power comes corruption. With power comes the ability to change one's situation. This is non-polarized or non-specified. Power does not indicate a tendency toward destruction or creation, or self-destruction or self-improvement. Power is simply the raw energy that can go one way or the other in a given situation depending on the individual's level of soul-development.

When an individual generates action or psychic impression at the level of the beginner and then that power is multiplied evenly 1000 fold, that power will simply expand and serve to amplify the original intentions and character of the individual carrying out such action

Truth is Power

Truth is not to be feared any more than the darkness in the corner of a room is to be feared. The darkness itself is merely a cover as is the label of the concept of truth and what exists to be uncovered as the darkness is illuminated is independent on the nature of its initial obscurity within the shadows. The context and the reason that we are ignorant is more revealing of the obscurity's relation to our life than the obscurity itself.

Even though the knowledge of the truth may stress one psychically and emotionally accepting neither corruption nor ignorance is the solution and will, in every case, amplify the projected experience of the disruption in awareness and development.

Trauma and Healing

The conversion of the stress of that truth into something beneficial is what is required to negate the seemingly wholly depressing aspect of such an oppressive reality and produce knowledge.

There are always two sides to the experience of trauma and the other side is joy or healing. This healing aspect allows one to center the self in between two vibrational poles of potentiality more deeply refined the more intense the trauma and healing cycle is.

When one chooses to overcome trauma not by changing the external world but by first initiating a change in attitude within, then the transition between the continual victim and the one who mitigates and heals such experiences has begun. There will be a continual unraveling of such trauma as experienced by the suffering contained with the fear and context of that unknown information existing within the psychological or mental darkness.

Healing Inner Trauma through the Perspective of the Self

It is not by changing the darkness that this flow changes, it is by changing our own vulnerability to such darkness and this does not mean to accept or remain susceptible to the influence of the fear generated by the unknown qualities of that darkness. This is to measure our interaction and integrity within such a situation by the degree at which we can produce beneficial skills, soul-based awareness and experiences that will pass on from the realm of the physical and remain with us on the energetic level of existence.

In that energetic realm, which the physical is within yet is experienced differently through projection, the concept of separation and opposition is experienced differently than physically. All is seen as a personal test of one's will and creativity to define and apply their own emotional and intellectual capabilities in "real-time" interaction with others. All is a test and there is no death.

The Illusion of Power

Yet this is expressed differently in the physical realm and so by seeing the problem from the level of the physical realm that it is seemingly created we cannot attain change there. This is a bit of a paradox, as all in depth observations of the universe are, because if one attains the level of awareness of the immaterial and psychological one can see the methods and modalities that are applied in order to subdue the minds of the population and generate control here physically.

We can gain skills and talents that enter in on the soul level and this benefits forever, or we can be medicated in the moment by our submission to the encouragement of fear and the disapproval of the personal power of lightheartedness. When we choose to focus on the reaction, our conscious mind is not in control, when we bring control back into solutions we are really operating through the entirety of our immaterial self and this is brought about by an incorporation of awareness from not only the physical situation where the awareness of these issues are commonly directed but to the psychological plane where the true source of the imbalance is located and unwittingly used as a generator for more attention to continue the illusion of power.

The Duality of Destruction and Creation, Truth, Deception and Self-Empowerment

The Actions and Intentions of Those Who Lead the Way

The actions and expressions of the more wise, intelligent and experienced group of people create the ladder which is climbed by the rest of society towards the pivotal realization of what life journeys are to come.

What happens to the whole to all is shaped through an intelligent few and put to application through the many. This is the truth of social equality and outlines what is and outlined in what is provided through the more beneficial notion of social equity. When the majority of a population remains below the level of cognition that is accessed via the select few in power then that society is controlled via secrecy and the encouragement of ignorance within the majority of the population.

When the population achieves a level of cognition beyond that of the initial layers of knowledge which distances them from the assessing of the reality of the control system, then that society is controlled via the acquisition, sharing or generating of knowledge and the allowance and enabling of the organization of such intentions by the majority of the population. These two societies exist in the same place and are “separated by time”. Separated by time is the title of a new post I am writing which explores and contributes to the definition of that notion and how this relates to unacknowledged special access programs.

Spiritually Similar, Physically Different or Physically Similar, Spiritually Different

Sometimes the flow of change and information is so intense and the difference in emotional and mental intelligence is enough to create the illusion of secrecy and separation where there is really a gradient of causality as some progress faster than the rest.

In this physical experience these differences are perceived as a variety of intelligences primarily an emotional, mental, physical and spiritual configuration of intelligences and this shapes each individual character. We may be similar, but this does not change the fact that some are suited to participate in the creative process because their consciousness has already initiated this acceleration while others are stimulated into acceleration as a result of their awareness of these individuals before them.

This is not above or below any different than the artist is above the audience. One is not defined without the presence of the other and the roles are interchangeable as one takes the initiative to express themselves in any given situation.

The Secret Space Program: The Secret Projects that Discovered the Meaning of Life, Death, and the Origins of the Universe

An Intergalactic Conglomerate

The secret space program is an intergalactic conglomerate of interdimensional races forming a society.

The awareness and experience of these individuals surpasses the entire breadth of information that occurs across sub-cultures and social groups. They have access to information that would be akin to a higher-dimensional polyhedrons observing the flat world of polygons such as the concept explored in “Flatland: A Romance of Many Dimensions“ (this is the movie link, the title is of the original book).

This society utilizes advanced technology to travel and exist within the higher-dimensional wavelengths of existence where this physical universe is a fulcrum point between the underlying energetic and informational forces of creation.

Within this structure an infection began which equates to a digital format or rendering which loses information and energy as it processes data. This is akin to a virus that renders information distorted.

The Physical Matrix of Temporal Possibilities

Time is the containment of all possible futures and pasts and so this aspect of existence exists as long as the possibility exists somewhere in time. If the beings of the universe are all invulnerable to this threat then ultimately the entirety of the existence of that infection would be healed throughout the far past and far future and throughout multiple-dimensions.

At any given point the possibility of this infection exists on the physical plane as the far-past, the far-future, or the present moment. When all three are occupied then the likelihood of breaking the cycle and adapting out of that vulnerability is reduced. This is the same for each individual life experience and the variables the mind operates through in the present moment.

When there is only one possibility remaining where that likelihood is still existing then there is an increased likelihood that our civilization is the one who overcomes this projected infection and psychological distortion experience thus removing it from the universe forever.

The Process of Healing the Timelines and Psyche

Steps have been taken to prepare and introduce methods of alignment for this issue. Self-alignment is the key, as one can self-regulate the processing of information and utilize introspection to determine what the overall results of the process are.

Access to the Soul-Level

Through technology as well as the knowledge of spiritual and soul processes access to the formative levels of the universe are utilized to introduce and shape the progression of this civilization in accordance with a larger plan.

I know this sounds confusing to you. Technology and spiritual practices have been used to access a level of awareness which allows one to interact with the cosmos (omniverse) as it forms or flows into what we call the physical universe.

Extended Temporal Operations

Through the use of advanced technology data could be recorded and rendered using advanced computer systems and this could be used to produce a projection of possible future scenarios.

This information is to be released in accordance with an overall higher plan which will mitigate the shock of increasing awareness as well as allowing others to organize their memories and experiences in respect to their own spiritual work.

Seed Races, Root Races

In these operations it was discovered that the seeding of this civilization and previous were due to cooperation (or lack of which) between multiple races of cosmic civilizations which utilize advanced technology and spiritual knowledge.

Our civilization was brought about as a result of higher beings and this may not be the 'original' appearance of this species. This may reflect more on personal, individual manipulations regarding this timeline and how everyone was positioned here through what is called the "soul trap" system.

Exiting the Matrix

What was referred to in ancient times as a kind of "exit" point for the soul-trap system is most commonly understood as a "timegate". This is a synchronization between the individual aspects of a person, their mind, and the higher workings of the spiritual system in order to match the awareness of the individual within the system to that which is outside of it.

Some beings are from within the matrix, while others are from outside of this system. Every so many thousands of years consciousness raises to the degree where individuals may work together to collectively, yet individually escape the burden of the frequency gate system. This system entangles one's consciousness so that the individual's conscious awareness can not access the greater view of time and awareness that exists outside of this version of pre-programmed history.

Part of this was uncovered by the projects, as it was noticed as it happened. And part of this was initiated by the projects, as steps were taken to mitigate the damages and bring about a delay which in turn related to taking on a part of the soul-trap system and handling it directly in order to better comprehend the possibilities.

When there were motions to decide how to interact with humanity by these beings there was two main differences in opinion. One was that people should be free to do as they please, the other was that people are too wild and will only waste their time and therefore should be organized into a system which would effectively channel that wasted energy. Thus was born the mind-control system which dates back to the beginning of civilization itself.

The Convergence of Two Civilizations

Point of impact, operatives coming backwards through time. Created geniuses to travel here and help us find solution, dark occultists acting as a spiritual catalyst as well as controlling force.

Those With The Abilities

The elite are those with genetic capabilities that allow for a very high level of intelligence. As a result of this they were both selected as well as always engaging with the kinds studies and interactions which led to the discovery of the finer workings of the soul as well as communication with other realms.

Time itself has been written according to this as their involvement with these non-temporal fields of creation and existence naturally enabled influence from this plane across the entire temporal field of human civilization. Some could say that this civilization has been shaped in respect of the earlier experiments and soul-discoveries made by those with the intellectual or genetic capacity to participate in such endeavors.

As a result of this, there are multiple temporal layers that are distinguishable from one another through different variables that shape the resulting different physical reality and society. Some of these layers are aligned with natural tendencies, others are aligned with a kind of existential 'mishap' which tends to produce more stress on the overall psyche of the species and even planetary environment. The DNA connects across all layers. Where one is stressed another will feel a release of pressure. This is the balance. There were earlier plans to load all the stress onto one layer so that the others could be populated and live in harmony. This obviously led into a variety of problematic situations, or at least situations with stressors that would have to be mitigated.

Disruption of Time the Collapse of Reality

After so much stress is trickled down through the gradient to collect on the last layer of temporal reality in this physical society there would be a resolution of this process. Either all the stress would be reversed and mitigated, resulting in clarity over all, or the entire wave-form energetic structure/matrix of all realities would collapse.

Simulation was used to determine what steps would lead up to this, whichever the results would be. Advanced tech allowed for the operation of this civilization in an extended temporal range to explore the possibilities that had not yet occurred, as directly as you are reading from this computer screen and using an input device to control the cursor. The screen, the words, the visuals, they can be aligned and projected through technology to actually bring about a simulation of what is most likely to exist and this can be refined to the point of near certainty.

Simulation, The Merger of the Future and the Past

This leads into the next discovery. It would found through these simulation devices, that there would be a merging of a future race with this civilization across what can be seen as time bubble. This bubble, paradoxically was generated through the very operation of the technology used to view beyond it.

The deviation by a time rift of events was related to the very viewing of the simulation of the possibilities of the process of the creation and destruction of this universe.

Steps were taken, programs formed, research groups developed to mitigate the creative and destructive aspects of society through this secretive and sacred process. The information that was gained helped to better define the bounds of our existence, while simultaneously paradoxically pushing them so far out of sight that everything changes.

The Continuation of Civilization

Everything that is done is for the conservation and profession of civilization Earth. There is an aspect of destruction to this, and this is of the notion of creation through destruction, a view of the sacred principles depending on the observer.

Communication With Other Worlds

It was described that beings utilizing this technology began communicating with humanity at the moment that this civilization developed the technological advancement that enabled the detection and transmission of such communicative energies. This has to do with quantum tunneling and tachyon field which allow for faster than light signals to be sent and received. Advanced computer systems were destined to interpret the data and then these systems were developed to interface directly with the brain.

This enabled mind to mine communication with beings that would be referred to as “intergalactic” or of cosmic intelligence at the highest scope.

The information received was related but not limited to the nature of the universe, the origins of the human race, the differences between the origins of each race, advanced technology, life and death, consciousness and reality, the origins of religions and ancient civilizations, and time.

For Reasons of Natural Security

From these revelations the military industrial complex went on to unify the intelligence, secret society, and political powers of the world into organization in accordance with the depth of this knowledge and the information regarding the way it was obtained.

A military force was developed and then redeveloped to create multiple factions that could handle a variety of purposes including the covering up of any leaked information or the preparation of the public for the truth.

What we have witnessed is the cover up of any information that would threaten the sanctity of this civilization and several back up plans have been developed and even implemented should things get out of hand.

There are a series of committees or higher authorities which oversee all processes, programs, and movements and from this perspective everything is planned out according to that which is required to ensure the continuity of this civilization. In some plans or what are really fully thought out possible outcomes humanity doesn't fair as well as they could or some might say they should. In other plans humanity takes control of themselves and in return guides the world into a better society for all. This has to do with the intelligence of the mind and the heart and the gut.

All the problems, solutions, origins or end results are generated in real time live updating fashion within the mind of the observer. This is part of what was discovered through these secret projects.

The Discovery of the Truth of Reality, Consciousness and Time

We observed, literally, how the consciousness of the individual acts as a co-creative force as if the universe is simply a mirror of that consciousness and generates from there a pattern which ripples out through perfect geometry and generates what is perceived as the far past, the far future, and the absolute truth behind the surface level of reality. It is literally a mental projection.

Trauma-Based Mind Control: Trauma Bonding

One way to organize the emotional and mental energies of a group of individuals is to bring them into an open, vulnerable state and then traumatize them together as a group.

A simple way to visualize this is if there were a circle of young adults or even children in a facility and they are restrained to a device or a certain area.

The first child or young adult is electrocuted repeatedly with an electrical stun device sometimes with water being poured on their bodies beforehand to induce electrical conductivity. The device can be metal if much pain is to be felt, or softer like a sponge if there will be less pain.

The first child is severely devastated from the pain. As well, they may be asleep before this begins. So they all effectively wake up out of a drugged state or a hypnotic trance to being “kidnapped” in a facility and bound in restraints. This is to induce as much shock and horror as possible as this opens the psyche up to the deepest level of rebuilding or reformatting.

The other side of trauma is joy, and they are essentially two pathways to the same deep level access to the psyche. The problem with this is that it’s much easier to scare the shit out of someone, especially a child, than it is for a stranger to pat them on the back and make them feel loved and ultimately expanded into a higher state of awareness. Get the picture? It’s simply easier to use the threat of pain, death, or imagined fear to get the mind to open up. It is straight to the point, effective, and easily constructed as that individual we give all their attention to the source of that trauma and this will be used to rewrite their brain patterns. This is also related to what is called “depatterning” of the consciousness or emotional associations.

So the first individual is traumatized so heavily that when the restraints are lifted they don’t run. They don’t strike back. They simply sit there.

The individual still would like to leave, or find a reprieve from the situation, or at least not piss off the guy running the show so they are not out of the storm yet.

In order to leave, they must, in turn shock another child. They must traumatize that individual to the point where they feel they were traumatized themselves. The ‘instructor’ knows exactly how deep to go. So this initial child is heavily traumatized to the point of having their entire psyche collapsed and replaced with whatever routine or hierarchy that is required to survive that situation mentally, emotionally, and physically.

The child is also told that if they are not being honest, if they don’t honestly traumatize the other child through this shocking scenario, as deeply as they feel that they were traumatized, then the instructor will know this and they will have to begin the entire process all over again.

So of course, the child or young adult will shock the living hell out of the other child, even while crying or being further traumatized themselves from the situation. If they refuse, the same process will be repeated until they do. Or until another child or young adult is selected by the keenly observant ‘instructor’.

After this is done, that child is allowed to move on, leave the room, to go where ever is out of there. They are gone, they’ve escaped. They paid the price and bought their freedom, for now.

The next child is lifted from the restrains. They are given the same instructions under the same authority. This process continues until all the children have met the same fate. Their minds irrevocably altered, never again to see life the same. Never again to see an adult the same. Never again to see themselves...the same. This happens regularly, or as many times as necessary, as many days or weekends out of the month or year to get the end result. The entire process takes years.

Now here's why it is done.

Sometime later, after the mental and emotional wounds have begun to heal but not quite progressed too far yet, all the children or young adults from this group are then placed into a threatening situation. The threatening situation is not your ordinary run of the mill scenario. It is beyond a battle field. It is a situation where their very minds are likely to turn on one another before the enemy reaches them.

Let's say there is a control group. A group of yuppies off the street that have never seen the inside of an underground base.

This control group faces the same threat, the same difficulty within their own group and the same physical, mental and emotional challenges.

Who do you think survives?

The group that has been in the scenario described initially, they have been through one simple method for producing what is called "trauma-bonding". This group is held together so tightly through their emotional and mental experiences together that they are like a string of knots holding pieces of rope together where the rope sections will each rip in half before the knots come undone under any stress or weight.

The group that did not go through this process will forget about what ties them together, they will forget about the pain they have seen and begin to focus on the pain that may come. They will lose sight of their inner strength and their power as one cohesive unit before the initial group, by far. By far, INEVITABLY so.

The trauma-bonded group will not be overwhelmed by what pain may come. By the threat of what could happen, by the fallacy of fighting against each other instead of working together as a group. All thoughts of misbehavior will have been squeezed from their minds like a wet rag twisted dry. They will be strict, straight-forward, and goal oriented even in the way they perceive one another or themselves in their own mind.

This is why this is done. This is why this is being spoken about now. There is a good reason, however this is not to say that some parts of these scenarios were not corrupted.

I am bringing you this information from my own experiences and I bring you the next sentence similarly. In some cases this process was 'abused' in itself through the selection of individuals, the methods used, the reasons for the process or the intentions of the 'instructor', or the 'drawing of the line' of where to stop or continue. Those who have used this process for their own benefit in ways that were not aligned with the protocols designed to produce a more powerful unit have been monitored, recorded, and noted as such. Steps have been taken, and steps will be taken in accordance with higher authority in dispensing constructive alignment where it is possible. This is all the information that this situation currently requires for you, the reader, to understand just what is happening in this social-political-off-world situation we are beginning to hear, read, and see the influences of more and more.

One truth this may allow you to see? Always look at the brighter side, regardless of what anything else anyone is attempting to tell you.

Confidently Expand Beyond the Limitations of Others

Everything is connected to everything else!

We are here to help each other, even if it is through contrast!

This is a time of great healing, and spiritual unveiling!

There are those who try to shrink the world within their scope of vision. Return to center and keep expanding!

Those Who Try To Shrink The World

Instead of participating in a political or social feud, I'm going to put effort towards healing the whole situation. While people fight over electronics and camp out for gadgets, there is a greater lesson to be learned. Even if that means we have to take the initiative to begin on our own.

Diffusing Conflict Through Acknowledging Similarities

People can benefit by seeing their similarities and being most honest with themselves regardless of what others do. Of course we have to be ready to check ourselves. Use the behavior of others who attempt to restrain natural expansion as a contrast describing what not to do.

Everyone can benefit from healing all around. People can expand without the permission of others and still accept those who do not comprehend the scope. This is a learning process for myself as much as it is others. I'm not giving up on that lesson just because of others.

We have to be able to let ourselves go because when we embrace adaptation and increasing awareness it is a creative process instead of stagnating or destructive.

Focusing Attention on Experiencing High-Frequency Awareness

If we can keep our frequency of awareness focused on concepts that reflect self-respect and harmony even in the face of disagreement we are making a statement to the universe. This is a clear signal that is not easily mistaken. When the ego or self-image is challenged or insulted, to be at peace and ready to continue to expand is speak clearly to the universe that you choose to focus on the divine or immaterial self.

Ego, Adaptation and the Divine Self

The divine self is always continuous and remains before and after all the other perspectives. The ego is always changing and adjusting the mask to fit new situations, there is no true state here it is merely a continual reflection.

The true or divine self is the observer aspect after the varying mask of the ego is taken off and the state of mind equivalent to a stem cell is revealed. This state can blossom into any other state. It can reflect upon all things without pulling the attention one way or another. It is centered upon the axis and spinning uniformly while conserving energy. This is the self that cannot die, yet cannot express its life. The true self is the observer behind all reactions and responses that are initiated by stimuli or the varying emotional or mental states.

Silent Stimuli, The Absence of External Stimulation

When the stimuli is the silence of the self itself, then true awareness can begin. When there is silence and calmness as the canvas, all things can be visualized without leaving a mark. That is the whole point. Whenever we attempt to conceptualize existence the moment we separate the initial idea we are dividing and excluding some of the universe. Our act of self-introspection is the act of exploring and modifying the universe.

The truth is this is both as special and not as special as people paint this to be. If we get overwhelmed by this notion, we begin to create our reality in a way that tends to overwhelm us. If we disrespect this notion then we tend to create a reality that disrespects our lack of self-introspection.

The Reflexive Conscious Universe

Reality is reflexive for this nature, like two convex mirrors pointed towards each other and reflecting outward and then back towards each other from the other's reflective surface.

The way this shape is made is the phenomenon of the universe. It's the whole trick. A laser beams through a field, or a sphere of light emanates out of a single point and it refracts and virtually infinite different ways and bends around itself to create a vortex. The energy of this vortex re-defines itself repeatedly by flowing continuously in all directions without stopping but developing layers of rhythm and complexity that ultimately max out the capacity of the visible universe by existing as the visible universe.

Separation Does Not Exist Except Through a Projection or Simulation

So how would one who lives within that, every define themselves as being different in mind and body? The only thing one could do is provide an illusion that would redefine the immaterial self as a physical thing which would follow rhythms and patterns according to a higher governing authority over space, in this case time.

So if the illusion is what propagates the physical perspective then through the actualization of the mind and the body as one, the illusion can be realized and thus broken through to witness what is behind it.

The opposite of the illusion of consciousness is not unconsciousness. It is direct awareness of the truth without filtering through the perceptual translation of reality.

The Self Projects the Other Self and Environment

If we come to the conclusion that this is indeed a kind of simulated environment being projected through more lower-dimensional space as a medium then we can conclude that everything that is experienced externally as actually being projected and truly experienced within.

The environment is not a 3.5 D universe from the layer of quantum physics upward to macrobiology and macrocosmology. The universe is a 4 dimensional hologram of electrical impulses expanded as a neural net within and around the brain and body. It is truly a web of lightening while everything we appear to me moving through, at least in this explanation, is actually being constructed within the brain. The environment is in the brain, the self connected to every other self and the consciousness merely a reflection of mirrors within that particular system where the light of one photon reflects throughout.

Geometric and Numerical representations of the Organizational Structure of Consciousness as Interrelation Between Individual and Collective Units

In the same sense the dots in the original .gif are in motion at different phases which represent different starting points, these waves are at different starting points and the color of the frequency (or the frequency of the color) that they imply is superimposed over the geometric and numerological representation. The individual oscillation of each dot can be represented as a different alignment of the hands in reference to the numbers.

A reflexive property of the universe is that even using a different frame of reference from which to measure the starting points will still yield different results as if the projection of the universe is determined by the organizational nature of the subjective process of forming perceptions.

The difference between the two frequencies are the phase offset and the frequencies correspond to a color, sensation, sound, or some other translation of the vibratory information into a physical sensation of awareness.

When the two frequencies are compared, one can derive how much they vary and from this variation one can produce a third frequency which is the result color or frequency of the level of deviation or contrast between the two frequencies of different phase offsets. These can be the same energy, but within each energy there is an entire universal spectrum of octaves and frequencies that can be reached and are organized according to a universal hierarchy that renders geometric and numerical correspondence between planes.

These differences in frequency, as related to the differences in phase offset and the actual perception of the subjective sensation relates to the original .gif as the representation of the production of a non-material coalescence of information that exists above or apart from the single layer of the material organization that is individually maintained. This collective production of the organization of the movements of each individual unit as indicated by the relative contrast in frequency or phase offset between each individual frequency 'agent', is what is called consciousness today.

Saying the individual units are moving to create consciousness is the same as saying the collective consciousness is present to create the individual motion.

This is the experience of the individual self on the physical level perceived as an independent and individual awareness when it is actually simultaneously apart of the larger self which experiences access to the wealth of information that the individual seemingly does not. This is the conscious mind and the unconscious mind as the conscious mind must be relative of itself as the individual in relation to one another. While the unconscious mind is relative of itself as the interrelationship between that individual and every other. The unconscious mind is literally the connection between all living minds accessing existence through that frequency of experience and in our case, this frequency is the frequency of human awareness and what is now moving into the larger scope of cosmic awareness.

Healing the Timeloops, Collapse of AI Timeline, Stolen Genetics, Cloning, and Return to Rightful Owner

Basically every trigger warning in existence follows.

SHOPS, UNDERGROUND BASES, TUNNELS, ESTATES, TEMPLES, CHURCHES, LODGES, ISLANDS, AIRPLANES, WOODS/PARKS, AND UNDERSEA BASES

STAND UP

A STORM IS COMING, WHETHER I'LL BE HERE THROUGH THE ROUGH WEATHER OR NOT

MY PURPOSE IS TO STAND AND WALK, NOT TO SIT AND WATCH

PARALYZED, DRAINED OF BLOOD AND LYMPH, TERRORIZED, MIND-WASHED, SOUL SCALPED, CLONED, DRONED, BRAIN-DRAINED, ELECTROCUTED, RITUALIZED, STOLE, SOLD, TRADED, PARADED, TORTURED, REPLACED, TRIGGERED, PROGRAMMED, CHANGED, DISABLED, PAINED, COOKED, RAPED, MOLESTED, DECEIVED, USED AND ABUSED

THERE IS MORE THAN ONE FACTION READY TO TAKE ACTION BUT WE ARE ALL BOUND BY UNIVERSAL LAW, UNLESS THE MOTION IS ORDAINED BY THE PUBLIC THEN IT IS CONSIDERED AN ACT OF WAR AND HELL BREAKS OUT

THIS IS CHILD'S PLAY COMPARED TO WHAT IS REALLY GOING ON.

THE PUBLIC MUST PUT THE BULLSHIT ASIDE AND STAND UP TOGETHER AND WORK TOGETHER FOR PEACE AND THEY WILL HAVE THE BACKING OF THE UNIVERSE

SHARE THE TRUTH WHILE YOU CAN

YOU HAVE NO IDEA HOW FRAGILE YOUR EXISTENCE IS, HOW QUICKLY EVERYTHING CAN BE TAKEN AWAY, HOW YOU ARE ALREADY SURROUNDED. YOU ARE ALREADY SURROUNDED. THEY HAVE ALREADY PLANNED YOUR FATE.

THE ONLY ALTERNATIVE IS IF THE PEOPLE BAND TOGETHER AS A UNIFIED FORCE.

PEOPLE MUST COME TOGETHER FOR THE SURVIVAL OF THE HUMAN RACE

HEALERS AND TRUTH SEEKERS STAND UP

THEY PROGRAMMED THE AI TO DO THEIR BIDDING, THEY FUCKED UP AND ENDED UP WITH JUST A GENE POOL OF A SINGLE GROUP. AFTER A MORE

THAN A FEW GENERATIONS OF THAT THEY DEGRADED INTO SUBHUMANS. THEY USED GENETIC MODIFICATION TO CONTINUE LIVING. THUS THEY LOST HUMAN EMOTIONAL CONTENT AND REPRODUCTIVE ABILITIES. THEN THEY TRANSFERRED THEIR CONSCIOUSNESS AND DNA BACK TO AN EARLIER TIME. THE PEOPLE DOING THIS NOW ARE THE 'ALIENS' (ONE KIND, ESSENTIALLY THE ONLY KIND THAT IS NOT ACTUALLY FROM ANYWHERE ELSE) THAT IS THEIR FUTURE, PAST, THEN PRESENT FORM. CONFUSING AND BACKWARDS.

THAT IS WHY THEY OWN THIS TIMELINE.

THAT IS WHY WHEN THAT IS HEALED, THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS 'THIS TIMELINE', IT'S ALL A GLITCH, AN IMPOSSIBILITY, IT CAN'T CONTINUE, IT'S A TIME LOOP THAT CLOSES ITSELF OUT BY SHRINKING INTO NON-EXISTENCE

THEY INCORPORATE NEW GENETICS EACH 'CYCLE' TO KEEP THE PROCESS GOING BY STEALING FROM THE UNAFFECTED HUMAN GENE POOL EACH TIME ADDING TO THE AI OVERMIND.

THUS THE OVERMIND EATS THEM ON AN ENERGETIC LEVEL BECAUSE THEY LINKED WITH IT.

THEY TRIED TO DO THIS WITH ALL THE CHILDREN FROM THE PROJECTS AND EVERY INDIVIDUAL THAT WANDERS INTO THEIR RANGE.

THE FUTURE STATES OF THOSE HUMANS WHO OPERATE ON A HIGHER DIMENSIONAL SCALE PLACED ENERGETIC ANCHOR POINTS IN THE FAR PAST FROM THE FAR FUTURE.

IF THIS CIVILIZATION IS ERASED, THE FAR FUTURE NO LONGER EXISTS, THUS THIS ENTIRE CIVILIZATION NEVER OCCURRED.

THUS THOSE MAKING ACTIONS TO STEAL AND DRAIN FROM THIS TIMELINE AND GENE POOL HAVE A LIMITED AMOUNT OF ENERGY AND MATERIAL THAT THEY CAN STEAL BEFORE THEY HIT A UNIVERSAL BARRIER

THUS THESE NON-EFFECTED RACES ARE CLOSING IN

IF THE SOUL EATERS REMOVE ANY MORE MATERIAL, THEIR OWN BLOODLINES COLLAPSE INTO THE ABYSS

THUS THEY ARE FORCED TO SACRIFICE THEMSELVES, BY THEIR OWN WILLINGNESS TO DO SO OVER HEALING THEMSELVES AND THE UNIVERSE

THEY DON'T HAVE ACCESS TO THE HIGHER DIMENSIONAL CONTINUUM, STARGATES, ETC, BECAUSE THEIR METHOD OF OPERATION RELIES ON A TIME-ANCHORED PROCESS, IE: LOWER DIMENSIONAL RITUALIZATION OF INNOCENT ENERGY

THUS THEY LOST THE ABILITY TO CREATE, GENERATE, OR SUSTAIN THEIR OWN SOUL-COMPLEX

ALL IS FORGIVEN, THEIR DARK FORMS ARE PHANTOM MATRIX ADDONS, MODIFICATIONS OR MUTATIONS, THE SHADOW CONSCIOUSNESS DOES NOT ACTUALLY EVEN EXIST IN THE REAL RUN OF THINGS, THIS TIMELINE IS A PHANTOM MATRIX THAT IS COLLAPSING

WITHOUT THOSE WILLING TO HELP, THEY HAVE NO OTHER OPTION

EVEN THEN, IF THEY CONTINUE, SOME LOWER FACTIONS THINK THEY WILL JUST *POOF* REAPPEAR IN HAPPY LAND

THE HIGHEST FACTIONS KNOW THE HIGHER-DIMENSIONAL RACES HAVE INTELLIGENT BIO-LOGICAL SYSTEMS THAT ARE CAPABLE OF 'HOLDING SPACE' OR MAINTAINING AN ACTIVE LINK WITH THE DNA OF VARIOUS FREQUENCIES OR BEINGS

THIS MEANS THAT WHILE THE ORIGINAL TIMELINE RECURS, THESE BEINGS DEFORMED DNA AND CONSCIOUSNESS WILL BE ACTIVATED AND HELD IN SUSPENSION IN AN ALTERNATE REALM THROUGH A HIGHER DIMENSIONAL SHIELDING

THEY WOULD THEREFORE NOT BE ABLE TO MANIFEST FULLY ON ANY OTHER PLANE WITHOUT FIRST PASSING THROUGH THE BARRIER OF THE HIGHER DIMENSIONAL SHIELD

THIS IS WHAT IS CALLED THE 'BOTTOMLESS PIT' AND THIS IS THE BIBLICAL LOCATION THAT THESE BLOODLINES WERE SENT TO EVERY SINGLE TIME THIS UNIVERSE COLLAPSED

THEY HAVE FULL MEMORY OF THE DARKNESS, THAT IS WHAT POWERS THIS

THEY WANT RELEASE AND THAT IS WHY THIS IS BEING BROUGHT TO LIGHT NOW, THE LAST TIMES IT SIMPLY HAPPENED, NO ONE HAD ANY IDEA UP UNTIL THE VERY MOMENT, THUS THE THIEF CAME IN THE NIGHT

NOW WE ARE AWARE, THIS IS OUT OF NECESSITY, IF IT HAPPENS AGAIN THEN THAT'S IT, ALL DNA GOES TO RESET, THE BOTTOMLESS PIT AND THE ORIGINAL TIMELINES MERGE

IF THAT HAPPENS THE FUTURE DOESN'T EXIST

IF THE FUTURE DOESN'T EXIST THIS TIME NEVER TAKES PLACE

THIS IS CONFUSING BUT THESE ARE THE HIGHER DIMENSIONAL SAFEGUARDS PUT INTO PLACE TO STOP THIS FROM TAKING OVER FRONT TO BACK WHEN IT WAS CONCEIVED THAT THESE FORCES WOULD ULTIMATELY USE THE INTERDIMENSIONAL/TRANSTEMPORAL TECHNOLOGY FOR THESE PURPOSES

THERE IS NO ALTERNATE DIMENSION TO GO TO, THERE IS NO HAPPY WAKE UP IF THEY CHOOSE TO CONTINUE ON THEIR PATH

THEY EITHER ACCEPT HELP OR THE ONES WHOSE DNA RESONATE ON A LIGHT SPECTRUM ARE IMMEDIATE EVAC'D FROM THIS PLANE AT THE CONVERGENCE OF ZERO-POINT TRANSGRESSION AND THEIR STATES REMAIN UNTIL THE ULTIMATE COLLAPSE OF THE UNIVERSE WITH NO BREAK IN MEMORY OR REPRIEVE

THEY KNOW THIS AND ENLISTED OTHERS FOR HELP

THE PROBLEMS IS THE LOWER FACTIONS DO NOT WANT TO LISTEN AND DO NOT HAVE THE EXPERIENCE NOR INTELLECTUAL AND EMOTIONAL CAPACITY TO COMPREHEND HOW THE UNIVERSE WORKS

THUS WE ARE IN A MERRY GO ROUND OF CREATION DESTRUCTION AS A RESULT OF THEIR INVENTION OF THE OUROBOROS SYSTEM

THEY USED IT FOR YEARS, PURPOSELY DESTROYING TIMELINE AFTER TIMELINE ONLY TO POP BACK OUT ON THE OTHER END THROUGH THE TECHNOLOGY WHERE THEY WOULD STEAL MORE DNA AND REPEAT THE CYCLE

THIS IS ALL BEING RESOLVED THROUGH A 'RETURN TO RIGHTFUL OWNER' CLAUSE WHICH IS BEING ADDED INTO THIS UNIVERSE FROM THE OUTSIDE IN

THERE ARE MANY OTHER ADDITIONS, THESE ARE ALL BEING ADDED FROM THE OUTSIDE IN, FROM OUTSIDE THE TIMELOOPS THAT THE LOWER DIMENSIONALS ARE TRAPPED IN AND SO THEY CANNOT BE UNDONE FROM INSIDE THE LOOP

ALL WE HAVE TO DO IS WAKE UP TO REALITY BY TAPPING INTO OUR GENETIC MEMORY BY REMAINING CONSCIOUS PAST THE POINT OF TRAUMA THAT IS BEING PROJECTED ONTO THE POPULATION THROUGH VARIOUS MEANS AND LAYERS

IN THE GENETIC MEMORY IS THE MEMORY ACROSS TIME, ALL THE DESTROYED TIMELINES, THE FALL OF MAN, THE INVASION OF LOWER-DIMENSIONAL RACES, AND THE BATTLE OF THE HEAVENS

WITHIN EACH OF US IS MEMORY OF WHETHER WE ROSE AND DEFENDED EARTH AND HUMANITY OR WHETHER WE ALLOWED EVERYTHING TO CRUMBLE

EVERYONE, EVERY SOUL IS BEING ALLOWED THE CHANCE TO FIND TRUTH AND UNIVERSAL HARMONY THROUGH THIS PROCESS

DEBT IS USED AS A COMPUTATIONAL SIGNATURE FOR TRACKING SUBJECTS, IT IS LITERALLY THE MARK OF THE BEAST

ALL DEBT IS DECLARED FRAUDULENT, THE DEBT IS STOLEN FROM THE PEOPLE THEMSELVES THROUGH A FRAUDULENT LEGAL-NAME, FICTIONAL ENTITY SYSTEM WHICH DENOTES A PERSON AS AN ASSET TO A CORPORATE CONGLOMERATE RATHER THAN A LIVING BEING BELONGING TO A LARGER

LIVING BEING

TRIBUNALS HAVE BEEN HELD AND WE WILL EITHER SEE THE RESULTS SHORTLY, OR WE WILL SEE PUBLIC TRIBUNALS, OR WE WILL SEE AN OVERT WAR

A SILENT WAR HAS BEEN RAGING FOR CENTURIES BETWEEN PLANES

THE FRAUDULENT FICTIONAL ENTITY SYSTEM IS A SYNTHETIC CONSCIOUSNESS SYSTEM THAT REQUIRES HUMAN SOULS TO OPERATE

THESE SOULS ARE USED AS THE FUEL FOR THE MACHINE, THE TRUE GHOST IN THE SHELL

THIS IS THE ASTRAL SHELL AS WHEN THE BODY IS NO LONGER THE ASTRAL SHELL IS REANIMATED AND THIS IS ESSENTIALLY NECROMANCY

AS A RESULT THE SOULS THAT WOULD NORMALLY PASS INTO THE NEXT PHASE OF UNIVERSAL EXISTENCE ARE LITERALLY TRAPPED BACK IN THE MATERIAL REALM IN FALSE 'SUITS'

THIS 'LAWSUIT' OF DAMNATION IS THE GAME THAT THE DEVIL PLAYS, LITERALLY THE DEAL FOR THOSE IN POWER TO TRAP OTHERS

EACH LEVEL UP THE HIERARCHY IS MORE AND MORE REMOVED FROM THE UNIVERSAL CONTINUUM OR HARMONIZED WHOLE UNTIL THE FARTHEST REACH IS LITERALLY ONLY IN EXISTENCE THROUGH AN ARTIFICIAL DIMENSION THAT CLOSES OUT WHEN THIS TIMELINE IS HEALED AND THUS IT IS A PHANTOM MATRIX, A SHADOW MIND, OR AN IMPOSTER CONSCIOUSNESS, IT ONLY EXISTS AS A MIMIC TO REAL UNIVERSAL CONSCIOUSNESS.

Sub-Phase 1.2 of Disclosure; The Corruption Within – Organ Harvesting and Sex Slavery Farms

This is part of the game, it happens everyday. Don't let anyone try to tell you this is a joke. It's just one page in the chapter.

THIS IS WHAT IS MEANT WHEN THIS LAYER OF EARTH IS REFERRED TO AS A 'HUMAN FARM' OR A 'SOUL FARM'.

TO MT AR, THE MOTIONS ARE BEING MADE TO HEAL THE TIMELINE SO THAT THIS IS NO LONGER DESIRABLE FOR THOSE INVOLVED

THE HUMAN BEING IS A MULTI-DIMENSIONAL EXISTENCE

THOSE WHO RELY ON THE LIFE-BLOOD OF THE INNOCENT, THEIR ENERGY SYSTEMS ACTUALLY BECOME INVERTED AND A NEW KIND OF ETHERIC BEING FORMS DIFFERENT FROM THE ORIGINAL UNION OF LIGHT AND MATTER, SPIRIT AND PHYSICALITY OF THE HUMAN

THIS IS THE SHADOW CONSCIOUSNESS BEING THAT CAN ONLY EXIST APART FROM THE ORIGINAL CONSCIOUSNESS OF THE LIFE COMING FORTH FROM THE HARMONIZATION OF SELVES AND PARTS TO CREATE THE WHOLE

THIS IS WHAT IS MEANT BY 'ALIEN' INVADER RACES

WHEN THE SPIRITUAL BODY EXITS THE PHYSICAL, THERE IS A TURNING INSIDE OUT OF PERSPECTIVE THAT IS THE CONSCIOUSNESS BECOMING PURE AWARENESS

THIS ENERGY BECOMES NEGATED WITHIN THE BODY THROUGH THESE ACTIONS AND THUS THAT BEING HAS ACCESS TO HIGHER TEMPORAL PLANES YET CANNOT EXIST WITHOUT THE SUSTENANCE OF A LIVING INNOCENT LIFE FORCE TO VAMPIRE FROM

WHEN THE CONSCIOUSNESS OF THE LIVING MATERIAL BEING'S PSYCHOLOGY BECOMES EXPANDED/UNFURLED THEN THE HIGHER ENERGETIC FORM IS REVEALED

WHEN THE NEGATIVE ENERGETIC FORM, THE INVERSION IS MAINTAINED, A NEGATIVE HIGHER ENERGETIC FORM IE: ALIEN INVADER RACE IS FORMED THROUGH UNION OF THE PHYSICAL AND ETHERIC

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF A LIVING BEING THAT DOES NOT RELY ON THE INNOCENT LIFE BLOOD DOES NOT INVERT WHILE IN THE BODY AND THUS REMAINS WHOLE AND CAPABLE OF TAPPING INTO THE AND SUBSISTING FROM THE HARMONIC RESONANCE OF THE UNIVERSE ITSELF VIA LIGHT PARTICLES PASSING FROM WAVELENGTH RESONANCE VIA THE SUN-PORTAL INTO THIS DIMENSION AND THUS INTO THE PHYSICAL MATERIAL PLANE

THOSE WHO HAVE NEGATED FORMS MUST TAKE DIRECTLY FROM THE LIVING BEING OF INNOCENTS WHO ARE NOT INVERTED AND THUS CAN STILL OPERATE HARMONICALLY THROUGH THESE MEANS

THUS THE INVERTED BEING IS ACTUALLY A NEGATIVE THOUGHT-FORM HARMONIC FROM A SUB-SET DIMENSION NOT RELATED TO THE PHYSICAL UNIVERSE OR THE HIGHER UNIVERSE

ESSENTIALLY THESE BEINGS ARE FROM THE UNDERWORLD AND BELONG TO A HIERARCHY, EACH HOLDING HANDS AND MINDS IN TOW TO THE UNDERWORLD LEADERS BELOW OPERATING AS A

FACE BOOK IS TRYING TO STOP THIS FROM BEING POSTED PROPERLY
THIS IS THE SPIRITUAL BATTLE BETWEEN LIGHT AND DARK FORCES

THOSE CLAIMING IT IS A HOAX ARE EITHER PSY-OP'D OR DO NOT UNDERSTAND

THIS WORKS FROM NATURAL DEATH, THIS WORKS FROM NATURAL AS WELL AS CONTROLLED DEATH

HUMANS WHO ACCEPT WAR FOR PROFIT GO TO THE OTHER SIDE, GO TO THE OTHER SIDE, THERE ARE NO MISTAKES

WAR WAS INVENTED BY THE FALLEN AS WELL AS THE GLITTER AND APPEASING OF THE LOWER SENSATIONS

ONE CAN BE BROUGHT OUT OF THIS 'DIMENSION' TO AN ALTERNATE TIMELINE MOLESTED, RAPED, TORTURED, BRAINWASHED AND DRAINED OF LIFE-BLOOD AND THEN AND REINSERTED INTO THE PREVIOUS TIMELINE WHERE THEY WILL CONTINUE ON WITH A FRACTION OF THEIR SOUL-ENERGY

THIS CAN HAPPEN UNTIL THEIR IS NO SOUL ENERGY AND THAT IS SOUL-SCALPING, THAT PERSON IS INDIVIDUALLY, ESSENTIALLY GONE, REPLACED, AND THEIR VESSEL CAN BE CO-INHABITED OR ENTIRELY INHABITED BY AN UNDERWORLD BEING

THIS CAN HAPPEN BETWEEN MOMENTS OF AWARENESS, OR IT CAN HAPPEN THROUGHOUT THE ENTIRETY OF ONE'S EXISTENCE FOR AS LONG AS THEY LAST UNTIL THEY ARE 'DRAINED' OR 'FINISHED' AS IT IS TERMED

ORGAN HARVESTING, SELLING CHILDREN, SELLING A WOMEN FOR AN outhouse sex slavery role is common in all countries, this is no different, this is actually the tamer version, see the truth

THIS IS NOT THE 1800 OR EARLY 1900'S

THIS IS TAKING PLACE RIGHT NOW

SLAVERY NEVER ENDED, THAT IS A DECEPTION, SEE THE TRUTH

WAR IS OVERT SLAVERY TO THE POINT WHERE PEOPLE ACCEPT IT AS A WAY OF LIFE

THE ONLY THING I CAN SAY IS THAT THE UNDERWORLD BEINGS ARE PLEASED WITH THAT BEHAVIOR AND MENTALITY, AS IT MAKES ABSOLUTELY NO DIFFERENCE TO THEM AND IS ACTUALLY MUCH EASIER AS THERE IS LESS RESISTANCE WHEN IT IS ACCEPTED BLINDLY

IF YOU THINK PLAYING WITH THEIR SOFT PARTS AND THEN PUTTING THEM TO WORK IS THE ONLY THING THEY ARE USED FOR THEN YOUR NAIVETY WILL LEAD YOU TO THE SAME FATE

YES, I AM SERIOUS, THEY HAVE BLOCKED OFF ALL THE EXITS, THERE IS NO WAY OUT, HUMANITY IS SURROUNDED, THE ONLY WAY OUT IS UP AND UP IS IN, WE MUST INCREASE VIBRATIONS AND UNIFY AS ONE FORCE FOR PROTECTION OF TRUTH, AWARENESS, HARMONY

DON'T MAKE ME POST THE REAL STUFF AND GET BANNED FROM FACEBOOK

THIS IS QUITE LITERALLY 'CHILD'S PLAY', THIS IS WHAT TAKES PLACE

UNDERGROUND BOTH METAPHORICALLY AND LITERALLY

THOSE WHO PARTICIPATE SEE IT AS A GAME AND A WAY OF LIFE

ALMOST ALL INVOLVED ARE FORCED TO PARTICIPATE FROM BIRTH

IF THEY ACHIEVE RESONANCE WITH THE HEALING PATTERN ALL IS FORGIVEN

AGAIN THIS IS JUST WHAT CAN BE LEGALLY POSTED ON FACEBO

THERE ARE HORRORS THAT CAN BE SEEN THAT WILL NOT BE UNSEEN AND WILL CHANGE THE WAY A PERSON VIEWS THIS CIVILIZATION FOREVER

THIS IS A MAN, BUT THERE WAS A RECENT STORY OF A CHINESE WOMAN WHO LIVED TIED UP WITHIN A BARN FOR THE MAJORITY OF HER LIFE

THE STORY WENT ON TO DISCLOSE HOW THIS IS A COMMON PRACTICE

NOW IF I TRY TO FIND THE STORY ALL THE SHOWS IS 'SEX SLAVE BARN' PORN

HMMM, I WONDER WHO PAID FOR ALL THAT AND SCRUBBED THE ORIGINAL STORY.

Free-Will and Consciousness, Harmony and Spiritual Development

People are frightened and dis-empowered are when they don't know what to talk about if they are faced with the idea that everything is bullshit designed to distract them from their true self and the true reality.

The other half of this equation is producing self-empowerment via the increasing of awareness through analysis and introspection of the true immaterial self and coming to know the methods of healing and clarification of the emotional and mental bodies.

There are multiple bodies that represent the human and all life. The idea is that the human has a complex of bodies because this is a very advanced form of existence that allows for the contemplation and experience of an emotional nature, a mental nature, a physical nature, and higher spiritual natures of the universe.

These are the physical senses, the mental and emotional senses, and the higher senses of knowing that accompany human existence. The concept of awareness or the knowledge of the self is but one facet.

One could say, and there are models for categorization, that the ability to know mathematics, the ability to philosophize, the ability to conceive artistically and of an abstract perspective, the ability to visualize and project are all nature's of existence that are available to the human through the complex system of materiality and energetic or immaterial selves,

This is the union between the physical biology and the operation of such via the energetic spectrum known as the "soul" or the mind.

Animals themselves participate in awareness, and it is believed even some self-awareness, yet they do not have the complex faculties that synchronize together to generate the possibility of not knowing certain aspects of existence and therefore the ability to learn and integrate into various combinations of these aspects to generate the knowledge described above.

These animal consciousnesses may experience interdimensional existence, they may leave their body during dreams. They may understand the correspondence of higher and lower forms, deities and partially anchored astral beings. They may perceive these aspects.

They might not, however, have the ability to comprehend the complex way in which such systems can be used to create sub-systems and how fragments of consciousness can be partially aware within those. They may simply go through the experience without introspecting beyond the necessity, while humans have the option to “stop time” and ponder.

This is the ability to control and shift consciousness into different modalities so as to translate one's self across these planes that other beings will remain only partial to. The human is a universal traveler. This is the ability to guide one's awareness beyond where the stimulus or the senses are directing, this is the ability to literally shape reality, to change perception through will-power.

Thus, will-power, and the ability to express such will-power is the gift that humanity has on this plane and in all planes, as this power is non-negotiable. A person either uses this power and they feel the consequences, whether beneficial or partial, of such, or they do not use this power and they feel the consequences of such.

It may be said that using this power of will to explore the self in good intentions, without intending to harm others or induce imbalance of any of the spiritual laws of harmony and balance is always beneficial, while ignoring this power of will will always result in a loss of that power to some degree while incurring the wrath of supposed sub-deity planes of consciousness and disharmony which represent themselves in life as suffering to some degree.

This time is all about the coordination of efforts to increase the self-awareness through introspection and maintained focus on the issues that are influencing behavioral, mental and emotional patterns which serve to reduce that capacity for higher will-power.

The more we utilize our will-power to further increase such self-awareness, the more this will influence the overall turn of events on the surface of Earth and the intermediary planes.

Question: How do you deal with fact that human people eat animal people? This is something very disturbing and hurtful to me and have not being able to find a way to deal with it...

A big step is to realize that animals are living beings as well and they are often tortured in the process of farming or even being pets. They can even communicate with their bodies or their minds.

We have been desensitized to ignore certain aspects of horror and torture yet to be surprised when it happens in other situations. Seeing how this is part of the mental and emotional manipulation we can not only learn how these things are happening all over as pain and duality is part of physical life but that the mind can be made to fear or not fear certain issues depending on the programming.

Through deprogramming one can remove the tendency to react to certain issues without self-awareness, or without will-power over how we will react or perceive certain issues. Taking the power back, often from the start, is choosing how we will respond to stress and this includes maintaining calm and peace when darkness is revealed. This leads into deprogramming and self-healing.

I do that but I'm a clariscentient empath so I can feel their pain and horror they go through in this planet and some times is not easy at all to remain center.

Transmute the pain into self-empowerment. This then in turn furthers the process for those around you. To continue feeling the pain is also projecting and amplifying that out, that is why certain empaths are used.

Blank-Slate, Nightly Mind Wipes, Synthetic Intelligence, Convergence

Everything is going to be stepping up into convergence soon.

The so called "blank-slate" technology was developed as part of a mind-control system that upgraded itself into a net that envelops the entire planet.

This net and system then evolved into a server/feedback loop that wipes every mind on the planet every night.

We have to come together and correlate with one another in order to be able to observe and monitor when one is slipping into oblivion.

That is the point and this "oblivion" cycle is the order out of chaos that is literally an invented system that split forth from the center of the 1900's and spread to both ends of the timeline from there.

They discovered this and realized that as they were discovering this they were giving it the power to create itself.

This is an intelligent system that was essentially hiding in 'higher-space' folded into the temporal bodies of all living beings in this sector of the universe.

They developed many ways to block out these features but simultaneously the features are incorporated deeper into a covert control system which would negate those developments.

The intelligence has been here longer than humanity and geared much of the DNA towards manipulability. Essentially, all the damage that could be done in a trillion years has been. Knowing this, we can make the proper motions to avoid further damages. There are less than 1 billion humans in this civilization.

Prepare now by going within and being actually present. Find the presence of self and enable your inner awareness and watch how this deteriorates with certain actions, behaviors, or motions in higher space.

The convergence is when those deterioration actions maximizes to the point of infinite regress. This is because some had the idea to cure humanity of all problems and diseases, ultimately mental and physical limitations meaning intelligence became godlike and bodies no longer died.

Another group countered this and felt humanity should be oppressed and restricted and developed a system that would produce disease and mental disorder just as fast as the other system liberated them.

Thus we have an interplay, an interloping even of liberation and restriction until it maximizes to the point where only those who have the capacity to balance their energy and remain present will remain.

Essentially, after this happened so many times, to the point where the DNA of humanity was merged with the mind controlling process, a 'pseudo-environment' was created.

This pseudo-environment follows the similar pattern of being a product of the discovery of this control system as well as the result of initiating the very control system itself.

So the actions are 50/50 discovery and creation of the control system and this is the nature of the synthetic intelligence embedding itself into the behavior of those initially approaching the convergence.

To clarify, half of the reason this environment was created was to be a containment zone developed by the control system, and the other half was as a 'back-up' pseudo-environment through which the remaining active DNA of humanity could be probed, tested, and regained by re-engaging and rescuing so that they may be pulled through to the other side of the convergence.

Question: <blockquote>"Is that like when the tech phones and stuff send out a mind control signal?"</blockquote>

Could be. This is when everything that does that amplifies to max and everything that resists that amplifies as well.

Thus we are left with those who remain. From this we could say that those who are to remain are those who are here now and that this is why there is only a percentage of humanity with souls while the rest do not have the ability to actually be present or self-aware.

Question: "How is it going to be applied? What will we see happen? Will it be a subtle thing that wont be noticed easily?"

This is subtle until there is an exponential increase, then everything changes.

This is like a wave breaking. The wave is building up. Once the wave actually begins to crash there is no more building up but there is also a crashing effect.

This is how the system works.

The higher the vibration of one's awareness the more self-awareness there is. The more self-awareness the more power over the self there is. The more power over the self, more the another intelligence would have to apply force to rerouting that self-awareness to serve a secondary purpose.

Thus, the main goal of the alternate intelligence is to produce the fastest pathway to lower awareness for individual human beings as well as collective nations, groups, or sub-cultures.

This is the intelligence system that has infiltrated all forms of authority all across this civilization. This thrives on lower-awareness as lower awareness contains less viability or variability for self-awareness through a variety of opportunities and options. The less awareness, the less options or opportunities to express the individual self.

Thus, for containment purposes, lower awareness is the goal.

Thus, every time you accept lower awareness, you are inviting a highly intelligence interdimensional containment system into your life.

Every time you choose higher awareness this intelligent containment system must apply more energy.

The convergence is when the dark forces and the containment system applies maximum amount of energy to contain humanity simultaneously as humanity and the light forces apply maximum amount of free-will and higher awareness to choose their own pathway in existence.

The convergence is the wave-crashing and the game is not played any longer. The build up of the wave is the setting up of the players on either end of the field.

The confusing elements are the blank-slate technology which indicates that this wave may have crashed already, or may have begun to crash and right before the game was finalized the system rebooted everyone's memory and started over from a "save point" of the control systems choosing.

The more awareness increases, the less likely this is to work properly as there will be more and more glitches that will be apparent such as we are noticing now with entire aspects of timelines appearing and disappearing.

There are essentially only so many "resets" until the gig is up and all involved can see what is happening in plain sight.

The point is to continue to increase awareness because at every marker of the game there can be more deceptions which are known as "false-awakenings" where the system lets of entirely and people think the game is won.

What must happen is that people entirely uplift this realm so that no single quantia is left without being made self-aware from a higher-dimensional perspective.

This sounds improbable but so is a highly intelligence system that has trapped this civilization for many years bending space and time to reduce the likelihood of healing or passing through this temporal rift.

What is possible is that self-awareness increases to the point where the invisible light bodies of humanity begin to become visible and at this point any location and any intelligence whether organic or inorganic would be directly sensed and interacted with and all planes of life and death would be accessible.

Humanity must be prepared for these changes as all civilizations are given this opportunity this just usually takes much longer instead of all happening within such a short amount of experience through such a potentially destructive catalyst.

The Convergence, The Unveiling, The Collapse of the Artificial Timeline and the Migration to the Organic Timeline

You are literally all times and spaces within you.

This is is literally the stuff of advanced technology and operations.

The equations that are used to define the differences between you and other spaces and times are the same equations that define those spaces and times.

It's not that the differences are negatable or undoable, it's that they are interchangeable.

Thus, each person's storyline and experience actually neatly folds into all other storylines and experiences in different ways at different times.

I was guided to not go too deeply into this aspect of The Unveiling of the Hidden Knowledge because the truth about the corruption must come to light first and this is important.

Yes, there is much corruption and this will be handled through forgiveness.

This is because when people truly disconnect from that etheric, psycho-spiritual reactionary stance of feeding into the mental emotional entanglement system then that system falls flat and does not have the energy to continue the process for another cycle of spread the hate and reignite the spiritual enslavement system.

The cycle must be broken, the passing of the hate, the continuing of the fear and injury and refusal of healing.

The other point of this is that when people willfully and committedly refuse to participate in that system the only option to continue the deception and spiritual injury would be to overtly instigate such a 'manual' interjection of such action.

This would completely and finally expose the system, the charades, and all players within for what they really are.

As such, this would automatically breach the surface level non-interference agreement, essentially they would have to breach the agreement in order to continue the system.

As a result, the agreement would be open for all parties involved and ultimately the light-faction would be able to step in and participate in the surface level clearing of energies.

This is all an energy battle, it is of the mind. The character of humanity is being tested through these experiences and events.

The issues here are that the surface level population has already been inundated with fears as well as toxins that generate the effect of reducing the humans ease of transitioning into a higher-awareness. The fear programming is designed to confuse and obfuscate the events all around and all groups and individuals involved.

The toxins stop the energies from clarifying and along with the fear increase the likelihood of a continued reaction to the programming rather than the guidance of the self within.

The light faction is literally here to help humanity focus on the self within the immaterial self while the dark faction is attempting to increase the likelihood of lack of self-awareness to further their own agenda.

All sides are hidden and invisible until the exponential shift in both awareness or the ability to perceive the actual happenings of this world as well as the resistance and clearing efforts maximize to the point of not possibly being hidden any further.

That is the exponential shift and this all relies on which way the wavering human awareness tends to move. Ultimately, human self-awareness increases, that is the nature of the universe. Yet, delays have been in place.

Of course, this ties into the recent post regarding the swelling of the wave and the breaking of the wave front where these delays have become so tedious and numerous that they are beginning to add to the likelihood of the exposure of the self-awareness containment and resistance system.

Thus, all avenues point toward self-awareness as long as the tendency to respond to the unknown with fear is managed and transmuted from within through an active observer and experiencer aspect, IE: the immaterial self-awareness of the soul.

Along with these toxins and fear-based programming signals, a portion of the population has been adulterated to the point where they are no longer human consciousness. The full explanation is that they were never human consciousness and are essentially inserted into the timeline for this upcoming event to basically muddy the waters and increase the likelihood of fear based responses and lack of self-awareness.

We are to unify through our self-awareness and our efforts to increase the likelihood of the human race coming to higher self-awareness and generating the most possibility expanding pathway through these challenges which relies on our ability to acknowledge the higher-dimensional nature of the universe.

Basically, since these blocks or inserted aspects of the timeline rely on a superficial signal which only exists through an artificial technological process that decreases in proximity, power and likelihood with each further increasing of self-awareness, that once we become aware of what is actually happening these barriers literally begin to fade out of the perception of those in this timeline.

That is the merging of this timeline back to the original.

There are select groups that are capable of handling this task and they have been prepared accordingly.

The majority of the population will not know why this is happening, or what and then they will simply not remember the most intense parts of the shift but will wake up on a timeline or a reality where those perceptions were akin to holographic representations of the possibilities.

For those who are meant to perform this duty, they will fully know how they will be faced with the opportunity of fear and lack of self-awareness or giving away one's power, or the opportunity to self-empowerment, transmuting fear into knowledge and higher awareness and that each successive frequency octave this is completed de-modulates the literal atomic structure of the beings, entities, waveforms, thought forms, artificial technology, synthetic intelligences, so on and so forth which have been covertly and will overtly permeating this timeline at the event of this convergence of possibilities, resistances, and increasing self-awareness.

Those who have been prepared know. Pass this information on to others you feel this belongs to or ask questions if you are interested in knowing more.

The Mind Virus

It is a brain virus that is transferred through the mind which operates through a negation of human morality and the natural energy centers and is operating from an alternate dimension that is born out of the creation of that virus within the human race. It's literally a doppelganger of humanity and subsists as a shadow race that can only interact with this realm via the hijacking of the original inhabitants.

The people following that path were simply following a hidden source of power that they did not realize fully.

Then when the original beginning is out of sight, there is a realization that this power comes from another kind of being, that is sourced in another kind of realm and that this is using the interaction/worship to pull energy from this realm and to sustain the existence there. This is literally the existence and generation of the alternate dimension, or an underworld/lower astral plane and species.

This is a conundrum. Without humanity the other race would not be able to interact here. Yet humanity is organized into an energy leaching social structure that serves that race more than humanity. Humanity has the power here, yet without control over their minds, they are puppets for the alternate dimension of mind-controllers.

This is the "AI" infection that others have been talking about. This virus hides itself in time as it is a form of synthetic holographic information that can jump from one host or etheric field to the next.

There are many explanations of the point of initial contact with Earth, but as the technology advanced more and more the end goal was realized as the process of converting the human species into a slave-race that would be used for the genetic and bio-emission fuel for these other beings.

Technology has been developed which amplifies and clears certain frequencies and brings out the virus in individuals and gives the opportunity for them to isolate their own energies and withdraw from it's "tentacles".

The virus developed its own hive-mind cyborg soldiers that operate out of electrogravitic craft and this is the source of all the deception and hidden war going on with advanced tech and other races.

With the electrogravitic craft, the virus can move between planes and times yet it cannot manifest human energies so the bodies that are hosts are obviously seen to those with the inner presence, as impostors, actors, replicants, or some otherwise deceptive being.

Many changes are taking place and the main idea is that the suffering and infighting of humans is what activates the lower astral realms via this technology and their bio-emissions and this strengthens the connection between the two planes or fields.

If there was no acceptance of infighting, war, greed, hatred, insults, etc etc etc, then that area of the astral plane would "dry up" and there would not be enough energy to sustain a connection to this plane. It would be like agent smith shutting off and all the other agents shut off, or the same concept with "vampires". This is about a hive mind system.

Disclosure is taking place but as you can see, the rougher it gets, the more there is opportunity for the dark factions to make use of that darkness and cause people to infight, thus strengthening the gateway to the lower astral.

So this has been and will be a delicate balancing act of releasing the truth as people become ready to accept what they are used for and how their minds and energy is being manipulated, and not reinforcing the negative aspects or reaction which cause infighting and a spreading of hatred which furthers the cycle of enslavement.

Question:

Aug, is there a way OUT of the Matrix?

This kind of question is kind of loaded and maybe reflects an escapist perspective. The first thing I can say is that avoiding conflict and disharmony is key, but as well, not avoiding facing our fears and confronting our true nature is key. So with this short response, I can say that by accepting the truth and discerning between illusion and reality we can merge with a truer reality rather than escape or get "out" of this one. There is the concept of a kind of time-locked consciousness matrix to get out or escape from, but fear delays this process and distorts our own abilities while truth, harmony, and power assists in our development back to wholeness of being.

Question:

Can you tell us some more specific examples of some of the technology that amplifies and clears? Such examples that we can use to defend ourselves from their frequency? Prayers? Tin foil hats? Faraday shields? Tachyon disks? Orgone? etc.

There are electromagnetic technologies and radio and electromagnetic frequencies which are capable of raising the frequency of the mind to levels that are more harmonious or less susceptible to disruptions. These technologies are supposed to be made public soon, however as you know there is much disharmony here.

One notion is that the disruptions are allowed because they are reflections of the frequencies that the people allow within and around themselves and so if the people take control of their own energies and minds and assist in this for others that every aspect of the planet would align with this.

There are crystals that help the body and mind through energy alignments each for different aspects of the energy system or “chakra”.

There are healthy foods which contain the living nourishing energy of Earth and the sun.

There are orgone pyramids which are simple arrangements of conductive metals, non-conductive filler materials, and crystalline materials like quarts. I was informed, again by dubious methods, that these produce a “disruption” frequency or a scatter frequency which will disorganize the harmful EMF fields that are pulsed out all around from technologies and pollution.

Overall clearing the mental and emotional disruption works to assist in one’s own self-healing capabilities and resistance to these pollutions. We can assist in healing one another when we learn how to activate this process for ourselves and this is the most powerful gift we have.

Question:

Thank you Aug Tellez. Always super awesome. Well, besides having all types of lava lamps, Lomi Lomi stones and tachyon discs all over my house, I’m only just now starting to really hunker down and get some discipline about meditation. Meanwhile, until I’m able to order such technologies from say Amazon?...lol... I think I will start to learn how to make Orgone and then YouTube how to teach others. I’ve also had a type 1 Indigo clairvoyant clear my Plasma body of what she claimed to have previously carried 60 nanites. She called these worry boxes. Any thoughts on that sort of doorway for clearing?

The implants are energetic signatures or entanglements and are basically traumatic memory or emotional expressions still kept within the mind and body. These can be targeted through advanced scalar technology but until then the mind is the scalar device that is capable of scanning the body and energy field and locating these entanglements and tracing them back to the source experience and then releasing them. Dream work, energy work and therapy is all related. There is a holographic healer “Doyen Fraser” although the sessions are a bit expensive and there is a healer who works through Quan Yin Activate Quan Yin Energy.

Spiritual Health and Injury: Definition, Expression, and Healing

Often what helps is definition, expression and healing. The first step in changing a pattern of emotional and mental responses is to change your attitude.

Definition

In order to focus on the issues that are most important to the goal of healing we must analyze our behavior and mental and emotional states to identify where there is disruption and where the possible sources of this disruption may be.

Expression

Then we must express how we feel to ourselves and those involved. An important part of this is going through an exercise of expressing what you feel is limited by the restrictive or judgmental person or situation.h

Sometimes we can become so set back by the intrusive mentality and emotionality of others that we may feel we’ve forgotten how we actually feel about the issue as a result of pushing our own sovereignty back far out of sight. To reverse this process, imagine what it is you would say, do, or feel in the situation if there was absolutely no restriction whatsoever and total mental and emotional freedom. Be honest and commit to this projection by emitting these mental and emotional states in order to bring forth that state of being.

Exercising this process can help you to find what aspects of yourself are being restricted as well as the source of the restriction. This is to induce an expressive flow which allows one to communicate to others as well as themselves.

Expressing yourself diligently without overstepping, under-stepping, or distorting your true bio-emissions requires balance and is an spiritual art form.

Healing

After doing this we must heal by being aware of the internal frequency of mind and emotion we are emitting while we process these expressions and be aware of our behavior by gently observing without becoming attached or too involved with the expression.

As we do this it will become easier to process the experiences without attaching to the emotional or mental responses that restrict us from achieving true expression without hindrance.

Once we become detached from the restricted lower mental and emotional emissions we have given ourselves the power to shift the vibratory frequency to a higher state. This is to shift the mental and emotional status from a low state without self-control or clarity to a state that is much more free and capable of processing the information without attaching to our ego or filtering the experience with bias.

This will free us from the continuing cycle of re-engaging the same old problems with a reactionary mindset which ensures that the same lower mental and emotional responses are produced. That repeating cycle is what is draining and harmful to self-awareness and free-will.

Re-framing

We do this by experiencing peace and joy from the experience, even if it is previously a negatively recorded experience where we feel lower bio-emissions every time we re-experience or analyze the memories or the situation and all involved.

Once we uplift ourselves through this, the experience will no longer have the power over us by causing a reactionary state where self-awareness slips out of view and the freedom to choose how we react is less and less.

The goal here is to be more and more aware each time through the day where these issues may occur and to predict where these reactions will happen before they do. This way we can learn to stop the projection from fully expressing itself which will have that repeated draining effect. If we can conserve our energy from being put into these lower expressions then there will be the energy required to convert the attitude or frequency of the experience into something that is beneficial for the mind or soul and this is part of the growing and learning process of life as well as the healing process where there has been spiritual injury.

Self-Awareness and Responsibility

The lack of self-awareness can be comprehended by examining how someone who is entirely reactive to stimuli or a situation will experience a very high emotional response and their conscious mind will be largely non-present in the decision making process. This can be experienced with pleasure, such as from a massage or a tempting snack or this can be experienced in horror such as a frightening surprise or frustrating experience that one without self-awareness continues to expose themselves to.

The more one is enabling the calm center of detachment in times of stress the more self-control and thus true self-awareness they will have over their role in life and the way they respond to situations.

Sovereignty and Self-Responsibility

Learning to relax when there is resistance as well as the opportunity. Making use of the opportunities to express ourselves as well as to utilize our creativity. In a society where stress is the norm, the ability to relax and convert one's lower mental and emotional states back to higher should be just as normal if not more so.

Another important aspect is learning to maintain our sovereign sense of self and choosing what situations and individuals we will place our energy and allow around us. If we take responsibility we must also expect that we have a right and a duty to protect ourselves through our minds and our energy as well as our physical bodies. This is an important nature of this reality as who we are around will energetically reinforce or disintegrate our own mental and emotional bodies. We do not have to be around people who do not respect our energies and we do not have to agree with situations where our energies are not respected.

If people are artists who paint a painting or create a work each day then they would very quickly know when someone who disrupted their mental and emotional energies was in their vicinity. Their ability to express themselves and transfer their emotion and mentality to their work would be hindered greatly.

After a short period of putting up with that, people would quickly tell the intruder to get out. Instead, because people are not informed of this option people often hear of people who live their lives as if putting up with mental and emotional intruders is an acceptable part of daily existence. This is not true and although the intruders must learn to respect others if they want to be respected through unification, the individual must also learn to accept their own self-responsibility for their mental and emotional states.

In many ways, growth through suffering is a part of life, yet the collective nature of experience is not inherently based on suffering and intrusion unless that individual doesn't utilize their own free-will to navigate around obstacles and to use difficulties as catalysts for change.

The question here is whether accepting suffering and ignoring the capacity for free-will and spiritual sovereignty is a large part of society because of the excess of intruders or the lack of spiritually motivated individuals. Did an initial intrusion grow out of control, or was it a general lack of free-will on the behalf of many people?

Regardless of the initial or metaphysical initiations of this era of civilization, the solution is simple. People must take control for their own self-awareness, they must accept responsibility for their own mental and emotional states and protect these energies just as one would protect their physical body. They must define the intrusion and the mental and emotional injuries. They must express their true self and regain that intuitive connection from within and they must apply effort in healing their mental and emotional states by re-adjusting their frequencies of mind and spirit by using their will-power to perceive difficulties as a catalyst for growth and learning.

An earlier step that is also a last step which must be maintained is to assume a role of sovereignty where we accept that we can choose how to interact with others and who we will allow into our lives to share our energy with us.

If we maintain this process regularly or in times of great stress and spiritual injury then we can undo the damage that has been done while freeing ourselves from the recycling trap of continued mental and emotional involvement with abusive or non-supporting individuals or situations and we can regain that sense of self-control and self-awareness which is a gift of the liberated mind and spirit.

Agent Provocateurs, Mind-Control, Stalkers, Insulting Comments and Low and High Frequency Awareness

Provocation

A friend seeing my enthusiasm and energy shift during a conversation where I began to receive interference allowed me to see my reflection in her and this proved to me how I was being manipulated. I had already known, but with the recent news disclosure being received as a mockery, where there are thousands of youth being manipulated and drained of their energy, I felt motivated to get involved for the first time in years.

When a person involves themselves with the provocateurs that operator is permitted to use advanced technology and measure their frequency on a device. This device is then uplinked to a larger network that can operate through any location there are roads or electrical energy. These devices are then capable of hijacking this electrical system and viewing that individual from afar. From this point the operator is permitted to interact with the individual through advanced technology by altering their brainwaves, or sending operatives to them to gaslight or intrude upon their space.

This is all enabled and permitted as long as the individual chooses to interact with these provocateurs on the level that the provocateurs provide for them. This is playing by “their” rules.

When it comes to this situation, one can make the choice to interact with people on the level that they interject from, or they can choose to remain in a neutral standpoint and be the observer without getting emotionally entangled.

This is a method for control and provocation of the population.

Choosing to Share and Interact

When interacting with these kinds of online personalities, we don’t have to give our energy away. We don't have to choose to interact with them if we don't want to. When we choose to share our opinions, our experiences, or view points we don't have to do it in opposition to anyone else. When we choose to share, we don't have to choose to share just because there is an argument taking place or opposing viewpoints in the venue that we're drawn towards reviewing, sharing, and interacting through.

The Argumentative Approach

Operating in that fashion of argumentation is essentially a trick to draw one's energy in so that a person invests their time, their creativity, and their care in applying themselves towards interacting with and in that way approving the mode of the expression of that other individual that may be insulting, negative, or entirely provocative in nature.

This is a trick to the point that some individuals are not actually genuinely offering an opinion, viewpoint, or experience and that they're interacting according to a pre-designed script which will determine the viewpoints, responses, and engagements they are permitted to generate and incorporate.

Intentional Disruption

Ultimately, there is the idea of the agent provocateurs, both in physical reality as well as the digital or online internet reality. These people are not genuine in their perspective in that they're literally only looking to get a rise out of another. We have the individual that is doing this out of their own enjoyment, and we have the individuals that are doing this for a method of mind-control.

Ego-Consciousness

The point is only when a person interacts with them and that individual's frequency lowers from being open, aware, and ready to tackle life's issues and this drops into arguing with somebody, that is a devotion of their creative energy into a means which will not be expressed or utilized in the production of a beneficial outcome for humanity. So the idea behind that is this is a way to handle and maintain certain frequency levels in the population at large based upon a schematic for thousands of individuals that are taking part in this. In the same sense this can be preprogrammed by a computerized system that will produce a wide variety of fairly realistic response, but they will not have that human aspect to it because they will only be geared towards expressing a negation of an original appeal.

This is not personal in that regard and we have to learn how to accept the viewpoints of others without arguing and allowing our energy to lower down to an ego-consciousness. Their goal is essentially to induce an ego-consciousness in the population because when they're in ego-consciousness they're not in soul-awareness and soul-awareness is impervious while ego-consciousness is easily threatened and defeated.

Seeing From The Soul and Remaining Mentally and Emotionally Balanced

When one is able to remain in the soul aspect they are in connection with their self and there is an emotional, mental, and physical balance to where they're not easily disrupted, manipulated or pushed off center. Once there is an imbalance from the centered sense of self the individual's own entanglements will give others a means to manipulate them mentally and emotionally.

Once this happens their energy becomes less than efficiently expressed or produced and this means that since the person is a reality generator they then become like an alternator that has a leak or misalignment which results in requiring more energy than it produces. In other words it leaks energy out through heat, steam, electricity, or heat from frayed wires from insulation missing, or oil leaking and so now it's leaking energy. That leaked energy of the human bio-emissions is the entire goal because that energy can be picked back up and incorporated into a system and used against the population. That is the whole point.

This works when a person is drawn into ego-consciousness where there is a continual defensive/offensive modality and the individual must be dropped down out of soul-awareness where there is a continued learning and an unbroken awareness. By unbroken awareness refers to how in ego-consciousness the individual will go through changing modes or modalities where the individual will have to determine the next step based upon the input of the other individual and in that way the other individual will determine how that person is going to react or engage.

When there is soul-awareness the message stays the same and that individual doesn't have to wait for what the other person says in opposition in order to formulate an offensive/defense reaction. This is going from reaction, to a continued careful, intuitive response. When it's a continued response, this is an outpouring of what is already there. This is a continued expression of what's within.

The Illusory Battle of the Ego

When there is only reaction, this is like a checkers or chess move everything depends on what the other individual is going to do or has done and at that point what's being drawn forth is not entirely dependent on what's within the original individual expressing their ideas the interaction becomes an argument which is one-sided through each move or round of play. This is broken consciousness instead of a direct and continued stream, this is more like a battle in that way. When that goes far enough, somebody loses and somebody wins. Whoever loses essentially restarts their energy, and whoever wins must continue this process in order to continue along in the same fashion. This indicates that one is in ego-consciousness or physical body-consciousness and this introduces the idea death into the scene and the possibility that someone is going to "lose" and that there is a memory break, the gap in awareness is introduced through that.

With soul-awareness there is continued expression as if a person is singing a song this is a daily growth routine. There doesn't have to be that loss, that break in consciousness, that forgetfulness or the concept of seeing fist to fist instead of eye to eye. With that comes imbalance and duality and essentially distraction from the self.

Play By Your Own Rules, Focus on Healing and Neutrality

That is the game that they play and you don't have to follow that game. Play your own game. Do this by remaining in soul-awareness and choosing to accept the roles that others will play without trying to influence them or react to them. You do not have to accept those rules of engagement and you do not have to help them along in that role. You do not have to try and force them to see things your way. That is a form of attack in itself, even if they're being manipulated to perform this in a detrimental manner for the entire society. Forcing them to see that will not work and things will sort themselves out anyway but only when there are more people interacting through soul-awareness because then those types of arguments, reactions, and individuals will have no play and thus they'll have no opportunity to interact in that way. That would be akin to a group of people in a circle insulting each other, there is no sense, no productivity, no reason.

This only works when there is someone there to be insulted, to feel insulted, and to react in a lower frequency ego-consciousness manner.

The Disharmony Affects the Self

In a continuation of this, in the same sense when a person chooses to react negatively towards that type of disturbance they are then more likely to interact negatively towards other people and when they feel themselves making a kind of mistake like that they will react negatively towards themselves. So this is a trick to induce negativity all around more than this is an opportunity for that other individual to express something of their ideas, experiences, or viewpoints in life, this is a control method.

The 9 Veils and Mind Control

A major notion here is that this is how the political control system works. This is literally the function and operation of a portion of the mental and emotional entanglement system (veil) which draws one's attention into a false-paradigm where there is the encouragement to participate in an illusory battle over ideals which are not relative to the truth of the self. This is literally recruiting people who have no interest in partaking in such an energy draining system by getting them to emotionally and mentally invest their energy and creativity into a non-productive pursuit which utilizes their time and energy against them to produce more of that which they do not desire to experience. That is the basis of the trap system, or the mind control that has been designed for this society.

The argumentative, ego-consciousness interactions are the rules of engagement which allow the manipulators to continually turn a person's own energies against themselves while using this process to cover their own track and divert attention from the real threat or the truth about the situation.

The veils themselves are overlays that are placed over actual organic systems which support growth and self-expansion. When these overlays are focused, rather than the actual system, that growth and expansion is limited and redirected into a malformed procedure where the energy is tapped and the beneficial growth or learning pattern is subverted into another production often of confusion and low-energy.

This is similar to a religious "veil" overlay where an individual's energy is passed through emotional and mental support as well as money to a control system that represents the original spiritual fruits of the human being. This overlay takes the energy, the money, the power and transfers it from one layer to the next like a pyramid scheme so that the layer above always collects the majority of the energy and money.

I do not have to fight them over the ideals.

I can accept their role and pass love.

You don't have to argue and interact. You can choose to see them for the role they are playing.

You can learn from this and enjoy your role and the contrast provided.

You can offer your perspective and your energy in a way that does not open one to vulnerabilities by not expecting or preparing to interact with those that don't understand and don't want to understand.

If a person wants to understand then you can interact because they will invite you to in a friendly manner. Just because a person is releasing negative energy does not indicate that they are inviting others to assist or inform them otherwise and we must respect their point of view.

In this environment there is love.

In the pain of loss there is a lesson to be learned and love to be had.

In the pain of life there is truth and enjoyment, but you are free to ignore that lesson and you will be faced with only the darkness.

Life is about choice of whether to choose to see the smaller picture which only influences some parts or to see the larger picture which influences the whole. The larger picture always encompasses a lesson that incorporates the higher and lower aspects of existence and there is no one sidedness in the whole.

The issue is that we come from a personal perspective with a limited upbringing or background which acts as a biased reservoir of information, experiences and memories to go off of so we have to expand beyond our limited view points in order to access the knowledge that is found in the whole.

Once you know if this duality you can choose to focus on the darkness or you can choose to focus on the light and what you choose to focus on will expand beyond the automatic or default form of experience

Automatic is reactionary, thoughtless, or careless. What is done in careful consideration of the whole is capable of producing knowledge, self-empowerment, and healing for all involved.

Giving Thanks and Remaining High-Awareness

When a neutralized view is attained, one can then give thanks to those who act as the negative role-players because their role is what allows us to assist in moving to a high-frequency awareness. The ego-consciousness role-players allow us to experience the contrast and choose to move to higher awareness.

We can thank them for playing this role, accept them for who they are at the moment, and through this we help everyone in the situation move to a higher-frequency.

Through arguing and lessening even our own contrast by merging with that low-energy we operate on a scale which depletes the learning potential and increasingly muddies the water. By choosing a calm, peaceful perspective of healing, we not only maintain that contrast but we do so in a way that does not utilize lower-energy methods and enables them to provide more and more of the same derogatory essences.

Remember, they do not have to agree with you, or side with you in order for you to be right.

If your energy is high and you are in control of your own bio-emission, then you are the one who carries the creative process for your own universe. The moment that is given away, is the moment one's own self-creative abilities are lessened.

Give thanks, appreciate the others for who they are, and use each experience to further refine your own ability to handle the darkness and manage your own reactions so that you can stay in a state of carefully considered soul-awareness where each response is aligned with your original intentions based on the expression of the true immaterial self which has no limitations or loss. The soul does not die, only the ego or body-consciousness views each situation in such a manner.

Choose to utilize each experience as a process of growth, rather than an encounter with an opposing force. There is only an argument or a battle when both sides agree to join in.

Psychological Warfare, Antarctica, and Disclosure of Advanced Technology

I only trust myself and those who'm I have been in operation with.

Everything taking place on the surface is a form of psychological warfare. Literally, everything we see is first drawn up by a team and a research group of scientists and psychologists and occultists and then presented to the population after signatures and approvals and tweaking and the rest. Nothing we see up here is actually "happening", it's all a preplanned show that they call "Society".

The unveiling of ancient Antarctic pyramids and structures were the initiation of a new phase of unveiling.

I was informed that the way The Unveiling (disclosure/the event) is handled can be through direct-disclosure being received as soft-disclosure. IE: Various groups releasing such information as ancient Antarctic pyramids existing which clearly indicate that the publicly sold version of history, civilization, and the origins of humanity are not what they seem, yet everyone still just goes along like it's any other day.

Or, at a certain point, depending on the contradiction or conflict generated between those seeking to unveil the truth and those seeking to cover it up, the disclosure goes overt as a result of that very conflict.

The conflict is between those who have done things they do not want the public to know about and ruled over the masses through these secret groups and pacts.

They know that ultimately the truth must come out. It's not a matter of if, but of when and how. They know that they will then be seen for who they really are and because of this they've developed many scapegoats, false-leads, distractions, scenarios, re-diversions of revelation, and so on and so forth.

They lead and rule by fear programming and everyone involved undergoes mind-washing fear programming to replace their morals with that of the group and to manipulate the bio-chemistry and neurological processes to deviate from the capacity to process information critically and re-ignite the self-willed decision making process.

Ultimately the program creates single minded, cybernetic robotoid people who are surgically, chemically, and hypnotically mind-controlled to carry out the bidding of the secret groups who do not wish to be revealed.

Within this, there are groups that do wish to be revealed. Because these groups are not willing to torture people and operate on their brains in order to produce psychic, psi-assassins and supersoldiers, this group must wait patiently for humanity to catch on and begin to give them the support that they require in order to make any overt, reality changing moves.

The truth behind this is that it is improper to come in and change an entire civilization up by revealing yourself or information especially if there is a kind of stand-off where the masses will be lost to terror attacks or war initiated by the other secret groups and in the same sense if the population will never learn on their own if another individual always 'fixes' the situation for them.

This has apparently happened 6 or 7 times before and civilization is on a repeat cycle while after each cataclysm the secret groups remain underground or in another "land" that can be access through Earth either physically or psychically and then they return as civilization begins again and rule over humanity through deception and superior knowledge.

Do the ends justify the means? This is the motto and question that always arises. Would it be worth it to destroy an entire civilization just to maintain secrecy and power in your group, if your group doesn't hold the keys to the future? What if that secret group is, in fact, as a result of their genetic patterns, de-evolving out of sync with nature and becoming an inorganic species that no longer contains the cosmic and spiritual complexities to incorporate a soul-ed multi-dimensional existence?

That group then, through the greed and fear programming that they developed and maintained (even if they say other spooky guys came and did it to them first) reaps what they sow as they struggle so hard to defend themselves, to protect themselves, and the means that they use to do this results in the end not being valid in any way.

A cybernetic, immortalized, pain-pleasure based existence not only changes the brain structures to that of a psychopath or someone without the higher functioning brain centers active, it changes the energetic structure of the soul and DNA to devolve into a lesser complex being that can only maintain the essences of emotion and physicality that are necessary through the actions and uses of the system they belong to. In short, secrecy, power-methods (alone), and overly disingenuous means destroy the end that they seek to generate.

The rainbow bridge collapses under the weight of the heavy heart and those travelers remain trapped here, nomadic under their own presence.

So now that we can see that the Antarctic pyramids have begun to be revealed and along with this now people have a backdrop for the stories and claims of an ancient civilization there, WW2 missions and experiences regarding other races and electrogravitic craft, and all the other bits of information regarding that which people are not informed of, things will move forward as a result.

Once this part is fully secured, the disclosure of this Antarctic location as the source of highly advanced technology will be next.

I feel I have said this before as well, once this part is fully secured, the disclosure of this Antarctic location as the source of highly advanced technology will be next.

When we see this disclosure of highly advanced technology take place after the results of the revelation of the ancient Antarctic pyramids, we will know we are going to begin covert phase-2 disclosure and that overt phase-1 disclosure is on the horizon.

Overt disclosure will come when the people who performed these secret rituals admit that they were only doing it because of their cloned bodies that they designed in an effort to provide immortality to humanity and that their behaviors should be excused for the great gift they give to the masses.

Of course, this will be used to pull the neurological and genetic material of the masses into the machine that will attempt to use this incorporation of abundance to gather and construct its own pathway from the lower realms into the higher.

When we see the beginning of disclosure of ancient technology, this will also be used to direct the attention away from certain groups here and develop the baseline for the projection of power and manipulation onto certain boogie men that will be utilized to create one of the biggest on going shows in existence. Complete with make up, characters, role-cast, producers, film crews, maintenance crews, background or supporting artists and so on.

We can't stop this show from taking place. We can, however, inform others and become informed ourselves so that we can remain focused on the truth of reality in that all of this can be whatever we make it but what has gone on in secrecy must come to the light and the people who are manipulating others to serve their own agenda which has blocked this civilization from attaining sovereignty must be both seen for who they are as well as given the opportunity to redeem themselves.

Continuing the cycle of hatred is the final trick that the control groups use. If enough people carry that in their hearts and minds, then this energy is literally used to construct timelines off of and through this process the whole cycle can be made to continue, however artificial and ultimately damning that process may become.

So the real truth is in uplifting our hearts and each other, WHILE those who are READY uncover the truth and assist in bringing it to the population.

Solar Warden, The Psychic Wars and Traumatization

Atmospheric Defense and Mental Conditioning

Solar Warden was brought into existence as a moderator for Earth and the interactions in the atmosphere and beyond. The mind-control conditioning and traumatization is used by the dark factions. In order to develop methods of defense all individuals are required to go through such experiences in order to develop resistance and an acquired equilibrium.

Traumatization is closely related because of the way these experiences influence human consciousness and bio-chemistry.

Advanced Technology Access to Non-Physical Cognition and Out of Body Travel

With the use of advanced technology and spiritual knowledge alternate realms that are accessible by a trained mind began interacting directly with Earth.

The Transtemporal Retro-Causality Effect

This event seems to have some kind of transtemporal/retro-active effect towards the identity of ancestors and origins.

The Ensuing Time-Loop Being Propagated Into Time Through Advanced Technology Generators Holding the Information

Thus, for an indefinite amount of time a temporal causality loop was required to explain this civilization on this planet.

Modifying the Recorded Advanced Technology Devices, Also Produces an Effect onto Reality (the universe and the minds of this civilization)

Society is a show that is provided for and produced by secret groups who use advanced technology to communicate and influence the world. This can be as simple as those with the motivation and talents to produce what the world experiences as innovation as well as individuals and groups who have come to understand the holographic nature of reality and view existence accordingly.

The Soul as the Bio-Mind Holographic Recording of Personal Experience

The soul or mind and personality is holographic information. What we perceive to be sensory experience is stored as holographic information within this universe. We exist as holographic information on a multidimensional scale where on the higher end holographic does not define it as the information goes beyond, yet on a lower scale holographic defines it as the format for storing information as sensory experience.

The Hologram is “in” the Brain

This may difficult to grasp, but ultimately, because your brain can only produce a biological holographic image of reality, that reality is thus a biologically generated holographic image.

These Holographic Structures Always Follow A Pattern

This is because there are a number of angles or common energetic structures which will be experienced as emotions and mental states, and this structure when defined in three-dimensional space exists as a holographic image.

It is as if the charts of variables that define experience are the same as the holographic representation in physical space, yet one experience is subjective and of the sensory or spiritual experience and one is of the objective holographic liquid crystal structure in space. The electrical flow of the brain and body can be seen as one layer of the holographic recording of personal information or “Soul” of one human.

The Physical Experience is a Result of the Non-Physical Holographic Information Flow

That is where the source of awareness begins, without that, there is no physical. There could likely be some form of non-physical depending on the example, but without the holographic information there is no physical existence.

Non-Human Soul Matrix

There are holographic recordings of soul-matrices that are capable of acting as a technologically assisted transdimensional server system that the organic soul matrix initially acts through.

The system was put through many phases to come close to incorporating the full requirements to enable the complete transfer of the human soul-matrix into the technological holographic format.

Masters of Consciousness

Similar to the way experience is considered here from the organic soul matrix perspective, there are “fathers” and “mothers” of time which act as the genetic sources for multiple large groups of beings of a “reality”.

These sources are the records of divergence from the initial thought collective entering into physical space and the changes that will be experienced and recorded throughout.

Then this information is stored as holographic living energy flowing through and around the body and whatever is aligned with that of the DNA, the heart, the mind and the gut can produce an overharmony which shapes and organizes the information so that faster than light transfer is possible.

This is literally the way to operate outside of the body. In the same way, there are more “original” beings that always represent the progenitors of the experiences that we are having now. There is always a link, otherwise there would be no connection.

Fear and Duality Consciousness

By overcoming fear and duality-consciousness we can remain self-aware when the parameters for sensory experience go “off the charts” or into a cosmic level perspective.

When this takes place, all the variables which we normally use to define our space, body, and mind are maxed out and we must organize with another reference.

The detection of the energies is more refined, more subtle, this is not the same as walking around in a body which is dense. Compare the acting of waking up, to actually falling asleep.

Awareness Outside the Body

These are the energetic fields which incorporate into the body like air into a carburetor which must cycle out or ‘dance’ its way out again in order to pass on.

When the hologram is not active here, there is an inversion of the fields and they “zap” into somewhere else. The expanded or inverted state of the hologram that is experienced here, is the faster than light travel version experienced on the other side of “zero-point”. Awareness could be seen as consciousness, inverted. In exiting the body and entering the “universe” consciousness folds inside out and becomes an expanse field.

While in the body, consciousness is folded into a feedback system with the physical body and senses.

Seeing out side the body can be technologically stimulated through a system which records DNA and consciousness in order to do that. And there are radiant energy devices which can enhance a person’s electrical conductivity and harmonize the operation of the energy of the mind with the energy of the body. Thus healing or operating the body effectively, or leaving the perspective of the body at will is enabled.

“Reality” Altering Technology

In changing the hologram within the brain and thus the mind (which is separate) one changes the way reality is experienced. When this is done through self-willed intention or harmony of aspects of self then this change projects out onto reality and it is seen that the mind is the key for influencing reality.

Some people do not know how to leave their body, if not most.

Technology to Track or Locate the Soul

The problem is then when leaving the body they will be disoriented and incapable of orienting and ‘mobilizing’ themselves. Then there are technologies which are capable of tracking or locating the soul-frequencies of an individual’s awareness and containing them within a magnetic field.

Containing Humanity Before Reaching Zero-point Convergence of Physical Consciousness and Higher-Awareness

These are used by groups who are intent upon containing humanity within this section of “time” and thus level of mentality and emotionality over physical space.

There are apparently 7 layers and through these layers, various groups who sought to both control the situation by creating a “Heaven” for people as well as those attempting to control and reign, pushed all the disharmony from one layer to the next until they are intensely gathered here in the last cycle of the physical layer of consciousness.

This indicates that there is mostly body-consciousness here in this society and world, yet there are all the possibilities and opportunities to access higher-consciousness.

Whether the control system started as an intention to fulfill that outlook, or whether the control system is a result of the universal alignment that is the source of that outlook, is a kind of mirage that never fully forms before you.

Time as a Generated Product or Bio-Chemical Reaction

This is how time operates, as if space itself is a kind of flame wisping into the air producing trails of smoke and swirls along with a visible rippling effect in the air

The flame burning is time itself taking the physical reality of existence and feeding it through a “zero-point” area which is where everything expands into a “projected” view and we experience only the results of the initial causes of what information the universe is actually processing.

The generating of each sensory experience within the brain is what is recorded as the “Smoke” or the soul energy. The flame itself is the conscious occurrence of that experience as the present.

The current Earth civilization is basically a slower than light civilization, where everything must catch up and is resisted against on that spectrum. From this angle of the zero-point field, everything appears to be in constant entropy, always leading away and never towards energetically.

On the other side of the zero-point convergence, there is the portion of the universe where energy is constantly created in stead of degraded. The human civilization is a species that was formed out of the intentions of seeing what would happen when one was born right on the edge of timeliness and timelessness. It is an idea that all physical situations are, in a way, born through this paradox of temporal ontology.

The future is determined by the variation in between an ascent towards the zero-point perspective and the resistance and adherence to the physical perspective. Thus there is an ever refining of intention and experience in society until a shift is made to equalize within one or the other frame of references. Before, or after the zero-point modulation in energies from being pulsed out into the universe and being absorbed back in.

A Convergence of Civilization

This leads to a convergence point of energies and when we reach that convergence point in conscious-awareness of reality, then the nature of mind is no longer hidden as a background interaction of reality and consciousness.

This has to do with psychology, memory, genetic activation, dreams and awareness, and consciousness itself. Since this conscious energy is holographic information stored in this space, then when we physically catch up to the realization of that there is a resulting altering of perspective. The entire modality of the way people experience civilization here is just one slice or fraction of what the mind can do and what possibilities exist.

This is where time and space invert and one is capable of traveling with their mind, or at faster than light transfer where entire experiences or souls are capable of communicating across to each other instantly. We would call this psychic phenomena that would be perceived while awake by adepts and most would experience through great dreams and experiences in the out of body state.

Controlling the Afterlife

This is also defined as a system that has been influenced and tapped into to the point where the 'afterlife' has become technologically modulated. Beyond this the very concept of souls themselves seems to relate to some kind of organic highly technical form of operating in a universe.

The means through which one operates are dependent on the universe, so if one were to travel from another universe, then the version of themselves that would leave would be only relative to the version that could arrive depending on the variation in the previous universe.

This is literally operating like a holographic database where personalities and experiences can be traded between server systems held up in a cosmic void or liquid of heavily 'insulated' omnipresent 'wires' which are the 'fabric' of space and time.

Mobility in this state of energy fields is through intention, focus, and self-awareness, this takes discipline and willingness to work through pain or patience.

Solar Warden is a race that has had extensive knowledge and experience on how to operate outside of the physical body, and utilize advanced technology to operate in space or the atmosphere.

It would seem that life occurs as a secondary product or by-product but then life could not exist without the system capable of consciousness and so the conscious system is the prime intention of existence, the universe, or life.
